Fourthly for commodious divisions, the Lands and Seas contend by frosh Rivers and Armes of the Sea fo to diverlifie the foyle as if in luxuriant wantonnesse they were alway engendring maous autinon or Lands and Ri. nifeld Twinnes of Commoditie and Commodiousnesse, Profit and Pleasure, Hunting and Fishing, 40 Fruits and Merchandizing, Marinership and Husbandry, Opus and Vise, Meate and Drinke, Wares and Portage, Defending and Offending, Getting and Keeping, Mountaines and Valleyes, Plaines and Hillocks, Rivers Navigable and shallower Foords, Ilands and Land-iles (or Peninfula) Woods and Marishes, Vegetatines and lining creatures maruellously diversified. Looke on the Map, and tell me if any Countrey in the World promifeth more by the lookes then it. Yea I have observed in the Letters of greatest Malcontents from thence, foe and friend and themselves are blamed rather then the Countrey, the least finger of Virginias hand (I meane the least of fine Rivers (or as Mafter Alexander Whitakers relateth, the least of feven) in a finall part of that great Countrie, is bigger then the First-borne of Britaines waters, the famous Thames, all Nauigable, fome one hundred miles, some one hundred and fixtie, receiving Tributes by the way of innume- 50 rable Springs, Brookes, Riverets (fuch as that of Ware, and fit for portage of Wares in imaller Barkes, of which kind lames River hath five Attendants in ordinary) the fall of every one of the fine is within twentie or fifteene miles of some other: and not aboue fifteene miles in some places is the Great River of Roanoke faid to be distant from some of those which fall into lames Riuer, yeelding a commodious intercourse twixt those Southerly and these more Northerly parts of the Countrey. I know not how Nature hath here also wantonized and danced a Loath to depart in the winding of those Streames, which feeme willingly againe and againe to embrace that beloued Soile, and to prefent her with rich Collers of filuer Eifes, murmuring that they must leave To fresh and fertile a Land, of which at last with Salt teares they take their leave, but contra-Eting with their New Sea Lord to visit their old Land-lord and former Loue every Floud, Meane 60 whiles those many impetuous clippings and sweet embraces, searching refuges every way make thew as if they would meet together in confultation, and agree on some Conspiracie, which howfoeuer disappointed, yeeld neuerthelesse many conueniences of entercourse and easier portage, each River comming within foure, eight, ten miles, more or fewer in divers places of another. All thefe Rivers runne into a faire Bay, on which the Earth enery way is a greedie gazing Spectator, Bay of cheftexcept where the Ocean rusheth in to raugh her beauties, flowing neere two hundred miles into peace. it, and forcing a Channell one hundred and fortie, of depth betwixt feuen and fifteene fathome. and ten or fourteene miles in ordinary breadth. The Earth yet vadermining it by Ilands, and mustering those River Captaines and innumerable Springs and Brookes, maintaineth his fresh challenge with continuall Warres, forcing backe the Ocean enery Ebbe to retire, which vet loth to lote fo fweete a possession returneth within few houres, freshly flowing with Salt re-

Firthly, the foile is bleffed, every Element bestowing a rich portion on her. The fire hath trea- s. Fertile foiles 30 fires laid up to maintaine her fewell vnto prodigality (yea which feldome meete, a thriftie prodigality) for many yeeres. Her store of waters you have heard, but not her watery store of tishes vnto incredibility in kinds, goodnesse, numbers. The Are is no lesse luxuriant in the Fowles of Heaven, Bur the Earth (fruitfull Mother of Mankind) the is prodigiously prodigall, in fatneffe of the foile: talneffe, fweetneffe, ftrength, varietie, numberleffe numbers of her Trees : her Oakes 6. Trees for no leffe excellent then frequent, many of them bearing two foote and an halfe fquare of good timber and no Timber twenty yards long : of which also are divers kinds. Elmes and Ashes (of which Sope- ther vies many ashes are made) Wal-nuts in three forts, Cypreffes (or much resembling them) Cedars and other fweet imelling Timbers, Chefnuts, Plummes of divers forts, Cheries and other Trees. &c. reckoned by Virginian Relators, I omit. But most remarkable and promiting are the Mulberic and the Vine, the one to the backe, the other to the belly, yeelding Silkes and Wine. As for Silke, how great profits are raised thereof to the Chinois and Persian? Yea to come nee 7. Specially for rer, in Naples and other parts of Italy, which have provoked France to a general limitation. And Silkes. how you aluable are the expenses of this Kingdome for that materiall, Ut matrona in publico luceant! Likewife for Wines from France, Spaine, Germanie, and other parts how many thou- 8. And for fands are veerely expended to the profits of Strangers, that I say not to enemies, or at least to Wines. fuso cted friends : It hath pleased his Maiestie to take these two into his Princely confideration luly 9, 48,200 and by his Letter to the Right Honorable the Earle of Southampton, and the Company of Virginia Sec (40, 6, 15, to commend and command this care to them.

The Countrey it felfe naturally produceth Vines in great abundance, and some of a very good 30 fort : divers plants also have beene sent this her of the better kinds of Christendome, with eight Vignerous procured from Languedock for the husbanding of that commoditie. The Soyle is no leffe naturally happy in Mulberie Trees of the best kind and some Silke-wormes also; and generall order bath beene taken for the abundant planting of them in all places inhabited; large fupply also of Silke-worme-feed from his Maiesties store, and men skilfull in that kind for the well ordering of that businesse have beene fent. In a word , the very prosperity and pregnant hopes of that Plantation made the Deuil and his lims to enuy, feare and hate it. Hence that bloudy Malacre which caused almost a sudden Chaos to the hinderance of those affaires, by the convulfions, combustions, and almost confusion of that Body and their Designes : whereof yet we hope not only a recourry but greater advantage, the greatest danger from the Sauges, growing out of our mens-confidence, which that terrible stroke (except a stupid Deuill possesse vs) hath cut off : which likewife requires that feruile natures be feruily vfed; that future dangers be presented by the extirpation of the more dangerous, and commodities also raised out of the serurienesse and Sausses so ferniceablenesse of the rest.

As for Saffafras, Salt, Terra Lemnia, Gummes and other profitable Drugges I shall not neede their laboura. speake : nor of their Silke-graffe naturally growing, besides a kind of Hempe or Flaxe, yeelding 10. Drugs, and most excellent Cordage. Pot-ashes, Sope-ashes, Pitch and Tarre have beene the employment commodities. of Polacres lent thither.

very plentifull) aboue fine thousand pounds were spent, and one hundred and fiftie persons sent so for that imployment; which being brought in manner to perfection, was interrupted by that fatall accident, fince which the reftituion is with all possible diligence (as it is faid) ordered and

There have beene also sent skilfull men from Germany, for setting vp of Saw-mils: Firginia 12. Timbers yeelding to no place in the knowne World for Timbers of all forts, commodious for strength, for all vies. pleasant for sweetnesse, specious for colours, spacious for largenesse, victual for Land and Sea, for housing and shipping : in which Timber vies England and Holland alone are said to disburse about 300000. pounds sterling yeerely. And the defects at home, where the Hearth hath climbed into the Roofe, where back-fewell hath denoured our buildings in the Woods, and bellyfewell hath denoured the Woods, and connerted them to arable: where so many thips are emto ployed for prouisions of and for shipping, Virginia by distine bountie is Magne spes altera Britan-

nie. Herein we may verifie the old Property, That he which light longest, shall fetch his wood furtheil; but io, as he shall be paid for the fetching with great advantage. And if an Hand needs woodden Wals to fecure it against others, to enrich it from others, Fire cishly forbuilgina offers her feruice herein, and will looke to much more cheerefully on you, how much more ding both

tage from the

houses & thir s

you shall disburthen her in this kind : yea, as England hath wooed and visited Virginia, so herein Virginia will be glad and reioyce to vifit England, in her there-built ships, and to dwell here with vs in thence-brought Timbers, and esteeme her selfe advanced to adorne our Towres. and take view of our Pomps and Spectacles.

to. The mani-

And touching thipping and the materials thereof; Timbers, Pitch, Tarre, Cordage, Sayles. told materialls Anchors, &c., nec. flittle of the times exacteth in our defects at home, for securitie from enemies abroad, employment of Mariners, Merchants and our numerous multitudes, offending our Ofenders, defending our Allies, that I adde not the Riches of the World, and glory of Exploits. all which depend on Nauigation. Hence Tyrns and her Daughter Carthage of old (Matre palchra filia palchrior) hence the Egyptian Alexandria and many Nations fince, have reaped wealth and In honour. Hence the Lumbards and Easterlings sucked out the sweetes of this Kingdome in former times, whiles we like children were fed by their hands, and they were inriched by the Importation and Exportation of Merchandise to and from vs : which when that glorious Elizabeth altered, and fought to fland in the Seas on her owne legs, and to flie ouer them with her owne wings, it not only wanne her renowme but dread abroad, and fuch ftrength at home, that notwithflanding her manifold wars offensiue and defensiue, and motherly protection of her Neighbours round about with Men and Monies; her Cuftome, her Nauie, and the wealth of her preple is thought to haue received in her time a feuen-fold advancement. And what hath to long voholden and enhanced the Hanse Townes? What hath rayled the rich and glorious States of Venice and Genoa? What hath fince freed, and doth fill fustaine the Hollanders, but their mouing 20 Magazines and Caltles, their strength and magnificence being (by a Miracle in State) hereby most. wherein it is leaft, in their Sea-fortelts; Nature denying that to their Soyle, which Art hathluperabundantly supplied by shipping, to their Lands, to their Seas, for vie, for admiration hence hath the Abaffine or Prester lohn lott his estate, the Turke not encreased his by swallowing the reft of Christendome, the Persian, the Mogull and other mighty Asian Potentates have not bin mighty, howfocuer firnamed Great; have beene folong awed, and as it were, imprisoned within their owne shores, there also often braued, affaulted, forced to receive Lawes and conditions, vea to pay Customes for their owne ships, and prohibited Trade with others by a handfull of Portugalls. Hence the Portugals themselves crept out of their Straites and obscuritie, and hence the Castilian colours have been so far displayed, and set the rest of the World in this present Maze: 30 Hence our Edgar, Edward the Third, and Great Edizabeth, have left fuch memories of them, after them; hence all Maritime States and Kings have received encrease or diminishing; as their Navies have beene, so have they. Yea, without a Nauie, Salemon had not beene so meet a Type of Christ, fo glorious in Domesticall, Politicall or Ecclesiasticall magnificence.

Haile then, al-haile Virginia, hope of our decayed Forreits, Nurfery of our Timbers, fecond Supply to our thipping, the faccenturiate copie in diffresse of Nauall materials : and those independant on forreine States, disburthened of Taxes, Customes, Impositions, and Suspensions of forceine Princes: yea gainfull not in the ships alone, but in Shipmen and Mariners trained vp and multiplyed by that imployment, with mutuall entercourse of Wares and manifold Commodities. Hee that lookes on the best Corne-fields soone after the sewing, seeth expense and labour 40 without any profit but in expectation. Now is our Seed-time; and if cost and industry want no Virginia, in her Soyle and Climate not only promifeth thele materials, there also to be made at ea ier rates; but infinite other Commodities also which may be transplanted from these and other parts, as the Spaniards in their Indies , have given vs example. These have reserved Wines and Oyle, as Staple Commodities to be carried from Spaine (that these Americans may fill have need of Spanifo Commodities) which else would easily grow there. They have again furnished the se parts both from Spaine and many other Countries, with Figs, Oranges, Limons, and fruits for pretent vie and for Merchandize, with Sugar-canes, Gingers, Cattell and other Commodities, yeelding exceeding summes of Treasure to the Planters. And I know not but in a settled Virginian Plantation, Sugars, Gingers, Hides, &comay there prooue as gainfull, as they have 30 in the Spanish Indies, that is, beyond all conceit of ordinarie valuation, and as good as

Now for the Cattell and Fowles, I might here present their Deere of all forts, reported to have three or foure Fawnes at a time, and none under two (which fome impute to the qualitie of ly for efethere that Countrey, having happened likewise to the Goats transported from hence) and were it not for this increase, eyther they must faile, or the Natiues (these sparing neither old nor young, nor old with young, nor obseruing any rule of Season or Reason therein) I might adde Shag-haired Oxen-feene by Sit Samuell Argoll, Beauers, Otters, Foxes, Wildeand Ciuet Cats, Muske Rats, and many Beatls which beare good Furres; their large Turkeyes, Cranes, Herons, Partridges, and innumerable other Fowles: filh also of innumerable numbers and manifold kinds, Sturgeon, Por- 60 pole, Bale, Rock-fish, Carpe, Shad, and the rest. It seemeth to vs incredible, which is related of the both numbers and excellencie at one draught taken. As for the varietie of Corne, the excellencie also and multiplication to 1500. or 2000, for one stalke of Maiz, the viefulnesse, their fucfoot long,300, as big as Cod, ceeding-exceeding Haruests, their Roots, Herbs, Pulle, and the rest, I referre to all the Writers in

CHAP.20. Benefit by fishing ; Motives for Virginia from these times. &c. that Argument, and to as many as have beene Eye-witnesses themselves to be Relaters.

Were it but a fishing trade, yet his vinderstanding is contemptible, that thinkes contemptibly 19. Benefits by of it. He that should reade Doctor Dees relations of so many hundred Butles, and Flemmilb faile history. on the English, and Spanish, on the Irish coalis: or what Maiter Gentleman hath related of the Commodities raifed that way by the Holanders, fummed to millions of pounds in Herring, Cod and Ling : and that which others relate of 3600. faile of Fishermen in Holand and Zeland, with other things of like nature gathered together by Captaine Smith in his New Englands Trials, with the experiments of that coast also (part of our Virginian subject shall see, as greatest bo- multa invant. dies composed of least parts, so greatest summes raised out of least and meanest meanes, that being to dundant in tale, which feemeth wanting in weight. Once, the impregnable wals of the vnired Prounces are their Ships (whereof fome reckon small and great of all fores 20000,) and their principall and most generall Trade is Fishing, which is the Seminary of their Mariners of which tome have reckoned about 100000, and fummed their returnes thence growing to 7000000. pounds in a yeare. I am none of Neptunes Secretaries; yet know this, that there is no fifthing to the Sea, and no Country fo ilrong by Sea as that which findeth most employment in this kinde, where no exportation of treasure, no custome, no consumption and exhausting of commodities can be quarelled. Thus then, whether we confider Wines, Silkes, and other the appurtenances of our pleasures, as Dies, Drugges, Gummes, Sugars, Ginger, Furres, and the like, which cost this Kingdome yearely lome hundreths of thousands of our pounds: or whether wee reckon those 20 more staple and necessary commodities for Shipping, and all forts of Timber, Cordage, and other like, no leffe coffly, Virginia inuiteth our hopes, and couenanteth to bestow them on the induftrious : fo that we shall saue those treasures and costs that way expended, shall lesse depend on other Nations, leffe feare imbarguing, detention, imposts ; yea, shall from other Nations raise by returne of our excelle in these kindes great Summes, besides the turnishing of the Kingdome with greater encreale of Shipping, Marriners, and innumerable employments, and the fecuring and enriching the Ports, both of Ireland and England. As for Tobacco I have faid little of it, because 20. Tobacco. it is so generally knowne (which yet is faid to be worth to Spaine 100000, pounds yearely; and ABooke prethat (I grieve to (peak it) from the fume-fome-froth-spirits of England) & the abundance brought sented to the from Virginia and Summer Ilands (inopes nos cepia feeit) exceedeth the Market: and because so Masket Bennet. 30 many by immoderate vie thereof are corrupted here at home, and the present benefit thereby ac- It is said crewing in quicke returne, hindreth delignes of better consequence there. And thus much of Vm- that some ma-ginias prefent or very probable Commodities : to which we may adde the hopes in future times liciously father by finding there as good vent for our Wools and Clothes, both to the English and civilized Indi- all their bad an, as the Spannards doe in their Indies by their Wines and Oyle, of which I have already faid that Tobacco on they permit not the generall growth in their Indian plantations for the continuance and necessistie of commerce with Spaine. And who feeth not the exceeding benefit which may arise by compleat commerce, in venting our owne superfluities of Men; of others, and specially the principal! thence, an of English Commodities, Cloth and Wooll, with the Gospel of our Lord lelus; and returning Spanish 1986. from thence, Clapboord, Pipe-staues, Cauiare, Oade, Madder, Salt, Cordage, Pitch, Tarre, Sope- future Trace

40 afhes, Pot-alhes, Cotton-wools, Gaules, Furres, Hops, Hides, Gummes, Dyes, Gingers, Sugars, for clothes & Silkes, Wines, Iron, Timbers, Fish, Ships, Mariners, Merchants, and a World of the Worlds most other English vieful good things thorow an open Sea, obnoxious to no forreine Potentate, from and to known commodities,

and fecure Ports and Harbours

It is also not only viefull at all times, but necessary to these times, as to transport superfluous 22. Manifold numbers from hence to Virginia, to to cure the difference of the times caused by the wants of Monies necessities of (the life of trading, and finewes of a great State) attended with wants of fale for the Merchane, thefe times. and confequently of Clothiers and other subordinate professions; want of worke for Spinsters, Weavers, and innumerable poorer Trades and Handicraftsmen; want of trading for Citizens(nerther hath fuch a generall breaking beene euer knwone, fo many shops in the principall limmes

50 and ftreets of this Citie, yea, in Cheapfide the faire face, yea, in the eye of that beauteous face, the Gold-Smiths Row (where befides fo many shoppes converted to other Trades, I have told this last Winter betwixt Friday-street and Bread-street the third part shut vp) want of employment for decayed Gentlemen, both the elder Vnthrifts and younger Gallants; which want of moneyes and flore of wants thence isluing, is in greatest part caused by the Merchandizes sought and bought in other Countries, whereby our Moneyes fall into forraine Whirle-pooles without hopes of recovery; whereas if our Trade lay (as we see the Spanish) with our owne Colonies and Plantations elie-where, wee should hold them still current in our owne Nation, and draw others to bring to, ws both Wares and Moneyes from other Regions for the Commodities aforesaid. And thus should the Vices of the Times be remedied, and the vices of men or vicious men finde from

Tobacco, Silkes, Wines and other exceffes (like the fling of Scorpions from the Oyle of Scorpions) a cure thence, whence they received their wounds; and to many ruptures should eyther be preuented or healed; prouisions also procured for employment of hone? and humble pouertie at home, and the mordinate prices of others tamed by the Sea, and trained at labour to better Discipline.

D. D. Brit. Mon

(unt foteula .

Ladde

freeing from dangers in forreine Countries. 16. implayman and hading of Mariners. 17. Many probabilities by traniplantati-on of cautell,

Somiards.

fruits, &c. exemplified by 15. Sauing of exacules and

18. The Countrie, cattell &. but Merchandife h.re. * Cap. Smith tels of 1000. Baffes at a draught: M. Rolle at 5000. the least of two La lide further, that the profecution of the Firginian Plantation, is both profitable and neces-

25.N reeffetie tor itrengthe. nine other Plantations. 24-1200 collities of a South Sea paffage & commodicies thereby.

gners.

fary for he itrengthning of the Plantations already begun in Summer Ilands, New England, and New found Land, and that other expected in New Scotland. Now if we ad le the hopefull paliage to the South Sea, that one argument is more then all the reft, if our eyes shall once be bleffed with that defired fight. For the trade of the whole world is then made compendious, all the rich trades of the East Indies are obvious and neerer hand, and no force is able to scoure fo large a Coast as that Westerne shoare of all America, and secure it from our trading. Hence, if we finde not golden Countries before not possessed by other Christians (whereof allo Sir Francis Drakes Nona Albion fo long fince fubiected by voluntary furrender to the English Crowne, hath given vs hope) yet trade will bring the Mines of the West into our 10 fines, and the Spices and other rich Merchandize of the East into our shops at easier charge, and therefore faleable at eafier rates. But this Deligne of the South Sea may feeme desperate, and the Argument ridiculous. I shall 25.Norefficie of m'intais therefore indepour to give better light therein, and withall to adde another Argument as weighning Varginia tie as it, and greater then all exceptions. in cale of war forciday o-

I may adde also the case of Warre, which I defire not; but which may happen, and Bellona may even now feeme pregnant and alreadic conceived, whose abortion might be wished, if necessitie adds not honour to the lawfulneffe. I but propound a cafe possible. The most certaine, honorable. and beauteous front of Peace, hath a backe part of Warre, and therefore in securest Peace, Prudence is not fo fecure, but the armeth her felfe against feares of War, forewarning and forearming men by the Sword drawne to present the drawing of Swords, and eyther eschewes it, or reads good out of it.

It is not voknowne what expenses England hath fulfained in and ever fince Sir Sebastian Ca-South Sea why let is not vinknowne what expenses any willoughby, Burrough, Pet and Lackman by the Northeast, of Hudson, Poole, Fotherby, and diversother Navigations by the North; of Sir Martine Frebufter, Captaine Dames, Sir Thomas Button, Maiter Knight, Hudfon, Hall, Baffin, and other manifold Discoueries by the North-west, all seeking a compendious passage to Cathay, and to the East Indies. The Reasons which modued them were far more hopefull then that of Columbus. which found not with standing far better and speedier successe. Successe is a seruile Argument, for Sense rather then for Region, and in this whole Virginian proiect, I ipeake to English Aduenturers, and not to pettie Pedlers, or Vinginian Sauages, to fuch whose eyes are in their heads and not in their hands : Careat successibus opto, Quisquis abenentu facta notanda putet. Yet hath not Successe beene wholy frustrate, yea both Reason and Sense plead for a Passage, and Virginias vietulneffe therein.

I will not bring uncertaine testimonies of a Portugall taken in a Carrike in Queene Elizabeths dayes, and of another Portugal in Guinie, which affirmed to Sir Martine Frebulher that hee had paft it; nor of Garcia Louisa, which is said by the Coast of New-found-land to have gone to the Molnecas; nor of Vasco Coronado in his Letter to the Emperour Charles, and other antiquated

· Sec (up, the Booke: & Der

Witneffes of Antiquitie. I have already in due place produced * Thomas Cowles, luan de Fuca, Thomas Dermer, Sir Thomas Button, Master Brigges, besides the constant and generall report of all the Sauages from Florida, to the great River of Canada. Now for the hopes of Virginia by a South-Sea Discovery, how neere is England that way to the Trade of both Indies, that is, of all the remoter World! It flands midway betwixt vs and the most frequented Ports of the West, which perhaps may shortly come to full age and fue out her Liverie, how ever hitherto kept in close Wardship, and debarred the rights of common humanite, that is, the commerce with other Nations, without differning Friend and Foe. Strange realouse and worthy of seasous Suspicion! to admit Trade in all European Ports, not Simil and Madrid excepted, and to prohibit the fame in all the East and West, where it can leffe be prohibited! there to repute all in nature of Pyrats, and accordingly to make 50 prize of flips, goods, and men which shall attempt to sayle that vait Ocean, or offer I rade in a ny of those Habitations! But leauing that to consideration of my Betters, in the East both Englife and Dutch have maintayned their iuft Trade by force, which by vinit force was denied, and have paid themselves largely for all losses sustayined by the Insultings or Assaultings of those Monopolians, with gaine, with honour : that trade being almost denied to those injurious deniers, their owne reputation and traffique now bleeding, which would have cut the throates of all others aduentures, of all other aduenturers. I neither prophelie, nor exhort vnto the like in the Weil: Our prudent and potent Mother Elizabeth wan renowne and wealth in their owne harbours and Cities at home, and no leffe in the remotest of their Lands and Seas. Yea, the South Sea by furthest compasse was neere to her long and iust armes, and their Cacaplain and Saint Anne, 62 with other their richest Ships and Ports were ransacked by English Cacafnegos, and the charges of those warres borne by those enemies which caused them. Nulla falies bello paceus to pose; mus omnes. He whole words and workes hath euer beene Beati pacifici, knowes best when and how to exact his and the Worlds right, in the World, of which God hath granted a Monopoly to no man; and (if others can embrace the whole Globe with dispersed habitations) not to suffer his long arms to be shortned, and the strong armes of his to be pinioned, and forced to accept of a bounded and limited commerce in a little corner at others pleafure. Once, in instand even peace, Virginia stands fit to become Englands Factor in America; if war thould happen, both it and Bermuda are fit Sentinels and Scours, yea fit Searchers and Customers, fit Watch-towers and Arsenals to maintaine right against all wrong-doers. And for the South Sea, if a passage be found neere vnto Virginia, Malter Dermer was confident upon relations (as he writ to me) of a thousand witnesses, wee then lee Organiss lap open, yeelding her Ports and Harbours for the Easterne treasures to be the necrest way conneied by the West, Years it be more remote, as Chacke and Fuca relate, yet hath Virginia an vietall neighbourhood both for ticke men, weatherbeaten Ships, and prouisions ex-10 hauft in long Voyages, to make them fitter for returne. And if fuch paffage were not at all, yet the Mountaines of Virgima cannot but fend Rivers to that Sea; fo that as the wealth of Permis brought to Panama, and thence by Land convaied to the Ports of this Sea, fo may the wealth of the South Sea, and the Regions of the West of America be that way pasted to English hands. The like may be faid of the Hands of Salomon, the South vinknowne Continent, which aftertimes may discouer (probably as rich as the rest) that I mention not the knowne Regions of the East already traded. And although the passage be not yet perfectly knowne, yet may the feations and fittest opportunities and prouisions for that discovery be most easie from Virginia: and there, if croffed with stormes or other diasters, they may finde securest refuge and refreshing. And if (which God auert) we may not have the wares of peace, yet the peace of warres 20 (that is, a fit rendenous and retiring place, where to cheere and hearten, to repaire and hipply vpon all occasions) is there offered, by the advantages of both Seas. For in both, that wait body must needes be of flow motion, where the limmes are so discoynted, and one member whit to helpe another by remotenesse. And if it should but force the adversary to maintaine Garritons in his Ports on both fides, to fecure them from inualion, and a double Nauie of War in both Seas , the one to fecure the Coasts , the other to fecure his Shippes in the South Sea paffing from the Philippinas, or from one Port to another; and in the North Sea to wafte his Treatures and Merchandile into Europe, the wings of that Eigle would be fo pulled with fuch cofts, that hee could not eafily make invafine flight vpon his neighbours in these pares; yez, both thole and these Dominions would be exposed to the easier inuations of others. Tam Marte, quam Mercurio, in Peace and Warre, fo viefull may Virginia and Bermuda be to this Kingdome.

Now if any fay Medice curateipfum, and alleadge that they themselves are not able to fand against an enemy : I answere, first, for Bermuda, or Summer Hands, that little body is all heart, and hath the ftrentgh of Nature and Art confpiring her impregnableneffe. For the Rockes every way have to fortified the feituation, that the would laugh at an Armada, at a World of Ships; where the ileaught paffage admire not two Shipsabreaft to enter, and hath ten Forts with Ordnance to entertaine them. She feares no rauithment, and as little needes the famithment, to that voleffe God for our finnes, or the Divell by the worft of finnes, treaton, and the worft of his Sonnes, fome Indar, expose her to the Enemy, the can know no other lone or Lord but English. And for Virginia 40 against the Sauages greatest fright, Captaine Smith maintained himselfe without loffe, with gaine with thety eight men ragainst others she hath so sit places for fortification; so sit meanes and materials to fecure her, as eye-witnesses report, that the worst of enemies to be feared is English backwar heffe or frowardnesse, like Sampsons Foxes either drawing backe, or having fire at their

Now if Queene Elizabeth of glorious memory, were able from England onely to annoy her * M. Thomas enemies, fo great and potent, to much and farre : what may we in Gods name hope of a New Turner an Ene England, New found Land, Bermuda and Virginia already planted with English? When vpon in Mericana newes of the fall of this great Northen Starre, the Duke of Braganzas brother, fpake of her at stangential the facilities and the heads the design of the Toke him fall for one them as forces. the lesistes had standered; hold your peace brother, faid the Duke himselfe (one then present related this to me) had it not beene for her Religion (for which wee most honour her, for which almaine. God did most blesse her) the might justly have beene ranked with the ancients Romans: England is a small thing, as the Map flieweth, to Spaine, and yet we durst not looke out of doores for her and hers. Thus worthily that worthy man, of the Worthy of women in her time. Great and glorious Elizabeth! how didft thou contemne the Iberian threates? How didft thou invert, dipert, subvert their attempts? How victoriously didst thou evade their inninoible Invasion? how Q Elizabeths didft thou inuade the Inualers, at their gates, in their ports? how didft thou meete them in the praces. Atlanticke, purior them to the South, to the Indian Seas, and round about the World? How didthe skie, windes, waves ferue to a higher providence in thy deliveries, in thy triumphs ? how often were the prodigious Carrikes of the East, and prodigall Vessels of the West, either staid at 60 home for feare, or driven to fort-covert by the way, or costly wafted on their way, or borned in the way, or finke out of the way, or carried quite a way to visite the English shoares, and adorne the Trophees of great and glorious Elizabeth? Rouze vp your braue spirits English hearts in loyall fubication to your Royall Sourraign: be ready to offer right, feare not to fuffer wrong: feeke the good, and fee the goods which Virginia offers. Here could I wilder my felfe in thickets of arguments, and could Muster more motions and more necessarily concluding for Virginias advancement, if that which we delire not be enforced on vs, then I have already numbred in plantation and commerce : Yea almost all those former arguments are pressed of necessity, or offer their feruice voluntarily, some more, others no leffe seruceable that way, then to publike peace and traf-

Nananana

fique, which alto are securest when they neede not feare a Warre. The honour of Religion defended by the Defender of the Faul; of our Nation, King Kingdome: the Materials of Ships, Mariners, Armes, Victuals; Fishing, Merchandise, and Prize subsequent to each Voyage, that one may supply if the other faile; in crossed Voyages, a convenient receptacle for refreshing; fir place of thay in not fitting and vnseasonable seasons : a tafe repository for spoiles gotten in expectation of greater purchafe: a redreffe to weatherbeaten and storme-distressed to Ships: a refuge to fuch as the enemy hath battered and endangered; an Holpitall for ficke, wounded and prefently unfor iceable Mariners and Souldiers : a storehouse to repaire Timbers, Tackline, and other prouifions to Ships and Men : a fit meane (in supplying vs from thence with neceffaries) to keepe those Monies in our owne hands, whereby we are destitute of the principall fie newes of warre, yea perhaps the enemy armed against vs : a schoole and training place for our youth to endure labour and hardship, and to prepare them like the lewes in Nebemials time, to the the Sword with one hand, and inftruments of labour in the other: an exercise to breede Men for longer Voiages: a backed ore to breake out fuddenly on the enemy : an ambushment, whiles Ships from hence & thence shall at once be expected, and he which flees the one shall fall into the other: a redoubling of our forces when they meete; a fafe halbour in Bermuda or in Virginia for 20 a hundred failes, or many more, to awaite all opportunities : a place likely to yeelde to men of merit entertainment and reward: a place yeelding opportunity by trade there to weaken our possible or probable enemics, to whom now wee seeke for trade, and consequently to weaken them by the want of our Commodities, and to adde a double strength to our selues : a place commodious to preuent warre by diverting it, to divert it by preventing: to subvert the enemies Plantations by fudden affaults, or force them to coftly Garifons : to euert their Merchandifing by trade suspended, surprized, or defended with chargeable wastage : to intercert their intelligence and profits : to invert the hearts of Maleconcents, and those hands which feare now curbeth and briuleth: to consert to our parts those which maintaine a fugitive and wilde enmity with them: to avert the profits of their Mines by other imployments; and in a word, to make that vie of ad others against them, which their examples have taught ve in acquiring the great Empires of Mexico and Pers, with other parts of America, which wirhout the helpe of Indiane against Indians, banding themselves with a contrary faction, such handfuls had never beene able to have effected: What shall I say more? If others impotence and importunities force a War, Virginia and Summer Hands seeme to this English body as two American hands, eares, seete; two eyes for defence : two Keyes (asbefore is laid) for offence : two Armes to get, encompaffe, embrace : two Fifts to strike : the Sword and Dagger; Ship and Pinnace; Caitle and Rampire, Canon & Musket, Arsenale and Peere, and what iocuer God shall please to give to humaine industry, who gives all things of free grace, but to fuch to whom he hath given grace freely to feeke them; and isalway a facile and easie giver, but to them onely which love not their ease and idle pleasure. And although I am no Secretary of Gods Counfell for the Indies, yet event hath revealed thus much of his will, that no other Christian Nation hath yet gotten and maintained pollethon in those parts, but the English: to whom therefore wee may gather their decreed feruiceablenesse in Peace, aduantagiousnelle in Warre, and opportunity for both, to be both Magazine and Bulwarke, and ready even by naturall scituation to sit on the skirts of whatsoever enemies, which passe from America to Europe. Three Spanish witnesses, Acosta, Oniedo, and Herrora, have related this, in describing the course Acoftal. 1.2.6.4 of that Nauigation; yea, all experience, the Heavens also and Elements subscribe to it. For such 8.2.3.

The brifes and

Eddy windes.

is the statute of the windes, which all Shipping in that Sea must obey : they must goe one way and returne another. To the Indies the course from Enrope is by the Canaries, and thence entring 50 Deferi, of Ind. the Trop ke, they meete with the Brifes, which are perpetual Easterne windes, or I know not what imperuofity by the motion of the heavens breathed into the lower aire betwixt the Tropikes, and preffing all vapours and exhalations unto that feruice in one or other point Easterly: which force the Ships to return e neerer the American coast there to feeke as it were some alloy of that impétuous motion (euen as you see Water-men in the Thames rowing against the tide, to couet neere the shoare where the tide is weakest) and thence passing the Tropike to seeke Westerly windes, which from twenty feuen to thirty feuen doe there vivally remaine, as wee fee in Eddies caused by stronger motions. Thus the Spanish Ships on the South Sea make one way from Acaputeo to the Philippinas, which is the Tropicke; and another without in the height of Ispan, to returne. And thus in the Atlanticke the Ships from their feuerall ports come to the Ha- 60 mana in Guba, and thence must take their course neere to Virginia and Summer Ilands, to finde the Azmes: in which way, from thence it is easie for English Ships (not far from their owne home of Ports) to disperse them selves in expretation of a surprisall. The want of fuch helpes in Queene Elizabeths glorious times, enforced our men of Warre fill to awaite both for the Indian Carrickes, and all American Ships, houring about the Acores I. Difaduantase lands fubiect to the Spanish Crowne, where they neither had harbour in stormes, nor could in any to our shores wants refresh themselves with water, victuals, or other provisions but by force; where a greater water by want and fronger Armada of the enemy waited to wafte home their Ships returning; where it often of firm fuch hanned that the Ships could not fo foone be deferred, but they gat either into some Port, and vn. Plantation as der some Fort which secured them; or else there ran themselves aground, and saving what they be whence ma could with their persons, fired the rest, so to facrifice it to Neptune or Oulcan, rather then permit ny Voyages it to English hands. Neither had the English any neere Port where to supply themselves in any di- were frustrafirefle, or exhauftion of prouifions, but must necessarily returne home for England, if not (as some-ted in partor times) perishing in the way, with little or perhaps no prize attained. Likewise in long Vova- wholly. ges, as to the East Indies, and to the South Sea, having no harbour to friend every difeate proved mortall to their Voyage, and forced at left a returne, that is, a miscarrying of the designe, if not of themselves: whereas, such a refuge as Virginia and Summer Hands might either have recovered the Voyage intended or refreshed and inabled them to make as good a purchase you the enemy. making him to pay their charges, perhaps with more gaine then the first intents could have produced. Examples will make this more evident.

And first to begin with the first of our great Discouerers; Sir Sebast ian Cabot, and Sir Thomas Anno 1317. Pert, were let forth by King Henry the eight (as before is mentioned) in a Voyage of American Quiedo Gen. 5:74 Discouery, a Ship of which Fleete comming from the coast of Brasil to Domingo (Ousedo menti-20 ons it in the Spanish file, branding them with Piracy, yet laieth nothing to their charge but difcouery and offer of trade, paying with Pewter diffies for what they tooke) was thence repelled Anno 1 < 17, and obtained fome provisions at Saint lobn, from whence in their returne to England, Oniedo thinkes they perished: at least the Voyage miscarried, as appeareth by Master Thornes and Mafter Edens testimony thereof, for want of prouisions. The like happened to Ma. Master Hore. ther Hores Voyage, described in Master Haklait Anno 1536, when want of victuals made them Sir 10. Hawkins, eate one another, and at last to steale a French Ship, in which they returned.

Anno 1 864. Sir John Hawkins having made a profitable Voyage by fale of Negros on the coast Townes of America, was driven to feeke reliefe of the French (then planted in Florida, rooted thence not long after by Spanish butchery) And in another Voyage 1567, incurred by perfidious no treachery of the Spaniards, a most lamentable disaster, He then failed in the lefte of Lubecke, having to his conforts, the Minion, the William and John, the Indith, the Angell and the Smallow, Hauing gotten Negros in Guinnee and made his market in the Spanish Indies, he put in for reliefe at Saint John de Vlbus, Whiles his Fleete was there, the Spanish Fleete came thither with their new Viceroy, which he could easily have kept out of the harbour, but there being then no Warres betwixt England and Spaine, certaine Articles were concluded betwixt them; from which the Spanishperfidia V. ceroy perfidiously resulting, with close trechery (contrary to his faith plighted) affaulted the English with a ftrong power on the fudden; the iffue whereof was the firing, drowning, taking many of the English, whom they put also to execuable tortures. Onely the Minion and Indush of that whole Fleete escaped, if it be an escaping to avoide Scrilla and rush on Charibdis. For they 40 were fo shaken in fight first, after with stormers, lastly and worst of all, with famine, that they were forced to expose a hundred and source eene men to the mercy of cruell elements, crueller Sauages, cruellest Spaniards, who exercised in the Inquisition with bondage, rackes, whips, fires. Spanish crueldes familhments, of plurima moreis imago, what the other had spared; so that of a hundred and sourceteene not about the odde foure, and those foure after Odysses of wandrings, and Iliades of mileries returned home from the foure corners of the World. Had Sir John Hawkins had a Virginian opportunity of refreshing, the first danger should not have needed, and the last had not proved worse then the first : that exposing being not farre from the Virginian shoare, and the current fitting to carry him thither. Sir Francis Drake was then Captaine of the Indith, and repaired that courtefie to the Spaniards after, who to shew the telibility of such tefreshing Anno 1585. having facked Saint lago, Domingo, Carthagena, and Saint Augustine, returned by Virginia to relieue the Colony there planted by Sir W. Raleigh.

Anno 1991. Captaine George Raymund in the Penelope, Captaine Foxoroft in the Merchant Cap Lancolte Royall, and Captaine Lancaster in the Edward Bonaduenture, let forth a Voyage intended for the 1591. East Indier. Their Company were to weakened with ficknesse, that the Viceadmirall was fent backs from Soldania with ficke men. The Admirall was loft, the Rereadmirall returned, and for want of prouisions put ouer from Saint Helena to Trindad, in hope of reliefe, Yet being there difappointed, they intended to get to Newfoundland, but being creffed with fformes in the way, and forced backe to Port Ricco, the Ship was driven away and loft not far from Mona, whiles the famished Company were seeking refreshing (which how easily had a Bermuda or Virginia supplied, 60 had an English plantation flourished there?) Sir James Lancaffer and the rest being forced to return after much mifery, in French Ships for France, and thence home.

Anno 1 596, the Beare, the Beares Whelpe, and the Bensamin, were fet forth for China vinder the Cap. Bensamin command of Captaine Beniamin Wood. Frier logon des Santes mentions both the two former of 1596. Saymund and Lancaster, and two also of these seene on the coast of Mozambique. Bartolom: Leo Origin. 4 nardo nardo de Argenfola in his Booke, printed at Madrid 1609: hath published the Letter of the Chinese Vilitor of Chinches, in which he writeth to Don Pedro de Acnnas, Gouernour of the Philippings, that the King of China had done two Sangless to death, for shewing the hauen to these two English Sings: and Acuma rescribes that the English were Pyrates, &c. after the Spanish wont. Theie Ships were voheard of in England, votill a Letter of Alcafar de Villa fenner, Auditor of Domingo, writ to the King his Master, being by an English Ship intercepted, gaue intelligence of one of mole two Sirps which diffressed for want of necessaries, by mortality, had foure men only left alius in her, which feeking reliefe, put themselves into their Boate, and comming on shoare in the Hand Vitus, not farre from Domingo, with Iewels and great riches, confelled that they had reken three Portugall prizes. The Spaniards at first received them on good conditions, but some 10 villaines feeing their wealth, mutthered them, for which this Auditor had fentenced Roderico de Fuentes with others, as his Letter to the King of Spane importeth. Now had there then beenea Voginian or Bermudan Plantation, how easily might they have attained thither(the Boat at least) and elcaped that butchery ! I could hither adde instructions from the English Indian Ships 1604. and 1608, from Captaine Fenton 1582, from the Earle of Cumberlands Voyages before selated in the yeares 86.89.91.93.96.97. and from Master Candift, Matter Davis, and others. But we haue made too long a Virginian Voyage, having no better freight then Arguments?

Nnnnnnn 2

which the Times doe now promife, if not worthy wite mens approbation, yet good mens indul-Est Indie foci- gence; where in a weake body, and manifold weighty imployments, the willingnesse of a heart truely English, fincerely Christian, may seeme tolerable, if not commendable; pardonable if not 20

> Another labour remaines to fet downe rules and projects of best fecibility and accomplishing this noble worke, but I am onely a Freeman, no Councellour of thet Plantation, and have neither Lands there, nor other adventure therein, but this of my love and credit, which with the allegiance to my Soueraigne, and defire of the publike good of this Kingdome, is more to me then all the treatures of America, I feeke the good and not the goods or England and Negrain, I follow the land of God, which have given England io many rights in Vogines, right naturall, right nationall, right by first discouery, by accepted trade, by possession furrendred voluntarily, continued constantly, right by gift, by birth, by bargaine and sale, by cession, by forfeiture in that late dampable trechery and maffacre, and the fatal poffeifion taken by io many murthered English. Gods an bounty before, his inflice now hath given vs Virginia, that we should so in indgement remember mercy, as to give Virginia againe to God, in Christian acknowledgement of his goodnesse and mercy, of his word and workes, and in our owne more ferious conversion to prepare that of Vaginia. God goeth before vs in making this designe honorable to Religion, to Humanity, to our Ancestors, to our King, to our Kingdome. God goeth before vs, and hath given Virginia forich

Ex. 13.

E/. 11.

a portion, to allure and affure our loues; in multiplying our people, and thereby our necessities en forcing a vent : in endowing Virginia with to large a iointure, to temperate, fo commodious for the climate compared with other Countries, beyond other Countries in her own diversified Lands, Brieferecapi. Seas, Rivers ; in so fertile a soyle, in so strong, sweete, stately, delicate Woods and Timbers, in her tulation of the natural I hopes of Wines, of Silkes, of the bodies of Natives feruile and feruiceable : in Drugges, 40 moftremarka Irons, and probability also of other Mines; in all materials for Shipping, and other buildings: God goeth before vs in offering that meane to faue that which wee feeke and fpend in other (perhaps enemies) Countries; to breede vp Marriners, to train vp Souldiers, to exercise labourers, by transportation of English and European creatures to plant another England in America, enriched with the best things of Errope; to give vs Fish, Tobacco, and other present improvements as earnest of future better hopes; and that in these times, which have so manifold necessities thereof, in regard of monies, men, and trades decayed, in regard of neighbour plantations, in the probabilities of a South-Sea glory, and in the cafe of obruded warre, obtruding on vs abfolute necessity, and inclusions. ding and concluding every way so manifold wie. God the Father, Sonne and holy Ghost, which goe before vs in thele things, if not in miraculous fire and cloudy pillars, (as when I fraet went to 50 Canaan) yet in the light of reason, and right consequence of arguments; come into vs and fillys with the spirit of wisedome and understanding, the spirit of counsell and of fortitude, the spirit of knowledge, and the feare of the Lord (I may adde the spirit of vnity and counsell) that he may vouchfafe to goe with vs, and we with him, and after him to Virginia, Amen, O Amen. Be thou the Alpha and Omega of Englands Plantation in Virginia O GOD. The end of the ninth Booke.

ENGLISH DISCOVE RIES AND PLANTATI-ONS IN NEW ENGLAND

AND NEW-FOVND-LAND, WITH THE PATENT AND VOYAGES TO

NEW-SCOTLAND: Relations also of the Fleets (et forth by Queene Elizabeth against the Spaniards.

THE TENTH BOOKE.

CHAP. I.

A briefe Relation of the Discourie and Plantation of New-England: and of fundry Accidents therein occurring, from the yeere of our Lord 1607, to this present 1622. Published by the Prefident and Councell, and dedicated to the Princes Highnesse here abbreuiated.

Hen this Deligne was first attempted, some of the prefent Company were therein chiefly intereffed; who being carefull to have the fame accomplished, did fend to the discouery of those Northern parts a braue Gentleman, Cap, Henry Challens, with two of the Natines of that Territorie, the one called Maneday, theother Affecomet. But his misfortunes did expose him to the power of certaine ftrangers, enemies to his proceedings, fo that by them, his Company were feized, the ships and goods conficated, and that Voyage wholly ouerthrowne.

This loffe, and vnfortunate beginning, did much a- 1. Castialier bate the rifing courage of the first Aduenturers; but im- 2, Cap, Ham ar, mediately upon his departure, it pleased the Noble Lord Chiefe Inflice Chiefe Iudice, Sir John Popham Knight, to fend out anothershippe, wherein Captayne Thomas Hanam went Commander, and Martine Prinne of Bristow Master, with all necessary supplyes, for the seconding of Captayne Challens and his people; who arriving at the place appointed, and not finding that Captayne there, after they had made some Discourrie, and sound the Coasts Hanens, and Harbours answerable to our desires, they returned Vpon whose Relation the Lord Chiefe luftice, and we all waxed so confident of the businesse, that the yeere following every man of any worth, formerly interested in it, was willing to joyne in the charge for the sending over a competent number of people to lay the ground of a hopefull Plantation.

Hereupon Captaine Popham, Captaine Ramler Gilbert, and others were fent away with two 3, Cap Portem thips, and an hundred Landmen, Ordnance, and other prouisions necessary for their suftentation & Cap, Guens, and defence; vntill other supply might be sent. In the meane-while, before they could returne, Nananan 3

ENGLISH

Sir John Pete hams death.

Piantation.

Cap. Hobsen

Cap. Herley,

de. 1611.

it pleased God to take vs from this worthy member, the Lord Chiefe Inflice, whose sudden death did fo altonish the hearts of the most part of the Aduenturers, as some grew cold, and some did wholly abandon the bufineffe. Yet Sir Francis Pophans his Sonne, certaine of his private fr.ends, and other of vs, omitted not the next yeere (holding on our first resolution) to joyne in fending forth a new Supply, which was accordingly performed.

But the flips arriume there, did not only bring vicomfortable newer of the death of the Lord Chiefe luftice together with the death of Sir John Gilbert, the elder Brother vnto Capraine Rawler Gilbert, who at that time was Prelident of that Councell : But found that the old Cap-Captaine Pop taine Popham was also dead; who was the onely man (indeed) that died there that Winter. wherein they indured the greater extremities; for that, in the depth thereof, their Lodgings and flores were burnt, and they thereby wondroufly diffreffed.

This calamitie and emili newes, together with the resolution that Captaine Gilbert was forced to take for his owne returne (in that he was to fucceed his Brother, in the Inheritance of his Lands in England) made the whole Company to retolue vpon nothing but their returne with the thing; and for that prefent to leave that Countrey againe, having in the time of their abode there (not with flanding the coldnesse of the season, and the small helpe they had) built a pretrie Barke of their owne, weich ferued them to good purpole, as eating them in their returning,

The arrivall of thefe people here in England, was a wonderfull discouragement to all the first undertakers, in fo much as there was no more speech of settling any other Plantation in those Sir Fr. Posbam. parts for a long time after : only Sir Francis Popham having the ships and provision, which re- 20 mayned of th Company, and supplying what was necessary for his purpose, fent divers times to the Coalts for Trade and fithing; of whose losse or gaines himselfe is best able to diately tooke the opportunisie to tettle themselves within our limits; which beeing heard of by plant there. those of Virginia, that discreetly tooke to their consideration the inconveniences that might arife, by f ffering them to harbour there, they dispatched Sir Samuel Areall, with Commillion to displace them, which he performed with much discretion, judgement, valour, and dexteritie. For having feized their Forts, which they had built at Mount Manfell, Saint Cross, and Port Reall, he carried away their Ordnance; he alfo fürprifed their Ship, Cattle, and other Prous- 20 fions, which he transported to the Colonie in Firginia, to their great benefit. And hereby hee hath made a way for the prefent hopefull Plantation to be made in Nowa Scotia, which we heare his Majeffie hath lately granted to Sir William Alexander Knight, one of his Majeffies most Honorable Councell of the Kingdome of Scotland, to be held of the faid Crowne, and that not withour some of our privities, as by approbation vider writing may and doth appeare. Whereby it is manifest that wee are so farre from making a Monopoly of all those Lands belonging to that Coast (as hath beene scandaloutly by some objected) That wee wish that many would undertake the like.

Our people abandoning the Plantation in this fort as you have heard; the Frenchmen imme-Tuenchmen

In this Interim there were of vs who apprehended better hopes of good that might enfue by this attempt, being the reunto periwaded, both by the Relations of our people that had indured 40 the many difficulties whereunto fuch actions are fubiected, chiefly in the Winter Seafon; and like. wife by the informations given them by certaine of the Natives, that had beene kept a long time in their hands; wherefore we refolued once more to trie the veritie thereof, and to lee if possibly we might finde some thing that might induce a fresh resolution to prosecute a Worke so plous and so honourable. And thereupon they dispatched Captayne Hobson, of the lle of Wight, toimployed with Sether with Captayne Herley, Master John Matthew, Master Sturton, with two Saurges, the one called Epenon, the other Manamet, with Commission and directions fit for them to observe and follow, the better to bring to palle what was expected. But as in all humane affaires, there is nothing more certaine, then the vncertaintie thereof; fo fell it out in this; for a little before fuch time as they arrived upon the Coast with the foresaid Sauages, who were Naturals of these parts, 50 Hunti Sauage it happened there had beene one Hunt (a worthlelle fellow of our Nation, fet out by certaine bunting of 5a. Merchants for love of game, who, not content with the commoditie he had by the filh, and peaceable Trade he found among the Sauages, after he had made his dispatch, and was ready to fet tayle more Sauage-like then they) leized upon the poore innocent creatures, that in confidence of his honestie had put themselves into his hands. And stowing them under Hatches, to the number of twentie foure, carried them into the Straits, where he fought to fell them for flaues, and fold Friers charitie, as many as he could get mony for. But when it was vnderstood from whence they were broughts the Friers of those parts took the rest from them, and kept them to be instructed in the Christian Faith; and so disappointed this vieworthy fellow of the hopes of gaine he conceived to make by this new and Deutlish project.

This being known by our two Saunges, formerly fpoken of, they prefently contracted fuch Wicked effects an hatred against our whole Nation, as they immediately studied how to be reuenged; and conof wickedness triued with their friends the best meanes to bring it to passe; but Manamet dying in a short time after the shippes arrivall there, and the other observing the good order, and strong guard our people kept, fludied only how to free himfelfe out of our hands, and thereupon laid the plot very orderly, and indeed effected his purpose, although with so great hazard to himselfe and friends. that laboured his refeue, that Captayne Hobson and his whole Company imagined hee had beene flame. And though in the recovery of his bodie they wounded the Mafter of our thip, and diners other of our Company, yet was not their Defigne without the flaughter of some of their people, and the hurts of other, compassed, as appeared afterward. Hercupon Captaine Hobson and his Company, conceiving the end of their attempt to bee fru-frate, resolved without more adoe to returne, and so those hopes, that charge and Voyage was loit alfo, for they brought home nothing but the newes of their euill successe of the vnfortunate caule thereor, and of a Warre now new begun betweene the Inhabitants of those parts, and vs. A miterable comfort for so weake meanes as were now left, to pursue the conclusion of fo redious, an Enterprise.

While this was a working, we found the meanes to fend out Captaine John Smith from Plane Cap. J. Smith month, in a thip, together with Matter Dermer, and divers others with him, to lay the foundation of a new Plantation, and to try the filling of that Coaft, and to feeke to feetle a Trade with the Natiues : But such was his mistortune, as being scarce free of our owne Coast, he had his Milts shaken ouer-boord by stormes and tempests, his ship wonderfully distressed, and in that extremitie forced to come backe againe; fo as the featon of the yeare being almost ipent, wee were of necessitie enforced to furnish him with another ship, and taking out the proussion of the 20 first, dispatched him away againe, who comming to the height of the Westerne Hands, was chafed by a French Pirace, and by him made Prisoner, although his ship in the night escaped away. and returned with the loffe of much of her proution, and the overthrow of that Voyage, to the ruine of that poore Gentleman Captayne Smith, who was detayned Prisoner by them, and forced to juffer many extremities, before he got free of his troubles.

Notwithstanding these Difasters, it pleased God so to worke for our incouragement againe, as he fent into our hands Tafquantum, one of those Savages that formerly had beene betraved by this vinworthy Huns before named, by whose means there was hope conceined to worke a peace betweene vs. and his friends, they beeing the principall Inhabitants of that Coaft, where the fire was kindled. But this Sauage Tofquantum, being at that time in the New-found-land with 20 Captaine Mafon, Gouernour there for the vndertakets of that Plantation : Mafter Darmer Cap. M. fon (who was there also, and sometimes before imployed as wee have faid by vs. together with Governor in Captayne lobn Smith) found the meanes to give vs intelligence of him, and his opinion of the New found land good vie that might bee made of his Employment, with the readinesse of Captayne Majon, to further any of our Attempts that way, eyther with Boates or other prouision necessarie. and refoluing himfelfe to goe from thence, admied vs to fend fome to meete with him at our v-fuall place of filhing; to ayde him in his indeuour, that they isyning together, might bee able to doe what he hoped would be very acceptable vnto all wel-withers of that busineffe, V pon this newes, we dispatched the next season Cap. Recraft, with a company for that purpose, in hope Cap. Recraft. to have met with Captaine Darmer; but the care and discretion of Cap. Mason was such, finding 40 Captayne Darmers resolution to goe beyond his meanes, that he perswaded him first to go for England, that prouiding himselfe there, as was requisite, hee might proceed in time expedient, which counsell he observed (as fit it was) although our expectation of his joyning with Captaine Rocrafe was thereby disappointed. Yet so it happened, that Captaine Rocrafe at his arrivall in thole parts, met with a French Barke that lay in a Creeke a filhing , and trading , which hee feized on , and fent home the Master and Company in the same thip which hee went out in. French feized,

With this Barke and his owne Company, he meant to keepe the Coast that Winter quarter, being very well fitted both with Salt, and other necessaries for his turne : but as this was an Act of extremitie (the poore man being of our owne Religion) fo succeeded it accordingly. For in a short time after, certaine of this Captaynes Company, conspired together to cut his throate, and to make themselves Masters of the whole spoyle, and so to seeke a new Fortune where they so could best make it. This Conspiracie being discouered to the Captayne, he let it go on, till the Conspiracie time that it should have beene put in execution, when her caught them in their owne traine, and so apprehended them in the very instant that they were purposed to begin their Massacre.

But after hee had preuented the mischiefe, and seized vpon the Malefactors, hee tooke to his confideration what was best to bee done with them. And being loth by himselfe to dispatch them as they deserved, hee rejolued to put them a shoare, thinking by their hazard, that it was possible they might discouer tomething, that might advance the publike; and so giving them some Armes for their defence, and some victuals for their sustentation, virill they knew better how to prouide for themselves, hee left them a place Con pirators

60 called Samaguatock, where they remayned not long, but got from thence to Menchighan, an tothe Menching. Iland lying tome three leagues in the Sea, and fitteene leagues from that place, where they bon, remayned all that Winter, with bad lodging, and worse fare, yet came all safe home saue one fickely man, which dyed there, the reft returned with the Shippe wee lent for Rocrafts supply and prouition, to make a Fishing Voyage.

yoiage.

Deck in Pin-

Hallanders in

After these fellowes were landed, the Captaine finding himselfebut weakely man'd, and his Ship to draw too much water to Coast those places, that by his instructions hee was affigued to discouer, hee resolued to goe for Virginia, where he had lived a long time before, and had (as hee conceined) many friends, that would helpe him with some things that hee had occasion to vie. Arriung there, he was not deceived of his expectation; for Sir Samuel Argall being their Governour, and one that respected him much for his owne sake was the readier to helpe him, in regard of the good hee wished to the buinesse wherein he was imployed.

But all this could not prevaile, for after that Sir Samuel Argall came from thence (hisdenarture, being more sudden then was expected) it fell out that the new Gouernour entred the Harhour; and finding Rocraft ready to bee gone, fent to him to command him to come abourd to to fpeake with him, which hee readily obeyed, as foone as bee could fit his boat and men for that purpose. And so leaving his Barke with her great Anker at head, and taking with him the halfe of his company, he was forced to flay aboard the new Gouernors Ship that night. In the meane while a florme arising, our Barke wanting hands to doe their labour, droue a shoare, and there funke. But yet the Gouernour and Captaine fo laboured the next day, when they knew thereof, as that they freed her againe, but that occasion forced our Captain to stay so long in the Countrey to fit himselve a new, as in the interim a quarrell fell out betweene him and another of that Rotraft finine, place; to as Rotraft was flame, and the Barke tunke the second time, and finally disabled from veelding yeary benefit to this prefent. Can. Dirmers

But we not knowing this dilaster, and Captain Darmer arriving with his Sauage out of New- 20 found land, dispatched him away the next season , in a Ship wee sentagaine for the fishing busneile, and affigned him a company to joyne with Rocraft and his people. Captain Darmer arming there, and not finding Rocraft, was a little peoplexed, and in doubt what to doe : yet hearing by those Mutiners which hee found there, that hee was gone for Virginia; he was hopefull of his returne; and lived in that expectation, till fuch time as he heard (by a Ship that came from thence to fish for the Colony) the confusion of his fortune, and the end of his misery in this world. Then hee determined to take the Pinnace, that the yeere before was affigned to Rocraft, for him to make the Trade with, and with her to proceed on his defigne, and so embarked himselfe and his prouision and company in her. And leaving the Fisher-men to their labour, he coasted the shoare from thence, fearthing every Harbour, and compassing every Cape-land, till hee arrived in Un- 30 ginia; where hee was in hope to meet with some of the prouition, or company of Rocraft, to help Neerfli ie of a to lipply him of what hee wanted; as alfo to lay a Decke vpon his Pinnace, that before had not any, and now was taught by experience the necessitie of having that defect supplied.

But those hopes failed him (all being before that time ruined and dispersed) so farre, as he saw naces of discoit in vaine to hope for helpe by that meanes, and therefore attempted to make the best of what hee hid of his owne. And going to fet his men a worke, they all in tew dayes after their arrivall, fell ficke of a difeafe which hapned at that time in the Countrey, fo as now he was not onely forced to be without hope of their helping of him, but must labour himselfe all hee could to attend and sustaine them; but so God savoured him, that they recovered, and in time convenient he dispatched his businesse there, and put himselfe to Sea againe, resoluing to accomplish in his jour- 40 ney backe to New-England, what in his last Discouery he had omitted. In his passage he met with certaine Hollanders, who had a trade in Hudfons River some yeeres before that time, with whom he had conference about the state of that coast, and their proceedings with those people: whose antivere gaue him good content. Hee betooke him felfe to the following of his bulinelle, discouering many goodly Rivers, and exceeding pleafant and fruitfull Coasts and Ilands, for the space of eightie leagues from East to West, for to that Coast doth range along, from Hudsons River to

Cape lames. Now after wee had found by Captaine Rocrafts relation made the yeere before, the hopes hee conceived of the benefits that Coali would afford, towards the vpholding of the charge for fetling our Plantation, by reason of the commodities arising by Fishing and Furres, if a course might 50 bee taken for the managing of that bufineffe, as was fit for fuch a defigne; as well as for the advancement of the publike good of our whole Nation, and latisfaction of every well disposed perfon that had a will to be interreffed therein. It was held to be most convenient to strengthen our felues by a new Grant to bee obtained from his Royal Maiefly: the rather, finding that those of Unginia had by two feuerall Patents feeled their bounds, and excluded all from intermedling with them that were not free of their Company; and had wholly altered the forme of their Gouernment, from the first ground layed for the managing she affaires of both Colonies, leaving vs as delperate, and our hufinefle as abandoned. Thele confiderations (asis faid) together with the necessi ie of seeling our affaires, bounds and limits, dictinct from theirs, made vs resolue to perition his Maiestie for the renewing of our Grant. By which time the rumour of our hopes was so 60 publikely (pread abroad, and the commodities of the Fish and Trade so looked into, as it was defired that all that Coalt might bee made free, as well to those of Virginia, asto vs to make their commoditie : How just or vinust that motion was, wee will not argue, freing the businesse is ended. By this meanes our proceedings were interrupted, and wee questioned about it; first, by the

Counfell of Virginia, whom wee thought to have beene fally latisfied therein, before wee could hane way given vs for a new Patent, both parties having beene heard by certaine of the Lords of the Councell; and the businesse by them so ordered, as wee were directed to proceed and to have our Grantagreeable to the libertie of the Virginia Company, the trame of our government excepted; but this order not being liked of, it was againe heard and concluded. Laftly, the Patent being pail the Seale, it was front upon new fuggeftions to the King, and by his Maiefly referred to the Councel to be fetled, by whom the former Orders were confirmed, the difference cleared, and we ordered to have our Patent delivered vs. These disputes held vs almost two yeeres, so as all men were afraid to ioyne with vs, and we

to thereby left hopelesse of any thing more, than that which our owne fortunes would veeld to adnance our proceedings, in which time to many accidents hapned vnto vs at home and abroad, that wee were taine to give order by the Ships wee fent a filhing, for the retiring of Mafter Darmer and his people, vntill all things were cleered, and wee beeter prouided of meanes to goe through with our defigne : But this worthy Gentleman confident of the good likely to enfue, and retolutely resoluing to pursue the ends he aymed at, could not be perswaded to looke backe, as yet; and forefuling to accept our offer, began againe to profecute his Difcouery, wherein he was betrayed Demer berralby certaine new Sauages, who foliainly fet vpon him, giving him fourteene or fifteene wounds; edby Savages. but by his valour and dexteritie of spirit hee freed himtelfe out of their hands, yet was constrai- See [6], his ned to retire into Virginia againe the second time, for the cure of his wounds, where he fell ficke owne letter to 20 of the infirmities of that place, and thereof dyed : to ended this worthy Gentleman his dayes, after he had remained in the discouery of that Coast two yeeres, giving vs good content in all hee vadertooke; and after hee had made the peace betweene vs and the Sauages, that so much abhorred our Nation for the wrongs done them by others, as you have heard : but the fruit of his lahour in that behalfe wee as yet receiue to our great commoditie, who have a peaceable Plantation Procesble at this present among them, where our people both prosper and line in good liking, and assuredneffe of their neighbours, that had beene formerly io much exasperated against vs, as will more at his meanes, large appeare hereafter.

But having puffed all these storms abroad, and vindergone so many home-bred oppositions, and Patentrefreed our Parent, which wee were by order of State affigned to renew, for the amendment of newed. 20 some defects therein contained, wee were affured of this ground more boldly to proceed on than before ; and therefore wee tooke first to consideration, how to raise the meanes to advance the Plantation. In the examination thereof, two wayes did first offer themselves : The one was the voluntary contribution of the Patentees; The other, by an easie ransoming of the freedomes of those that had a will to partake only of the present profits arising by the Trade and Fishing voon the Coast. The first was to proceed from those Noble-men, and others that were Patentees, and they agreed by order among themselues to disburse a hundred pounds a piece, for the advancement of fuch necessary businesse as they had in hand. The second was to bee accomplished by setling such liberties and orders in the Westerne Cities and Townes, as might induce enery reasonable man, in, and about them, affecting the publike good, or a regular proceeding in the businesse 40 of Trade, to embrace an uniformitie, and to ioune a communitie or lount flock together, &c.

BVt this Countrey, what by the generall and particular fituation is so temperate, as it seemeth to hold the golden meane, and indeed is most agreeable to the nature of our owne, which is Glimate. made manifest by experience, the most infallible proofe of all affertions; infomuch as our people that are fetled, enjoy their life and health much more happily then in other places; which can be imputed to no other cause, then to the temperature of the Climate. Now as the Clime is found to be so temperate, so delicate and healthfull, both by reason and experience; such is the soile alfo, some parts thereof yeelding wonderfull increase, both of Corne, the Natiues have most vie of ; as also of our owne, of all forts: with infinite varietie of nourishing Rootes, and other Hearbs and to Fruits common among them, but rare with vs. Befides, the Coaft doth abound with most conue- Commodious nient Hauens and Harbors, full of fingular Ilands fit for Plantation; replenished with Plants and Coaffe Wood of all forts; as Oake, Cedars, Spruce, Fir, Pyne, Walnut, Cheftnut, Elme, Sallarras, Piumtrees, and Calamus Aromaticus, &c. The people are tractable (if they be not abused) to commerce and Trade withall, and as yet have good respect of vs. The Seas are stored with all kindes of excellent Fish, and in many places upon the Coatt, fit to make Salt in. The Countrey aboundeth with divertitie of wilde Fowle, as Fowler Turkies, Partridges, Swans, Cranes, wild Geele of al forts, wild Ducks of clice forts, many Doues, especially when Strawberries are ripe. There are severall forts of Deere in those parts, and some that bring forth two, three, and source 60 young at once, which is a manifest proofe of the fertilitie of the Soile, or temper of the Clime, or both together. There is also a certaine Beaft, that the Natives call a Mofe, hee is as big bodied Deere. as an Oxe, headed like a fallow Deere, with a broad Palme, which hee mues every yeere, as doth The Moffe the Deere, and neck like a Red Deere, with a front Mane running downe along the Ranes of his detenbed. back, his haire long like an Elke, but esteemed to be better then that for Sadlers vie, he hath like-

New Patent thought on-

low Deere, his legs are long, and his feet as big as the feet of our Oxen, his taile is longer then the Single of a Deere, and reacheth almost downe to his Huxens, his skinne maketh very good Buffe. and his field is excellent good food, which the Natives vie to Ierkin and keepe all the veerero forue their turne, and to proces very ferusceable for their vie. There have beene many of them Mount Manfell feene in a great Hand vpon the Coatt, called by our people Mount Manfell, whither the Sauaces goe at certaine featons to hunt them; the manner whereof is by making of feuerall fires, and ferting the Countrey with people, to force them into the Sea, to which they are naturally addicted. How they take and then there are others that attend them in their Boates with Bowes and weapons of fenerall the Moffe or kindes, wherewith they flay and take at their pleafure. And there is hope that this kind of to Beatle may be made feruiceable for ordinary labour, with Art and Industry.

Muffe, Commodities.

The knowne Commodities of that Countrey are Fish of feuerall forts, rich Furres, as Beauers. Otters, Martins, blicke Fox, Sables, &c. There are likewife plentie of Vines, of three kinds, and those pleasant to the tatte, yet some better then other. There is Hempe, Flax, Silkgraffe, feuerall veines of Ironitone, commodities to make Pitch, Rofen, Tarre; Deale-boords of all forts, Spirs, Masts, for Ships of all burdens; in a word, there comes no commoditie out of France, Germany, or the Sound, but may be had there with reasonable labour and industry.

Seutrall Plantations along

Further, wee have fetled at this prefent feuerall Plantations along the Coast, and have granted Patents to many more that are in preparation to bee gone with all conveniencie. Those of cur people that are there have both health and plenty, fo as they acknowledge there is no want of 20 any thing, but of industrious people, to reape the commodities that are there to be had, and they are indeed to much affected to the place, as they are loth to bee drawne from thence, although they were directed to recurne to give fatisfaction to those that fent them, but chose rather to performe that office by Letters, together with there excuse for breach of their duty in that behalfe. And thus you fee there is no labour well imployed, but hath his reward at one time or other. These incouragements have imboldned vs to proceed to the ingaging of our selves for the building of some Ships of good burden, and extraordinary mould, to he vpon the Coast for the defence of Merchants and Fishermen that are in ployed there as also to Wast the Fleets, as they goe to and from their Markets : and wee purpose from henceforth to build our shipping there, where wee find all commodities fit for that feruice, together with the most opportune places that can 30

Laftly, finding that we have fo far forth prevailed, as to wind our felues into familiaritie with the Natiues (which are in no great number) along the Coast, for two hundred Leagues together, wee have now dispatched some of our people of purpose, to dyne into the bowels of the Continent, there to search and finde out what Port, or Place, is most convenient to fertle our mayne Plantation in , where wee meane to make the Residencie of our State and Gouernment, as alio to bee affured what other commodities may bee rayfed for the publike, and private benefit of those that are dealers in that businesse, and willing to bee interessed in any the Lands there : Whither is gone this yeere already, for Trade and Fishing onely, thirtie Saile of the better fort of Ships belonging to the Westerne parts, besides those who are gone for trans-40 portation of the Planters, or supply of such as are already planted, whose returne (as is suppofed) will amount (at the least) to thirty thousand pound, the greater part whereof comes home in Bullion. And therefore as towching the third happinesse of these parts, which is the Sea, there needeth no other greater commendation, then this benefit of Fishing affured vnto vs by common Experience; although it affords many other hopes, both in regard of the facilitie of the Nauigation, the boldnesse of the Coast, the convenience of Roades, Havens and Harbors, for performance of all manner of imployments ; yet is there also found Showes of Pearle, Ambergreece, great numbers of Whales, and other merchantable meanes to raise profit to the industrious Inhabitants or diligent Traders.

Thirtie faile

CHAP. II.

The Voyage of M. HENRY CHALLONS intended for the North Plantation of Virginia, 1606. taken by the may, and ill wfed by Spaniards: written by Iohn Stoneman Pilot.

N Tuefday the twelfth of August, 1606. M. Henry Challans Gentleman set forth from Plimonth, in our fmall Ship of the burthen of fiftie fine Tunnes or there- 60 about, called the Richard of Plimonth. Wherein went twentie nine Englishmen, and two of the fine Sauages (whole names were Mannido and Affacomon) which were brought into England the yeere before out of the North parts of Unginia, from our goodly River by him thrice discovered, called of 42, derees, 20, minutes were imployed for a farther discouery of these Coasts: And if any good occation were offered, to leave as many men as wee could spare in the Country. Being victualled for eleven or twelve moneths, at the charges of the Honourable Sir John Popham Knight, Lord chiefe Lustice of England, Sir Fardinando Gorges Knight, Captaine of the Fort of Plimonth . together with divers other worthipfull Knights, Gentlemen and Merchants of the West Countrye: John Stoneman of Plimouth being Pilot, who had beene in the forefaid parts of Virginia the veere before, with George Waymouth: The Maftets name was Nicholas Hine of Cockington, neere Dartmouth:

The last day of August wee fell with the He of Madera, where we watered and refreshed our Madera, felues, and frayed three dayes, being very kindly vied by the Inhabitants. The third day of September wee departed from thence, palling betweene Gomora and Palma, two of the Canary Iles, and from thence were driven by contrary winds, to take a more Southerly course then we intended, and to from more then fixe weekes before wee could recover any of the Ant-Iles. The first that wee could recover, was the Ile of Saint Lucia, in the Latitude of 14, degrees, 20. minutes, Saint Lucia, where we refreshed our selves with Wood and Water, And faw certaine of the Saugees there.about fortie or fiftie, came vnto vs at our Ship in one of their Cannoas, bringing vnto vs Tobacco, Potatos, Plantins, and Caffans Bread, the which Sauages had flaine more then fortie of our Nati- Fortie English on, the yeere before 1605, as after wee understood by Philip Glafes, and Miles Pett, being flaine by Sauatwo of Captaine Nicholas, Saint Johns company, which was there treacherously flaine a-

20 mong the reft.

Having stayed heare three dayes, about the two and twentieth of October we departed thence to the Northward. And in passing by the Ile of Dominica, wee chanced to see a white Flag put Dominica forth on the shoare, whereat maruelling, wee supposed that some Christians had sustained shipwrack their. And forthwith a Cannoa came off from the shoare towards vs., which when they came neere, being very little wind, we layed our Ship by the lee and flayed for them a little, and when they were come within a little diffance of the Ship, wee perceived in the Cannoa a Friar, who cried aloud in the Latine tong e, faying, I befeech, as you are Christians, for Christ his Friar Blofus fake to thew fome mercy and compatition on mee, I am a Preacher of the Word of God, a Friar of his request, the Order of Franciscus in Smill, by name Friar Blasius. And that hee had beene there fixteene moneths a Slaue vinto thole Sauages; and that other two Friars which were of his company they had murthered and throwne into the Sea. We demanded of him then, how he got fo much fauour to preferve his life his Brethren being murthered : Hee answered, because hee did shew the Saua-

ges how to fit them Sayles for their Cannoas, and to to eafe them of much labour often in rowing. which greatly pleafed the Sauges as appeared, for wee faw them to vie fayles in their Cannois. which hath not beene feene before.

Then we demanded of him where they had this Linnen Cloth to make those Sayles ; hee anfwered. That about two yeeres before that, three Gallions comming to the West Indies were cast away on the Ile of Gwadalopa, where abundance of Linnen Cloth and other Merchandife was caft luga. on shoare. We demanded farther, what was the cause of his being in this place, and how he came thither: he answered, That the King of Spaine did every yeere, fend out of every great Monastery certaine Friars into the remote parts of the Indies, both to fecke to convert the Sauges . as also to feeke out what benefits or commodities might be had in those parts, and also of what force the Gansesof veet-Sauages were of, and what number of them were in the feuen Ant-Iles, viz. Saint Vincent Grana- ly fending of do, Saint Lucia, Mattalina, Dominica, Gwadaloga, Aifey. The which the faid Friat Blaleus faid Frist out of he had diligently noted and observed, and did hope to make perfect relation of such great bene. Spaine, fits and riches as was to be drawne from thence, as he doubted not but would bee greatly acceptted of his King, if hee might live to returne to declare it : For, faid hee, I have feene in one River discending from the Mountaines in the Ile of Dominica, the Sand to glitter like Gold or find Copper, whereupon I tooke some of it, and chewed it betweene my teeth, and found it perfect Mettall, the Sauages noting me, began to have fome realousie of me, so as I durst not take any farther mica. to notice of it, neither would they fuffer him forward to come neere to that place. And farther hee faid, That if the great plentie of divers Fruits and Roots fit for mans fuffenance were pertectly knowne, together with the Sugar-canes that they have in those Iles, and the fertilitie of the foyle he thought it would be very shorely inhabited; and as for the number of Sauages there, as neere as we could understand, was scarce one thousand of all forts of men, women, and children in all the faid feuen Hes.

Now, being moved with pitrie at the lamentable complaint, and humble fuit of this distressed Friar, wee tooke him into our Ship, and fent away the Sauages much discontented. And from thence wee fayled to the lie of Saint John De-port-rice, where on the nine and twentieth of Octo- They land the 60 ber, wee arrived on the Southfide, and forthwith tent the Friar on shoare, and delivered him to two Heardimen, which most thankfully received him, and of their courteste brought vs a fat Cow. and proferred vs more with Hogs, Calues, or any thing elfe that they could procure vs in recompence of the good dred done to the Friar.

Wee departed from thence, and fayled out betweene the Iles of Saint Iohn De-portrico; and the ftorie, fur.

Historica standing away to the Northward, And leaving the great shoulds called Abricio, on our Larboord fide, being in the Latitude of 21, and 22, degrees, from thence Westward, our course North North-weft, and North-weft and by North, vatall wee were in the Latitude of 27. degrees or better, and about one hundred and eightie leagues from Saint lohn de Port Rice.

In this place having had a very great storme of Wind and Raine continuing fiftie fixe houres and more before on the tenth day of Nouember, about ten of the clocke in the morning, fuddenly we found our felues in the middeft of a Fleet of eight Sayle of thips in a very thicke fogge of happy hap fall mift and raine, fo as we could not fee them before they were very neere, and within shot of them. among Spa- wherein three of them were on the wind-ward of vs, on a third and fourth more to lee-ward: those at the wind-ward came rome vnto vs, and shot at vs , requiring vs to speake with their IC Admirall. When we law that by no meanes we could avoid them, but that they would meake with vs. we out abroad our Colours, and went toward the Admirall, before wee came vnto him. he likewite ffrooke downe our Sayle, and came under his lee, demaning his pleafure: the other thip which first that vs, all our Sayles being downe, and that our mayne Sayle in pieces lying on the Decke. And forthwith the Admirall came on board of vs , with two and twentie men in their

They are bor-

ded, taken and thus Boate with Rapiers, Swords, and halfe-pikes. We being all in peace flood readie to entertayine them in peace. But affoone as they were entred on boord of vs, they did most cruelly beate vs all, and wounded two of our Company in the heads with their Swords, not paring our 20 Captayne nor any. Also they wounded Affacomort, one of the Sauages aforesaid, most cruelly in feuerall places in the bodie, and thruth quite through the arme, the poore creature creeping voder a Cabbin for feare of their rigour : and as they thrust at him, wounding him, he cried still. King lames, King lames, King lames his ship, King lames his ship. Thus having beaten weall downe vnder the Deckes, prefently they beat vs vp againe, and thrust vs ouer-boord into their Boate, and so sent vs on boord of the Admirall ship. Neither would they suffer any of vs to speake a word, to shew the cause of our passing the Seas in these parts. Neyther regarded they any thing. our Commission which the Captayne held forth vnto them in his hand a vntill that the Admirall with the Company of foure other of the ships, had rifled fooyled, and delivered all the Merchandize and goods of the ship among them : which beeing done, they also divided us beeing thirtie persons in all into the said five ships, by seven, six, sine, and soure to a ship.

King Tames his refpe aed by Spaniards.

> Three of the former eight Sayle made Sayle away, and neuer came neere vs, neither were partakers of our spoyle. Then they also repayred our Maine Sayle which was torne with the shot aforefaid, and put their men into her. And after because they could not make her to sayle well. they tooke two of our men, and put into her to helpe them, the other fine ships and our ship kept company two or three dayes together. After this they feparated themselves either from other, not through any tempest or storme, but through wilfull negligence or simple Ignorance, by shaping contrary courfes the one from the other. So as not two of them kept company together. My selfe and fixe more of our company in the Vice-Admirall (of the burthen of one hundred and eightie tunnes; called the Peer of Simil, the Captaynes name was Andrew Burber) being a 40 lone, and having loft the company of the Fleet, continued our course wntill the middle of December : at which time being about twentie leagues off from the He of Santa Maria, one of the Iles of the Azares, the Vice-Admiral and the whole company dilliving the great Ignorance of the Pilot, because he had told them ten dayes before that he was very neere the Hands, and had waited all this time, and could find any of them, entreated me very earnestly to shew my skill. And the Pilot himselse brought mee his Inftruments , and besought mee most earnestly to affift him , and to appeare the company. Whereunto by there much importunitie I yeelded, And by Gods affistance on Christmasse Eeue, after our English account, I brought them fafe to the Barre of Saint Lucas , being the first thip of the whole Fleet that arrived there.

French cour-

One of the ships of this Fleet, by the great Ignorance of the Spanifo Masters, Pilots, and Ma- 50 riners was driven beyond all the Coast of Spane, into Burdeaux in Gascorne, In which shippe the Officersof the Admiraltie of France, finding foure of our Englithmen prisoners vader the Deckes in hold; to wit, Master Daniell Tucker, who was our Cape Merchant, Pierce Gliddon and two others , did very friendly set them at libertie ; and the said Daniel Tucker prefently arrested the Spanifo ship and goods beeing of great value, which of long time remayneth under arreft.

The good Duke of Medina hearing of the arrivall of certaine English prisoners taken here, the Coast of the West Indies, Ent command to the Captaynes of the Spanish ships, to bring four of the chiefest to be brought before him. Whereupon my felfe, Master Thomas Saint Iohn, Iohn Walrond our Steward, and William Stone our Carpenter were brought before him. The ship wherein 62

Mafter Challous was, was not yet come. Master Danid Neull an Englishman dwelling in Saint Lucas, was appointed our Interpretor. And then the Duke required me vpon my oath to yeeld a true and faithfull answere, according to the whole state and manner of our Voyage and proceedings, which I did, according to the former Relation afore written, wherevoon his Excellencie seplyed vinto the Spanil Captaynes which had brought we laying, it this bee true which this Englishman affirmeth, you have greatly wronged these men. And to commanded them to provide meate, drinke, and at ledging for vs. and to bring vs againe the next day before him. They fent vs nevertheleffe to Simil, where wee were troughe to a Duichmans house, called Signier Petre, where we were real onably lodged and entertayned that night .

Thomese morning being New yeeres day we were brought before the Prefident of Smill, at Their impris the Contractation, who hearing of our comming, and not vouchfaing to speake with vs, few somment, foure Quivers to vs. and cast vs into Priton. Where for the space of fine dayes were had publike allowance, but fuch as poore men which were there Prifoners, also did of their mereie bestow on 10 vs:Atlength after many humble Sutes; and earnest Petitions excibited to the President, we had a Rigibot Plate allowed to each man a day, which is fixe pence English, which by reason of the dearshof all forts of wieduall in those parts, will not goe fo far as three pence in England.

. And foat feuerall times, within one moneth after elegen more of our Company were committeiden Priton, as they came home, whereof our Captaine was one. Notwithstanding that the good Duke of Medna had diffcharged both him and all those of his Company, which came into Spaine with him, and willed him to goe home to the Court of England, byto the Court of Spaine-where he thought to have best reliefe for his poore imprisoned Company. Whereupon Niebotas Hime our Matter, and two more of our men wifely foreleging what was like to bee the Hine, made haite away out of the Citie, and to got passage and escaped into England.

30 Before the comming of our Captaine to Similary felte and eleven more of my Company were examined before the President of the Contractation ; who finding no suft cause of offence in vs. did office earneftly examine me of the manner and tituation of the Countrie of Virginia, topether word the Commodities and benefit thereof. And after the comming of our Captaine, they likewite examined him to the fame purpole. We answered both to one purpole, according to our Commission in writing, which the Spaniards at our taking at Sea, had preferred and delivered up unto the hands of the President. Within few dayes after, they gave our Captaine and Master Thomas, Saint John, libertie of mayne Prison, upon the securitie of two English Merchants, which were Matter William Rapier, and Mafter John Pecketord, whereof the later is dwelling and maried in Stant. The rest of the Company being one and twentie in Prison, continued still in miserable 30 eftere. An sabout two moneths after, Robert Cooke of London one of our Company fell fick of a Floxe, whereof he languished three moneths and more, and by no meanes that wee could make could get him forth to bee cured, although wee frent more then fixtie Rials in Supplicates and Sines to get him out. At length being dead, they cauled his bodie to bee drawne up and downe the Priton by the heeles, naked, in most contemptible manner, crying, Behold the Latheran, as fue of here of our Company beeing then in Prifon beheld : and fo laid him under the Conduit, and Cruell imme powred water into his dead bodie. This done, they cut off his Eares, Nofe and Members, as the nicie, Spaniar ar themselves confessed vinto vs, and so conveyed his bodie wee could never learne when ther, although we profered them money to have his dead corps to burie it.

Shortly after Nathaniel Humfrie our Boatswaine was stabbed into the belly with a Knife by 40 a Spaniard, which was a flue in the Prifon, and fourteene dayes after dyed, who beging dead I went vnto the Keeper of the Prison, defiring to buy his dead bodie to burie it, and fo for twenty Rials I bought his bodie, and buried it in the field. Then we befought the Prefident for Juffice on this flaue which had flaine our Boatfwaine : he demanded what we would have of the flaue. And we requested, that as he had flaine an honest and worthy man of ours causelesse, that hee mighe die for it according to the Law. The Prefident answered no, but if we would have him condemned for two or three yeares more to the Gallies he should. For find hee, The King of Spaine will Spaint Prefinot gine the life of the worst Slane that be bath, for the best Subject the King of England bath , and io dents respect fent vs away with this answere. Whereupon being out of all hope of Inflice with the President, we repaired vnto the Regent being an Ecolofiafticall man, one of the chiefest ludges of the Citie, dei ring likwife Iustice on the Mortherer aforefaid : who in kind tearmes promifed vs Iustice, nierds, and so willed vs to retaine countell and Atturnies to profecute our Sute; which weedid accordingly, and foafter two moneths Sute, and the cost of more then two hundred Rials on Lawyers, therwife we had never obtained. And now I may not omit to thew how I got the libertie to have the fcope of the Citie for my Race to come, and go. Having beene three moneths in close Prifon with our poore company as aforeiaid. At length I gor the fauour of two Englishmen inhabiting in Simil named Constantine Collins, and Henry Roberts who did ingage themselves for me. The Spaniards were very defirous to have me to ferue their State, and proffered me great wages, which I refuted to doe, affirming. 60 that this imployment which I had in hand, was not yet ended untill which time I would not determine any. Then the Alcadie major of the Contra Ctation House and diners others Merchants perswaded me to make them tome descriptions and Maps of the Coast and parts of Virginia, which I also refused to doe. They being discontent with me, fent mee againe to Prison, where I continued 000000

Scribes and other Officers at length we had him hanged by the fanour of the Regent, which o-

es. 30 as we began amon to despant of melling in Simil, named Hanfe Elosse, sent vitto mee to focake with me, which when I came vato him, fignified vato me what he had learned of one of the Indiges of the Contractation: who told him as he reported vato me, that the Spaniards had or the runges of the Contract of there, because they understood that I had been a former Difcoa great nate white me about an other state of the savages; and that they thought it was uprer in Fireinsa, at the bringing into England of the Savages; and that they thought it was is by my infligation to perferale our State to inhabit those parts. And because they had received to imall knowledge of those parts by my confession; and that they could not perswade mee to ferue that Scate, neither would make them any note draught, or descriptions of the Countrie. They resolved to bring to the Racke and torment me, whereby to draw some further knowledge by cont. fion from me, before any discharge might come for vs. The which this honest Merchant confidering, and the Innocencie of our case, gaue me to vnderstand. And wished mee rather to flie and preferre my felfe, then to fland to their mercie on the Racke, I hearing this the next morning, being the three and ewentieth of October, fuddenly fled from Simil, and with me Mafter Thomas Saint John aforelaid, and one other of our Company named James Stoneman my Brother, whom through great coft and charges bestowed on the Keepers of the Prilon a little before I had got forth to bee cured of a Callenture. Thus wee fled from Simil, leaving Mafter Henry Challons our Captaine at libertie vpon fureties, and fixteene more of our Company in close Prifon. From thence on the fine and twentieth of October, wee came to a Mount in the Cundade, where finding no passage by any shipping into England, France or Flanders. Wee travelled through Alemnie, to the Port of Seinnall, and finding no passage there, wee travelled to Lesbone in Portugall. Where wee arrived the one and thirtieth of October, and there found thips reache bound to goe to England, but the wind was contrary for fourteene dayes.

At the time of our abode at L. Bone, wee vinderstood that three Carrickes were come from the East Indies: whereof one was arrived fately at Liftone tenne dayes before our comming this ther. Another was drinen to leeward, and put in Vergo, as wee heard. The third Carracke 20 beeing at the Ile of Tercera, was to leake that they could not bring her home into Portugal, but valoaded her into three of the King of Spaines great Armadoes, to bring the goods more fafely to Lilbone. Which Ships at there comming before the mouth of the River of Libone in the night within three dayes after my comming thither, were all cast away on cercame shouldes there called Ofcacbopos, or as wee commonly call them the Cascbops, where of nine hundred men, as the Portugalli reported, but only third feuen were faued, and of the goods very little at all : because the said ships being cast away on the ebbe. The goods were driven off into the Sea, the dead bodies of many that were drowned, I my felfe faw call on the shore with the fundry wrackes of the parts of the Ships Mails and Yards, with other wracke of Caske, Chifts, and fach like in great abundance.

The fourteenth day of November the winde being faire, wee tooke passige from Lisbone in a Small Barke belonging to Bidiford, called the Mager, and on the foure and twentieth of the Same we were landed at Saint lues in Cornwall, and from thence I hasted to Plimmenib, where Ishewed vnto Sir Ferdinando Gorges and divers others the Adventurers, the whole Discourse of our vnhappie Voyage together with the mileries that wee had, and did indure vnder the Spanie ards hands. And then hatted with all the speed I could toward the Court of England, where I was affured to my great comfort; that they either were alreadie, or very facitly should bee

Before my departure from Simil, I should have remembred, that about Whitsonide last deliuered. there were brought into the Prilon of the Contractation there, two youngmen brought out of 50 the West Indies, in one of the Kings Gallions, which were of Captaine lobn Legats company of Plummouth, which departed out of England, about the latter end of July 1606. bound for the River of Amazons, as hee told me before his going forth, where hee had beene two years before. And comming on the Coatt of Brafillas thole young men (the name of one of them is knew nowhen 14: Illiam Adams horne in Plimpton n:ere Pl.mmonth) reported vnto mee whether falling to the they haddone leeward of the River of Amazons, or decined by his Matter they knew not. And not being able to being ham to bring home to recourt the faild River, were confit ayned to refresh in the West Indes, in which time there mer inip, and fell a great diforder betweene the fail Captaine Legar and his company, to as one of his company, Spanife tufti in a broyle within themselves aboard there ship, ilue the faid Captaine Legat, whether in his owne private quarrell or with the confent of the reit of the Company, they could not tell mee. 62 But this is the more to bee tuspected for that he alwayes in former Voyages deale very straidy much com-mended to a with his company. After his death his company comming to the lle of Pmes, on the Southfide mendedtor a proper and exproper an

two and twentie dayes, and then I making meanes onto my good friends borrowed money, and fo save divers bribes vnto the keepers of the Prison, whereupon they gave mee libertie to goe a. broad againe into the Citie at my pleasure. And wayting energy day for some order from the Court of Spaine of our discharge, there came none but delayes and prolonging of our troubles and miferies. So as we began almost to despaire of libertie.

eighteene persons, fourteene were hanged the other foure being youths were saued to serue the Spaniards, whereof, two of them, refuting to ferue longer in there thips, were put into the Prifon at Sinil, the other two remayne still as shues to the Spaniards. This I had the rather noted to the end, that it may be the better confidered what numbers of thins and men have gone out of England, fince the conclusion of peace betweene England and Spaine, in the way of honest Trade and Traffique, and how many of them have miserably misearried. Having beene flaine, drowned, hanged or pittifully captiated, and thrust out of their ships and all their goods.

10 R Ender, I had by me the Voyage of Captaine Thomas Hanham, (written by himfelfe) unto Saga-dahoc: also the written lownals of Master Raleigh Gilbert which stayed and fortified there in that vn [easonable Winter (fit to freeze the heart of a Plantation) of James Davies, John Eliot, Gre. but our voluminousnesse makes me afraid of offending nicer and queasier stamackes : for which cause I bane omitted them , even after I had with great labour futed them to the Preffe: at I bane also done s written large Tractate of Mawauthen, and the Voyage of Master Edward Harlie fone of the first Planters with (ap. Pophara) and Nicholas Hobson to those parts 16x 1. with diners Letters from Cap. Popliam and others, You must observe, that it was in those times called by the name of Virginia, and the Northerne Plantation or Colonie. But Captaine Smith (a man which bath fo many Irons in our fire) presented a Booke of the Countrie to Prince Charles bis Highnesse, with a Map of the Country, 20 who filed it (as our hopes are , be will one day make it) New England, and altered the Sauage names of places to English. Hee made one Voyage thisber, Anno 1614, and the next yeare beganne another. which taken by Frenchmen, he was not able to make up: but in testimonie of his lone to his Countres bere, and of his hopes there bath wruten diners Bookes, One called A Description of New Eng. land (in which his faid Doyages are described, with the description of the Country and many Arenments to incite men to that undertaking; which I had also prepared for the Presse, but for the former feares have omitted) the other called New Englands Trials twice or thrice printed, out of which I base added thus much, that the World may fee the benefit to bee made by filbing, and may also be better acquainted with the successe and succession of New Englands Affaires.

CHAP. III.

Extracts of a Booke of Captaine IOHN SMITH, printed 1622. called New Englands tryalls, and continuing the Storie thereof, with Motines to the businesse of fishing there.

> The benefit of filhing, as Master Dee reporteth in his Brittish Menarchie.

E faith that it is more then foure and fortie yeeres agos, and it is more then for its yeeres fince he writtin, that the Herrine Buffee power faith. the King of Spaine, were five hundred, befides one hundred Frenchmen , and three or foure hundred Sayle of Flemmings. The Coalts of Wales and Lancalbire was vied by three hundred Sayle of ftrangers.

Ireland and Baltemore fraugted yeerly three hundred Sayle of Spaniards, where King Edward the Sixt intended to have made a firong Caftle, because of the Strait, to have Tribute for filling.

Blacke Rock was yeerely filled by three or foure hundred Sayle of Spaniards, Portugals, and 50 Biskiners.

Master Geneleman, and many Fisher-men and Fish-mongers, with whom I baue conferred, report, The Hallanders raise yeerely by Herring, Cod, and Ling, 3000000, pounds.

English and French by Salt-fish, Poore John, Salmons, and Pilchards, 200000. pounds. Hamborough and the Sound, for Sturgion, Lobilers and Eeles, 100000, pounds.

Cape Blanke for Tunny and Mullir, by the Biskiners and Spaniards, 30000. pounds.

But diners other learned experienced Observers say, though it may seeme incredible, That the Duke of Medica receive th yeerely tribute of the Fishers for Tunny, Mullit and Purgos, more then

Luber's hath fenen hundred Ships : Hamborough fix hundred : Embden lately a Fisher Towne. one thousand source hundred, whose Customes by the profit of fishing liath made them so power-

Holland and Zealand, not much greater then Torkefbire , hath thirtie walled Townes , fourt O000000 2

Cap. John Le. gat of Plimmouth. Murine? Cap. Legat flaine by his

Three thips

cers. Ihrue

hundred Villages, 20000 faile of Ships and Hoyes; thirtie fixe thousand are Fisher-men, whereof one hundred are Doggers, seuen hundred Pinkes and Wel-boates, seuen hundred Frand Boates. Britters and Tode-boats, with one thousand three hundred Busses, betides three hundred that veerely filh about Tarmenth, where they fell their Fish for Gold; and fifteene yeeres 2go they had more then $16000. Sea-faring men.

The fishing thippes doe take yeerely two hundred thousand Last of fish, twelue barrels to a Last, which amounted to 3000000. pounds by the Fishermens price, that fourteene yeeres 2200 did nay for their Tenths 300000. pound; which venting in Pumerland, Spruffia, Denmarke, Lefland, Russia, Smetbland, Germany, Netberlands, England, or elie-where, &c. make their returnes in a yeere about 700000, pounds; and yet in Holland they have neither matter to build ships. 10 nor Merchandize to let them forth; yet by their industrie they as much increase, as other Nations decay. But leaving these vncertainties as they are, of this I am certaine :

That the Coast of England, Scotland, and Ireland, the North Sea, with Ireland and the Sound. New-foundaland, and Cape Blanke, doe ferue all Europe, as well the Land Townes as Ports, and all the Christian shipping, with these forts of Staple fish which is transported, from whence it is taken, many a thouland mile, viz. Herring, Salt-fish, Poore-John, Sturgion, Mullit, Tunny, Porgos, Cautare, Buttargo.

Now feeing all these forts of fish, or the most part of them, may be had in a Land more fertile, temperate, and plentifull of all necessaries for the building of ships, Boates, and houses, and the nourishment of man; the Seasons are so proper, and the fishings to neere the habitations, we 20 may there make, that New Eugland nath much advantage of the most of those parts, to serve all Emope far cheaper then they can, who at home have neither Wood, Salt, nor Food, but at great rates; at Sea nothing but what they carrie in their ships, an hundred or two hundred leagues from

But New Englands filhings is neere land, where is helpe of Wood, Warer, Fruites, Fowles, Corne, or other refreshings needfull; and the Torcoras, Mederas, Canaries, Spaine, Portugall, Pronance, Sanoy, Sicilia, and all Italy, as convenient Markets for our dry fish, greene fish, Sturgion, Mullit, Causare, and Buttargo, as Norman, Sweebland, Littmania, or Germany, for their Herring, which is here also in abundance for taking; they returning but Wood, Pitch, Tarre, Sope-ashes, Cordage, Flaxe, Waxe, and fuch like Commodities: we, Wines, Oyles, Sugars, Silkes, and fuch Merchandize as the Straits affoord, whereby our profit may equalize theirs; betides the increase of shipping and Mariners. And for proofe hereof:

With two ships sent out at the charge of Captaine Marmaduke Roydon, Captaine George Lanoum, Mafter John Buley and W. Skelton, I went from the Downes the third or March, and arrived in New England the last of April, where I was to have stayed but with ten men to keepe possile fion of those large Territories, Had the Whales proued, as curious information had affured mee and my Aduentures, (but these things failed.) So having but fortie five men and boyes, we built seuen Boates, thatte leuen did fish; my felle with eight others ranging the Coast, I tookea plot of what I could fer, got acquaintance of the Inhabitants; 1100. Beuer skinnes, a hundred Martines, and as many Otters. Fortie thousand of dry fish wee fent for Spaine, with the Salt-fish, 40 traine Oyle and Furres, I returned for England the eighteenth of July, and arrived fafe with my Company the latter end of August. Thus in fixe moneths I made my Voyage out and home; and by the labour of fine and tortie, got neere the value of fifteene hundred pounds in those grole Commodities. This yeere also one went from Plimmouth, set out by divers of the Ile of Wight, and the West Countrie, by the directions and instructions of Sir Ferdinando Gorge, Spent their victuals, and returned with nothing.

The Virginia Company vpon this fent foure good ships; and because I would not undertake it Proofe 2, 1615. The Virginia Company vpon this sent route good maps; and because two dates the men that for them, having ingaged my felfer to them of the West, the Londoners entertained the men that came home with me. They fet sayle in Ianuary, and arrived there in March; they found fish enough vntill halfe Iune, fraughted a thip of three hundred tunnes, went for Spane, which was 50 taken by the Turker; one went to Virginia to relieue that Colonie, and two came for England with the greene filh, traine Oyle and Furres within fix moneths.

In Ianuary with two hundred pounds in cash for aduenture, and six Gentlemen well furnished, I went from London to the foure Ships was promifed, prepared for mee in the West Country, but I found no fuch matter; notwithftanding at the last, with a labyrinth of trouble I went from Plumeth, with a Ship of two hundred Tunnes, and one of fiftie : when the filhing was done onely with fifceene I was to flay in the Countrey ; but ill weather breaking all my Masts, I was forced to returne to Plimoth, where rather then lofe all, reimbarking my felfe in a Barke of fixer Tuns, how I escaped the English Pyrats and the French, and was betrayed by foure Frenchmen of War, I refer you to the description of New England : but my Vice-Admirall, not withit anding the late- 63 neffe of the yeere, fetting forth with me in March, the Londoners in Ianuary, shee arrived in May, they in March, yet came home well fraught in August, and all her men well, within five moneths, odde dayes.

Profe 4: 1616. The Landoners ere I returned from France, for all their loffe by the Turkes, which was valued about foure thousand pounds sent two more in July; but such courses they tooke by the Canaries to the West Indies, it was ten moneths ere they arrived in New England, wasting in that time their featons, victuall, and health, yet there they found meanes to refreth themselves, and the one returned neere fraught with Fish and Traine, within two moneths after.

From Plime b went foure Ships, onely to Fifth and Trade, fome in February, fome in March, Proofe 5. 1616. one of two hundred Tuns got thither in a moneth, and went full traught for Spane, the reft returned to Plimoth well fraught, and their men well, within five moneths, odde dayes.

From London went two more, one of two hundred Tuns, got thither in fixe weekes, and Proofe 6, 1616. within fixe weekes after, with fortie foure men and boyes was full fraught, and returned agains to into England within five moneths and a few dayes; the other went to the Canaries with dry fifth, which they fold at a great rate, for Rials of eight, and as I heard turned Pyrats,

I being at Plimoth provided with three good Ships, yet but fifteene men to flav with me in the Profe 7, 1617. Countrey, was Wind-bound three moneths, as was many a hundred faile more, fo that the feafon being past, the Ships went for New-found-land, whereby my deligne was frustrate, which was to me and my friends no small loste, in regard whereof here the Westerne Commissioners, in the behalte of themselues and the rest of the Company, contracted with me by Articles indented vider our hands, to be Admirall of that Country during my life, and in the renewing of their Letters Patents to to be nominated, halfe the fruites of our endeuours theirs, the reft our owne : being thus ingaged; now the bufinelle doth profper, fome of them would willingly forget mee; 20 but I am not the first they have deceived.

There was foure good Ships prepared at Plimoth, but by resfon of their delagreement, the fea- Proofe 8, 1618; fon to waited as onely two went forward, the one being of two hundred Tunnes, returned well fraught for Plumith, and her men in health, within five moneths; the other of eightie Tuns, went for Bilbow with dry fish, and made a good returne. In this voyage Edward Roweroft, alias Stallings, a valiant Souldier, that had beene with mee in Virginia, and feven yeeres after went with mee from Plimoth towardes New England, with Thomas Darmer, an understanding and an industrious Gentleman to inhabite it; all whose names, with our proceedings, you may read at large in my description of New England, upon triall before the Judge of the Admiraltie, how when weehad pail the worlt, for pure cowardile the Mailer and Sailer ran away with the Ship and all I had and 40 left mee alone among eight or nine Frenchmen of War , in the veere 1614. This Stallings went now againe in those Ships, and having some wrong offered him in New England by a Frenchman, he tooke him, and as he writ to mee, he went with her to Virginia with fifth, to trade with them for such commodities as they might spare ; hee knew both these Countries well, yet hee promiled mee the next Spring to meete mee in New England; but the Ship and he perished in

This yeere againe, divers Ships intending to goe from Plimoth, fo difagreed, as there went but Proofe 9, 1619; one of two hundred Tunnes, who flayed in the Countrey about fix weekes, with thirtie eight men and boyes, had her fraught, which thee fold at the first peny, for two thousand one hundred pounds, befiles the Furs : fo that every poore Sayler, that had but a fingle share, had his charges. and fixteene pound ten shillings, for his leuen moneths worke. M. Thomas Darmer, having lived about a yeere in New-found-land, returning to Plimath, went for New England in this Ship, and not onely confirmes what I have writ, but so much more approved of it, that he stayed there with five or fix men in a little Boat : finding two or three Frenchmen among the Sauges, who had loft their Ship, augmented his company, with whom hee ranged the Coast to Virginia, where he was kindly welcommed and well refreshed; thence returned to New England againe, where hauing beene a yeere, in his backe returne to Uinginia, he was so wounded by the Sauages, hee dyed vpon it, them escaped were relieved at Virginia. Let not men attribute their great adventures and vntimely deaths to vnfortunatenelle, but rather wonder how God did folong preferue them, with to small meanes to doe so much, leaving the fruites of their labours, to bee an encouragement to 50 those our poore undertakings; and this for advantage as they writ unto mee, that God had laid this Countrey open for vs , and flaine the most part of the Inhabitants by cruell Wars and a mortall difeate; for where I had feene one hundred or two hundred people, there is fearee ten to bee found. From Pembrocks Bay, to Harrintons Bay, there is not twentie; from thence to Cape Anne, some thirtie; from Taulbuts Bay to the River Charles, about fortie, and not any of them touched with any ticknesse, but one poore Frenchman that dyed.

For to make triall this yeere, there is gone fixe or feuen fayle from the West Countrey, onely Profeso. 1620 to fish, three of whom are returned, and as I was certainly informed, made so good a voyage, that euery Sayler for a fingle share had twentie pounds for his seuen moneths worke, which is more then in twentie months hee should have gotten, had he gone for wages any where. Now, though 60 all the former Ships have not made fuch good voyages, as they expected, by fending opinionated vnskiltull men, that had not experienced diligence to faue that they tooke, nor take that there was; which now patience and practife hath brought to a reasonable kinde of perfection : in defpite of all detract irs and calumniations, the Country yet hath fatisfied all, the defect hath bin in their ving or abating it, not in it felfe nor mee.

O 0 0 0 0 0 0 3

1829

A Plantation in New Eng-Presfe 11. 1610

TPon these inducements, some few well disposed Gentlemen and Merchants of London and V other places prouided two Ships, the one of one hundred and fixtie Tuns, the other of feuentie; they left the Coast of England the three and twentieth of August, with about one hundred and twentie persons, but the next day the leffer Ship fprung a leake, that forced their returne to Plimouth , where discharging her and twentie Passengers, with the great Ship, and a hundred persons beliefes Sailers, they set faile againe the fixth of September, and the ninth of November fell with Cape lamer; but being pettred nine weekes in this leaking vnwholfome Ship, lying wet in their Cabbins, most of them grew very weake and weary of the Sea, then for want of experience ranging to and againe fixe weekes before they found a place they liked to dwell on, forced to lie on the bare ground without couerture in the extremitie of Winter, fortie of them dyed, to and fixtie were left in very weake estate at the Ships comming away, about the fifth of April following, and arrived in England the fixth of May.

Pro:fe 12 . 16:0

Immediately after her arrivall from London , they fent another of fiftie five Tuns to supply them, with thirtie feuen persons, they set saile in the beginning of July, but being crossed by Westerly winds, it was the end of August ere they could passe Plimouth, and arrived at New Plimouth in New England the eleventh of November , where they found all the reople they left in April, as is faid, lufty and in good health, except fix that dyed. Within a moneth they returned here for England, laded with Clapboord, Wainscot, and Walnut, with about three Hogsheads of Beauer skins, and some Saxefras, the thirteenth of December, and drawing neere our Coast, was taken by a Frenchman, fet out by the Marquis of Cera Gouernour of Ile Den, on the Coaft of 20 Portou, where they kept the Ship, impriloned the Master and Companie, tooke from them to the value of about fine hundred pounds; and after fourteene dayes lent them home with a poore supply of Victuall, their owne being denoured by the Mai quis and his hungry fernants; they arrived at London the fourteenth of Februarie, leaving all them they found and carried to New England, well and in health, with victuall and Corne sufficient till the next Haruest.

The Copie of a Letter fent by this Ship.

A Letter from New Plimath.

T Ouine Cousin, at our arrivall at New Plimoth in New England, wee found all our Friends and 30 Planters in good health, though they were left sicke and weake with very small meanes, the Indians round about us peaceable and friendly, the Country very pleasant and temperate, yeelding naturally of it selfe great store of fruits, as Umes of diners forts in great abundance; there is likewise Walnuts, Chefnuts, Small-nuts and Plums, with much varietie of Flowers, Roots, and Hearbs, no leffe pleafant then wholfome and profitable : no place bath more Goofe-berries, and Straw-berries, nor better ; Timber of all forts you have in England, doth coner the Land, that affords Beafts of diners forts, and great flockes of Turkies, Quailes, Pizeons and Partridges: Many great Lakes abounding with Fish, Fowle, Beauers, and Otters. The Sea affoords vs as great vientie of all excellent forts of Sea-fish, as the Rivers and Iles daib varietie of wild Fowle of most verfull forts. Mynes we find to cur thinking, but neither the goodnesse mor qualitie wee know. Better Graine cannot be then the Indian Corne, if we will plant it upon as good ground 40 as a man need defire, wee are all Free-bolders, the rent day doth not trouble vs, and all those good bleffings we bane, of which and what wee list in their feafons for taking. Our company are for most part very religious honest people; the Word of God sincerely taught us every Sabbath : so that I know not any thing a contented mind can here want. I defire your friendly care to fend my Wife and Children is mee, where I wish all the Friends I have in England, and fo I rest

Your louing Kinsman William Hilton.

From the West Countrey went ten or twelve Ships to Fish, which were all well fraughted ; those that came first at Bilbow, made seuenteene pounds a single share, besiles Beauer, Otters, and Martins skins ; but some of the rest that came to the same Ports, that were already furnished, so glutted the Market, their price was abated, yet all returned fo well contented, they are a preparing to goe againe.

For this yeare

There is gone from the West of England one y to fish, thirtie five Ships, and about the last of April two more from London, the one of one hundred Tuns, the other of thirtie, with some fixtie Paffengers to supply the Plantation with all necessary provisions. Now though the Turke and French hath beene somewhat too busie, would all the Christian Princes but bee truly at vincie, as his Royall Maiesty our Soueraigne Lord and King delireth, seuentie saile of good Ships were sufficient to fire, the most of his Coasts in the Lenant, and make such a guard in the Graits of Hele lespont, as would make the Great Turke himselfe more afraid in Confiantinople, then the smallest Red Croste, crosses the Seas would be, either of any French, Piccaroun, or the Pyrates of Argere.

An Abstract of Letters sent from the Colony in New England, July fixteene, 1622.

Since the newes of the Massacre in Virginia, though the Indians continue their wonted friend in Jet are wee more wary of them then before; for their bands have beene embrued in much English bloud, one-Ly by too much confidence, but not by force.

Here I must intreat a little your fanours to digresse. They did not kill the English, because they were Christians, but for their weapons and commodities, that were rare nouelties; but now they feare we may beat them out of their Dens, which Lionsand Tygers would not admit but by force. But must this be an argument for an Englishman, or discourage any either in Virginia or New England? No : tor I have tried them both. For Virginia, I kept that Countrey, with thirtie eight. and had not to eate but what we had from the Sausges. When I had ten menable to goe abroad, our Common-wealth was very firong : with fuch a number Iranged that vnknowne Countrey to fourteene weekes; I had but eighteen to fibdue them all , with which great Army I flaved fixe weeks before their greatest Kingshabitations, till they had gathered together all the power they could; and yet the Dutchmen fent at a needleffe exceffine charge did helpe Pombatan how to betray mee.

Of their numbers wee were vncertaine ; but those two honourable Gentlemen, Captaine George Percie, and Captaine Erancis West, two of the Phittiplaces, and some other such noble Gentlemen and refolute spirts bore their shares with me, and now living in England, did see me take this murdering Opechane anough, now their Great King by the long lock on his head, with my Pi- Opechancanough ftoll at his breath, I led him among his greatest forces, and before wee parted, made him fill our midth of his cre-Barke of twentie Tuns with Corne. When their owne wants was fuch, I have given them part a- mie as Aubais-20 gain in pitty, & others have bought it again to plant their fields. For wronging a Souldier but the fa was by Fi. value of a peny. I have caused Powbatan send his own men to lames Town to receive their punish- fora. ment, at my suferetion. It is true in our greatest extremity they shot me, slue three of my men, and by the folly of them that fled tooke me priloner; yet God made Pocahontas the Kings Daughter the meanes to delicer me : and thereby taught mee to know their treacheries to preferue the reft. It was also my chance in fingle combate to take the King of Palpabegh prisoner, and by keeping him forced his subjects to worke in Chaines, till I made all the Countrey pay contribution, having little elte whereon to hue.

Twice in this time I was their Prefident, & none can fay in all that time I had a man flain; but for keeping them in that feare I was much blamed both there and heere : yet I left fine hundred 20 behind mee that through their confidence in fixe monethes came most to confusion, as you may reade at large in the description of Virginia. When I went first to those desperate designes, it coff me many a forgotte a pound to hire men to goe; and prograftination caused more runne away then went. But after the Ice was broken, came many braue Voluntaries : not withflanding fince I came from thence, the Honorable Company have beene humble Suters to his Majeffie to get Vagabonds and condemned men to goe thither; nay, to much formed was the name of Virenia. fome did chuse to be hanged ere they would goe thither, and were : yet for all the worst of spite. detraction and discouragement, and this lamentable Massacre, there are more honest men now faters to goe, then ever have been conftrained knaves; and it is not voknowne to most men of voderstanding, how happy many of those Callumners doe thinke themselves, that they might bee 40 admitted, and yet pay for their passage to goe now to Vaginia: and had I but meanes to transport as many as would goe, I might have choice of ten thouland that would gladly bee in any of those new places, which were to basely contemned by vogratefull base minds.

To range this Countrie of New England, in like manner I had but eight, as is faid, and amone ft. their bruite conditions I met many of their filly incounters, and without any hurt. God be thanked: when your West Countrie men were many of them wounded, and much tormented with the Sauages that affaulted their Ship, as they did fay themselves, in the first yeare I was there 1614. and though Mafter Hunt then Mafter with me, did most basely in stealing some Sauages from that coaff to fell, when he was directed to have gone for Spaine, yet that place was fo remote from Capamuck, where Epenem should have fraughted them with Gold Ore, that his fault could 50 be no caute of their bad successe, however it is alledged for an excuse. I speake not this out of vain glory, as it may be some gleaners, or some was never there, may censure mee : but to let all men be affured by those examples, what those Sauages are that thus strangely doe murder and betray our Co intrie men. But to the purpole.

What is already writ of the healthfulness of the agre, the richnesse of the soyle, the goodnesse of the Woods the abundance of Fruits, Fish, and Fowle in their feafon, they still affirme that have beene there now neer two yeeres, and at one draught they base taken one thou and Basses, and in one night twelve hop fheads of Herring. They are building a strong Fort, they hope shortly to finish, in the interim they are well provided : their number is about a hundred persons, all in health, and well neere sixtie Acres of ground well planted with Corne, besides their Gardens well replenished with vsefull fruits; and if their Aduentu-60 vers would but furnish them with neversaries for fishing, their wants would quickly bee supplied. To supply them this fixteenth of October, is going the Paragon, with fixtie seuen persons, and all this is done by prinate mens pur (is. And to conclude in their owne words, should they write of all plenties they bane found, they thinke they (bould not be beleeved.

For the twentie fixe fixed of Ships, the most I can yet understand is .M. Ambrose Iennens of London.

and Master Abraham Jennens of Plimmoth (ent (their Abraham) a Ship of two hundred and twentie Tans, and the Nightingale of Porchmouth of a hundred : whose Fish at the first penie came to 21 co nounds; in all they were fine and thirty faile: and wherein New found Land they shared fixe or fenen pounds for a common man, in New England they shared four etcene pounds; besides fix Dutch and French Ships made wonderfull recurnes in Furres.

Thus you may see plainely the yearely successe from New England (by Unginia) which hach bin fo coffly to this Kingdome, and fo deare to me, which either to fee perish or but bleede, nardon me though it pallionate me beyond the bounds of modesty, to have bin sufficiently able to foresee it, and had neither power nor meanes how to prevent it. By that acquaintance I have with them. I may call them my children, for they have bin my Wife, my Hawkes, my Hounds. 10 my Cards, my Dice, and in totall my best content, as indifferent to my heart as my left hand to my right; and not withflanding all those miracles of disafters have croffed both them and me ver were there not one Englishman remaining (as God be thanked there is some thousands) I would vet begin againe with as imall meanes as I did at the first; not for that I have any secret encourasement from any I protest, more then lamentable experiences ; for all their Discoueries I can yet heare of, are but Pigs of my owne Sowe; nor more strange to me then to heare one tell mee he hath gone from Billings gate and discourred Greenwich, Granefend, Tilberry, Quinborom Lee and Margit, which to those did neuer heare of them, though they dwell in England, might be made feeme some rare secrets and great Countries ynknowne, except the Relation of Master Dirmer. But to returne : It is certaine, from Cannada and New England within these fixe yeares, hath 30 come neere 20000/Beuer Skins. Now had each of those Ships transported but some small evantitie of the most increasing Beatts, Fowles, Fruites, Plants and Scades, as I proiected, by this time their increase might haue bin sufficient for a thousand men. But the desire of present gaine (in many) is so violent, and the endeuours of many undertakers so negligent, every one foregarding their private gaine, that it is hard to effect any publicke good, and impossible to bring them into a body, rule, or order, valeffe both authority and money affift experiences. It is not a worke for every one to plant a Colony ; but when a House is built, it is no hard matter to dwell in it. This requireth all the best parts of art, judgement, courage, honesty, constancy, diligence and experience to doe but neere well: your home-bred ingroffing projectors shall finde there a great difference betwixt faving and doing. But to conclude, the Fishing will goe forward if you plant 20 it or no; whereby a Colonie may be transported with no great charge, that in a short time might prouide fuch fraughts to buy of vs there dwelling, as I would hope no Ship should goe or come empty from New England.

The charge of this is onely Salt, Nets, Hookes, Lines, Kniues, Irish Rugs, course Cloath, Beades, Glaffe, and such like trash, onely for fishing and trade with the Sauages, beside our ownenecessary prouisions, whose endeuours will quickly defray all this charge: and the Sauages haueintreated me to inhabite where I will. Now all these Ships, till this last yeare, have bin fished within a fquare of two or three leagues, and not one of them all would aduenture any further, where questionlesse fiue hundred faile may have their fraught better then in Island, New found Land, or elsewhere, and be in their markets before the other can have their fish in their Ships, because New 40 Englands fishing begins with February, the other not till mid May : the progression hereoftends much to the advancement of Virginia and the Bermudas, whose emptie Ships may take in their fraught there, and would be a good friend in time of neede to the Inhabitants of New found Land &c.

CHAP. IIII

A Relation or Iournall of a Plantation settled at Plimoth in New England, and proceedings thereof; Printed 1622. and here abbreuiated.

Ednesday the fixt of September, the Winde comming East North-east, a fine small gale, we loofed from Plimoth, having bin kindely entertained and curreoully vled by divers friends there dwelling, and after many difficulties in boifterous flormes, at length by Gods prouidence vpon the ninth of Nouember following, by breake of the day we espied Land, which we deemed to be Cape [ed. and io afterward it proued. Vpon the eleuenth of November, we came to an anchor in the Bay, which is a good harbonr and pleafant Bay, circled round, except in the entrance, which is about foure 63 miles ouer from land to land, compaffed about to the verie Sea with Oakes, Pines, Juniper, Saffafras, and other fweete Wood: it is a harbout wherein 1000, faile of Ships may fafely ride, there weerelieued our felues with Wood and Water, and refreshed our people, while our Shallop was fitted to coast the Bay, to search for an habitation : there was the greatest store of Fowle that euer we faw.

50

And euerie day we faw Whales playing hard by vs, of which in that place, if weehad inftruments and meanes to take them, we might have made a verie rich returne, which to our orear griefe we wanted. Our Master and his Mate, and others experienced in fishing, professed, wee might have made three or foure thousand pounds worth of Oyle; they preferred it before Greenland Whale-fishing, and purpole the next winter to fish for Whale here : for Cod we affaied, but found none, there is good ffore no doubt in their feafon. Neither got we anie fifth all the time we lay there, but some few little ones on the shoare. We found great Mussles, and verie fat and full or Sea Pearle, but we could not eate them, for they made ve all ficke that did eate, as well failers as passengers; they caused to cast and scoure, but they were soone well againe. The Baie is to fo round and circling, that before we could come to anchor, we went round all the points of the Compaffe. We could not come neere the shoare by three quarters of an English mile, because of shallow water, which was a great prejudice to vs, for our people going on shoare were forced to Ill Landing. wade a Bow shoote or two in going aland, which caused manie to get colds and coughs, for it was manie times freezing cold weather.

This day before we came to harbour, obserging some not well affected to vnitie and concord. but gaue some appearance of faction, it was thought good there should be an affociation and agreement, that we should combine together in one bodie, and to submit to such government and Gouernours, as we should by common consent agree to make and choose, and set our hands to this that followes word for word.

N the name of God. Amen. We whole names are underwritten, the lovall Subjects of our dread Soueraigne Lord King James, by the grace of God of Great Britaine, France, and Ireland King, Defender of the Faith, &c. Hauing undertaken for the glorie of God, and advancement of the Christian faith, and honor of our King and Countries a Voiage to plant the first Colonie in the Northerne parts of Virginia, doe by these presents solemnely and matually in the presence of G O D and one of another, covenant and combine our selves together in a civill bodie politike. for our better ordering and preservation, and furtherance of the ends aforesaid; and by vertue hereof to enact, conflitute, and frame such sust and equal Lawes, Ordinances, acts, constitutions, offices from time to time, as shall be thought most meete and convenient for the generall 30 good of the Colonie: vnto which wee promise all due submission and obedience. In witnesse whereof we have here under suscribed our names. Cape God eleventh of November, in the years of the raigne of our Soueraigne Lord King I a M & S , of England, France and Ireland, 18, and of Scotland 54. Anno Domino 1 620.

The fame day fo foone as we could we fet alhoare fifteene or fixteene men, well armed, with fome to fetch Wood, for we had none left; as also to see what the Land was, and what Inhabitants they could meete with, they found it to be a small necke of Land : on this side where we lay is the Bay, and the furthest side the Sea : the ground or earth, fand hils, much like the Downes in Holland, but much better : the crust of the earth a Spits depth, excellent blacke earth : all woodded with Oakes, Pines, Saffafras, Iuniper, Birch, Holly, Vines, fome Ash, Walnut; the 40 Wood for the most part open and without vnder-wood, fit either to goe or ride in : at night our people returned, but found not anie person, nor habitation, and laded their Boate with Iuniper, which smelled verie sweete and strong, and of which wee burnt the most part of the Munday the thirteenth of Nouember, we vnshipped our Shallop, and drew her on land, to mend and repaire her, having bin forced to cut her downe in bestowing her betwixt the decks; and the was much opened with the peoples lying in her, which kept vs long ther, for it was fixteene or seventeene daies before the Carpenter had finished her : our people went on shoare to refresh themselves, and our women to wash, as they had great neede : but whilest wee lay thus ftill, hoping our Shallop would be readie in five or fix daies at the furthert, but our Carpenter 50 made flow worke of it, fo that tome of our people impatient of delay, defired for our better furtherance to trauaile by Land into the Countrie, which was not without appearance of danger, not having the Shallop with them, nor meanes to carrie provision, but on their backes, to see whether it might be fit for vs to feate in or no, and the rather because as we failed into the Harbour, there feemed to be a River opening it felfe into the maine Land; the willingnesse of the persons was liked, but the thing it felfe, in regard of the danger was rather permitted then approved, and fo with cautions, directions, and inftructions, fixteene men were fet out with euery man his Musket, Sword, and Corilet, vnder the conduct of Captaine Miles Standile, vnto whom was adiouned for counfell and aduife, William Bradford, Stephen Hopkins, and Edward Tilley.

Wednesday the fifteenth of Nouember, they were fet a shoare, and when they had ordered 60 themselves in order of a single File, and marched about the space of a mile, by the Sea they espied fine or ix people, with a Dogge, comming towards them, who were Sauages, who when they Sight of Sar faw them, raninto the Woods and whiftled the Dogge after them, &c. First, they supposed uages. them to be Maiter lones, the Maiter and fome of his men, for they were a shoare, and knew of their comming: but after they knew them to be Indians they marched after them into the Woods, least other of the Indians should lye in Ambush ; but when the Indians faw our men fellowing them, they ran away with might and maine; and our men turned out of the Wood after them, for it was the way they intended to goe, but they could not come neere them. They followed them that night about ten miles by the trace of their footings, & faw how they had come the fame way they went, and at a turning perceined how they rame up an hill, to fee whether they followed them. At length night came vpon them, and they were constrained to take up their lodging, fo they fet forth three Sentinels, and the reft, some kindled a fire, and others fetched Woods & there held our Randeuous that night. In the morning fo foone as we could fee the trace. we proceeded on our journie, and had the tracke vntill wee had compafied the head of a lone creake, and there they tooke into another Wood, and we after them, supposing to finde some of their dwellings, but we marched thorow Boughes and Buthes, and under Hils and Vallies, which tore our verie Armour in peeces, and yet could meete with none of them, nor their houles. nor finde any fresh water, which we greatly defired, and stood in neede off, for we brought neither Beere nor Water with vs, and our victuals was onely Bisket and Holland Cheefe, and a little Bottell of Aquanite, fo as we were fore a thirft. About ten a clocke we came into a deene Valley, full of brush, wood-gaile, and long grasse, through which wee found little paths or tracks. and there we faw a Deere, and found Springs of fresh Water, of which we were hartily glad and fat vs downe and drunke our first New England Water, with as much delight as ever we drunke When we had refreshed our felues, we directed our course full South, that wee might come to the shoare, which within a shore while after we did, and there made a fire, that they in the Ship might fee where we were (as wee had direction) and to marched on towards this supposed Riger ; and as we went in another Valley, we found a fine cleere Pond of fresh water, being about a Musket shot broad, and twife as long: there grew also many small Vines, and Fowle and Deere haunted thereithere grew much Safafras: from thence we went on and found much plainground about fittle Acres, fit for the Plow, and some fignes where the Indians had formerly planted, their Corne : after this, fome thought it best for nearenesse of the River to goe downe and tranaile on the Sea fands, by which meanes fome of our men were tired, and lagged behinde, fo we Hayed and gathered them vp, and ftrucke into the Land againe; where we found a little path to certaine heapes of Sand, one whereof was couered with old Mats, and had a woodden thing like 20 a Morter whelmed on the top of it, and an earthen pot laid in a little hole at the end thereof; we musing what it might be, digged and found a Bowe, and as we thought, Arrowes, but they were rotten; We supposed there were many other things, but because we deemed them graues, we put in the Bow againe and made it vp as it was; and left the rest untouched, because we thought it would be odious vnto them to ransacke their Sepulchers. We went on further and found new stubble of which they had gotten Corne this yeare, and many Walnut trees full of Nuts, and great store of Strawberries, and some Vines; passing thus a field or two, which were not great, we came to another, which had also bin new gotten, and there wee found where an house had beene, and foure or five old Plankes laied together; also we found a great Kettle, which Cornefound. had beene formeShips kettle and brought out of Europe; there was also an heape of land, made hke 40 the former, but it was newly done, wee might fee how they had padled it with their hands, which we digged up, and in it we tound a little old Basket full of faire Indian Corne, and digged further, and found a fine great new Basket full of very faire Corne of this yeare, with some fixe and thirty goodly cares of Corne, some yellow, and some red, and others mixt with blew, which was a very goodly fight: the Basket was round, and narrow at the top, it held about three or foure bushels, which was as much as two of vs could lift up from the ground, and was very handfomely and cunningly made: But whilst we were busic about their things, we set our men Sentinell in a round ring, all but two or three which digged up the Corne. Wee were in suspence, what to doe with it, and the Kettle, and at length after much confultation, we concluded to take the Kettle, and as much of the Corne as wee could carry away with vo: and when our Shallop 50 came if we could finde any of the people, and came to parley with them , wee would give them the Kettle agains, and fatisfie them for their Corne.

So we tooke all the Eares, and put a good deale of the loofe Corne in the Kettle, for two men to bring away one Staffe; befides, they that could pur away into their Peckets filled the fame; the rest wee buried agains, for we were so laden with Armour that we could carry no more. Not farre from this place we found the remainder of an old Fort, or Palizado, which as we conceived had beene made by some Christians, this was also hard by that place which we thought had been a River, vato which we went and found it fo to be, dividing it faite into two armes by an high banke, itanding right by the Cut or Mouth which came from the Sea, that which was next unto vs was the leffe, the other arme was more then twice as big, and not whike to bee an Harboth 60 for Ships; but whether it be a fresh River, or onely an indraught of the Sea, wee had no time to discouer, for we had commandement to be out but two dayes. Here : If o we saw two Cancas, the They returned one on the one fide, the other on the other fide, we could not believe it was a Capoa, all we care neere it, fo we returned, leaung the further d flowery hereof to our S'alien and amethernight backe agains to the fresh water pond, and there we made our randenous that night, making a great fire, and a Baricado to windward of vs, and kept good watch with three Sentinels all night, every one standing when his turne came, while five or fixe inches of Match was burning. It proved a very rainie night. In the morning we tooke our Kettle and funke it in the Pond, and trimmed our Muskets, for few of them would goe off because of the weet, and so coasted the Wood agains to come home, in which we were shrewdly pulled, and lost our way; as we wandred we came to a tree, where a yong Spitts was bowed downe ouer 2 Bowe, and some Acornes frewed vademeath; Stephen Hopkins laid, it had beene to catch fome Deere, 10, as we were looking at it, William Bradford being in the Redre, when he came looking allo vpon it, and as he went catch Deere, In the end wee got out of the Wood, and were fallen about a mile too high about the creake.

to about, it gaue a fodaine ierke vp, and he was immediately caught by the legge: It was a very pretty deuise, made with a Roape of their owne making, and having a moofe as artificially made, as any Roper in England can make, and as like ours as can be, which wee brought away with vs. where we saw three Buckes, but we had rather have had one of them. We also did foring three couple of Partridges; and as we came along by the creake, we saw great flockes of wilde Geese and Duckes, but they were very fearefull of vs. So we marched some while in the Woods, some while on the Sands, and other while in the Water vp to the knees, till at length we came neere the Ship, and then we that off our Peeces, and the long Boate came to fetch vs : Mafter lone; and Matter Carner being on the shoare, with many of our people, came to meete vs. And thus wee to came both weary and welcome home, and deliuered in our Corne into the flore, to be kept for feede, for we knew not how to come by any, and therefore was very glad, purpoling to foone as we could meete with any of the Inhabitants of that place, to make them large fatistaction.

When our Shallop was fit indeede, before the was fully fitted, for there was two daies worke after bestowed on her, there was appointed some foure and twenty men of our owne, and armed. then to goe and make a more full discovery of the Rivers before mentioned. Master lones was defirous to goe with vs, and tooke such of his Saylers as he thought vsefull for vs, fo as we were in all about four and thirty men : we made Maiter lones our Leader, for we thought it best herein to geatifie his kindnesse and forwardnesses. When we were fet forth, it proued rough weather and croffe windes, to as we were conftrained, tome in the Shallop, and others in the long Boate. to row to the neerelt shoare the winde would fuffer them to goe vinto, and then to wade out aboue the knees; the winde was fo ftrong as the Shallop could not keepe the water, but was torsed to harbour there that night, but we marched fix or feuen miles further, and appointed the Shallon to come to vias foone as they could. It blowed and did fnow all that day and night, and frote withall; some of our people that are dead tooke the originall of their death here. The next day about eleuen a clocke our Shallop came to vs, and we shipped our selues, and the winder being good, we failed to the River we formerly discovered, which we named Cold Harbour, to Cold Harbour which when we came we found it not Nauigable for Ships, yet we thought itimight be a good harbour for Boates, for it flowes there twelve footat high water. We landed our men betweene the two creekes, and marched some source or fine miles by the greater of them, and the Shallop so followed vs: at length night grew on, and our men were tired with marching vp and downer the steepe Hils, and deepe Vallies, which lay halfe a foote thicke with Snow : Master lones wearied with marching, was defirous we should take vo our lodging, though some of vs would have marched further, fo we made there our Randenous for that night, under a few Pine trees, and as it fell out we got three Geefe, and fix Duckes to our Supper, which we eate with Soldiers flomacks, for we had caten little all that day. We marched to the place where we had the Corne formerly. which place we called Corne-hill; & digged & found the reft, of which we were very glad: we alfo digged in a place a little farther off, & found a bottle of Oyle, we went to another place which we had feen before & digged and found more Corn, viz. two or three Baskets full of Indian wheat. and a bag of Beans, with a good many of faire wheat-eares; whill flome of vswere digging up this, some others found another heape of Corn, which they digged vp also, so as we had in all about ten

So Bushels, which will ferue vs sufficiently for Seede, And sure it was Gods good providence that we found this corn, for elfe we knew not how we should have done, for we knew not how we should finde, or meete with any of the Indians, except it he to doe vs a mischiefe. Also we had never Frost and in all likelihood feene a graine of it, if we had not made our first lourney; for the ground was now Snow. courred with Snow, and to hard frofen, that we were faine with our Curtlaxes and thort Swords, to hew and carne the ground a foote deepe, and then wrest it vp with leavers, for we had forgot to bring other Tooles: whilit we were in this imploiment, foule weather being towards, M. lones was earnest to goe aboord, but fundry of vs defired to make further discouery, andto finde out the Indians habitations, so we sent home with him our weakest people, and some that were sicke, and 60 all the Corne, and eighteene of vs flaied still, and lodged there that night, & defired that the Shallop might returne to vs next day, and bring vs some Mattockes and Spades with them.

When wee had marched fine or fix miles into the Woods, and could find no fignes of any peo. ple, wee returned agains another way, and as we came into the plaine ground, wee found a place like a grave, but it was much bigger and longer then any wee had yet feen . It was also covered with boords, loas wee muled what it fliculd be, and resolved to dig it vp; where we found, first a

P. ! ~ade.

Sepulchre opined.

Mar, and under that a faire Bow , and there another Mat , and under that a Bound about there quarter, long, finely carried and painted, with three, Tynes, or broches on the top, like a Crowne alto betweene the Mars we found Bowles, Trayes, Dah s, and such like Trinkets; at longth ween came to a faire new Mit, and under that two Bundles, the one bigger, the other leffe, we opened the greater and found in it a great quantitie of fine and perfect Red Powder, and in it the bones and skull of a man. The skull had time yellow haire full on it, and to we of the flesh ynconfumed. there was bound up with a Knite, a Packneedle, and two or three old fron things. It was bound vp in a Saylers Canuas Calacke, and a payre of Cloth Breeches; the Red Powder was a kind as Embaulment, and yeelded a ffrong, but no offentiue fmell; It was as fine as any Flower. We one ned the leffe bundle likewife, and found of the fame Powder in it, and the bones and head of a lierle, hilde, about the legger, and other parts of it was Bound thring and Bracelets of fine white Beads: there was also by it a little Bow, about three quarters long, and some other odde knackes we brought fundry of the pretieft things away with vs, and coucted the Corps vp againe. After this, we digged in fundry like places, but found no more Corne, nor any things elfe but graves Whilest we were thus ranging and learching, two of the Saylers, which were newly come on the shoare, by chance espeed two houses, which had beene lately dwelt in , but the people were gone. They having their Peeces, and hearing no body; entred the houses, and tooke out some thing, and durit not flay but came again & told vs; to some seuen or eight of vs went with them. and tound how wee had gone within a flight thot of them before. The houses were made with long young Sapling Treesbended, and both ends flucke into the ground sthey were made round, an like voto an Arbour, and couered downe to the ground with thicke and well wrought Mats, and the doore was not over a ward high, made of a Mat to open : the Chimney was a wide open hole in the top, for which they had a Mat to cover it close when they pleased, one might stand and goe vor gar, in them; in the minit of them were foure little Tru iches knockt into the ground, and (mall-rickes lat) ouer, on which they hung their Pots, and what they had to feeth : round about the fire they lay on Mats, which are their Beds. The Houles were double matted, for as they were matted without, to were they within, with newer and fairer Mats. In the Houles wee found Woodden Bowles, Trayes and Dishes, Earthen Pots, Hand-baskets made of Crab-shells, wrought together : alto an English Paylabr Bucket it wanted a Baile, but it had two Iron Eares : there was also Baskets or rundry fores, begger, and fome letter, finer, and fome courfer: fome were 30 curiously wrought with Blacke and White in prettie workes, and fundry other of their houshold fluff: : wee found alto two or three D. eres Heads, one whereof had been newly killed, for it was ftill fresh : there was also a company of Decres Feete, flucke vp in the Houses, Harts Hornes, and Eagles Clawes, and fundry such like things there was : also two or three Baskets full of parched Acornes, pieces of Fish, and a piece of a broyled Herring. We found also a little Silke Graffe, and a little Tobacco Seed, with some other Seeds which weeknew not : without was fundry bundles of Flags, and Sedge, Bull-rulhes, and other stuffe to make Mats; there was thrust into an hollow Tree , two er three pieces of Venison, but wee thought it fitter for the Dogges then for vs: fome of the best things wee tooke away with vs, and left the houses standing still as they were: Much disputation fellout about the place where wee should abide; and a Company was chosen 40 to goe out voon a third Dilcouery (whileft some were imployed in this Dilcouery', it pleased God that Miltris White was brought a bed of a Sonne, which was called Peregrine.)

Houfhold

Wednefilly the fixt of December we fet out, being very cold and hard weather, we were a long while after wee lanched from the Ship, before wee could get cleere of a Sandy Point, which lay within leffe then a furlong of the fame. In which time, two were very ficke, and Edward Tilley had like to have four ded with cold; the Gunner was also sicke vnto Death (but hope of trucking made nim to goe) and fo remained all that day, and the next night ; at length weegot cleare of the Sandy Point, and got vp our Sayles, and within an houre or two wee got under the weather shoare, and then had smoother water and better fayling, but it was very cold, for the water froze on our clothes, and made them many times like coats of iron : wee fayled fixe or feuen leagues by 50 the shoare, but saw neither River nor Creeke, at length wee met with a tongue of Land, being flat off from the shoare, with a Sandy point, wee bore up to gaine the Point, and found there a faire Income or Rode, of a Bay, being a league ouer at the narrowest, and some two or three in length, but wee made right ouer to the Land before vs, and left the discourse of this Income till the next day : as wee drew neere to the shoare, wee espied some ten or twelue Indians, very buse about a blacke thing, what it was wee could not tell, till afterwards they law vs, and ran to and fro, as if they had beene carrying something away, wee landed a league or two from them, and had much adoe to put a shoare any where, it lay so full of flat Sands : when wee came to shoare, we made vs a Baricado, and got fire Wood, and fet out our Sentinells, and betooke vs to our lodging, such as it was; wee faw the smoake of the fire which the Sauages made that night, about 60 foure or five miles from vs : in the morning wee divided our Company, some eight in the Shallop, and the rest on the snoare went to discouer this place, but we found it onely to be a Bay, without far, and five or either River or Creeke comming into it. This place the most were minded wee should call, the fix paces long. Grampus Bay, because wee found many of them there : we followed the tract of the Indians bate feet a good way on the Sands, at length we faw here they flrucke into the Woods by the fide of a Pond, as we went to view the place, one faid, he thought he faw an Indian-house among the Trees . fo went up to fee : and here we and the Shallop loft fight one of another till night . it being now about nine or ten a clocke ; fo we lite on a path , but faw no house, and followed a great way into the Woods, at length we found where Corne had been fet, but not that yeere: anon we found a great burying place, one part whereof was incompaffed with a large Palizado. like a Church-yard, with young spires foure or fine yards long, set as close one by another as they could two or three foot in the ground; within it was full of Graves, fome bigger and fome leffer tome were also paled about, and others had like an Indian-house made over them, but not matted :

Gram'us Bay. Th y tound Gramoules.

to those Graves were more sumptious then those at Corne-bill, yet we digged none of them vo. only viewed them and went our way ; without the Palizado were Graues also, but not so costly. We went ranging up and downe till the Sunne began to draw low, and then we hafted our of the Woods, that we might come to our Shallop. By that time we had done, and our Shallop come to vs it was within night, and we fed upon fuch victualls as we had, and betooke vs to our rest after we had fet out our watch. About midnight we heard a great and hideous cry, and our Sentinell called, Arme, Arme. So we beffired out felues and thot off a couple of Muskets and noise ceased: we concluded, that it was a company of Wolues & Foxes, for one told vs he had heard fuch a noise in New-found-land, About fine a clocke in the morning we began to be thirring, voon a fulden wee heard a great & strange cry which we knew to be the same voices, though they varied their notess 20 one of the company being abroad came running in and cried, They are men, Indians. Indians : and withall, their Arrowes came flying amongst vs., our men ran out with all speed to recour their Armes. The cry of our enemies was dreadfull, especially, when our men ran out to recouer their Armes, their note was after this manner, Woalb woach ha ha bach woach; our men were no fooner come to their Armes, but the enemy was readie to affault them.

There was a luftie man, and no whit leffe valiant, who was thought to be their Captain, flood behind a Tree within halfe a Musket shot of vs, and there let his Arrowes flie at vs; hee stood three shots off a Musket, at length one tooke as he faid full ayme at him, after which he gave an extraordinarie cry and away they went all, wee followed them about a quarter of a mile, but wee lest fixe to keepe our Shallop, for wee were carefull of our businesse. Wee tooks 30 vp eighteene of their Arrowes, which wee had fent to England by Mafter lones, fome whereof were headed with brasse, others with Harts horne, and others with Eagles clawes: many more no doubt were that, for these wee found were almost covered with leaves : yet by the speciall providence of God, none of them either hit or hurt vs. On Munday we found a very good A good Har-Harbour for our Impping, we marched also into the Land, and found divers come Fields and little bour. running Brookes, a place verie good for scituation, so we returned to our Ship againe with good newes to the rest of our people, which did much comfort their hearts.

This Harbour is a Bay greater then Cape Cod, compassed with a goodly Land, and in the Bay two fine Ilands vninhabited, wherein are nothing but Woods, Okes, Pines, Wal-nut, Beech Salifras. Vines and other Trees which we know not. This Bay is a most hopefull place, innumerable atore of Fowle, and excellent good, and cannot but be of Fish in their feasons : Skote. Cod. Turbor and Herring we have tasted of, abundance of Musles the greatest and best that ever we saw; Crabe and Lobsters, in their time infinite : It is in fashion like a Cikle or Fish-hooke. The eighteenth we went along the Coast in the Woods, some seuen or eight mile, but faw not an Indian, nor an Indian house, onely we found where formerly had beene some Inhabitants, and where they had planted their Corne: wee found not any Naugable River but foure or five [mall running Brookes of very fresh water, that all run into the Sea. The Land for the crust of the earth is a fpits depth, excellent blacke mould and fat in fome places; two or three great Okes, but not very thicke, Pines, Walnuts, Beech, Ash, Birch, Hafell, Holley, Asp, Sasifras, in abundance, and Vines enery where, Cherry-trees, Plum-trees, and many other which we know not; many kinds of Hearbs we found here in Winter, as Strawberry leaves innumerable, Sorrell, Yarow, Caruell, Brook-lime, Liver-wort, Water-creffes, great flore of Leeks and Onyons, and an excellent flrong kind of Flax and Hempe. Here is Sand, Gravell, and excellent Clay, no better in the World.excellent for Pots, and will wash like Sope, and great store of Stone, though somewhat soft, and the best water that euer we drunke, and the Brookes now begin to be full of Fish; that night many being weary with marching, we went abourd againe. The nineteenth of December, after our landing and viewing of the places, so well as we could we came to a conclusion, by most voyces, to set on the Maine Land, on the first place, on an high ground, where there is a great deale of Land cleered, and hath beene planted with Corne three or foure yeeres agoe, and there is a very fweet Brook runs under the Hill fide, and many delicate 60 Springs of as good water as can be drunke, and where wee may harbour our Shallops and Boates exceeding well, and in this Brooke is much good Fish in their feafons. On the further side of the Riverallo much Corne ground cleered, in one Field is a great Hill, on which wee point to make a plat-forme, and plant our Ordnance, which will command all round about from thence we may fee into the Bay, and far into the Sea, and we may fee thence Cape Cod.

Ppppppp

Sacurday

Saturday the three and twentieth, so many of vsas could went on shore, felled and carried time ber, to prouide themselves stuffe for building. Munday the fine and twentieth, wee went on thoare, fome to fell timber, tome to fawe, tome to riue, and fome to carry, fo no man refled

Munday the fine and twentieth, being Christmasse day, we began to drinke water aboord: but at night the Master caused ws to have some Beer, and so on boord we had divers times now & then fome Beere, but on shoare nane at all. Wee tooke notice how many Families they were, willing all fingle men that had no wives to joyne with some Family as they thought fit, that so wee might build fewer houses, which was done, and we reduced them to nineteene Familieito greamight bund fewer nodes, and plots, to every person halfe a Pole in breadth, and three in length, id and so Lots were cast where every man should lie, which was done, and staked out; we thought this proportion was large enough at the first, for Houses and Gardens to impale them round, confidering the weakenede of our people, many of them growing ill with colds, for our former Difsources in frost and stormes, and the wading at Cape Cod had brought much weaknesse amonest ws, which increased enery day more and more, and after was the cause of many of our deaths.

briday and Saturday wee fitted our felues for our labour, but our people on shoare were much troubled and discouraged with rayne and wet that day, being very stormy and cold: wee faw great smoakes of fite made by the Indians, about fix or seven miles from vs as wee co iectured.

Thursday the fourth of Ianuarie, Captaine Miles Standift, with foure or fine more, went to 20 fee if they could meete with any of the Sauages in that place where the fires was made, they went to some of their houses but not lately inhabited, yet could they not meet with any; as they came home, they shot at an Eagle and killed her, which was excellent meat; It was hardly to be

Tue day the ninth of Ianury, was a reasonable faire day, and wee went to labour that day in the building of our Towne, in two rowes of houles for more fafetie : wee divided by lot the plot of ground whereon to build our Towner Atter the proportion formerly allotted, we agreed that enery man should build his owne house; thinking by that course men would make more hast then working in common: the common house, in which for the first we made our Rendeuous, being neere finished, wanting only covering, it being about twentie foor square, some should make mor- 20 ter, and some gather thatch, so that in soure daies halfe of it was thatched, frost and soule weather hindered vs much ; this time of the years feldome could we worke halfe the weeke.

On the twelfth day, John Goodman and Peter Browne at dinner time tooke their meat in their hands and would go walke and refresh themselves, to going a little off they find a Lake of water, and having a great Mashiffe bitch with them , and a Spannell ; by the water side they founds great D. ere, the Dogs chased him, and they followed fof ar as they lost themselves, and could not find the way backe, they wandred all that afternoone being wet, and at night did freeze and fnow, they were flenderly apparelled, and had no weapons but each one his Cicle, nor any victue alls, they ranged vp and downe and could finde none of the Sauages habitations. When it drew to night they were much perplexed, for they could find neither harbour nor meat, but in froft 40 and fnow, were forced to make the Earth their bed, and the Element their courring, and another thing did very much terrifie them; they heard as they thought two Lions roaring exceedingly for a long time together, and a third, that they thought was very neere them : fo not knowing what to doe, they refolued to climbe up into a Tree as the faieft refuge, though that would proue an intollerable cold lodging. They food at the Trees root, that when the Lions came they might take their opportunitie of climbing vp, the Bitch they were faine to hold by the necke, for free would have beene gone to the Lion; but it pleased God so to dispose, that the wild Beasts came not : fo they walked vp and downe vnder the Tree all night, it was an extreame cold night; fo soone as it was light they trauelled againe, passing by many Lakes, and Brookes, and Woods, and in one place where the Sauages had burnt the space of fine miles in length, which is a fine Cham- 50 pion Countrey, and even. In the afternoon it pleased God from an high Hill, they discovered the two lles in the Bay, and so that night got to the Plantation, being ready to faint with trauell and wint of victualls, and almost tamished with cold, Ishn Goodman was faine to have his shooes cut off his feet they were to swelled with cold, and it was a long while after ere hee was able to goe. The house was fired occasionally by a sparke that flew into the thatch, which instantly burnt it all up, but the roofe thood and little hurt; the most losse was Master Carners and William Bradfords, who then lay ficke in bed, and if they had not rifen with good fpeed, had been blowne vp with powder: but through Gods mercy they had no harme: the houle was as full of beds as they could lie one by another, and their Muskets charged, but bleffed be God there was no harme done

Munday the fifteenth day, it rained much all day, that they on ship-boord could not goe on 60 finare, nor they on shoare doe any labour but were all wet, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, were Very faire Sun-shiny daies, as if it stad beene in April, and our people so many as were in health we ought chearefully. The ninteenth day weerefolied to make a Shed, to pur our common prouision in , of which some were already set on shoare, but at moone it rained that wee could not worke. This day in the cuening, loha Goodman went abroad to vie his lame feet, that were pittyfully ill with the cold hee had got, having a little Spannell with him, a little way from the Plantation two great Wolues ran after the Dog, the Dog ran to him, and betwixt his legs for fuccour, Two great he had nothing in his hand, but tooke vp a sticke and threw at one of them and hit him, and they Wolues. prefently ran both away, but came againe; he got a Pulle boord in his hand, and they late both on their tailes, grinning at him a good while and went their way and left him.

Saturday the seventeenth day in the morning, we called a meeting for the establishing of Military Orders amongst our telues, and we chose Miles Standift our Captaine, and gaue him authoritie of command in affavres. Saturday the third of March, the wind was South, the morning mystie, but towards noone warme and faire weather : the Birds fang in the Woods most pleafantly ; at one of the clocke it thundred, which was the first we heard in that Countrey, it was strong and great claps, but short, Thunder. but after an houre it rayned very fadly till midnight, Wednesday the seventh of March, the wind was tull Fatt.cold.but faire.

Friday the fixteenth, there presented himselfe a Savage, which caused an Alarum, he very bold.

ly came all alone and along the houses straight to the Randeuous, where we intercepted him, not Conference fuffering him to goe in, as vndoubtedly he would out of his boldnesse hee falured vs in Enelish, with Sausges, and bad vs welcome, for he had learned fome broken English among it the Englishmen that came to fish at Monbiggon, and knew by name the most of the Captaines, Commanders, and Masters,

20 that vivally come; he was a manfree in speech, so farre as he could expresse his minde, and of a feemly carriage, we questioned him of many things, he was the first Sauage we could meet withall; hee faid he was not of those parts, but of Morasuggon, and one of the Sagamores or Lords thereof, had beene eight moneths in there parts, it lying hence a daies faile with a great wind, and fine dayes by Land: he discoursed of the whole Countrey, and of every Province, and of their Sagamores, and their number of men, and strength. The wind beginning to rife a little, wee cast a Horiemans Coat about him, for he was starke naked, only a leather about his wast, with a fringe about a span long, or little more; he had a Bow and two Arrowes, the one headed, and the other vnheaded; he was a tall straight man, the haire of his head blacke, long behind, only short before, none on his face at all; he a ked some Beere, but we gave him Strong-water and Bisket, and But-20 ter, and Cheefe, and Pudding, and a piece of a Mallerd; all which he liked wel, and had bin acquainted with fuch among it the English; he told vs the place where we now live, is called, Paturet, and Paturet, that about foure yeeres agoe all the Inhabitants died of an extraordinary plague, and there is net People all dead ther man, wo man, not child remaining, as indeed we have round none, to as there is none to hinder of a plague, Our possession, or to lay claime voto it. All the afternoone we spent in communication with him, we would gladly have been rid of him at night, but he was not willing to goe this night, then we. thought to carry him on thip-boord, wher with hee was wel content and went into the Shallop. but the wind was high and water feant, that it could not returne backe. We lodged that night at Steuen Hopkins house, and watched him : the next day he went away back to the Mafaforts, from Mafaforts whence he laid he came, who are our next bordering neighbours; they are fixtle strong, as he faith. 40 The Naustres are as neere South-east of them, and are a hundred strong, and those were they of Naustres. whom our people were encountered, as we before related. They are much incenfed and prouokell against the English, and about eight moneths agoe slew three Englishmen, and two more hardly escaped by flight to Monbiggon; they were Sir Ferdinando Gorge his men, as this Sauage told Vs, as he did likewife of the Huggery, that is, Fight, that our discouerers had with the Naufites, and of our Tooles they were taken out of the Woods, which we willed him should be brought againe, otherwise we would right our selves. These people are ill affected towards the English by reason of one Hunt, a Master of a Ship, who deceived the people, and got them under colour of trucking Hunts wickedwith them, twentie out of this very place where we inhabite, and teuen men from the Noufites, neile, and carried them away and fold them for Slaues, like a wretched man (for twentie pound a man) that care not what mischiefe he doth for his profit. Saturday in the morning we dismitted the Sauage, and gaue him a Knife, a Bracelet, and a Ring; he promifed within a night or two to come again, & to bring with him some of the Massafarts our neighbours, with fuch Beauers skins as they had to trucke with vs. Saturday and Sunday realonable faire dayes. On this day came againe the Sauage, and brought with him fine other fall proper men, they had euery man a Deeres skin on him, and the principall of them had a wild Cats skin, or tuen like on the one arme : they had most of them long hosen up to their grownes, close made; and about their groynes to their wast another leather, they were altogether like the Irigatroutes; they are of complexion like our English Gipleys, no haire or very little on their faces, on their heads long haire to the shoulders, onely cut before ; some trusted up before with a feather, 60 broad wife,like a fan, another a Fox taile hanging out : thefe left (according to our charge given him before) their Bowes and Arrowes a quarter of a mile from our Towne, we gave them entertainment as we thought was fitting them. They did eate liberally of our English victuals, they made semblance vnto vs of friendship and amitie; they sang and danced after this manner like Stungs de-Anticks ; they brought with him in a thing like a Bow-case (which the principall of them had Cribed.

Ppppppp 2

about his wait) a little of their Corne pounded to powder, which put to a little water they eate : he had a little Tobacco in a bag, but none of them drunke but when he lifted, fome of them had their faces painted blacke, from the forehead to the chin, foure or five fingers broad; others after other fathions, as they liked : they brought three or foure Skins, but wee would not trucke with them all that day, but wished them to bring more, and we would trucke for all, which they promited within a night or two, and would leave these behind them, though wee were not wil-Ing they should, and they brought all our Tooles againe which were taken in the Woods, in one mens absence, to because of the day we dismitted them so some as we could. But Samoses our first acquaintance, either was ficke, or fained himselfe so, and would not goe with them, and staied with vs till Wednesday morning: Then we sent him to them, to know the reason they came not according to their words, and we gaue him an Hat, a paire of Stockings and Shooes, a Shire, and a piece of Cloth to tye about his wait.

Thursday the 22. of March, was a very faire warme day. About noone we met againe about our publike businesse, but we had searce beene an houre together, but Samoset came againe, and Squante, the onely Natine of Patrixat, where wee now inhabite, who was one of the twentie Captives that by Hant were carried away, and had beene in England, and dwelt in Cornbill with Master Iohn Slanie a Merchant, and could speake a little English, with three others, and they brought them some few Skins to trucke, and some Red Herrings newly raken and dried, but not falted and fignified voto vs, that there Great Sagamore Maffafort was hard by, with Quadequina his brother, and all their men. They could not well expr. se in English what they would, but after an houre the King came to the top of an Hill over against vs, and had in his trayne sixtie men. that we could well behold them, and they vs: wee were not willing to fend our Gouernour to them , and they vawilling to come to vs, fo Squanto went againe vnto him, who brought word that wee should fend one to parley with him, which we did, which was Edward Winfloe, to know his mind, and to fignifie the mind and will of our Gouernor, which was to have trading and peace with him. Wee lent to the King a paire of Kniues, and a Copper Chaine, with a Iewell at it. To Quadequina we fent likewife a Knife and a lewell to hang in his care, and withall a Pot of ftrong water, a good quantitie of Bisket, and some Butter, which were all willingly accepted : our Meifenger made a speech vnto him, that King I A M E s faluted him with words of Loue and Peace, and did accept of him as his Friend and Alley, and that our Governour defired to fee him and to trocke with him, and to confirme a Peace with him, as his next neighbour; hee liked well of the speech, and heard it attentionly, though the Interpreters did not well expresse it; after hee had eaten and drunk himfelie, & given the rest to his company, he looked voon our M. flengers Sword and Armor which he had on, with intimation of his defire to buy it, but on the other fide, our Meffenger shewed his vnwillingnesse to part with it: In the end he left him in the custodie of Quadequina his brother, and came ouer the Brook and fome twenty men following him, leaving all their Bowes and Arrowes behind them. We kept fix or feuen as Hollages for our Mellenger; Cap. State dilh and M. William fon met the King at the Brook, with halfe a dezen Musketiers, they faluted him and he them, to one going ouer, the one on the one fide, and the other on the other, conducted him to an house then in building, where wee placed a greene Rug, and three or foure Culhi-40 ons. Then instantly came our Gouernour, with a Drum and Trumpet after him, and some few Musketiers. After falutations, our Gouernour kiffing his land, the King kiffed him, and fo they fate downe. The Gouernour called for some strong water, and drunke to him, and he drunke a ereat draught that made him sweate all the while after; hee called for a little fresh meate, which the King did eate willingly, and did give his followers. Then they treated of Peace, which was; First, That neither he nor any of his should injure or do hurt to any of our people. Secondly, & if mers of peace any of his did hurt to any of ours, he should fend the offender, that we might punish him. Thirdly, that if any of our tooles were taken away when our people were at work, he should cause them to bee restored, and if ours did any harme to any of his, we would doe the like to them. Fourthly, If any did vniuftly war against him we would aide him; If any did war against vs, he should aide vs. 50 Fifthly, He should fend to his neighbor Confederates, to certifie them of this, that they might not wrong vs, but might be likewife comprised in the conditions of Peace. Sixthly, That when their men came to vs, they should leave their Bowes and Arrowes behind them, as wee should doe our Peeces when we came to them. Lastly, that doing thus King I A M E s would esteeme of him as his Friend and Ally : all which the King feemed to like well, and it was applauled of his fellowers, all the while he fate by the Gouernour hee trembled for feare. In his perion hee is a very lufty man, in his best yeeres, anable body, grave of countenance, and spare of speech : In his attyre little or nothing differing from the reit of his followers , onely in a great Claime of white bone Beades about his neck, & at it behind his neck hangs a little bag of Tobacco, which he drank and gaue vs to drinke; his face was painted with a fad Red like Murry, and ovied both head and face, that hee looked greafily : All his followers likewife, were in their faces in part or in whole painted, some Blacke, some Red, some Yellow, and some White, some with Croffes, and other Antick workes, some had Skins on them, and some naked, all strong stall men in appearance. The King had his bosome hanging in a string, a great long Knife; he maruelled much at our Tramper, and some of his men would found it as well as they could, Samofet and Squanto, stayed all night with ve, and the King and all his men lay all night in the Wood, not about halfe an Englife mile from vs. and all their wives and women with them, they faid, that within eight or nine daies. they would come and fet Corne on the other fide of the Brooke, and dwell there all Summer. which is hard by vs. That night wee kept good watch, but there was no appearance of danger; the next morning divers of our people came over to vs. hoping to get fome victualls as wee imagined, some of them told vs the King would have some of vs come fee him ; Captaine Standift, and Ifage Alderton went venteroully, who were welcommed of him after their manner; he gane them three or foure ground Nuts, and fome Tobacco. Wee cannot yet conceine, but that hee is so willing to have peace with vs., for they have seene our people sometimes alone two or three in the Woods at worke and Fowling, when as they offered them no harme, as they might eafily have done, and especially because hee hath a potent Aduersarie, the Narowbiganses, that are at warre with him, against whom hee thinkes wee may bee some strength to him, for our Peeces are terrible voto them. This morning they flated till ten or eleven of the clocke, and our Governour bid them fend the Kings Kettle, and filled it full of Peafe, which pleafed them well, and to they

Friday was a very faire day, Samofet and Squanto stil remained with ve. Squanto went at noon to fifth for Eeles, at night he came home with as many as hee could well lift in one hand, which our people were glad of, they were fat and fweete, hee trod them out with his feete, and so caught 20 them with his hands without any other Instrument, This day we preceded on with our common bufineffe, from which we had bin fo often hindred by the Sauages comming, and concluded both of Militarie Orders, and of fome Lawes and Orders as we thought behoovefull for our prefent estate, and condition, and likewise chuse our Governour for this yeere, which was Master Iobn Carver, a man well approved amongst vs.

T feemed good to the Company for many confiderations, to fend fome among ft them to Maf. A journey to fafort, the greatest Commander among it the Sauages, bordering about vs ; partly to know Pachanokit, the where to find them, if occasion ferued, as also to see their strength, discouer the Countrey, preuent abuses in their diforderly comming vnto vs, make satisfaction for some conceiued iniuries Massages to be done on our parts, and to continue the league of Peace and Friendship betweene them and

vs. For thefe, and the like ends, it pleased the Gouernour to make choice of Steven Hopkins, and Edward Winfloe to goe vnto him, and having a fit opportunitie, by reason of a Sauage, called Tifquantum (that could fpeake English) comming vnto vs : with all expedition provided a Horsemans Coat, of Red Cotton, and laced with a flight Lace for a Prefent, that both they and their melfage might bee the more acceptable amongs them.

Wee fet forward the tenth of fune, about nine a clock in the morning, our guide refoluing that night to reft at Namafchet, a Towne vnder Maffafort, and conceiued by vs to be very neere, because the Inhabitants flocked so thicke voon every slight occasion amongst vs : but wee found it to bee some fitteene English miles. On the way wee found some ten or twelue men, women, and O children, which had pettered vs. till wee were wearie of them, perceiving that (as the manner of them all is) where victuall is easiliest to be got, there they live, especially in the Summer: by reaion whereof, our Bay affording many Lobiters , they refort every Spring Tide thither : and now returned with vs to Namafehet. Thither we came about three a clocke after noone, the Inhabitants entertaining vs with ioy, in the best manner they could, giving vs a kind of bread, called by them Maizium, and the spawne of Shads, which then they got in abundance, in so much as they gaue vs spoones to eate them, with these they boyled mustie Acornes, but of the Shads wee eate heartily. After this they defired one of our men to shoot at a Crow, complaining what damage they fultained in their Corne by them, who shooting some fourescore off and killing, they much admired it, as other shots on other occasions. After this Tifquantum told vs wee should 50 hardly in one day reach Pakanokick, mouing vs to go some eight miles further, where we should find more store and better victuals then there : Being willing to hasten our journey we went, and came thither at Sunne fetting, where we found many of the Namafebeneks (they fo calling the men of Nama (chet) fishing voon a Ware which they had made on a Ruer which belonged to them, where they caught abundance of Baffe. Thefe welcommed vs alto, gaue vs of their fifth, and we them of our victualls, not doubting but we should have enough where ere we came. There we lodged in the open fields : for houses they had none, though they spent the most of the Summer there. The head of this River is reported to bee not farre from the place of our abode, vpon it are, and have beene many Townes, it being a good length. The ground is very good on both fides, it being for the most part cleered: Thousands of men have lived there, which died in a great plague Great plague.

60 not long fince : and pittie it was and is to fee, so many goodly fields, and so well feated, without men to dreffe and manure the fame. Vpon this River dwelleth Maffafoyt.

The next morning wee brake our fait, tooke our leave and departed, being then accompanied with fome fixe Sauages, bauing gone about fixe miles by the River fide, at a knowne shoale place. it being low water, they spake to vs to put off our breeches, for wee must wade thorow. Here let me not forget the valour and courage of some of the Sauages, on the opposite side of the River ! for there were remaining aliue onely two men, both aged, especially the one being about threescore : Their two espying a company of men entring the River, ran very swiftly and low in the graffe to meet vs at the Banke, where with shrill voyces and great courage, standing charged voon vs with their Bowes, they demanded what wee were, supposing vs to be enemies and thinking to take aduratage on vs in the water : but feeing wee were friends, they welcommed vs with fuch food as they had, and we bestowed a small bracelet of Beads on them. Thus farre we are sure the Tile et bes and flowes.

Having here againe refreshed our selves we proceeded in our Journey, the weather being verie hot for travell, yet the Countrey fo well watered, that a man could scarce be drie, but hee should to have a Spring at hand to cloole his thirst, beside small Rivers in abundance : But the Sauages will not willingly drinke, but at a Spring head. When we came to any small Brooke, where no Bridge was . two of them defired to carry vs through of their owne accords, also fearing wee were or would bee wearie, offered to carrie our Peeces, also if wee would lay off any of our clothes, wee should have them carried; and as the one of them had found more speciall kindnesse from one of the Messengers, and the other Sauage from the other; so they shewed their thankfulnesse accordingly in affording viall helpe, and furtherance in the lourney.

As we patied along, we observed that there were few places by the River, but had beene inhabited, by reason whereof much ground was cleere, faue of weeds which grew higher then our heads. There is much good Timber, both Oake, Walnut-tree, Firre, Beech, and exceeding great

After we came to a Towne of Maffaforts, where we eat Oyfters and other Fish. From thence we went to Packanokick, but Maffafoys was not at home, there we staired, he being fent for : when newes was brought of his comming, our guide Tifquantum requested that at our meeting, wee would discharge our Peeces, but one of vs going about to charge his Peece, the women and children through feare to fee them take vp his Peece, ran away, and could not be pacified, till he laid it downe againe, who afterward were better informed by our Interpreter. Maffafort being come, wee discharged our Peeces, and saluted him, who after their manner kindly welcommed vs, and tooke vs into his house, and set vs downe by him, where having delivered our Message and Prefents, and having put the Coat on his backe, and the Chaine about his necke, hee was not a little 30 proud to behold himselfe, and his men also to see their King so brauely attired. For answere to our Meffage, he told vs we were welcome, and he would gladly continue that Peace and Friendthip which was betweens him and vs : and for his men they should no more petter vs as they had done : Allo, that hee would fend to Paomet, and would helpe vs with Corne for Seed, according to our request.

This being done, his men gathered neere vinto him, to whom hee turned himfelfe, and mades great Specch; they fometime interpoling, and as it were, confirming and applauding him in that he faid. The meaning whereof was (as faire as wee could learne) thus; Was not hee Maffafort Commander of the Countrey about them ! Was not fuch a Towne his and the people of it! and should they not bring their skins vnto vs. After this manner, he named at least thirrie places, and 40 their answere was as aforesaid to every one : so that as it was delightfull, it was tedious vnto vs. This being ended, he lighted Tobacco for vs, and fell to discoursing of England, and of the Kings Maiestie, maruelling that hee would live without a Wife. Also hee talked of the Frenchmen, bidding vs not to suffer them to come to Narohiganfet, for it was King I A M E s his Countrey, and healfo was King I A M E s his man. Late it grew, but victualls he offered none; for indeed he had not any, being he came so newly home. So we defired to goe to rest : hee laid vs on the bed with himfelfe and his wife, they at the one end and wee at the other, it being onely plankes laid a footfrom the ground, and a thinne Mat vpon them. Two more of his chiefe men for want of roome preded by and vpon vs ; fo that wee were worfe wearie of our lodging then The next day being Thursday, many of their Sachmis, or pettie Gouernours came to fee vs, and many of their men alio. There they went to their manner of Games for Skins and Knices. There we challenged them to shoot with them for Skins : but they durit not : onely they defired to see one of vs shoot at a marke, who shooting with Haile-shot, they wondred to see the marke fo full of holes. About one a clocke, Maffafort brought two Fifthes that he had thot, they were like Breame, but three times fo bigge, and better mear. Thefe being boyledithere were at least fortie looked for share in them, the most eare of them: This meals onely we had in two nghts Hungtiefare. and a day, and had not one of vs bought a Partridge, we had taken our Journey failing: Very inportunate bee was to have vs flay with them longer : But wee defired to keepe the Sabbath at home, and feared wee fhould either bee light-headed for want of fleepe, for what with bad led- 60 ging, the Sauages barbarous linging (for they yie to fing themselves afterpe) Lice and Fleas within doores, and Muskeetoes without, wee could hardly fleepe all the time of our being there; we much fearing that if we should flay any longer, we should not be able to recover home for want of ftrength. So that on the Friday morning before Sun-riling, wee teoke our kaue and departed.

Maffafort being both grieued and athamed, that he could not better entertaine vs; and retaining Tilauantum to tend from place to place to procure trucke for vs ; and appointing another, called Tokam thamen in his place, whom we had tound faithfull before and after voon all occasions.

He elementh of June we fer forth toward Names, the weather being very faire: but ere we A Voyage had bin long at Sea, there arole a fforme of winde and raine, with much lightning and thun-made by ten of der, in so much that a spout arose not farre from vo: but God be praised, it dured not long, and our men othe we put in that night for Harbour at a place called Cummagnid, where we had some hope to finde Newlet, to seek the Boy. Two Sauages were in the Boat with vs, the one was Tifquantum our Interpreter, the on a Boy that had to other Tolamabamon, a speciall friend. It being night before we came in, wee Anchored in the loft himselfe middeft of the Bry, where we were dry at a low water. In the morning we efpied Sauages feek- in the Woods; middleft of the Biy, where we were dry at a low water. In the morning we explice Sauages teck with fuch acciing Lobsters, and fent our two Interpreters to speake with them, the channell being betweene dents as beight them; where they told them what we were, and for what we werecome, willing them not at win that all to feare vs, for we would not hurt them. Their answere was, that the Boy was well, but he Voyage, was at Naulet; yet fince wee were there they defired vs to come alhoure and eate with them: which as foone as our Boate floated we did : and went fixe afhoare, having foure pledges for them in the Boate. They brought ye to their Sachim or Gouernour, whom they call Iganough, a man not exceeding twenty fix yeares of age, but very personable, gentle courteous, and faire conditioned, indeede not like a Sauage, faue for his attyre : his entertainment was answerable to his parts. and his cheare plentifull and various.

One thing was very grieuous vnto vs at this place. There was an old Woman, whom wee judged to be no leffe then an hundred yeares old, which came to fee vs because shee neuer saw English, yet could not behold vs without breaking forth into great passion, weeping and crying exceffigely. We demanding the reason of it, they told vs, she had three Sonnes, who when Maffer Hunt was in these parts, went abourd his Ship to trade with him, and he carried them Captimes into Spaine (for Tifquantum at that time was carried away alfo) by which meanes thee was deprived of the comfort of her children in her old age. We told them were forry that any Englishman should give them that offence, that Huns was a bad man, and that all the English that heard of it condemned him for the same : but for vs, we would not offer them any fuch injury, 30 though it would gaine vs all the Skins in the Countrie. So we gaue her some small trifles, which fomewhat appealed her.

After dinner we tooke Boate for Nauset, Iyanough and two of his men accompanying vs. Ere we came to Nanfee, the day and tide were almost spent, in so much as we could not goe in with our Shallon; but the Sachm or Gouernour of Cammagnid went alhoare and his men with him, we also fent Tifquantum to tell Afrinet the Sachim of Naufet, wherefore we came. After Sunfet Aspinet came with a great traine, and brought the Boy with him, one bearing him through the water : he had not leffe then an hundred with him, the halfe whereof came to the Shallop fide ynarmed with him, the other flood aloofe with their Bowe and Arrowes. There he delinered vs the Boy, behang with Beades, and made peace with vs, wee bestowing a Knife on him, floored. ao and likewife on another that first entercained the Boy and brought him thither. So they departhereof being abroad : But we fet forth with resolution to make the best haste home we could;

yet the winde being contrary, having fearce any fresh water left, and at least sixteene leagues

home, we put in againe for the shoare. There we met againe with Iyanough the Sachim of Cummaguid, and the most of his Towne, both men, women and children with him. Hee being still willing to gratifie vs. tooke a runlet and led our men in the darke a great way for water but could finde none good ; yet brought fuch as there was on his necke with them. In the meane time the 50 women loyned hand in hand, finging and dancing before the Shallop, the men also shewing all

ing it vponone of vs. By Gods providence we came fafely home that night,

Here we understood that the Narrobigan fets had spoyled some of Massa forts men, and taken him. This strucke some feare in vs, because the Colony was so weakely guarded, the strength the kindenesse they could, Iranough himselfe taking a Bracelet from about his necke, and hang-CHAP. V.

Good newes from New England : Or, A Relation of things remarkeable in that Plantation; written by E. WINSLOVV and here abbreuiated.

He good Ship called the Fortune, which in the Moneth of November 1621. (blefin die God) arought vs. a new inpply of fine and thirty perions, was not long de-parted our Coalt, et the Green conduct of Manhaematic mint, was not long departed our Coalt, ere the Great people of Nanobigganfet, which are reported to e many thousands throng, began to breath forth many threats against vs, notwithitanding their defired and obtained peace with vs in the fore-going Summer. Infomuch as the common talke of our neighbour Indians on all fides was of the preparation they made to come against vs, In reason, a man would thinke they should have now more cause to feare vs than before our supply came : but though none of them were present, vet understanding by others that they neither brought Armes nor other prouisions with them. but wholly relied on vs, it occasioned them to sleight and brave vs with so many threats as they did. At length came one of them to vs, who was fent by Conanacus their chiefe Sachim or King. accompanied with one Tokamahamon a friendly Indian. This Messenger inquired for Tisquantum our Interpreter, who not being at home feemed rather to be glad then forry, and leauing for him a bundle of new Arrowes lapped in a rattle Snakes skinne, defired to depart with

Royall enter-

1852

Gimesi

When Tilgnantum returned, and the Arrowes were deliuered, and the manner of the Mellen- IO gers carriage related, he fignified to the Gouernour, that to fend the rattle Snakes skinne in that manner, imported enmitie, and that it was no better then a challenge. Hereupon, after some deliberation, the Gouernour stuffed the skin with Powder and Shot, and fent it backe, returning no leffe defiance to Conanaciu, affuring him if he had Shipping now prefent thereby to fend his men to Nanohio ganfet (the place of his abode) they should not neede to come so farre by Land to vs: vet withall, shewing that they should never come vnwelcome or vnlooked for. This message was fent by an Indian, and delivered in fuch fort, as it was no small terrour to this Sauage King, infomuch as he would not once touch the Powder and Shot, or fuffer it to flay in his House or Countrie. Whereupon the Messenger refusing it, another tooke it vp, and hauing beene posted from place to place a long time, at length came whole backe againe.

In the meane time, knowing our owne weakenesse, notwithstanding our high words and loftie lookes towards them, and still lying open to all casualty, having as yet (vnder God) no o-Towneimpa- ther defence then our Armes, we thought it most needfull to impale our Towne, which with all expedition we accomplished in the moneth of February, and some few dayes, taking in the top of the Hill under which our Towne is feated, making foure Bulwarkes or ietties without; the ordinary circuit of the Pale, from whence we could defend the whole Towne: In three whereof are Gates, and the fourth in time to be. This being done, Captaine Standib divided our ftrength into foure foundrons or companies, appointing whom he thought most fit to have command of each; And at a generall Multer or Training, appointed each his place, gaue each his Company, giuing them charge vpon enery alarum to refort to their Leaders to their appointed place, and in 30 his absence, to be commanded and directed by them. That done according to his order, each drew his Company to his appointed place for defence, and there together discharged their Muskets. After which they brought their new Commanders to their houses, where againe they graced them with their thot, and so departed. Fearing also least the enemy at any time should take any adnantage by firing our houses, Captaine Standifb appointed a certaine Company, that when soes uer they saw or heard fire to be cryed in the Towne, should onely betake themselues to their Armes, and should inclose the house or place so indangered, and stand aloose on their guard, with their backes towards the fire, to preuent trechery, if any were in that kinde intended. If the fire were in any of the houles of this guard, they were then freed from it, but not otherwife, without

Long before this time we promifed the people of Massachuser in the beginning of March to come vnto them, and trade for their Furres, which being then come, we began to make preparation for that Voyage. In the meane time, an Indian, called Hobbamocke, who full lived in the Towne, told vs, that he feared the Maffachufets or Maffachufenks (for they so called the people of that place) were inyned in confederacie with the Nanobigganneucks, or people of Nanobiggarles, and that they therefore would take this opportunity to cut off Captaine Standals and his Company abroad: but how foeuer in the meane time, it was to be feared that the Nanobig ganeaks would affault the Towne at home, giving many reasons for his icalousie, as also that Tifquantum was in the confederacy, who we should finde would vie many periwasions to draw vs from our

Shallops to the Indians houses for their better aduantage.

Notwithstanding the forenamed Captaine with ten men, accompanied with Tifquantum and 19 lebbamocke, fet forwards foreign. Mental the state of the st Hobbamocke, fet forwards for the Maffachufers: but we had no fooner turned the point of the Harbour, called the Gwnets nofe (where being becalmed we let fall our grapneli, to fet things to rights, and prepare to row) but there came an Indian of Tifquantums family, running to certaine of our people that were from home with all eagernesse, having his face wounded, and the bloud still fresh on the same, calling to them to repaire home, oft looking behinde him, as if some others had him in chale, faying that at Namaschet (a Towne some fifteene miles from vs) there were many of the Nanobig ganfett, Maffaffowat our supposed friend; and Conbatant our feared enemy, with many others, with a resolution to take advantage on the present opportunity, to asfault the Towne in the Captaines absence, affirming that hee received the wound in his face for 60 speaking in our behalfe, and by sleight escaped, looking oft backward, as if he suspected them tobe at hand. This he affirmed againe to the Gouernour, whereupon he gaue command that three peece of Ordnance should be made ready and discharged, to the end that it wee were not out of hearing, we might returns thereat. Which we no fooner heard, but we repaired homeward with all convenient speede, arming our felues, and making all in readinesse to fight. When were entred the Harbour, we saw the Towne like wife on their guard, whither we haited with all convenie ent focede. The newes being made knowne vato vs, Hobbamock faid flatly that it was falle, affuring vs of Mallaffowats fatchtulnelle; howfoeuer he prefumed he would neuer haue vndertaken any such act without his prinitie, himselfe being a Pinfe, that is, one of his chiefe Champions or men of valour, it being the manner among it them not to vindertake fuch enterprises without the advice and furtherance of men of that ranke,

CHAP.S. Carriage of Tifquantum. A conceit of the plaque buried.

1855

The Governour caused Hobbamock to send his wife with all privacie to Puckanokick, the chiefe place of M. faffowats refidence (pretending other occasions) there to informe her selfe, and so vs. to of the right state of things. When the came thither, and faw all things quiet, and that no such matter was or had beene intended, the told Maffafforat what had hapned at Plimoth (by them called Paturet) which when he vinderstood, he was much offended at the carriage of Tilguantum. returning many thankes to the Governour for his good thoughts of him; and affuring him, that according to their first Articles of peace, hee would fend word and gine warning when any tuch bufineffe was towards.

Thus by degrees we began to discouer Tifquantum, whose ends were onely to make himselfe great in the eyes of his Country-men, by meanes of his neereneffe and fauour with vs, not caring Tifquantams who fell, to he stood. In generall, his course was to perf wade them hee could lead us to peace or warre at his pleafure, and would oft threaten the Indians, fending them word in a private man-30 ner, we were intended shortly to kill them, that thereby he might get gifts to himfelfe to worke their prace; infomuch as they had him in greater efteeme then many of their Sachims; yea, they themselves sought to him, who promited them peace in respect of vs; yea, and prorection also. to as they would refort to him. So that whereas divers were wont to relve on Maffall owat for protection, and refort to his abode, now they began to I-aue him, and feeke after Tifquantum. But when we understood his dealings, we certified all the Indians of our ignorance and innocincy therein, affuring them till they begun with vs, they flould have no caule to feare. And if any hereafter should raile any such reports, they should punish them as liers and seekers of their and our diffurbance, which gave the Indians good fatistaction on all fides. After this we proceeded in our Voyage to the Massabusets, where we had good flore of Trade

30 and (bleffed be God) returned in tafety, though driven from before our Towne in great danger and extremity of weather. At our returne, we found Maffaffowat at the Plantation, who made his feeming inft Apologie for all former matters of accuration, being much offended and inraged against Tifquantum, whom the Gouernour pacified as much as he could for the present. But not long after his departure, he fent a Mellenger to the Gouernour, intreating him to gine way to the death of Tifgrantum, who had to much abuted him, But the Governour answered : Although he had deferred to dye both in respect of him and vs; yet for our fakes he defired he would spare him, and the rather because without him he knew not well how to understand himselse, or any other the Indians. With this answer the Mellenger returned, but came againe not long after, accompanied with divers others, demanding him from M. f. fowat their Matter, as being one of his o fubiects, whom by our first Articles of peace we could not retaine: yet because hee would not willingly doe it without the Gouernors approbation, offered him many Beuers skins for his confent thereto, faying, that according to their manner, their Sachim had fent his own - Kuife, and therewith, to cut off his head and hands, and bring them to him. To which the Governous anfwered; It was not the manner of the English to fell mens lives at a price, but when they had deferued infily to die, to give them their reward, and therefore refuted their Beauers as a gift ; but Sent for Tifquantum, who though he knew their intent, yet offered not to five, but came and accufed Hobbanocke as the author and worker of his ouerthrow; yeelding himfelfe to the Governour to be fent or not according as he thought meete. But at the inflant, when our Gonernour was ready to deliuer him into the hands of his Executioners, a Boate was feene at Sea to as le before our Towne, and fall behinde a head-land not farre off: whereupon, having hear? many so rumours of the French, and not knowing whether there were any combination between the Sauages and them, the Gouernour told the Indians, he would first know what Boate that was ere he would deliuer him into their cuffody. But being mad with rage, and impatient at delay, they

Here let me not omit one notable (though wicked) practife of this Tifaustiem, who to the end he might possesse his Countrimen with the greater feare of vs, and it consequently of himfelfe, told them we had the plague buried in our flore-house, which at our pleasure we could fend forth to what place or people we would, and deftroy them therewith, though wee stirred not from home. Being upon the forenamed brabbles fent for by the Governour to this place, where 60 Hobbamock was & some other of vs, the ground being broke in the middelt of the house whereunder certaine barrels of Powder were buried, though viknowne to him) Hobbanock asked him what it meant? To whom he readily answered; That was the place wherein the plague was place conciliburied, whereof he formerly told him and others. After this Hobbamock asked one of our people whether fuch a thing were, and whether we had fuch command of it! Who answered no; But the God of the Englyb had it inftore, and could fend it at his pleasure to the defluction of his and our enemies.

This was, as I take it, about the end of May, 1 6 2 2. At which time our flore of victuals was wholly foe.t, having lued long before with a bare and short allowance: The reason was, that fumply of menbefore mentioned, which came to vnprouided, not landing to much as a barrell of Bread or Male for their whole Company, but contrariwile received from vs for their Ships flore bread of all are to their were the fetters forth thereof altogether to beblamed therein, but rather certaine among to our felues, who were too prodigall in their writing and reporting that plenty

we emoyed, But that I may returne, e emeyed. Due that hay to be a Shallop that belonged to a fifting Ship, called the Sparon, fet forth 10 by Malter Thomas Weston, late Merchant and Citiz in of London, which brought fix or feuen paffengers at his charge, that should before have beene landed at our Plantation, who also broughe no more proution for the present then served the Boats gang for their returne to the Ship, which made ner Voyage at a place called Damarins Coue, nee e Munhiggen, some forty leagues from vs North-east-ward; about which place there fished about thirty fails of Ships, and whither my felte was imployed by our Gouernour, with orders to take vp fuch victuals as the Shippes could foare; where I found kinnie entertainment and good respect, with a willing nesse to supply our wants: Butbeing not able to spare that quantity I required, by reason of the necessitie of some among it themselves, whom they supplied before my comming, would not take any Bils for the fame, out did what they could freely, withing their flore had beene fuch as they might in greater 20 measure have expressed their owne love, and supplied our necessities, for which they forrowed, prouching one another to the vemost of their abilities: which although it were not much amongitto many people as were at the Plantation, yet through the provident and discrete care of the Gournours, recoursed and preferred frength till our cwine crop on the ground was ready.

Having dispatched there, I returned home with all speede convenient, where I found the state of the Colony much weaker then when I left it: for til now we were neuer without some Bread, the want where finuch abated the strength and flesh of some, and swelled others. But here it may be faid, if the Countrey abound with Fish and Fowle in such measure as is reported, how could men widergoe fach mealtire of hardneffe, except through their own negligence? I answer: E 30 cert will go into an Orchard unity of men widergoe fach mealtire of hardneffe, except through their own negligence? I answer: E 30 cert will go into an Orchard of the orchard will go into an Orchard wi in the Winter to gather Cherries : io he that lookes for Fowle there in the Summer, will be deceined in his expectation. The time they continue in plenty with vs, is from the beginning of October to the end of March : but these extremities befeil vs in May and Iune. I confesse, that as the Fowl: decreafe, fo Fish increase. And indeede their exceeding abundance was a great cause of increasing our wants. For though our Bay and Creekes were full of Bale, and other fish, vet for want of fit and firing Signers, and other netting, they for the most part brake thorow and carried all away before them. And though the Sea were full of Cod, yet we had neither tackling nor harteis for our S. allops. An : indeede had we not beene in a place where divers forts of Shelfish are that may be taken wit i the hand, we must have perished, vnlesse God had raised some vn- 40 knowne or extraordinary meanes for our prefernation.

In the time of thefe streits (indeede before my going to Munhiggen) the Indians began against to cast forth many intulting speeches, glorying in our weakenesse, and giving out how easie it would be ere long to cut vs eff. Now also Massaglomat seemed to frowne on vs, and neither came or fent to vs as formerly. These things occasioned further thoughts of Fortification, And whereas we have a Hill called the Mount, inclosed within our Pale, under which our Towne is feated, we refolted to erect a Fort thereon, from whence a few might eafily fecure the Town from any affault the Indians can make, whilest the reit might be imployed as occasion served. This worke was begun with great eagernesse, and with the approbation of all men, hoping that this being once finished, and a continuall guard there keps, it would otterly discourage the Sa- 40 uages from having any hopes or thoughts of riling against vs. And though it tooke the greatest part of our strength from dressing our Corne, yet (life being continued) wee hoped God would raile forme menies in itead thereof for our further preservation.

In the end of Iune, or beginning of Iuly, came into our harbour two Ships of Mafter I'efforts planters which aforefaid, the one cilled the Charite, the other the Swan, having in them feme fitte or fixed men fent ouer at his owne charge to plant for him. There we received into our Towne, affording them whatfoeuer curtefie our meane condition could afford. There the Charitie, beingithe bigger Ship, left them, having many paffengers which the was to land in Virginia. In the meane time, the body of them retreshed themselves at Plimoth, whilest some most hit sought our a place for them. That little store of Corne we had, was exceedingly wasted by the vinust and cishonest 60 walking of these strangers, who though they would fometimes seeme to helpe vs in curlibour about our Corne, yet spared not day and night to steale the same, it being then eatable, and pleafant to tafte, though green and vnprofitable. And though they received much kindnelle, fee light both by it and vs. At length their Coafters returned, having found in their indgement a place fir for plantation, within the Bay of the Maffachufets, at a place called by the Indians Wiebasufsaffet. To which place the body of them went with all convenient speede, leaving still with vs fuch as were ficke and lame, by the Gouernours permiffion, though on their parts vindelerued. whom our Surgeon by the helpe of God recourred gratis for them, and they fetched home, as occasion served. They had not beene long from vs, ere the Indians filled our eares with clamours aeainst them, for stealing their Corne, and other abuses conceived by them. At which we grieved the more, because the same men, in mine owne hearing, had beene earnest in perswading Captaine Standile, before their comming to folicite our Gouernour to fend fome of his men to plant by them, alledging many reasons how it might be commodious for vs. But weeknew no no meanes to redreffe those abutes, saue reproofe, and adusting them to better walking, as occafion ferued.

CHAP.S. Many clamours. Captaines supplied. Tempestuous season.

In the end of August came other two Ships into our harbour, the one (as I take it) was called the Disconerie, Captaine lones having the command thereof, the other was that Ship of Master Westons, called the Sparrow, which had now made her Voyage of Fish, and was conforted with the other, being both bound for Virginia. Of Captaine lones we furnished our selues of fuch pro- Heloe from uifions as we most needed, and he could bett spare, who as he vied vs kindely, so made vs pay Master Lenet. largely for the things we had. And had not the Almighty, in his All-ordering Providence, dire-Red him to vs, it would have gone worse with vs, then ever it had beene, or after was: for, as we had now but small store of Corne for the yeere following : so for want of supply, we were worne 20 out of all manner of trucking-stuffe, not having any meanes left to helpe our felues by trade; but through Gods good mercy towards vs, hee had wherewith, and did supply our wants on that

In the end of September, or beginning of October; Mafter Westons biggest Ship called the Chair ritie, returned for England, and left their Colony fufficiently victualled, as some of most credit among it them reported. The leffer, called the Swan, remained with his Colony for their further helpe. At which time they defired to loyne in partnership with vs to trade for Corne; to which our Gouernour and his Affiftant agreed upon fuch equall conditions, as were drawne and confirmed betweene them and vs. The chiefe places aimed at were to the Southward of Cape Cod; and the more because Tifquantum, whose peace before this time was wrought with Mas 30 fassowat, vadertooke to discouer vato ve that supposed, and fill hoped passage within

Both Colonies being thus agreed, our Gouernour in his owne person supplied the Captaines place, and in the month of November fet forth, having Tifquantum for his Interpreter and Fis lot, who affirmed he had twice pailed within the Sholes of Cape Cod, both with English and French. Neuertheleffe, they went fo farre with him, as the Matter of the Ship faw no hope of paffage : but being (as he thought) in danger, bare vp, and according to Tifquantums directions, made for an harbour not farre from them, at a place called Manamoyeke, which they found and founding it with their Shallop found the channell, though but narrow and srooked, where at at length they harboured the Ship. Here they perceived that the Tide let in and out with more to violence at some other place more Southerly, which they had not feene nor could discouer , by realon of the violence of the feason all the time of their abode there. Some judged the entrance thereof might be beyond the Shotes, but there is no certainty thereof as yet knowne. That night

the Governour accompanied with others, having Tifquantum for his Interpreter went alhoare : At first the Inhabitante plaied leaft in fight, because none of our people had euer beene there before; but understanding the ends of their comming, at length came to them, welcomming out Godernour according to their Sauage manner, refreshing them very well with store of Venison and other victuals which they brought them in great abundance, promiting to trade with them, with a feeming gladnesse of the occasion: yet their ioy was mixed with much lealousie, as appeared by their after practifes: for at first they were loath their dwellings should be knowne, but when they faw our Gouernours resolution to flay on the shoare all night, they brought him to so their houses, having first convaied all their stuffe to a remote place, not sarre from the same, which one of our men walking forth occasionally, espied; whereupon, on the sudden, neither it nor they could be found, and so many times after vpon conceiued occasions, they would be all gone, bag and baggage. But being afterwards (by Tifquantums meanes) better perswaded, they left their lealousse and traded with them; where they got eight hogsheads of Corne and Beanes, though the people were but few. This gaue our Gouernour and the Company good encouragement. Tifquantum being still confident in the passage, and the Inhabitants affirming, they had feene Ships of good burthen paffe within the Sholes aforefail. But here, though they had determined to make a fecond affay, yet God had otherwaies disposed, who strucke Tefquantum with 60 ficknesse, in so much as he there died, which excelled their Southward trading, and the more, because the Masters sufficiency was much doubted, and the season very tempestuous, and not fit to goe woon discourry, having no guide to direct them.

From thence they departed, and the winde being faire for the Maffachusers, went thither, and the rather because the Sauages vpon our motion had planted much Corne for vs, which they

A Plaque. Note.

Honest Sa-

1858

promised not long before that time. When they came thicher, they found a great sickorffe to be among it the Indians, not volike the Plague, if not the seme. They remued their complaints to our Gouernour, against that other Plantation seated by them, for their injurious walking. But indeede the trade both for Furres and Come was overthrowne in that place, they giving as much for a quart of Corne, as we vied to doe for a Beauers skin; fo that little good could be there done. From thence they returned into the bottome of the Bay of Cape Cod, to a place called Nanfer. where the Sachim vied the Gouernour very kindely, and where they bought eight or ten hoefheads of Corne and Beanes. Also at a place called Mattachieft, where they had like kinde enterramment and Corne alio. During the time of their trade in these places, there were so great and violent flormes, as the Ship was much endangered, and our Shallop cast away, so that they to had now no meanes to carry the Corne aboard that they had bought, the Ship riding by their report well netre two leagues from the same, her owne Boate being small, and so leake (hauins no Carpencer with them) as they durft scarce fetch wood or water in her. Hereupon the Gouernour caused the Corne to be made in a round stacke, and bought Mats, and cut Sedge to couer it, and gaue charge to the Indians not to meddle with it, promiting him that dwelt next to it a reward, if he would keepe vermine also from it, which he vindertooke, and the Sachim promised to make good. In the meane time, according to the Gouernors request, the Sacrim fent men to feek the Shallop, which they found buried almost in sand at a high-water marke, having many things remaining in her, but vnieruiceable for the prefent : whereof the Gouernour gaue the Sachim foeciall charge that it should not be further broken. And having procured a Guide, it being no lese 20 then fiftie miles to our Plantation, fet forward, receiuing all respect that could be from the Indians in his journey, and came safely home, though weary and surbated, whether some three dayes after the Ship also came. The Corne being divided which they had got, Master Westons Company went to their owne Plantation, ic being further agreed, that they should returne with all convenient speede, and bring their Carpenter, that they might fetch the rest of the Corne, and

Que their Shallop. At their returne Captaine Standift being recoursed and in health, tooke another Shallop, and went with them to the Corne, which they found in fafety as they left.it; also they mended the other Shallop, and got all their Corne aboard the Ship. This was in lanuary, as I take it, it being very cold and flormy, infomuch as (the harbour being none of the best) they were conftrained to 30 cut both the Shallops from the Ships sterne, and so lost them both a second time. But the storme being ouer, and feeking out, they found them both, not having received any great hure. Whileft they were at Naufes, having occasion to lye on the shoare, laying their Shallop in a Creeke not faire from them, an Indian came into the same, and itole certaine Beads, Ciffers, and other trifies out of the same, which when the Captaine missed, he tooke certaine of his company with him, and went to the Sachim, telling him what had hapned, and requiring the fame againe, or the party that fiole them (who was knowne to certaine of the Indians) or elfe he would revenge it on them before his departure, and so tooke leave for that night being late, refusing whatfor wer kindneffe they offered. On the morrow, the Sachien came to their randenow, accompanied with many men, in a stately manner, who faluting the Captaine in this wife; He thrust out his tongue, 40 that one might fee the roote thereof, and therewith licked his hand from the wrift to the fingers end, withall bowing the knee, ftriuing to imitate the Englife gefture, being inftructed therein formerly by Tilquanium: his men did the like, but inforude and Sauage a manner, as our men could fearce forbeare to breake out in open laughter. After falutation, he delivered the Beads, and other things to the Captaine, faying, he had much beaten the party for doing it, causing the women to make Bread, and bring them, according to their delire, feeming to be very forty for the fact, but glad to be reconciled. So they departed, and came home in latery; where the Coune was equally divided, as before.

After this, the Gouernour went to two other inland Townes, with another Company, and bought Corne likewise of them, the one is called Namaskes, the other Manomes. That from Na. 50 masket was brought home partly by Indian women; but a great fickneffe artling amongst them, our owne men were inforced to fetch home the reft. That at Manomer the Gouernour left in the Sachims custody: this Towne lieth from vs South well neere twenty miles, and stands upon a fresh River, which runneth into the Bay of Nanobigganset, and cannot be leffe then fixty miles from thence. It will beare a Boat of eight or ten tun to this place. Hither the Dutch, or French, or both vieto come, It is from hence to the Bay of Cape Cod about eight miles; out of which Bay it floweth into a Creeke fome fix miles almost direct towards the Towne. The heads of the Ruer, and this Creeke, are not farre diffant. This River yeeldeth thus high, Oysters, Muscles, Clams, and other Shel-fish, one in shape like a Beane, another like a Clam, both good meate, and great abundance at all times; besides it aboundeth with divers forts of treth fish in their seasons. 60 The Governous or Sachim of this place, was called Canacum, who had formerly, as well as many others (yea all with whom as yet we had to doe) acknowledged themselves the Subjects of our Sourraigne Lord the King. This Sachim vied the Gouernour very kindely, and it feemed was of good respect and authority among it the Indians. For whilest the Governour was there within CHAP. 5. Tobacco and Beades. Abundance of Baffe. Colonie. night in bitter weater, came two men from Manamoiek, before spoken of, and hatting fet afide their Bowes and Quiuers, according to their manner, fat down by the fire, and tooke a pipe of Tobacco, not ving any words in that time, nor any other to them, but all remained filent, expecting when they would peake: At length they looked toward Canacum, and one of them made a thore speech, and delivered a prefent to him from his Sachim, which was a basket of Tobacco, and many Beades, which the other received thankfully. After which, he made a long speech to him, the contents hereof was related to vs by Hobbamock (Who then accompanied the Gouernour for his Guide) to be as followeth; It hapned that two of their men fell out as they were 'in game ffor they vie gaming as much as any where, and will play away all, even their skin from their Sauages great to backs, yea and for their wives skins alfo, though it may be they are many miles diffant from them. gamfters, as my telte have feene) and growing to great heat, the one killed the other. The actor of this tact was a Powah, one of speciali note among it them, and such an one as they could not well miffe, yet another people greater then themselnes threatned them with warre, if they would not put him to death. The partie offending was in hold, neither would their Saehim doe one way or other till their returne, refting spon him for a love and furtherance in fo weightie a matter. After this there was filence a fhorrtime; at length men gave their judgement what they thought beft. Amonest others, he asked Hobbamock what he thought! Who answered, he was but's ftranger to them, but thought it was better that one should die then many, fince he had deserved it, and the relt were innocent; whereupon he passed the sentence of death vpon him. Not long after (auing no great quantitie of Corne left) Captaine Standift went againe with a Shallon to Mattachieft, meeting also with the like extremitie of weather, both of winde. Snow. and Froft, intomuch as they were frozen in the harbour the first night they entred the lame.

Here they pretended their wonted love, and spared them a good quantitie of Corne to confirme the same: Strangers also came to this place, pretending onely to see him and his Companie, whom they never faw before that time, but intending to joyne with the reft to kill them, as after appeared. But being forced through extremitie to lodge fir their houses, which they much preffed, God possessed the heart of the Captaine with inft realousie, giving frait command, that as Infticalousie, one part of his Companie slept, the rest should wake, declaring some things to them which he vinderstood, whereof he could make no good construction. Some of the Indians spring a fit op-30 portunitie, stole some Beades also from him, which he no somer perceived, having not about tix men with him, drew them all from the Boat, and let them on their goard about the Sachims house, where the most of the people were, threatning to fall vpon them without further delay.

if they would not forthwith reftore them, fignifying to the Sachim especially, and so to them all. that as he would not offer the least iniurie, so he would not receive any at their hands, which should eleape without plinishment or due fatisfaction. Hereupon the Sachim bestirred him to finde out the partie, which when he had done, caused him to returne them agains to the Shallop, and came to the Captaine, defiring him to fearch whether they were not about the Boat. who fuspe Ring their knauerie, fent one, who found them lying openly voon the Boats cuady; yet to appeale his anger, they brought Corne afresh to trade, infomuch as he laded his Shallop, and so do departed. This accident fo daunted their courage, as they durft not attempt any thing against him. So that through the good mercy and prouidence of God they returned in fafetie. At this Bafe Summer place the Indians get abundance of Baife both Summer and Winter, for it being now February and Win.cr. they abounded with them.

In the beginning of March, having refreshed himselfe, he tooke a Shallop, and went to Mansmet, to ferch home that which the Governour had formerly bought, hoping also to get more from them, but was deceived in his expectation, not finding that entertainment he found elfewhere, and the Gouernour had therereceived. The region whereof and of the trecherie intended in the place before spoken of, was not then knowne vnto vs. but afterwards : wherein may be observed the abundant mercies of God working with his providence for our good. Captaine Standifb being now farre from the Boat, and not about two or three of our men with 50 him, and as many with the Shallop, was not long at Canacum the Sachims licufe, but in came two of the Maffachuset men, the chiefe of them was called Waturamet, a notable infulting villaine, one who had formerly imbrued his hands in the bloud of English and French, and had oft boafted of his owne valour, and derided their weaknesse, especially because (as he faid) they died crying, making fowre faces, more like children then men. This villaine tooke a dagger from about his necke (which hee had gotten of Miffer Westons people) and presented it to the Sachim, and after made a long speech in an audacious manner, framing on it in fuchtort, as the Captaine (though he be the best Linguist amongst vs) could not gather any thing from it. The end of it was afterward discouered to be as followeth : The Maf. 60 fachenfences formerly concluded to ruinate Master Westons Colonie, and thought themsfelues, being about thirty or forty men ftrong, enough to execute the fame : yet they durit not attempt it, till fuch time as they had gathered more firength to themselves to make their partie good against vs at Plimoth, concluding, that if wee remained (though they had no other Arguments to vie again t vs) yet wee would never leade the death of our Countrimen vareuenged, and therefore their safetie could not be without the ouerthrow of both Plantations. To this end they had formerly folicited this Sachim, as also the other called lanoneb at Mattachieft, and many others to affit them, and now againe came to prosecute the same; and since there was so faire an opportunitie offered by the Captaines pre-Hence, they thought best to make fure him and his Company. After this message was deliuered, his entertainment much exceeded the Captaines, infomuch as hee scorned at their behaujour, and told them of it: after which, they would have perswaded him, because the weather was cold, to haue fent to the Boate for the rest of his Company, but he would not, defiring according to promife, that the Corne might be carried downe, and he would content the women for their labour, which they did. At the same time there was a lufty Indian of 10 Paomet or Cap: Cod then prefent, who had ever demeaned himselfe well towards vs, being in his generall carriage very affable, courteous, and louing, especially towards the Captaine. This Sauge was now entred into confederacie with the reft , yet to avoide sulpition , made many figures of his continued aff. ctions, and would needes beftow a Kettle of fune fix or feuen gallons on him, and would not accept of any thing in lieu thereof, faying, he was rich, and could afford to bettow fuch fauou son his friends whom he loued; also hee would freely helpe to carry some of the Corne, ffirming he had never done the like in his life before, and the winde being bad would needes lodge with him at their Randeuow, having indeede vndertaken to kill him before they parted, which done they intended to fall vpon the reft. The night proued exceeding cold, infomuch as the Captaine could not take any rest, but either walked or tur- an ned himtelfe to and froat the fire: This the other observed, and asked wherefore he cid not fleepe as at other times, who answered he knew not well, but had no defire at all to reft. So that he then mist hisopportunity. The winde seruing on the next day, they returned home, accompanied with the other Indian, who vied many arguments to perswade them to go to Paomes, where himself had much Corne, and many other, the most wherof he would procure for vs, seeming to forrow for our wants. Once the Captaine put forth with him, and was torced backe by contrary winde; which winde ferued for the Maffachufet, was fitted to goe thither. But on a fudden it altered againe.

Mamasket.

2999999

Faire opportunitie. I rofesed friendsbip. Troubled Spirit. LIB.X.

During the time that the Captaine was at Manomer, newes came to Plimoth that Maffaffor wat was like to die, and that at the same time there was a Dutch Ship driven so high on the shoare by firefie of weather, right before his dwelling, that till the tides encreafed, the could not begoe off. Now it being a commendable manner of the Indians, when any (effecially of note) are dangeroully ficke, for all that profelle friendship to them, to visit them in their extremity, either in their persons, or else to send some acceptable persons to them, therefore it was thought meete (being a good and warrantable action) that as we had ever professed friendship, so we should now maintaine the same, by observing this their laudable custome; and the rather, because we defined to have some conference with the Duich, not knowing when we should have so fit an opportunity. To that end my felfe having formerly beene there, and vinderstanding in some measure the Dutch tongue, the Gouernour againe laid this feruice vpon my felfe, and fitted me with fome cordials to administer to him, having one Matter John Hamden a Gentleman of London (who then wintered with vs, and defired much to see the Country) for my Consort, and Hobbanocke for our 40 guide, So we fet forward, and lodged the first night at Namacket, where we had friendly enter-the ficke.

Reports of Maffaffewats

Dutch Ship.

Visitations of

The next day about one of the clock, we came to a ferrie in Conbatants Country, where vpon discharge of my Peece, divers ludious came to vs from a house not far off. There they told vs, that Massafassonat was dead, and that day buried, and that the Duteb would be gone before we could get thicher, having houe off their Ship already. This newes flrucke vs blanke; but especially Hobbamocke, who defired we might returne with all speede. I told him I would first thinke of it, confidering now that he being dead, Combatant was the most like to succeede him, and that we were not about three miles from Massapsoft his dwelling place, although he were but a hollow-hearted friend towards vs, I thought no time fo fit as this, to enter into more friendly tearmes with 70 him, and the rest of the Sachines thereabout, hoping (through the bleffing of God) it would be a meanes in that vnietled state, to fettle their affections towards vs, and though it were somewhat dangerous, in respect of our personall safety, because my selfe and Hobbamocke had beene impleyed vpon a service against him, which he might now fitly revenge; yet esteeming it the best means, leaving the event to God in his mercy, I resolved to put it in practise, if Master Hamden and Hobbamock durft attempt it with me, whom I found willing to that or any other course might tend to the generall good. So we went towards Mattapunft. In the way, Hobbamocke manifelling a troubled spirit, brake forth into these speeches, Neen womas Sagimus, neen womas Sagimus, Se. My louing Sachim, my louing Sachim. Many haue I knowne, but neuer any like thee: And turning him to me faid; Whileft I hued, I should neuer see his like amongst the Indians, saying, he 60 was no lyer, he was not bloudy and cruell like other Indians; In anger and passion he was some reclaimed, case to be reconciled towards such as had offended him, ruled by reason in such meafure, as he would not fcorne the aduice of meane men, and that he governed his men better with few stroakes then others did with many; truely louing where he loued; yea, he stared we had not a faithfull triend left among the Indians, the wing how he oft-times reftrained their malice, &c. continuing a long speech with such signes of lamentation and vafeined forrow, as it would have made the hardeit heart relent. At length we came to Mattapuyst, and went to the Sachimo Comaco (for so they called the Sa-chims place, though they call an ordinary house Witeo) but Combatant the Sachim was not an home, but at Puckanokick, which was fome five or fix miles off; the Squa fachim (for fo they call Sachims wife) gaue vs friendly entertainment. Here we enquired againe concerning Maffaffowat, they thought him dead, but knew no certainty; wherupon I hired one to goe with all expedition to Puckanokick, that we might know the certainty thereof, and withall to acquaint Combatant to with our there being. About halfe an houre before Sun-fetting, the meffenger returned, and told ws that he was not yet dead, though there was no hope we should finde him living. Vpon this we were much reuiued, and fet forward with all speede, though it was late within night ere we got thither. About two of the clock that afternoone the Dutchmen departed, fo that in that refp. & our journie was frustrate. When we came thither, we found the house to full of men, as we could fearce get in, though they vied their beit diligence to make way for vs. There were they in the comforters, middelt of their charmes for him, making fuch a hellish noite, as it diftempered vs that were well, and therefore volike to ease him that was ficke. About him were fix or eight women, who chated his armes, legs, and thighes, to keep heat in him : when they had made an end of their charming, one told him that his friends the English were come to fee him (hauing understanding left, but his 10 fight was wholly gone) he asked wno was come, they told him Winfing (for they cannot pronounce the letter l, but ordinarly n in the place thereof) he defired to speake with me : when I came to him, & they told him of it, he put forth his hand to me, which I took; then he faid twice, though very inwardly , keen Winfnow, which is to fay, art thouwinflow? I answered, abbe, that is, yes; then he doubled thele words, Massa neen wont anes namen Winfnew, that is to fay, O Winflow I hall neuer fee thee agam, Then I called Hobbamock, and defired him to tell Maffaffowat, that the Gouernor hearing of his ticknes, was forry for the fame, & though by reason of many businesses he could not come himfelfe, yet he fent me with fuch things for him as he thought most likely, to doe him good in this extremity, and whereof if he pleased to take, I would presently give him; which he defired, and having a confection of many comtortable Conferues, on the point of my Knife I gaue 30 him fome, which I could flarce get thorow his teeth; when it was diffolued in his mouth, he fwallowed the juice of it, whereat those that were about him much reloyced, saying, he had not swallowed any thing in two daies before. Then I defired to fee his mouth, which was exceedingly furred, and his tongue swelled in such manner, as it was not possible for him to eat such meat as they had, his passage being stopt vp. Then I washed his mouth, and scraped his tongue, & got abundance of corruption out of the fame. After which, I gave him more of the confection, which he fwallowed with more readines; then he defired to drinke, I dissolved some of it in water, and gane him thereof; within halfe an houre this wrought a great alteration in him in the eies of all that beheld himspresently after hissight began to come to him. In the meane time I inquired how he slept, and when he went to ftoole. They taid he flept not in two daies before, & had not had a ftoole in fine; 40 then I gaue him more, and told him of a mishap we had by the way in breaking a bottle of drink, which the Gouernour also sent him, saying, if he would fend any of his men to Pataxet, I would fend for more of the same, also for Chickens to make him broth, & for other things which I knew were good for him, and would flay the returne of the Messenger, if he desired. This he tooke maruellous kindly, and appointed some, who were ready to go by two of the clock in the morning, against which time I made ready a Letter, declaring therein our good successe, the state of his body &c.desiring to fend such things as I fent for, and such physicke as the Surgion durst administer to him, He requested me that the day following, I would take my Peece, and kill him some Fowle, and make him some English pottage, such as he had eaten at Plimoth, which I promised : after his Romacke comming to him, I must needes make him some without Fowle, before I went abroad, which fonewhat troubled me; but being I must doe formewhat, I caused a woman to bruise some Corne, and take the flower from it, and fet ouer the grut or broken Corne in a Pipkin (for they haue earthen Pots of all fizes,) When the day broke, we went out (it being now March) to feeke hearbes, but could not finde any but Strawberrie leaues, of which I gathered a handful & put into the same, and because I had nothing to relish it, I went forth againe, and pulled vp a Saxafras root, and fliced a peece thereof, and boiled it till it had a good relish, and then tooke it out againe. The broth being boiled, I ftrained it thorow my handkerchiffe, and gaue him at least a pinte, which he dranke, and liked it very well. After this, his light mended more and more, also he had three moderate stooles, and tooke some rest: Intomuch, as we with admiration blessed God for giving his bletting to fuch raw and ignorant meanes, making no doubt of his recourry, himfelfe and all of 60 them acknowledging vs the instruments of his preservation. That morning he caused me to spend in going from one to another amongst those that were sicke in the Town, requesting me to wash their mouthes also, and give to each of them some of the same I gave him, saying, they were good folke. This paines I tooke with willing reffe, though it were much offenfine to me, not being accultomed with fuch poisonous fauours.

The Messers were now returned, but finding his stomacke come to him, he would not have the Chickens killed, but kept them for breede. Neither durit we give him any physicke which was then fent, because his body was so much altered tince our instructions, neither faw we any neede, not doubting now of his recourry, if he were carefull. Many whilest we were there came to lee him, some by their report from a place not lesse then an hundred miles. Vpon this his recourty, he brake torth into thele speeches; Now I fee the English are my friends and loue me, and whileft thise I will never forget this kindenesse they have showed me. Whilest wee were there. our entertainment exceeded all other strangers. At our comming away, he called Hobbamocke to him, and privately (none hearing faue two or three other of his Pueefes, who are of his Counfell) revealed the plot of the Maffachenfencks before Ipoken of, against Mafter Westons Colony. 10 and to against vs, taying that the people of Naufet, Paomet, Succouet Mattachieft, Manomet Ago. warmam, and the lie of Capamack, were joyned with them; himselfe also in his fickenede was earnestly follicited, but he would neither joyne therein, nor give way to any of his. Therefore as we respected the lines of our Countrimen, and our owne after-lafety, he admied vs to kill the men of Mallachneet, who were the authors of this intended mischiefe. And whereas we were wont to fay, we would not frike a froke till they first began; if faid he vpon this intelligence. they make that aniwer, tell them, when their Countrimen at Wichagufouffet are killed, they being not able to defend themselves, that then it will be too late to recover their lives, nay through the He revealeth the tree try of multitude of adversaries they shall with great difficultie preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficultie preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficultie preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficultie preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficulties preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficulties preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficulties preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficulties preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficulties preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficulties preserve their own, & therefore he countries they shall with great difficulties preserve the shall with great difficulties preserve the shall with great difficulties preserve the shall be a shall the tree errory of the Mallachu. felled without delay to take a way the principals, and then the plot would cease. With this hee in charged him thorowly to acquaint me by the way, that I might informe the Gouernour thereof at my first comming home. Being fitted for our returne, we tooke our leaue of him, who returned many thankes to our Gouernour, and also to our selves for our labour and loue : the like did all that were about him. So we departed.

That night, thorow the earnest request of Combatant, who till now remained at Samaams or Puckanutick, we lodged with him at Mattapunft. By the way I had much conference with him. to likewife at his house, he being a notable politician, yet full of merry iests and squibs, and neper better pleafed then when the like are returned againe vpon him. Amongst other things he asked me. It in case he were thus dangerously ficke, as Maffaffor at had beene, and should fend word thereof to Painxet for Maskiet, that is, Phylicke, whether then Master Gouernour would fend it? and if he would, whether I would come therewith to him? To both which I answered yea; whereat he gaue me many joyfull thankes. After that, being at his house, he demanded further, how we durst being but two come so farre into the Country ! I answered, where was true love there was no feare, and my heart was so vpright towards them, that for mine owne part I was feareleffe to come among ft them. But, faid he, if your love be such, and it bring forth such fruits, how commeth it to paffe, that when we come to Patuzet, you fland vpon your guard, with the mouthes of your Peeces presented towards vs ? Whereupon I answered, it was the most honorable and respective entertainment we could give them; it being an order among it vs so to receive out best respected friends : and as it was vied on the Land, to the Ships observed it also at Sea, which Hobbamock knew, and had feene observed. But shaking the head, heanswered, that he 40 liked not fuch falutations.

Further, observing vs to craue a bleffing on our meate before we did eate, and after to give thankes for the same, he asked vs what was the meaning of that ordinary custome? Hercupon I tooke occasion to tell them of Gods workes of Creation, and Preservation, of the Lawes and Ordinances, especially of the ten Commandements, all which they hearkned vnto with great attention, and liked well of; onely the feuenth Commandement they excepted against, thinking there were many inconveniences in it, that a man should be tied to one woman: about which we reasoned a good time. Also I told them, that what soener good things we had, we received from God, as the Author and giver thereof, and therefore crawed his bleifing vpon that we had, and were about to eate, that it might nourish and strengthen our bodies, and having eaten sufficie 50 ent, being fatisfied therewith, we againe returned thankes to the same our God for that our refreshing, &c. This all of them concluded to be very well, and faid, they believed almost all tive fame things, and that the fame power that we called God, they called Kietstan. Much profitable conference was occasioned hereby, which would be too tedious to relate, yet was no leile delightfull to them, then comfortable to vs. Here we remained onely that night, but neuer had better entertainment amongst any of them.

The day following, in our journey, Hobbamocke told me of the private conference he had with Maff afformat, and how he charged him perfectly to acquaint me there with (as I shewed before) which having done, he vied many arguments himfelfe to moue vs thereunto: That night we lodged at Namasket, and the day following about the mid-way betweene it and home, we met 60 two Indians, who told vs that Captaine Standift was that day gone to the Majachnfets :but contrary windes againe draue him backe, fo that we found him at home; where the Indian of Paomet still was, being very importunate that the Captaine should take the first opportunitie of a faire winde to goe with him, but their fecret and villanous purpofes being through Gods mercy now made knowne, the Gouernour caused Captaine Standist to send him away without any diffafte or manifestation of anger, that we might the better effect and bring to passe that which should be thought most necessary.

CHAP. 5. Undirect meanes. Secret Plot. Grienous Relation.

Before this journey we heard many complaints both by the Indian; and fome others of best defert amongst Master Wester : Colony , how exceedingly their Company abased themselues by vndirect meanes, to get victuals from the Indians, who dwelt not farre from them, fetching them wood & water, &c. and all for a meales meate, whereas in the meane time, they might with diligence haue gotten enough to haue ferued them three or foure times. Other by night brake the earth, and robbed the Indians store, for which they had beene publiquely stocked and whipt, no and yet was there small amendment. This was about the end of February, at which time they had front all their Bread and Corne, not leaving any for Seede, neither would the Indians lend or fell them any more voon any tearmes. Hereupon they had thought to take it by violence, and to that (piked vp enery entrance into their Towne (being well impaled) faue one, with a full refolution to proceede. But some more honestly minded, aduited lobn Sanders their Ouer-feer first to write to Plimeth, and if the Gouernor aduifed him thereunto, he might the better doe it. They fent, and our Gouernour writ divers reasons of dislike. With these Letters wee dispatched the Mellenger ; Vpon the receipt whereof they altered their determination, resoluting to shift as they could, till the returne of Iohn Sanders from Manhiggen, who first comming to Plimoth, notwithstanding our owne necessities, the Gouernour spared him fome Corne to carrie them to 30 Munbiggen. But not having sufficient for the Ships store, he tooke a Shallop, and leaving others with instructions to over-fee things till his returne, fee forward about the end or February, fo that he knew not of this confipracie of the Indians before his going, neither was it knowne to any of vs till our returne from Samaams or Packanakick; at which time also another Sachim called Wassapinewat, brother to Obratiest the Sachim of the Massachusete, who had formerly finarted for partaking with Combatant, and fearing the like againe, to purge himlelfe, reuealed the fame thing.

The three and twentieth of March being now come, which is a yearely Court day, the Gouernour having a double restimony, and many circumstances agreeing with the truth thereof, not being to vndertake warre without the confent of the body of the Company; made knowne the 30 Same in publique Court. We came to this conclusion, That Captaine Standish should take so many men as he thought sufficient to make his party good against all the Indians in the Maffachases Bay; & because (as all men know that have had to doe in that kinde) it is impossible to deale with them youn open defiance, but to take them in such traps as they lay for others; therfore he should pretend trade as at other times: but first goe to the English, & acquaint them with the plot, & the end of his owne comming, that comparing it with their carriages towards them, he might better judge of the certainty of it, and more fitly take opportunity to revenge the fame: but should forbeare if it were possible till such time as he could make sure Witumamat, that bloudy & bold villain before spoken of, whose head he had order to bring with him, that hee might be a warning and terrour to all that disposicion. Vpon this, Captaine Standifb made choice of eight men , and 40 would not take more because he would preuent lealousie, knowing their guilty consciences would foone be prouoked thereunto : but on the next day before he could goe, came one of Master Weflons Company by land vnto vs, with his packe at his backe, who made a pittifull narration of their lamentable and weake estate, and of the Indians carriages, whose boldnesse increased abundantly, infomuch as the victuals they got, they would take it out of their Pots and eate before lence. their faces, yea if in any thing they gaine-faid them, they were ready to hold a Knife at their breafts; that to give them content, fince Iohn Sanders went to Munhiggen, they had hanged one of them that Role their Corne, and yet they regarded it not : that another of their Company was turned Sauage, that their people had most forsaken the Towne, and made their randeuous where they got their victuals, because they would not take paines to bring it home; that they had fold their cloathes for Corne, and were ready to starue both with cold and hunger also, because they 50 could not indure to get victuals by reason of their nakednesse: and that they were dispersed into three Companies, Carce having any Powder and Shot left. As this Relation was grieuous to vs, fo it gaue vs good encouragement to proceede in our intendments, for which Captaine Standib was now fitted, and the winde comming faire, the next day fet forth for the

The Indians at the Massachusets missed this man, and suspecting his comming to vs, as wee conceine, fent one after him, and gaue out there that he would never come to Palaxet, but that fome Wolues or Beares would ease him : but we know not by our owne experience, and the report of others, that though they finde a man fleeping, yet fo foone as there is life differned, they 60 feare and thun him. This Indian miffed him but very little, and miffing him paffed by the towne and went to Manomet, whom we hoped to take at his returne, as afterward we did. Now was our Fort made fit for service and some Ordnance mounted; and though it may seeme long worke it being ten moneths fince it begun, yet we must note, that where so great a worke is begun with fuch small meanes, a little time cannot bring to perfection : beside those workes which tend to 09999993

Their name ot God.

CHAP. S.

the preferration of man, the enemy of mankinde will hinder what in him lieth, sometimes blinin gement, and cauting reasonable men to reason against their own fafety. The Indian Life mentioned in his returne from Monomet, came through the Towne, pretending still friendship and in love to fee vs. but as formerly others, to his end was to fee whether wee continued full in health and strength, or fell into weakenesse like their neighbours, which they hoped and looked for (though God in mercy prouised better for vs) and hee knew would be glad tydings to his Countrie men. But here the Gouernour flail him, and fending for him to the Fort, there gade the Guard charge of him as their prisoner, where he told him hee must be contented to remaine till the return of Captain Standoft from the Maffachufets, to he was locked in a chaine to a staple in the Court of guard, and there kept. Thus was our Fort hanfelled, this being the first day as I take it. To that ever any watch was there kept.

The Captaine being now come to the Maffachafets, went fift to the Ship , butfound neither man or fo much as a Dogge therein: vpon the discharge of a Musket the Master and some others of the Plantation shewed themselves, who were on the shore gathering ground-nuts, and getting other foode. After falutation, Captaine Standifb asked them how they durft fo leave the Ship, and line in fuch fecurity, who answered like men senslesse of their owne misery, they feared not the Indians but hue I and furfered them to lodge with them, not having Sword or Gunne, or needing the same. To which the Captaine answered, if there were no cause he was the gladder, but woon further inquiry, understanding that those in whom John Sanders had reposed most speciall confidence and lett in his flead to gouerne the rest, were at the Plantation : thither he went, and 20 to be briefe, made knowne the Indians purpose, and the end of his owne comming, as also (which formerly I omitted) that if afterward they durit not there flay, it was the intendment of the Gouernours and people of Plimouth there to receive them till they could be better provided: but if they conceined of any other course that might be more likely for their good, that himselfe should further them therein to the vttermoit of his power. These men comparing other circumstances with that they now heard, aniwered, they could expect no better, and it was Gods mercy that they were not killed before his comming, defiring therefore that he would neglect no opportunity to proceede : Hereupon he aduised them to secrecy, yet withall to send special command to one third of their Company that were farthest off to come home, and there enjoyee them on paine of death to keepe the Towne, himfelfe allowing them a pint of Indian Corne to a man for a day (though that flore he had was spared out of our Seede.) The weather prouing very wet and flormy it was the longer before he could doe any thing. In the meane time an Indian came to him and brought some Furres, but rather to gather what he could from the Captaines, then comming then for trade; and though the Captaine carried things as smoothly as possibly he could, yet at his returne he reported he saw by his eyes that he was angry in his heart, and therefore began to suspect themselves discovered. This caused one Peckfuot who was a Pinefe, being a man of a notable spirit to come to Hobbamacke who was then with them, and told him hee vinderstood that the Captaine was come to kill himselfe and the rest of the Sauages there; tell him, said he, we know it, but feare him not, neither will we shun him ; but let him begin when he dare, he shall not take vs at vnawares : many times af- 40 ter, divers of them feuerally, or few together, came to the Plantation to him, where they would whet and sharpen the point of their Kniues before his face, and vie many other infulting gestures and speeches. Amongst the rest, Witamanas bragged of the excellency of his Knife, on the end of the handle there was pictured a womans face, but faid hee, I have another at home wherewith I have killed both French and English, and that hath a mans face on it, and by and by thele two must marry : Further he said of that Knife he there had ; Hinnaim namen, hinnaim michen, mattacuts: that is to lay, By and by it should see, and by and by it should eaten but not speake. Also Peck fuor being a man of greater stature then the Captaine, told him, though he were a great Captaine, yet he was but a little man : and faid he, though I be no Sachim, yet I am a man of great ftrength and courage. These things the Captaine observed, yet bare with patience for the pre- 19 fent. On the next day, feeing he could not get many of them together at once, and this Peckfuot and Winmamat both together, with another man, and a youth of some eighteene yeares of age, which was brother to Witumamat, and villaine-like trode in his steps, daily putting many trickes upon the weaker fort of men, and having about as many of his owne Company in a roome wich them, gave the word to his men, and the doore being fall thut, began himfelte with Perke Sauages flin. fuot, and fnatching his owne Knife from his necke, though with much ftrugling, killed him therewith, the point whereof he had made as tharpe as a needle, and ground the backe also to an edge: Withmannar and the other man, the rest killed, and tooke the youth, whom the Captaine cauled to be hanged; but it is incredible how many wounds thefe two Pueefes received before they died, not making any fearefull noyfe, but catching at their weapons and ftriuing to the latt. Hobba- 60 mocke flood by all this time as a spectator and medled not, observing how our men demeaned themselves in this action : all being here ended, smiling, he brake forth into these speeches to the Captaine; Yesterday Pecks foot bragging of his owne strength and stature, faid, though you were a great Captaine, yet you were but a lttle man; but to day I fee you are big enough to lay him on the ground. But to proceede, there being fome women at the fame time, Captaine Standish left them in the custody of Master Westons people at the Towne, and fent word to another Company that had intelligence of things to kill thole Indian men that were amongst them, these kil-Led two more: himfelte also with some of his owne men went to another place, where they kill led another, and through the negligence of one man an Indian escaped, who discourred and croffed their proceedings.

Not long before this Execution, three of Master Westons men, which more regarded their bel- Savage Eng. lies then thy command or Commander, having formerly tared well with the Indians for making liftmen. them Clanoes, went againe to the Sachim to offer their feruice, and had entertainment. The first to night they came thither within night lace came a Meffenger with all speede, and deliuered a fad and fhort meffage: Whereupon all the men gathered together, put on their Bootes and Breeches, trusted up themselves, and tooke their Bowes and Arrowes and went forth, selling them they went a hunting, and that at their returns they should have Venison enough. Being now gone, one being more ancient and wife then the reft, calling former things to minde, especially the Captaines preience, and the itrait charge, that on paine of death none should got a Musket-shoe from the Piantation; and comparing this sudden departure of theirs therewith, began to dislike and with himfelfe at home againe, which was further of then divers other dwelt. Hereupon he moued his fellowes to returne, but could not perfwade them : fo there being none but women leit, and the other that was turned Sauage, about midnight came away, forfaking the paths left

20 he should be purfued, and by this meanes faued his life. Captaine Standish tooke the one halfe of his men, and one or two of Master Westons, and Hobba. mock, still tecking to make spoyle of them and theirs. At length they espied a file of Indians which made towards them amayne, and there being a small advantage in the ground by reason of a Hill neere them, both Companies ftroue for it. Captain Standillo got it, whereupon they retreated and tooke each man his Tree, letting flie their Arrowes amayne, especially at himselfe and Hobbemocke, whereupon Hobbamocke calt off his coate, and being a knowne Pinefe, (theirs being now killed) chased them so fast, as our people were not able to hold way with him, insomuch as our men could have but one certaine marke, and then but the arme and halfe face of a notable villaine as hee drew at Captaine Standish, who together with another both discharged at him, and 30 brike his arme ; whereupon they fled into a swampe, when they were in the thicket they para lied, but to small purpose, getting nothing but foule language. So our Captain dared the Sachine to come out and fight like a man, thewing how base and womanlike hee was in tounging it as he did : but he refuled and fled. So the Captaine returned to the Plantation, where hee released the women and would not take their Beauer coates from them, nor suffer the least discourtese to bee offered them. Now were Master Westons people resoluted to Icaue their Plantation and goe for Munitiggen, hoping to get passage and returne with the Fishing Ships. The Captaine told them. that for his owne part hee durit there line with fewer men then they were , yet fince they were otherwayes minded, according to his order from the Gouernours and people of Plimonth, hee would helpe them with Corne competent for their provision by the way, which hee did, scarce 40 leaving himfelfe more then brought them home. Some of them diffiked the choice of the bodie to goe to Munbiggen, and therefore defiring to goe with him to Plimenth, hee tooke them into the Shallop : and teeing them fet fayle and cleere of the Maffachufet Bay, he tooke leave and returned to Plissouib, whither hee came in fafetie (bleffed be God) and brought the head of Witne

Among ft the reft, there was an Indian youth that was ever of a courteous and louing disposition on towards vs, hee notwithstanding the death of his Countrimen, came to the Captaine without fea: e, laying, His good conscience and loue towards vs imboldned him so to doe. This youth confessed that the Indians intended to kil Master Westons people, and not to delay any longer then till they had two more Canoes or Boats, which Malter Weltons men would have finished by this 50 time (having made them three already) had not the Captaine prevented them, and the end of stay for those Boats, was to take their Ship therewith.

Now was the Captaine returned and received with ioy, the head being brought to the Fors and there fet up, the Gouernours and Captaines with divers others went up the fame further, to examine the priloner, who looked pittioully on the head, being asked whether he knew it, he anfwered, yea : Then he confessed the plot, and that all the people prouoked Obtakest their Sachim thereunto, being drawne to it by their importunitie : Fine there were (he faid) that profecuted it with more eagernesse then the rest, the two principall were killed, being Peckiner and Witnmamat, whose head was there, the other three were Pomabs, being yet living, and knowne vnto ys, though one of them was wounded, as aforelaid. For himfelte hee would not acknowledge that hee had any hand therein , begging earnestly for his life, faying, Hee was not a Maffachufet man, but as a litranger lived with them. Hobbamock also gave a good report of him, and belought for him, but was bribed fo to doe it. Neuertheleffe, that wee might fliew mercy as well as extreamitie, the Gouernour released him, and the rather because we desired he might carry a message to Obravef his Mafter. No fooner were the Irons from his legs, but he would have beene gone, but the Gouernour bid him flay and feare not, for hee should receive no hurt, and by Hobbamock commanded him to deliver his meffage to his Malter ; That for our parts, it never entred into our hearts to take such a course with them, till their owne treachery enforced us thereunto, and therefore they much to take fuch a course with the name outer them yet face bee bad begun, if againe by any the file course the course the name to have the file course the did prouche him, his Country should not bold him, for her would never suffer him or his to rest in peace. till hee had viterly consumed them, and therefore should take this as a marning. Further, that he should fend to Patuxet the three Englishmen hee bad and not kill them; also that bee should not fools the Pele and Honles at Wichaguscusset, and that this Messenger should either bring the English, or an answer or both, pro mising his lafe returne.

both, promiting the jate resource.

This message was deliuered, and the partie would have returned with answer, but was at first to diffwaded by them, whom afterward they would, but could not perswade to come to vs. At length (though long) a woman came and told vs that Obtakieft was forry that the Englifb were killed before he heard from the Gouernour, otherwise hee would have sent them. Also shee faid: hee would faine make his peace againe with vs , but none of his men durft come to treate about it, having forfaken his dwelling, and daily removed from place to place, expecting when wee would take further vengeance on him.

Concerning those other people that intended to joyne with the Maffachuleucks against ve though we neuer went against any of them, yet this sudden and vnexpected execution, together with the inft indgement of God vpon their guiltie confciences, hath to terrified and amazed them, as in like manner they forfooke their houses, running to and fro like men distracted, living 20 in fwamps and other defert places, and so brought manifold difeases among it themselves, whereof very many are dead, as Canacum the Sachim of Manomet, Afpinet the Sachim of Naufet, and Isnoneb Sachim of Mattachnest. This Sachim in his life, in the middeft of these diffractions, faid. The God of the English was offended with them, and would destroy them in his anger; and certainly it is ftrange to heare how many of late haue, and full daily dye amongft them, neither is there any likelihood it will eafily cease, because through feare they fet little or no Corne, which is the statte of life, and without which they cannot long preferue health and iftrength. From one of thefe places a Boat was fent with Prefents to the Gouernour, hoping thereby to worke their peace, but the Boat was cast away, and three of the perions drowned, not farre from our Plantation on, onely one escaped, who durft not come to ve, but returned, fo as none of them date come 20 among it vs.

An. 1622.

1866

The moneth of April being now come, on all hands we began to prepare for Corne. And because there was no Corne left before this time, saue that was preserved for Seed, being also hopeleffe of reliefe by supply, we thought best to leave off all other workes and profecute that as most necessarie. And because there was no small hope of doing good, in that common course of labour that formerly wee were in, for that the Governours that followed men to their labours, had nothing to give men for their necessicies, and therefore could not so well exercise that command ouer them therein as formerly they had done, especially confidering that selfe-loue wherewith euery man (in a meature more or leffe) loueth and preferreth his owne good before his neighbours, and also the base disposicion of some drones, that as at other times so now especially would bee an most burdenous to the rest : It was therefore thought best that every man should viethe best diligence he could for his owne preferuation, both in respect of the time present, and to prepare his owne Corne for the veere following: and bring in a competent portion for the maintenance of publike Officers. Fishermen, &c. which could not bee freed from their calling without greater inconveniences. This course was to continue till harvest, and then the Governours to gather in the appointed portion, for the maintenance of themselves and such others as necessitie constrained to exempt from this condition.

In the middest of Aprill webegan to set, the weather being then seasonable, which much incouraged vs, giving vs good hopes of after plentie : the fetting feafon is good till the latter end of May. But it pleafed God for our further chastifement, to fend a great drought, infomuch, as in fix 50 Great drought weekes after the later fetting there scarce fell any raine, so that the stalke of that was first fet, began to fend forth the eare before it came to halfe growth, and that which was later, not like to yeeld any at all, both blade and stalke hanging the head, and changing the colour in such manner as we indged it veterly dead : our Beanes also ran not vp according to their wonted manner, but flood at a flay, many being parched away, as though they had beene feerched before the fire. Now were our hopes ouerthrowne, and we discouraged, our joy being turned into mourning. To adde also to this forrowfull estate in which we were, we heard of a supply that was sent vnto vs many moneths fince, which having two repulles before, was a third time in company of another Ship three hundred Leagues at Sea, and now in three moneths time heard no further of her, onely the fignes of a wrack were feene on the Coast, which could not be judged to be any other then 60

> These & the like considerations, moved not only every good man privately to enter into examination with his own estate between God and his conscience, & so to humiliation before him that also more folemnly to humble our selues together before the Lord by Fasting and Frayer. To that end a day was appointed by publike authority, and let a part from all other emploiments, hoping Publike Faft, that the fame God which had ftirred vs vo hereunto, would be moued hereby in mercy to looke voon vs & grant the request of our dejected soules, it our continuance there might any way stand with his glorie and our good. But oh the mercy of our God! Who was as readie to heare as we to aske : For though in the morning when wee affembled together , the heavens were as cleete and the drought as like to continue as ever it was : yet (our exercise continuing some eight or nine Gracious houres) before our departure the weather was overcast, the clouds gathered together on all fides, dewes, and on the next morning distilled such fost, sweete, and moderate showers of raine, continuing fome fourteene daies, and mixed with fuch feafonable weather, as it was hard to fay whether to our withered Corne, or drouping affections were most quickned or reuised. Such was the boun-

tic and goodnesse of our God. Of this the Indians by meanes of Hobbamock tooke notice : who heing then in the Towne, and this exercise in the midft of the weeke, faid, It was but three daies fince Sunday, and therefore demanded of a boy what was the reason thereof? Which when hee knew and law what effects followed thereupon, hee and all them admired the goodnesse of our God towards vs, that wrought fo great a change in fo short a time, shewing the difference be- Indians conidtweene their Conjuration, and our Injurcation on the Name of God for raine; theirs being mixed ration. with fuch flormes and tempelts, as sometimes in stead of doing them good, it laieth the Corne flat on the ground, to their prejudice : but ours in fo gentle and feafonable a manner, as they never observed the like.

At the tame time Captaine Standish, being formerly imployed by the Gouernour, to buy prouifions for the refreshing of the Colony, returned with the fame, accompanied with on M. Danid M. Tomfor a Tomfon, a Scotchman, who also that Spring began a Plantation twentie fine leagues North-east Scot his Planfrom vs, neere Santhe lles, at a place called Pascatoguack, where hee liketh well. Now also tation. heard wee of the third repulie that our fupply had, of their fafe, though dangerous returne into England, and of their preparation to come to vs. So that having these many fignes of Gods favour and acceptation, wer thought it would bee great ingratitude, if fecretly wee fhould smoother vp the tame, or content our selves with private thanks giving, for that which by private praier could Day of thanks not be obtained. And therefore another folemne day was fet apart for that end wherein wee returned glory honour, and praise, with all thankfulnese to our good God, which dealt so graciously 30 with vs. whose name for these and all other his mercies towards his Church and chosen ones, by them be bleffed and praifed now and euermore, Amen.

In the latter end of July, and the beginning of August, came two Ships with supply vnto vs, Two Ships. who brought all their pailengers, except one, in health, who recourred in thort time, who also not-withstanding all our wants and hardship (bleffed be God) found not any one sick person amongst ws at the Plantation. The bigger Ship called the Anne was hired, and there againe fraughted backe, from whence wee fet faile the tenth of September. The leffer called the little Jumes, was built for the Company at their charge. Shee was now also fitted for Trade and discouery to the Southward of Cape Cod, and almost readie to fet faile, whom I pray God to bleffe in her good and lawfull proceedings.

Few things I thought meete to adde heereunto, which I have observed amongst the

A Indians, both touching their Religion, and fundry other Customes amongst them. And first, whereas my felfe and others, in former Letters (which came to the Presse against my Their Relieford will and knowledge) wrote, that the Indians about vs are a people without any Religion or The meaning knowledge of any God, therein I erred, though wee could then gather no better : For as they of the word, conceine of many divine powers, to of one whom they call Kiehran, to bee the principall maker Ajehran, I of all the reft, and to be made by none : Hee (they fay) created the Heauens, Earth, Sen, and all think bith recreatures contained therein. Also that hee made one man and one woman, of whom they and tiquity for wee and all mankind came : but how they became to farre differfed that know they not, At first chife is an old 50 they fay, there was no Sachim, or King, but Kiehtan, who dwelleth about the Heauens, whither man, and Kithall good men goe when they die to fee their friends, and have their fill of all things. This his habitation lyeth Westward in the Heavens, they say; thither the bad men goe also, and knocke at de hin acc. his doore, but he bids them Quachet, that is to lay, Walke abroad, for there is no place for fuch; fo tie maledelli. that they wander in relileffe want and penury. Neuer man faw this Kiebran; onely old men tell them of him, and bid them tell their children, yea, to charge them to teach their potterities the fame, and lay the like charge upon them. This power they acknowledge to be good, and when they would obtaine any great matter, meet together, and cry vinto him, and to likewise for plentie, victory, &c. ling, dance, feast, give thankes, and hang vp Garlands and other things in memo-60 ry of the fame.

Another power they worthip, whom they call Hobbamock, and to the Nothward of vs Hob- Their Devillbamoqui; this as farre as wee can conceiue is the Deuili, him they call upon to cure their wounds and difeales. When they are curable, hee perf wades them hee fends the same for some conceined angeragainst them , but voon their calling voon him can and doth helpe them : But when they are mortall, and not curable in nature, then he perfiwades them Kiebtan is angry and fends them

Offerings.

Sacrifices.

The Douill keeps his fer-

whom none can cure : infomuch, as in that respect onely they somewhat doubt whether hee bee fimply good, and therefore in ficknesse neuer call vpon him. This Hobbomock appeares in lundry formes vnto them, as in the shape of a Man, a Deare, a Fawne, an Eagle, &c. but most ordinarily a Snake : Hee appeares not to all, but the chiefest and most judicious amongst them, though allof them strue to attaine to that hellish height of Honour. He appeareth most ordinary, and is most conversant with three forts of people, one I confesse, I neither know by name nor office directly: Of these they have few but esteeme highly of them, and thinke that no weapon can kill them: another they call by the name of Powab, and the third Priefe.

Parabor Price The office and dutie of the Powab is to be exercised principally in calling upon the Deuill, and curing difeales of the licke or wounded. The common people ioyne with him in the exercise of In Innocation, but doe but onely affent, or as we terme it, fry Amen to that he faith, yet fometime breake out into a short muticall note with him. The Powab is eager and free in speech, fierce in countenance, and inyneth many antick and laborious gestures with the same over the partie difeased. If the partie be wounded, he will also sceme to sucke the wound, but if they bee curable (as they fay) hee toucheth it not, but a Skooke, that is the Snake, or Wohlacuck, that is the Eagle fitteth on his shoulder and lickes the same. This none see but the Ponat, who tells them hee doth it himfelfe. If the partie be otherwise diseased, it is accounted sufficient if in any shape hee but come into the house, taking it for an vindoubted figne of recouerv.

And as in former ages Apollo had his Temple at Delphos, and Diana at Ephesiu; fo have I heard them call youn some, as if they had their residence in some certaine places or because they appear 20 red in those formes in the same. In the Powahs speech hee promifeth to facrifice many skinnes of Beaits, Kettles, Hatchets, Beades, Knines, and other the best things they have to the fiend, if hee will come to helpe the partie difeated : But whether they performe it I know not. The other practiles I have feene, being necessarily called at some times to be with their ficke, and have vied the best arguments I could make them understand against the same : They have told me I should fee the Depull at those times come to the party, but I affured my selfe and them of the contrary, which fo proued : yea, them telues have confessed they never faw him when any of vs were prefent. In desperate and extraordinary hard trauell in childe-birth, when the partie cannot be delivered by the ordinary meanes, they fend for this Powab, though ordinarily their travell is not fo extreame as in our parts of the world, they being of a more hardie nature ; for on the third day 30 after childe-birth, I haue feene the mother with the Infant, vpon a fmall occasion in cold weather in a Boat woon the Sea.

Many facrifices the Indians vie, and in some cases kill children. It seemeth they are various in their religious worship in a little distance, and grow more and more cold in their worship to Kiebtan; laying, In their memory he was much more called vpon. The Nanobigganfets exceed in their blind denotion, and have a great spatious house wherein onely some few (that are as wee may tearme them Priests) come : thither at certaine knowne times resort all their people, and offer almost all the riches they have to their gods, as Kettles, Skins, Hatchets, Beades, Knines, &c. all which are cast by the Priests into a great fire that they make in the midst of the house, and there confumed to ashes. To this offering every man bringeth freely, and the more he is knowne 40 to bring, hath the better esteeme of all men. This the other Indian; about vs approue of as good, Burnt offring, and with their Sachims would appoint the like : and because the plague hath not raigned at Na-mobigganfet, as at other places about them, they attibute to this custome there vied. mants poorce The Panieses are men of great courage and wisedome, and to these also the Deuill appeareth Priefer valou. more familiarly then to others, and as wee conceine maketh conenant with them to preferue them from death, by wounds with Arrowes, Kniues, Hatchets, &c. or at least both themselues and especially the people thinke themselues to be freed from the same. And though against their battels, all of them by painting disfigure themselues, yet they are knowne by their courage and boldnesse, by reason whereof one of them will chase almost an hundred men, for they account it death for whomsoeuer stand in their way. These are highly esteemed of all forts of people, and 50 are of the Sachims Councell, without whom they will not warre or undertake any weightie bu-fineffe. In warre their Sachims, for their more fafetie goe in the midft of them. They are commonly men of greatest stature and strength, and such as will endure most hardnesse, and yet are more discreet, courteous, and humane in their carriages then any amongst them, scorning theft, lying, and the like base dealings, and stand as much whon their reputation as any men. And to the end they may have flore of these, they traine up the most forward and likeliest boyes from their child-hood in great hardnesse, and make them abitaine from daintie meat, obseruing divers orders prescribed, to the end that when they are of age the Deuill may appeare to them, cauling to drinke the juyce of Sentry and other bitter Hearbs till they cast, which they must disgorge into the platter, and drinke againe, and againe, till at length, through extraordinary prelling of nature 60 it will seeme to bee all bloud, and this the boyes will doe with eagernesse at the first, and so contime, till by reason of faintnesse they can scarce stand on their legs, and then must goe forth into the cold: also they beat their shins with sticks, and cause them to run through bushes, stumps, and brambles, to make them hardy and acceptable to the Deuill, that in time he may appeare vnto

Their Sachims cannot bee all called Kings, but onely some few of them, to whom the rest refore for protection, and payhomage vinto them, neither may they warre without their know- Lords. ledge and approbation, yet to be commanded by the greater as occasion ferueth. Of this fort is Massassana appropriated, and Conanacus of Nanobiggenset our supposed enemy. Every Sachim taketh care for the widdow and father lette, also for such as are aged, and any way may med, if their friends be dead, or not able to prouide for them. A Sachim will not take any to wife, but such an one as is equall to him in birth, other wife they fay their feede would in time become ignoble, and though they have many other wives, yet are they no other then concubines or fervants, and yeeld a kind of obedience to the principall, who ordereth the family, and them in it. The to like their men obserue also , and will adhere to the first during their lines ; but put away the other at their pleasure. This Gouernment is successue and not by choyce. If the father dye before the some ordaughter bee of age, then the while is committed to the protection and tuition of tome one amongit them, who ruleth in his ftead till hee be of age, but when that is

I know not. Every Sachim knoweth how farre the bounds and limits of his owne Countrey extendeth. and that is his owne proper inheritance, out or that if any of his men delire land to fet their Corne, hee giueth them as much as they can vie, and fets them in their bounds. In this circoit winofoeuer hunteth, if any kill any venifon, bring him his fee, which is foure parts of the same, if it bee killed on the Land, but if in the water, then the skin thereof: The Great 30 Saebams or Kings know not their owne bounds or limits of land, as well as the reft. All Tranellers or Strangers for the most part lodge at the Sachims, when they come, they tell them how long they will stay, and to what place they goe, during which time they receive entertainment according to their persons, but went not. Once a yeere the Puiefer vie to prouoke the people to Tributes bestow much Corne on the Sachim. To that end they appoint a certaine time and place neere the Sachims dwelling, where the people bring many baskets of Corne, and make a great flack thereof. There the Pniefes ftani ready to give thankes to the people on the Sachims behalfe, and after acquainteth the Sachins therewith, who fetcheth the same, and is no lesse thankfull, bestowing many gifts on them.

When any are vilited with sicknesse, their friends refort wnto them for their comfort, and con-30 tinue with them oftentimes till their death or recourry. If they die they flay a certaine time to Mourning for mourne for them. Night and morning they performe this dutie many daies after the buriall in a the dead. most dolefull manner, infomuch as though it bee ordinary, and the Note Musicall, which they take one from another, and altogether, yet it will draw teares from their eyes, and almost from ours also. But if they recouer then because their sicknesse was chargeable, they fend Corne and other gifts vnto them at a certaine appointed time, whereat they fealt and dance, which they cali Commoco.

When they bury the dead, they fowe up the corps in a mat and fo put it in the earth. If the partie bea Sachim, they couer him with many curious mats, and bury all his riches with him, and inclose the grave with a pale. If it bee a childe, the father will also put his owne most speciall 40 Izwels and Ornaments in the earth with it, also he will cut his haire and disfigure himselfe very much in token of forrow. If it bee the man or woman of the house, they will pull downe the mats and leave the framestanding, and bury them in or neere the same, and either remove their dwelling, or give ouer house-keeping. The men imploy themselues wholly in hunting, and other exercises of the Bow, except at their burdens, let and dreffe their Corne, gather it in, and feeke out for much of their food, beate ucry. and make readie the Corne to eate, and have all houshold care lying upon them. The younger fort reuerence the elder, and doe all meane offices whilft they are together, although they be strangers. Boyes and girles may not weare their haire like men and women, but

50 are diftinguished thereby. A man is not accounted a man till he doe some notable act, or shew forth such courage and reso. Manhoods lution as becommeth his place. The men take much Tobacco, but for boyes to doe they account it odious. All their names are fignificant and variable; for when they come to the flate of men and wo- Names. men, they alter them according to their deeds or dispositions. When a maide is taken in marriage, shee first cutteth her haire, and after weareth a couering Maids & wites on her head till her haire be growne out. Their women are dinerfly disposed, some as modestas they will fearce talke one with another in the company of men, being very chafte also: yet other some light, lasciuious and wanton. If a woman haue a bad husband, or cannot affect him, and there 60 bee warre or opposition betweene that and any other people, shee will runne away from him to the contrary partie and there hue, where they never come vinwelcome : for where are most women, there is greatest plentie. When a woman hath her monethly termes, shee separateth her felfe from all other company, and liueth certaine dayes in a house alone : after which she watheth her felfe and all that thee hath touched or vied, and is againe received to her husbands bed or fome times they take some paine in fishing. The women line a most slauish life, they carry all Womens slav Adulterie and family. For adultery the husband will beat his wife and put her away, if he pleafe. Some common ftrumpers there are as well as in other places, but they are fuch as either neuer married, or whooredome, widowes, or put away for adultery : for no man will keepe such an one to wife. In matters of which and dishonelt dealing the Sachim examineth and punisheth the same. In case of thefis, for the first offence hee is disgracefully rebuked, for the second beaten by the Sechans with a cadgell on the naked backe, for the third hee is beaten with many ftroakes and bath his note flit vo ward, that thereby all men may both know and thus him. If any man kill another, hee must like wife die for the fame. The Sachin not onely passeth the fentence vpon malefactors. but executeth the same with his owne hands, if the partie bee then present; if not, senderh his but executes the same with ms owner mans, have been seen as the first but if the offender been owne knife in cale of death, in the hands of others to performe the same. But if the offender been owner knife in cale of death, in the hands of others to perform the same by same than the same been same to same the same by same than the same by same than the same by same than the same that the same than the same that the same than the same than the same than the same that the same than the sam to receiue other punishment, hee will not receiue the same but from the Sachim himselie, before whom being naked he kneeleth, and will not offer to runne away though hee beat him pener fo much it being a greater disparagement for a man to cry during the time of his correction, then cowards note. is his offence and punish nent.

Murther.

Apparell.

As for their apparell, they weare breeches and stockings in one, like some Irish, which is made of Deere skinnes, and have shooes of the same leather. They weare also a Deeres skinne loose an bout them like a cloake, which they will turne to the weather fide. In this habite they travell. but when they are at home, or come to their journeyes end, prefently they pull of their breeches. flockings, and shooes, wring out the water, if they bee wet, and drie them, and rub or chafe the fame. Though these be off, yet have they another small garment that covereth their secrets. The men weare also when they goe abroad in cold weather, an Otter or Fox skin on their right arme. but onely their bracer on the left. Women and all of that fex weare strings about their legs, which the men neuer doe.

Wittie people.

The people are very ingenious and observative, they keepe account of time by the Moone, and Winters or Summers; they know divers of the Starres by name, in particular, they know the North-ftar, and call it Macke, which is to fay, The Beare. Also they have many names for the Winds. They will gueffe very well at the wind and weather before hand, by observations in the Hearens. They report also, that some of them can cause the wind to blow in what part they lift, can raife fromes and temperts, which they vivally doe when they intend the death or defruction of other people, that by reason of the vuscasonable weather, they may take advantage 30 of their enemies in their houses. At such times they performe their greatest exployts, and in such seasons when they are at enmittie with any, they keepe more carefull watch then at

As for the language it is verie copious, large, and difficult, as yet wee cannot attaine to any great measure thereor; but can vaderstand them , and explaine our selues to their vaderstanding, by the helpe of those that daily converse with vs. And though there be difference in an hundred miles diftant of place, both in language and manners, yet not fo much but that they very well vnderstand each other. And thus much of their lives and manners.

Rezifters.

In Head of Records and Chronicles, they take this course, where any remarkeable act is done, in memory of it, either in the place, or by fome parhway neere adioyning, they make a round 40 hole in the ground about a foot deepe, and as much ouer, which when others passing by behold, they enquire the cause and occasion of the same, which being once knowne, they are carefull to acquaint all men as occasion serueth therewith. And least such holes should bee filled, or growne vp by any accident, as men paffe by they will oft renew the fame : By which meanes many things of great Antiquitie are fresh in memory. So that as a man travelleth, if hee can understand his guide, his journey will be the leffe tedious, by reason of many historicall Discourses will be re-

New England

For that Continent, on which wee are called New-England, although it hath ever beene conceiued by the English, to bee a part of the maine Land adioyning to Virginia, yet by relation of the Indians it should appeare to bee otherwise : for they affirme confidently , that it is an Iland, 50 and that either the Dutch or French paffe thorow from Sea to Sea, betweene vs and Virginia, and drine a great Trade in the fame. The name of that Inlet of the Sea, they call Mobegon, which I take to be the same which wee call Hudsons River, vp which Master Hudson went many leagues, and for want of meanes (as I heare) left it undiscouered. For confirmation of this, their opinion is thus much ; Though Virginia bee not aboue an hundred and fiftie leagues from vs, yet they never heard of Pombacan, or knew that any English were planted in his Countrey, face onely by vs and Tifquantum, who went into an English Ship thither : And therefore it is the more probable, because the water is not passable for them, who are very aduenturous in

Then for the temperature of the ayre, in almost three yeeres experience, I can scarce diffin- 60 guish New England from Old England, in respect of heate, and cold, frost, inow, raine, winds, &c. Some object, because our Plantation lieth in the latitude of two and fortie, it mult needes bee much botter. I confesse I cannot give the reason of the contrary; onely experience teacheth vs, that it it doe exceed England, it is so little as must require better judgements to discerne it. And for the Winter, I rather thinke (if there be difference) it is both sharper and longer in New Engl lind then Old; and yet the want of those comforts in the one which I have enjoyed in the other, may deceine my indgement alfo. But in my best observation, comparing our owne conditions with the Relations of other parts of America, I cannot conceine of any to agree better with the constitution of the English, not being oppressed with extremitie of heat, nor nipped with biting cold, by which meanes, bleffed be God, wee enioy our health, notwithflanding those difficulties wee haue vndergone, in such a measure as would have been admired if we had lived in Eneland with the like meanes. The day is two houres longer then here, when it is at the shor- Daves reft, and as much shorter when it is at the longest. The loyle is variable, in some places Mould, in some Clay, and others a mixed Sand, &c. The Soyle. chiefelt graine is the Indian Mays, or Ginny-Wheat; the feed-time beginneth in the midft of A- Corne pril, and continueth good till the midft of May. Our Harvest beginneth with September. This Corne increaseth in great measure, but is inferiour in quantitie to the same in Virginia, the reason I conceine, is because Virginia is farre hotter then it is with vs, it requiring great heat to ripen; but whereas it is obiected against New England, that Corne will not there grow, except the ground bee manured with Fish : I answere , That where men fet with Fish (as with vs) it is more easie so to doe, then to cleere ground and set without some fine or fixe yeeres, and sobegin anew, as in Virginia and elfewhere. Not but that in some places, where they cannot be taken with ease in such abundance, the Indians set foure yeeres together without, and haue as good 20 Corne or better then we have that fet with them , though indeed I thinke if wee had Cattell to till the ground, it would be more profitable and better agreeable to the foyle, to fowe Wheat, Ry, Barley, Peafe, and Oats, then to let Mays, which our Indians call Emachim: for we have had experience that they like and thrine well ; and the other will not bee procured without good labour and diligence, especially at feed-time, when it must also bee watched by night to keepe the Wolves from the Fish, till it be rotten, which will beein foureteene dayes; yet men agreeing together, and taking their turnes it is not much. Much might bee spoken of the benefit that may come to such as shall here plant by Trade with the Indians for Furres, if men take a right course for obtaining the same ; for I dare prefume your that small experience I have had, to affirme, that the English, Dutch, and 30 French, returns yeerely many thousand pounds profits by Trade onely from that Iland, on which wee are feated.

CHAP. 6. Variable foyle, manured with fish. The Kings Patent.

Tobacco may bee there planted but not with that profit as in some other places, neither were it profitable there to follow it, though the increase were equall, because Fish is a better and richer Commoditie, and more necessary, which may be, and there are had in as great abundance as in any other part of the world ; Witnesse the West-countrey Merchants of England, which returne incredible gaines veerely from chence. And if they can fo doe which here buy their falt at a great charge, and transport more Company to make their voyage, then will faile their Ships. what may the Planters expect when once they are feated, and make the most of their Salt there, and imploy themselves at left eight moneths in fishing, whereas the other fish but foure, and have 40 their Ship lie dead in the Harbour all the time, whereas fuch shipping as belong to Plantations may takefraight of Pallengers or Cattle thither, and have their lading provided against they come. I confeile we have come fo far short of the meanes to raife such returns, as with great difficultie wee haue preferued out liues; insomuch as when I looke backe vpon our condition, and weake meanes to preserve the same, I rather admire at Gods mercies and providence in our prefernation, then that no greater things have beene effected by vs. But though our beginning have beene thus raw, small, and difficult, as thou hast feene, yet the fame God that hath hitherto led vs thorow the former, I hope will raife meanes to accomplish the latter.

CHAP. VI.

Noua Scotia. The Kings Patent to Sir WILLIAM ALEXANDER Knight, for the Plantation of New Scotland in America, and his proceedings therein; with a description of Mawoolhen for better knowledge of those parts.

Acobus Dei gratia Maena Brittanniz, Francia, & Hibernia Rex fideig, defensor: Omnibus probis kominibus totism terra sua Clericis & laicis salutem. Sciatis nos semper ud quamlibet qua ad decisi & emolumentam regni nostri Scotia spettaret occasionem amplettendum fuisse intentos, risilamque aut faciliorem aut magis innoxiam acquisitionem cenfere, quam que mexteris & incultis regnis obi ona & victui suppettune commode nenis deducendis Colonies facin fit ; prafertim fi vet spfa regna cultoribus prisu vacua, vel ab infidelibus, quos ad Christianam conserti fidem & Dei gtoriam interest plarimum.

Seafons.

meessa farint. Sed cum & alsa nonnulla regna, & hac non ita pridem nostra Anglia landabiliter sua nomina nouis terris acquisitis sed in se subactis indiderunt, quam numerosa & frequens dinimo benesicio bec gens, bac tempestate fit nobiscum reputantes, quamque bonesto aliquo & vill cultu cam finaiose ex-ercerine in deteriora ex ignania & otto prolabatur expediat plerosque in nonam deducendos regionem quam Colonis compleant, operapretium duximus qui or animi promptitudine & alacritate corporumque robore & viriben quionsenque difficultatibus, si qui aly mortalium ofpiam se audiant opponere, bunc canatum huic regno maxime idoneum inde a bitramur quod virorum tantummodo & mulicrum immento. rum & frumenti, non etiam pecunia transuectionem postulat, neque incommodam ex ipsiu reenimercia bus retributionem hoc tempore cum negotiatio adeo imminuta fit, possis reponere. Hisce de cansis sicuti et propter bonum fidele & gratum dilecti nostri confiliari Domini Willelmi Alexandri equiti fernitium no. 10 bis prastitum & prastandum, qui propriys impensis ex nostratibus primus externam hanc coloniam du cendam conatus fit, dinersasque terras infra designatis limitibus circumsferiptas incolendas expetimeris. Nos ivitur ex regali nostra ad Christanam veligionem propagandam & ad opulentiam, professitatem. pacemque naturalium nostrorum subditorum ditti regni nostri Scotia acquirendam cura, sicuis alu Prina cipes extranes in talibus casibus hactenus fecerunt, cum anisamento & consensu pradutts nostri con-Sanguinei & consiliari Ioannis Comitis de Marr Domini Erskene & Garrioche summi nostri Thelaus rary computorum rotulatoru collectoru ac Thefaurary nonarum nostrarum augmentationum husus Res. ni nostri Scotie ac reliquorum dominorum nostrorum Commissionariorum emsdem Regni nostri, dedimus concessimus & desposumus, tenoreque presentic charte nostre damus concedimus & d sponimus prefacto Domino Wilelmo Alexandro, baredibue suis vel assignatis quibuscunque bareditarie mnes er 20 singulas terras continentes ac insulas situatas & sacentes in America, intra caput seu promontorium communiter Cap. de Sable appellatum sacens prope latitudinem quadraginta trium graduum aut ab eo circa, ab aquinoctiali linea versus septentrionem, à quo promontorio versus littus maris tendentis ad occidentem ad stationem Santte Maria nanium (vulgo S. Maries Bay) & deinceps versus septentrionem per directam lineam introitum fine oftmm magne illim flationis nanium trancientem que excurrit in terra orientalem plagam inter Regionis Suriquorum & Ecochemmorum (valge Suriqueis & Etechemines) ad fluuium vulgo nomine Santa Cracie appellatum: Et ad featuriginem remotissimam sue fontem ex occidentali parte ein dem qui se primum pradicto flunto mimi (cos, unde per imaginariam directam lineam qua pergere per terram seu curvere versus septentrionem concipietur ad proximam nanium stationem. fluuium vel scaturiginem in magno flunio de Cannada sese exenerantem. Et ab co pergendo versu ori- 20 entem per marie oras luttorales esus dem fluniy de Cannada ad flunium stationem nanium portum ant litus communiter nomine de Gachepe vel Gaspienotum & appellatu, Et deinceps versus Euronosum ad insulas Bacalaos vel Cap. Briton vocatas Relinquendo casaem Insulas à dextra & voraginem dicts magni flusis de Cannada fine maçue stationis nansum & terras de New-fonna-land, cum insulis ad easdem terras pertinentibus à sinistra. Et deinceps ad Caput sine promentorum de Cap. Briton pradictium sacens prope latitudinem quadraginta quinque graduum aut eo circa. Et à dicto promentorio de Cap, Briton verfus meridiem er Occidentem ad pradictum Cap. Sable v bi incipit perambulatio includenda o compre-For the De- henda intra dictas maris oras littorales ac carum circumferentias à mari ad omnes terras continentis scription & in- cum summinibus torrentibus, sinubus, littoribus, insulis aut maribus iacentibus prope infra sex lucas ad alicouragements to this deligne, quam earnndem partem ex occidentali boreali vel orientali partibus erorum litteralium & pracinciuum 40 and forbeiter earundem. Et ab Euronoto (vissacet Cap. Britton) & ex auftrali parte einsdem vbieft Cap. de Saknowledge of ble omnia maria ac infulas verfus meridiem intra quadraginta leucas dictarum orarum littoralium earundem magnam insulam vulgariter appellatam Île de Sable vel Sablon includen, iasen, versus New Scotland befides a Book carban vulgo South South-eaft, circa triginta leucas à dilto Cap. Britton in mars & existen in lapurpolely pubtitudine quadra ginta quatuor graduum aut co circa. Qua quidem terra pradicta omni tempore affulished by the Honourable & turo nomine Noue Scotie in America gaudebunt, Quas etiam prafatus Dominus Willelmus in parter & portiones sicut es visum fuerit dividet issama, nemina pro beneplacito imponet. Vna cum omnibus fodinia learned Author (who at tum regalibus auri & argenti quam aligs fodinis ferre plumbi, cupri, ftanni, aris, &c. other weapons hath placed his

In cuius rei test imensum buic prafeuts Charta nostre magnum Sigillum nostrum apponipracepimus Testibus pradictionostrio consanguineis & Confiliaries Iacobo Marchione de Hamilton Comite Arrania 50 Mufcs prizes. and given the & Cambridge Domino Anen & Innerdail, Georgio Marifcalli comite Domino Keith & alt. regni nostri Marifeallo, Alexandro Comite de Dunfermling Domino Fyvia & vrqubant nostro Cancellario, Thoma Comite de Melros Domino Byres & Bynning nostro Secretario, Dilectis nostris familiaribus you may read Confiliarijs Domino Richardo KoKburne Iuniore de Clerkington nostri Secreti Sigiks enstode, Georgio Hay de Knifarunis nostrorum Rotulorum Registrorum ac Concilis Clerico, Ioanne Cochburne de Or-Om 8. Booke mestonn nostra Instituaria Clerico, & Ioanne Scot de Scottistaruet nostra Cancellaria Directore, Milia tibus. Apud Castellum nostrum de Winsore decimo die mensis sebtembris Anno Domini milesimo sexenwards the laft tesime vigesimo primo Regnorumo, nostrorum anuis quinquagesimo quinto & decimo nono.

Sir Ferdinando Gorge being entrulted with the affayres of New England, after hee had admied 60 with some of the Company; considering the largenesse of the bounds intended to bee planted by his Maieflies subiects in America, and the flow progresse of Plantations in these parts, that the Scottifb Nation may be perswaded to imbatke themselves in their forraine enterprise; hee was added herceo. content that Sir William Alexander - Knight, one of his Maiefties most Honorable Priny Councel

622.

iptid πđ

210 :he

òz

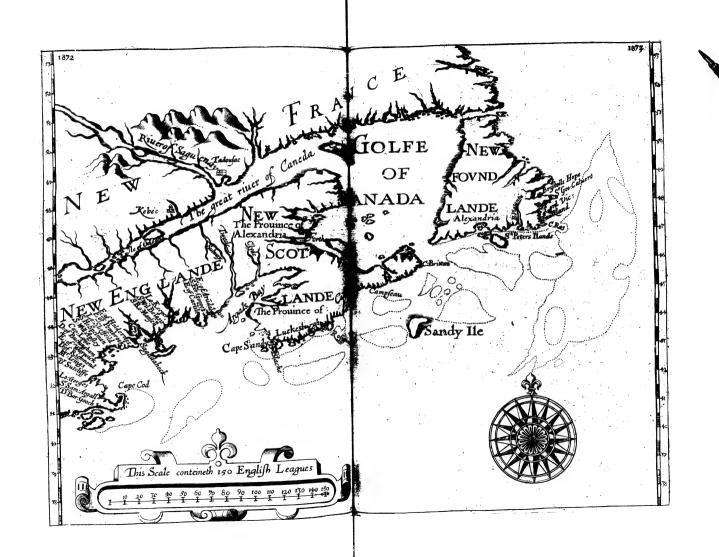

two Chapiters of the ninth Booke, &that description of the Country

world ample

teftimony of his learning)

from the fixt

of that Kingdome, should procure a Patent of such a bounds as his Maiestie should appoint to bee called New Scotland, and to bee held of the Crowne of Scotland, and gouerned by the Lawes of that Kingdome, as his faid Patent containing all the bounds, that doth lie to the East of Saint Croix, compaffed with the great River of Canada on the North, and the Maine Ocean on the South doth more particularly beare. Whereupon the faid Sir William did fet out a Shippe with a Colony of purpose to plant, which being too late in setting forth were forced to flay all the Winter at New-found-Land, and though they had a Shippe with new proussions the next Spring from the layde Sir William , yet by reason of some vnexpected occasions, the chiefe of the Company resolued nor to plant at the first, but onely to discouer and to take possession, which a number made choyce of for that purpose and happily

The three and twentieth of lune, they loofed from Saint Iohns Harbour in New faired Land, As. 1622. and favled towardes New Scotland, where for the space of fourteene dayes they were by Forges and contrarie Windes kept backe from fpying Land till the eight of July : thereafter that they faw the West part of Cape Breton, and so till the thirteenth day, they fayled to and fro alone it the Coaft till they came the length of Port de Muton, where they discouered three very pleasant Harbours, and went a shoare in one of them, which they called Lukes Bay, where they found a great way up to a very pleafant River being three fathoms Lukes Bay.

deepe at low water; at the entry thereof, and on every fide of the same they did see very delicate Meadowes, having Roses white and red growing thereon, with a kind of wild Lilly, which had a verv daintie fmell.

The next day they refolued to coast along to discouer the next Harbour, which was but two leagues distant from the other, where they found a more pleasant River, being foure fathom water at a low water, with Meadowes on both fides thereof, having Rofes and Lillies growing thereon as the other had. They found within this River a very fit place for a Plantation , both in regard that it was naturally apt to bee fortified, and that all the ground beweene the two Plantation: Rivers was without Wood, and was good fat earth having severall forts of Berries growing thereon, as Goofeberry, Strawberry, Hyndberry, Rasberry, and a kinde of Red-wineberry : As also some forts of Graine, as Pease, some eares of Wheat, Barley, and Rye, erowing there wild; the Peale grow enery where in abundance, very big and good to eate, but talke of the Fitch. This River is called Port lolly, from whence they coalted along to Port Negre, being Port lolly. 12. leagues distant, where all the way as they failed along ft they found a very pleasant Country Port Negroi having growing every where such things as they did see in the two Harbours where they had beene. They found like wife in every River abundance of Lobsters, and Cockles, and other small files, and also they found not onely in the Rivers, but all the Coast alongst, numbers of severall forts of Wild-fowle, as Wild-goofe, Black-Duck, Woodcock, Herron, Pigeon, and many other forts of Fowle which they knew nor. They found likewife, as they failed alongst the Coastabundance of great Cod, with feuerall other forts of great fishes. The Countrey is full of Woods, nor very thick, and the most part Oake, the rest Fir-tree, Spruce, Birch, and many other forts of wood 40 which they had not feene before.

Having discovered this part of the Countrey in regard of the voyage, their Ship was to make to the Straits with fifthes, they resolved to coast alongst from Lukes Bay to Port de Muton, being foure leagues to the East thereof, where they encountred with a Frenchman, that in a very short time had a great voyage, having furnished one Ship away with fishes, and had neere fo many ready as to load his owne Ship and others. And haung taken a view of this Port, which to their judgement they found no wayes inferiour to the rest they had seene before, they resolved to retire backe to New-found-land, where their Ship was to receive her loading of fishes, the twentieth of July they loofed from thence, and the feuen and twentieth thereof they arrived at Saint Johns Harbour in New-found land; and from thence failed along (t the Bay of Conception, where they left the Ship, and dispatched themselves home in severall Ships that belonged to the Welt part of England, and doe intend this next Spring to fet forth a Colony to plant there.

The description of the Countrey of Mawooshen, discovered by the English, in the yeere 1602. 3.5.6. 7.8. and 9.

Amooshen is a Countrey lying to the North and by East of Virginia, between the degrees quantitie. Mora 3. and 45. It is fortie leagues broad, and fiftie in length, lying in breach East and West, Tammine are 60 and in length North and South. It is bordered on the East fide with a Countrey, the people, faid to be the whereof they call Tarrantines : on the West with Epistoman, on the North with a great Wood called Senaglecoune, and on the South with the mayne Ocean Sea, and many Hands.

In Manoolben it feemeth there are nine Rivers, whereof the first to the East is called Quibi- Quibiquession; on which there is one Towne, wherein dwell two Sagamos or Lords, the one called A. Riner.

This descripted on of Mamonfben I had amonest M. Hakingts pspers.

Climate and fame with the

Retrere 3

ficon, the other Abermot. In this Towne are fiftie houses, and 150. men. The name of which Afticon Sagamo. Towne is Precante; this River runneth farre vp into the Mayne, at the head thereof there is a Lake of a great length and breadth; it is at the fall into the Sea tenne fathoms deepe, and halfes A great Lake. mile ouer. The next is Pemagnid, a goodly River and very commodious all things confidered; it is ten fa-

Printered river thoms water at the entrance, and fortie miles vp there are two fathoms and a halfe at low water: it is halfe a mile broad, and runneth into the Land North many daies journey : where is a great Lake of 18, leagues long and foure broad. In this Lake are feuen great Hands : toward the farthest end there falleen in a River, which they call Acason flowed, where they paffe with their Boates there takes fourney up, and from thence they goe over Land twentie daies fourney more, and then come to another River, where they have a trade with Anadabis or Anadabison, with whom the Frenchmen have had commerce for a long time. Neere to the North of this River of Pemanuid are three Townes : the first is Upsegon, where Bashabes their chiefe Lord doth dwell. And in this Towns are fixtie houles, and 250. men, it is three daies journey within the Land. The second is (aiocame; the third Shalleokeing. The fe two last Townes are opposite one to the other, the River dividing them both, and they are two daies journey from the Towne of Bashabes. In Caiscane dwelleth Maielquis, and in Shafheokeing Bomant, two Sagames, lubie &s to Bashabes. Vpon both fides of this River vp to the very Lake, for a good distance the ground is plaine, without Trees or

Bulhes, but full or long Graffe, like vnto a pleafant meadow, which the Inhabitants doe burne

Three townes Balbabes. Carocame.

Anadabis.

once a veere to have fresh feed for their Detre. Beyond this Mesdow are great Woods, whereof more shall bee spoken hereafter. The River of Pemaqued is foure dayes sourney from the mouth The third River is called Ramafor, and is diffant from the mouth of Pemaguid foure daies iourney; it is twentie fathoms at the entrance, and hath a mile ouer; it runneth into the Land three Ramalloc. daies journey, and within leffe then a daies journey of the dwelling of Balbabes : vpon this River fiftie houses, and eightie men. The fourth River Apanamapeske, lying West and by South of Ramassoc, at the entrance whereof there is twentie fathoms water, and it is a mile broad : it runneth vp into the Countrey five daies journey; and within three daies of the mouth are two Townes, the one called Mes- 30 combe, where dwelieth Aramafoga, who hath in his Towne fiftie houses, and eightie men. The other is Chebeenadole, whose Lord is Skanke, and hath thirtie houses and ninetie men. The mouth of Apanawapeike is dittant from Ramaffor three daies iourney.

Panablest 2 Towne. Apanawapeske.

there is a Towne named Panobseat, the Lord whereof is called Sibatabood; who hath in his Town

Apanmen fek. A L.kc.

To the South-west foure daies journey, there is another excellent River; in the entrance whereof is twentie rathoms water, and it is a quarter of a mile broad, it runneth into the Land two daies journey, and then there is a greatfall; at the head wherof there is a Lake of a daies journey long and as much in breadth. On the fide of this Lake there is a Strait, and at the end of that Strait there is another Lake of foure daies journey long, and two daies journey broad; wherin there are two llands, one at the one end, and another at the other end. I should have told you that both thefe Lakes, as also the rest formerly spoken of, doe infinitely abound with fresh wa- 40 ter fish of all forts!, as also with divers forts of Creatures, as Otters, Beeves, sweete Rats, and Another Lake. full of Fish Beeues, and fweet Rate. 6. Aponeg.

The fixt River is called Apponick on which there are three Townes; the first is called Appofram, where dwelleth Abochigific. The second is Mesaqueegamic, where dwelleth Amniquin, in which there is seuentie houles and eightie men ; the third is Matamusisconte, in which are eightie houles and ninetie men, and there dwelleth Narracommique.

To the Wellward of this there is another River called Aponeg: it hath at the entrance ten fathoms water, and is a mile broad : it runneth vp into a great Sound of fresh water. Vpon the East fide of this River there are two Townes, the one called Nebamocago, the other called Assbawe. In the first dwelleth Mentaurmet, and hath in his Towne 160, housholds, and some 300, men. In 50 the second dwelleth Hamerbaw, and hath in his Towne eightie housholds and seuentie men. On the West side there is another Towne called Neredoshan, where are 120, housholds, and 100. men. There is a Sagamo or Lord called Sabenaw. Three daies iourney from Aponeg to the Westward, there is a goodly River called Sagadoboc:

the entrance whereof is a mile and an halfe ouer, holding that breadth a daies journey, and then it maketh a great Sound of three daies journey broad : in which Sound are fix Hands, foure great and full of Woods, and two leffe without Woods : The greater are called Somaeheoc, Neguino, Neimoc. And in the verie entrance of this River there is another small Hand : from the Well of which Hand to the Maine, there is a Sand that maketh as it were abar, fo that that way is not passable for shipping ; but to the Eastward there is two fathoms water. This Sound duideth it 60 felfe into two branches or armes, the one running North-east twentie foure daies journey, the other North-west thirtie daies iourney into the Maine: At the heads whereof there are two Lakes, the Westermost being eight daies journey long, and foure daies journey broad; and the Eastermost foure daies journey long, and two daies broad. The River of Aponeg runneth vp into this Sound, and so maketh as it were a great Hand between Sagadabae and it. From the Hand voward the water is fresh, abounding in Salmons, and other fresh, water fish. Some thirteene or fourteen A great Iland. daies journey from the entrance in the North-east branch, there is a little arme of a River that runneth East some daies ioutney, which hath at the entrance foure fathoms water. Vpon this arme there is one ouer fall, which standeth halfea daies iourney aboue this branch : vpon this arme there are foure Townes : The first is called Kenebeke , which hath eightie houses, and one Renthete. handred men. The Lord whereof is Apombamen. The second is Ketangheamphe, and the Sacames name is Octoworthe, who hath in his Towne ninetie housholds, and three hundred and thirtie men. This Towne is foure dayes iourney from Kenebeke, and eight dayes iourney

Satedahoc. Here C. Per ham betil. S. Geo ges Fort, and planted.

To the Northward is the third Towne, which they call Naragooc ; where there to from are fifcie houlholds, and one hundred and fiftie men. The chiefe Sagamo of that place is Cocochabamas. And on the small branch that runneth East standeth the fourth Towne, named by M. fakiga ; where there are but eight housholds , and fortie men. Vpon the Northwest branch of this Sound stand two Townes more : The first is called Amereangan, and is difrant from Kenebeke fixe dayes journey. In this place are ninetic housholdes, and two hundred and fixtie men, with two Sagamoes ; the one called Safuea, the other Scamus. Seuen daies iourney hence there is another Sagamo, whole name is Odoworokin, and his Townes name Namercante, wherein are fortie housholds, and one hundred and twentie men. A dayes journey about Namercante there is a downefall, where they cannot passe with their Cannoes, 30 but are inforced to carrie them by Land for the space of a quarter of a mile, and then they put them into the River againe: And twelve dayes journey above this Downfall there is another, where they carrie their Boates as at the first ; and fixe dayes journey more to the North is the head of this River, where is the Lake that is of eight dayes journey long, and foure dayes broad before mentioned. In this Lake there is one Hand; and three dayes iourney from this Lake there is a Towne which is called Buccamganecants, wherein are threefcore houlholds, and foure hundred men : And the Sagamo thereof is called Baccatus he. This man and his people are subjects to the Balbabez of Maroofben, and in his Countrey is the farthest limit of his Dominion, where he hath any that doe him homage. To the Westward of Sasadaboc, foure dayes sourcey there is another River called Ashama-30 baga, which hath at the entrance fixe fathoms water, and is halfe a quarter of a mile broad: Afternals it runneth into the Land two dayes journey : and on the East fide there is one Towne called Agnagebese, wherein are seuentie houses, and two hundred and fortie men, with two Sagames, the one called Mammes, the other Calherokenit.

see, the one casted or semest, the units uper common.

Seem dayes fourney to the South-west of Albamahaga there is another River, that is fixe to.

Seem the entrance: This River is named Stamahaga, and is halfe a myle broad 3 it run- Stamahaga. neth into the Land fiftie dayes journey : but foure dayes from the entrance it is fo narrow. that the Trees growing on each fide doe so crosse with their boughes and bodies on the other, as it permitteth not any meanes to palle with Boates that way : for which cause the Inhabitants that on any occasion are to travell to the head, are forced to goe by Land, ta- A Lake foure 40 king their way voon the West side. At the end of this River there is a Lake of source dayes dayes sourcey iourney long, and two dayes broad, wherein are two Ilands. To the North-Well foure daies long & 2 broad they call Cretemago, wherein is one Towne. This is the Westermost River of the Dominions of

iourney from this Lake, at the head of this River Shanakatee there is a small Province, which

To the Reader.

Bashabez, and Quibiquiffon the Westermost.

Hauethought good to adde to the English Plantations in New England, those in the neighbour Country of New-found-land. This was first discourred, Ann. 1497. by S. Sebastian Cabot Set 50 forth by King Henry the fewenth : the Voyages followed of M.Rut, Albert de Prato, M. Hore, and others. Ann. 1583, actinall and formall possession, was taken in the right of Queene Elizabeth of glorious memory, and her Successours, by that memorable Knight, Sir Humtrey Gilbert (fee sup.lib. 4. ca. 12.) And in the yeare, 1609. M. John Guy of Bristoll did write a Treatife to animate the English to plant there, a written Copy whereof I have. A. 1610. It pleased bis most excellent Maiestie to grant a Patens for a Plantation, part whereof (the whole might seeme too long for our purpose) we have inserted.

Rerrere 3

CHAP

LIB. X.

LIB.X

CHAP. VII.

The beginning of the Patent for New-found-land; and the Plantation there made by the English, 1610. delinered in a Letter dated thence from M. G v x . to M. SLANY: Also of the weather the three first Winters, and of Captaine WESTON: with other remarkable Occurrents.

1876

A M E S, by the Grace of G o D, of Great Brittaine, France, and Ireland Kine, Defendour of the Faith, &c. To all people to whom these Presents shall come greeting. Know yee, whereas divers Our louing and well disposed Subjects, are defirous to make Plantation to inhabite and to establish a Colony or Colonies, in the Southerne and Easterne parts of the Countrey, and Ile or llands, commonly cale led New-found-land, vnto the Coast and Harbour, whereof the Subjects of this our Realme of Eng. land have for the space of fiftie yeeres and vowards, yeerely vied to refort in no small numbers to fifth intending by fuch Plantation and inhabiting, both to fecure and make fafe the faid Trade of Fishing to Our Subiects for euer; And also, to make some commendable benefit for the vie of mankind by the lands and profits thereof, which hitherto from the beginning (as it feemeth manife(t) hath remained upprofitable : And for better performance of fuch their purpofe and intentions, have humbly befought Our Regall Authoritie and affiftance; Wee being well affared that the fame Land or Countrey adiopning to the forefaid Coafts, where Our Subjects vie to fiftheremaineth fo destitute and desolate of inhabitance, that scarce any one Sauage person bath in many yeeres been eleene in the most parts thereof: And well knowing that the same lying, and being fo vacant is as well for the realous aforefaid, as for many other reasons very commodious for Va and Our Dominions : And that by the Law of Nature, and Nations, We may of Our Royall Authoritie, polletie out felues, and make graunt thereof, without doing wrong to any other Prince, or State confidering they cannot justly pretend any Soueraigntie or Right thereunto, in respect that the same remaineth so vacant and not actually possessed, and inhabited by any Christian, or other 30 whomfoeuer. And therefore, thinking it a matter and action well beleeming a Christian King, to make true vie of that which God from the beginning created for mankind; And therefore intending, not onely to worke and procure the benefit and good of many of Our Subjects, but principally to increase the knowledge of the Omnipotent God, and the propagation of Our Christie an Faith, have graciously accepted of their faid intention, and fuit. And therefore doe of Our freciall grace, certaine knowledge, and meere motion, for Vs, Our Heires, and Successors, give, graunt, and confirme by these Presents, vnto Our right deere, and right welbeloued Coufin, and Coun-Tellor, Henry Earle of Northampton, Keeper of Our Priuy Seale, and to Our truftie and right welbeloued Sir Laurence Tanfield Knight, chiefe Baron of Our Exchequer, Sir lobn Dodridge Knight, one of Our Sergeants at Law, Sir Francis Bacon Knight, Our Sollicitor Generall, Sir Daniel 40 Dun, Sir Walter Cope, Sir Piercinal Willoughby, and Sir lobn Confiable Knights, John Weld Elquire, William Freeman, Ralph Freeman, John Slany, Humfrey Slany, William Turner, Robert Kirkam Gentlemen, John Weld Gentleman, Richard Folhburne, John Browne, Humfrey Spencer, Thomas Juxon, John Stokely, Ellis Crifpe, Thomas Alport, Francis Needeham, William lones, Thomas Langton, Philup Gifford, Iohn Whitting am, Edward Allen, Richard Bowdler, Thomas Iones, Simon Stone, Iohn Short, John Vigars, John Iuxon, Richard Hobby, Robert Alder, Anthony Haueland, Thomas Aldworth, William Lewis, Ichn Guy, Richard Hallworthy, Iohn Langton, Humfrey Hooke, Phillip Guy, William Meredith, Abram lenings, and Iohn Dowghie, their Heires and Affignes. And to tuch, and to many as they doe, or shall hereafter admit to be loyned with them in forme hereafter in these Prefents expressed, whether they goe in their persons to bee planted in the faid Plantation, or whe- 50 ther they goe not, but doe aduenture their Monyes, Goods, and Chattels, that they shall bee one Body, or Comminaltie perpetuall, and shall have perpetuall succession, and one common Seale to ferue for the faid Body, and Comminaltie; And that they, and their fuccessours shall be knowne, called, and incorporated by the name of the Treasurer, and the Company of Adventurers, and Planters of the Citie of London, and Bristoll, for the Colony or Plantation in New-found land, and that they, and their fuccesours shall bee from henceforth for euer inabled, to take, require, and purchale by the name aforesaid (Licence for the same, from Vs, Our Heiresand Succellours fire had, and obtained) any manner of Lands, Tenements, and Heredrizments, Goods, and Chartels, within Our Realme of England, and Dominion of Wales, and that they, and their faceeflours shall beelike wife inabled by the name aforefaid, to plead and be impleaded, before any Our Ind- 60 ges, or Iuflices in any of Our Courts, and in any Actions and Suits what focuer. And Wee doe al-To of Our faid speciall grace, certaine knowledge, and meere motion, for Vs, Our Heires, and Succellours, giue, grant, and confirme vnto the faid Trefurer and Company, and their Succellours, under the referencions, limitations, and declarations hereafter expressed, all that part and portion of the laid Countrie, commonly called New found land, which is fituate, lying and being to the Southward of the paralell line to be conceived to passe by the Cape or hedland, commonly called or knowne by the name of Bonemift Inclusive, which Cape or hedland is to be Northward of the Bay, commonly called Trinity Bay, and also which is situate, lying, and being to the Eastward of the Meridian line, to be conceived to passe by the Cape, or headland, commonly called or knowne by the name of Cape Sanita Maria, or Cape Saint Maries Inclusine, which Cape or headland is to be Eastward of the Bay commonly called the Bay of Placentia, together with the Seas and Hands lying within ten leagues of any part of the Sea coaft of the Countrie aforefaid. and also all those Countries, Lands, and Ilands commonly called Newfound land, which are fituate 10 betweene forty and fix degrees of Northerly latitude, and two and fifty degrees of the like latitude, and alto all the Lands, Soyle, Grounds, Hauens, Ports, Rivers, Mines, af well royall Mines of Gold and Silver, as other Mines, Minerals, Pearles, and precious stones, Woods, Quarries, Marshes, Waters, Fishings, Hunting, Hawking, Fowling, Commodities, and Hereditaments whatsoeuer. together with all Prerogatiues, lurifdictions, Royalties, Priniledges, Franchifes, and Preheminencies, within any the faid Territories, and the precincts thereof what soeuer, and thereto or there abouts, both by Sea and Land, being, or in any fort belonging or appertaining; and which wee by our Letters Patents may or can grant, and in as ample manner and fort, as We or any of Our Noble progenitors haue heretofore granted to any Company, body politique or Corporate, or to any Aduenturer or Aduenturers, Vndertaker, or Vndertakers of any Difcouery, Plantation, or 20 Trafficke, of, in or into any foraine parts what foeuer, and in as large and ample manner, as if the same were herein particularly mentioned and expressed. Neuerthelesse Our will and pleasure is. and We doe by these presents expresseand declare, that there be saued, and reserved vnto all manner of perions of what Nation foeuer, and also to all and every Our louing Subjects, which doe at this present, or hereafter shall trade, or voyage to the parts aforesaid for Fishing, &c. April. 27. A. Reg. 8.

Trinitie Bay. Mafter Guy his Letter to the Treasurer.

CHAP. 7.

Master I o Hn Gvy his Letter to Master SLANY Treasurer, and to the Counsell of the New-found-land Plantation.

R lebt worlbipfull, it may pleafe you to understand, that it was the tenth day of this moment of May before the Barke of Northam, called the Consent, arrived here in New-found-land; notwithflanding that a Ship of Briftoll, called the Lioneffe, came to this Country the second of May in a transing tost a Stop of Stritton, cause are Lioneus, came to tost country use terms of vriay or a month space and the Trial of Dattmouth arrivable role before in fettere deprise. Byracify on which Yogage in flay of the digited all trees making could be done to take any of the places defired: all being possessed being taken. fore. So that the Ship that commeth, whereof as yet there is no newes, is to trust to the place here, which is reserved for ber; which I bope will prove a good place. Some yeeres as great a Vojage hash bin made here, as in any place in this Land : God send ber hitber in Sasette. I have not yet seene any of the Counorie, an interprete interestant of the Barks, and thought it use fit to be ablent bereibing, because it expected daily the arrival of the Barks, and thought it use fit to be ablent bereibines writill fite mere arrived, and diffracted : but presently upon ber departure, no time, God willing shall be lost, The care that was taken to require generally the Fiftermen to affift us, and to supply our wants, if any should be, was most toyful Fishermens and comfortable to vs, which was most willingly accomplified by the most part of those which I have yet kinde affilianfeene : yet, God be prasfed, such was the state of all things with us, as we were in no want of victuals, but ces. bad a orcat remainder, as you hall after understand.

The state of the Autumne and Winter was in these parts of New-found-land after this manner. In State of the both the moneths of October and November, there were scarce fix dayes wherinit either freezed or snow- weather in both the moneths of October and November, there were jearce jix capes weeting enter jeach of the Sinne: All there— Autumne and ed: and that so little, that presently it was thanked and melted with the strength of the Sinne: All there— Winter, I have sidue of the afore said two months being both warmer and drier then in England. In December we had by me a write-50 sometimes faire weather, sometimes frost and snow, and sometime open weather and raine : for in the latten ioutnall, ter endit was rainie, and was open weather. All these three moneths the winde was so cartable, as it would declaring the enery fortnight visite all the points of the Compasse. The most part of lanuary and February unto the middle of March the frost continued : the minde being for the most part Westerly, and now and then Northerly; not with standing three or four etimes, when 4. Nourmber the minde was at South, it began to tham and did raine. That which fell in this feafor was for the most 1610 till the part Snow, which with the heate of the Sunne would be consumed in the open places within a few dayes. Inflot Aprill That which abode longest was in February. During this time many dayes the Sun Cone warme and bright 1011. but That which abode longest was in February. During toutime many dayes the Sun conceverine and origins thought it from morning to night : notwith standing the length of this frostly weather, small brooks that did run alwood seems 60 most in level with a flow course, were not the whole winter three nights over frozen so thicke, as that the lee ted one, the could be are a Dogge to goe ouer st, which I found by good proofe: for enery morning I went to the brooke ful flance which runneth by our house to walls. The Snow was never above engiteene inches thicke generally out of thereof being the drift : fo that the feare of wanting wood or water neuer tooke bold of us : for albeit we made no pronif. here contain on for them, yet at a minute of an boures warning we were furnified where there were Lakes of frefo wa- Moderate

ter that flood feil and did not run, there it remained frozen able to beare a man almost three moneths and was not disolved untill the middle of Aprill. But where the agre had entrance and iffue cut of them there was no frost. When the winde in the winter time in England is at the North-east one moneth together the frost is greater, and the cold more sharpe, then it is here at all. There was no moneth in all the winter that some of our company did not travell in, either by land or by water, and lie abroad and drinke water, in places distant two, three, four and five leagues from our babitation, and sometimes lay in the woods without fire, and received no barme. When Aprill came our Spring began, and the first that did but may the fmall Refen or the Carinth tree. Our Company was not letted in working abroad, or in the woods and over ayre fifteene dayes the wholewinter. We never wanted the company of Rauens and small Birds: So that the doubt that have bin made of the extremity of the winter feafon in these parts of New-found-land are found by our experience canfelesse; and that not onely men may safely inhabit here without any needs of 10 Stone but Nanigation may be made to and fro from England to thefe parts at any time of the years.

Healthfulnes.

Concerning the bealthfulnessee of these Cour. ries, we bearing him now more then ten morethe von this Voyage, of nine and thirt; persons, which was all our number which wintered here, there are maining one. ly foure; whereof one Thomas Percy Samper died the elementh of December of thought, bring flaine a man in Rochester; which was the cause, being unknowne unto mee until a day before be died, that he came this Voyage. And one other, called Iohn Morris Tyler, onscarred the first of February by reason of a brule. The third, called Marmaduke Whittington, was never perfectly well after be bad the fmall Poxe, which he brought out of Brittoll with him, who died the fifteenth of February. And the fourth called William Scone, baning at the first onely a stiffenesse in one of his knees, kept his bed ten weekes, and would never store his body, which lasinesse brought him to his end, who died the thirteenth of Aprill. Of 20 the rest foure or fine have bin sicke, some three moneths, and some foure moneths; who now are better then they were, except one. All of them, if they had bad as good will to worke, as they had good flomackes to their victuals, would long fince have bin recovered. One Richard Fletcher, that is Mafter Pilot bere and a direct or of the Fishing, reported unto me, that he was one of the company confisting of forty persons, that went in a drumbler of Ipswich, called the Amitie, to the North part of Ireland about eleven recree agoe from London in the late Queenes fernice, under the charge of one Captaine Fleming, and continued there the pace of two yeares: In which time two and thirty died of the Scurnie, and that onely eight of them returned bome, whereof the faid Richard Fletcher was one, So that the accident of death or ficknesse of any persons in these our parts of New-found-land is not to argue any unbealthfulnesse of this Country, 30 no more then Ireland is to be discredited by the loffe of those two and thirty men : notwithstanding that there were to be had fresh victuals and many other helpes, which this Country as yet hath not, but in good time may baue.

Imployment

From the fixt of October untill the fixteenth of May our Company had bin imployed in making of a Store-house to hold our promisions, and a dwelling bouse for our babitation, which was finished about the first of December; with a square inclosure of one hundred and twenty foot long and nintie foot broad, compassing these two houses, and a worke house to worke dry in to make Boates or any other worke out of the raine : and three peeces of Ordnance are planted there to command the Harboroughs upon a platforme made of great posts, and railes, and great Poles fixteene foot long fet upright round about with two Flankers to scoure the quarters. A Boat about tweluc tuns big with a decke is almost similecute faile and row 40 about the headlands: six silving Boates and Pinnesses: a second saw pit at the fresh Lake of two miles in length and the fixt part of a mile broad, standing within twelve score of our habitation, to saw the timber to be had ont of the fresh Lake, in keeping two paire of Sawyers to samplankes for the Said buildings, in ridding of some grounds to sow Corne and garden seedes: in cutting of wood for the Collier, in coling of it: in working at the Smiths Forge Iron worker for all needfull ofes : in costing both by Land and Sea to many places within this Bay of Conception : in making the frame of timber of a farre greater and fairer boufe, then that which as yet we dwell in, which is almost finished, and diners other things. We have fored En Life Corne, all forts of oraine this Spring, which profper well bitheria. Our Goates have lived here all this winter; and there is one lustic Kidde, which was yeared in the dead of winter. Our Swice profeer. Pidgens and Conies will endure exceeding well. Our Poultrie have not onely laied Egges plentifully but there are eigh- 50 teene yong Chickens, that are a weeke old, besides others that are a batching.

The feare of wilde Beasts we have found to be almost needeleffe. Our great Ram-Goate was miffing fifteene dayes in October, and came home well againe, and is zet well with vs. If the industry of men and presence of domesticall Cattle were applied to the good of this Countrey of New-found-land, there would Thortly arife suft cause of contentment to the inhabitants thereof. Many of our Masters and Sea-faring men freing our fafetic, and hearing what a milde winter we had, and that no Ice had bin feene fleeting in any of the Bayes of this Countrey all this yeare (notwithstanding that then met one bucared and fifty leagues off in the Sea great flore of Ilands of Ice) doe begin to be in lone with the Countres, and doe talke of comming to the land here to inhabit: falling in the reckoning affect of the commond tie that they may make by the banke fishing, as by the husbandry of the Land, befides the ordinary fishing. At the Green- Bay, where some of our Company were affiling in November, they report there is creat flore of good grounds without woods, and there is a thoufand acres together which they fay may be moved this yere. There is great flore of Deere, whereof they faw some divers times, and twice they came within hot of them; and the Grey hound, who is lustie, had a courfe, but could not get upon them. But neerer vnio Cipe Rizo, Revonic, and Trepatic there is great quantitie of open ground and Stagges. It is most likely that all the Revonte, and trepande over the England before the returne of this our Barte, which hall not make any Sacket will be departed out of England before the returne of this our Barte, which hall not make any Sacres min or my properties of opinion that nothing frontabe fent hither before the returne of the Shinz matter, vectory.

Cattle prosper

Mcdew.

Deere.

from filbing. For as concerning sending of Cattle, it will be best that it be deserved until the next Spring. And concerning Victuals, in regard of the quantity, we have of it remaining of old, together with that thit is come now, as with the dry fills that here we may be flored with, I am in good hope there will not want any to last till this time twelse moneths. And according to the victuals which hall be found at the end of the filling, the number of persons that shill remaine here all the next winter shall be fitted, that there shall not want : notwithit anding about Albollantide, or the beginning of December, a Ship may be fent, such BO 4 one as our Fleming was with Salt from Rochel; for at any time of the winter Ships may as well see and come buber, as when they doc, effectally before I annary. This Summer I purpose to see most places betweene Cape Rale, Placentia, and Bona vilta, and at the returne of the filbing Ships to entertaine a fit number of men to maintaine bere the winter; and to fet ouer them, and to take the care of all things berewith your patience, one Mafter William Colton, a discreete yong man, and my brother Philip Guy, who have wintered with me, and have promifed me to undertake this charge until my returne the next Spring, or till it hall be otherwise differed of by you, and then together with such of the company as are willing to goe bome, and such others as are not fit longer to be entertained here, I intend to take passage in the filting Ships, and foreturne bome: And then betweene that and the Spring to be present, to sine you mere ample fairfaction in all things, and to take fuch further resolution, as the importance of the enter-30 prife halr: quire: wherein you hall finde me alwayes as ready as ener I bane bin to proceede and goe forward, God willing. And because at my comming home it will be time enough for mee to lay before you mine opinion tenching what is to be undertaken the next yeare, I will forbeare now to write of it; because you flould be the sooner aductifed of our welfare: and because such of the Company as are sent home both for their owne good, and that the emprofitable expense of withals and wages mucht coafe: I have laden little or nothing backe, that the faid Company might the better be at ease in the bold. Onely there is fent three bog (heads of Charceles : where Numero 10 sis, they are of Burch: no. 20 is, of Pine and Spruce. no. 20. 20 s of Firre, being the lightest wood, yet it maketh good Coles, and is wied by our Smith. I fend them because you shall see the goodnesse of each kinde of Cole. Alfo I fend you an Hoeshead of the Skinnes and Eurres of Inch Beafts as have bin taken bere, the particulers whereof appeare in the Bill

While I was writing I had newes of the Vineyard, the Ship which you fend to fishing, to have hin in company with another Ship that is arrised on this fide of the B ante, and that the Master intended to goe to Farillon or Fer-land: God fend bor in Jefers. So praying God for the professing of your Wellhaps, and the whole Company, with boyes that it is dusine Manifes whole Company, with boyes that it is dusine Manifes whole Company, with boyes that it is dusine Manifes whole Company, with boyes that it is dusine Manifes whole Company, with boyes that it is dusine Manifes whole Company, with boyes that it is dusine Manifes whole both generator for good a beginning will also water bleffe our proceedings : my dutte most bumbly remembred, I take my leave. Dated in Cupers Cous the fixteenth of May, 1611.

I have also a Journall of the winde and weather from the latter end of August 1611, till Iune 1612. Writtenby Master William Colfton; and delivered to Master lobs Guy, Governour of the 40 English Colony in New oundland, at his returns from England thither, lune the feuenth 1612. By which it appeareth that the weather was somewhat more intemperate then it had beene the yeare before, but not intolerable, nor perhaps so bad as we have it sometims in England. Their Dogges killed a Wolfe, Otters, Sables, &c. Captaine Easton a Pirat was troublesome to the Eng-Elband terrible to the French there: of whom I have added this Letter; for the Diarie of the weather and occurrents each day would be very tedious.

To Master Io HN SLANY Treasurer, and others of the Councell, and Company of the New-found-land Plantation, the twenty nine of July 1612.

Ight Worlhipfull, by my last of the seuenteenth of Iune. I wrote you of the estate then, of all matters Rhere, by the Holland Ship, which (I hope) is long fince fafely arrined, together with Master Colfton, who bath (I doubt not) made by word of mouth, full relation of all matters. Because the proceedings of one Captaine Peter Ealton a Pirate, and his company fince, are most fit to beknowne, before I souch our Plantation businesse you shall understand, what they have bin unto this time: until the seventeenth of this prefent, the said Captame Easton remained in Harbor de Grace, there trimming, and repairing his Shipping, and commanding not onely the Carpenters of each Ship to doe bit businsse, but hath taken vi-60 Awals, munition, and necessaries from every Ship, together with about one bundred men out of the Bay. to man his Ships, being now in number fix. He purposed to have before he coeth, as is said, out of the land fine hundred men, while he remained there, two fenerall Companies to the number of about one hundred and eightse person: to each Company, being discontented, sole away from him in a Shallop, and tooke two Ships that were filming in Trinitie Bay, one belonging to Barnstable, and one other to Plimmouth, and so intend, to begin to be new beads, of that damnable course of life. As I failed from hence towards Renoole, in a small Barke, I fell into one of their bands: and one of my company with hurt with a Muket. there was one of their crew that wintered with me bere the first yeare, by whose meanes, and because I was in the Barke, they made hew, that they were forry that they had medled with vis : And fo they departed from us, without comming aboutd. That which they fought after was men, to mercafe their number. Be-fore the faid Captaine Eattons departure, he fent three Shops into Trinitic Bay, to flore himselfe with victuals, munition, and men, who are faid to beworfe vsed, then the Ships here be taketh much ordnance from them. The Sud Easton was lately at Saint Iones, and is now, as farre as I can learne, at Feriland. where he taketh bis pleasure, and thereabouts, the rest are to meete him. It is given out, that we will find one Captaine Harry in a Ship to Ireland, to understand newes about his pardon, which if he can obtaine to in t. s' erge and ample manner as be expecteth, then he giveth out, that be will come in: otherwise, it is thought, that he wil get Protection of the Duke of Florence, and that in his course berehence, he will be ner about the Westwards of the Ilands of the Azores, to see whether he can light upon any of the Plate fisete or any good rich brotte before his comming in Albeit, he bath so premailed here to the strengthening of bimselfe, and inconraging of others to attempt the like bereafter : yet, were there that course taken, as I hope hall be, it is a most ensie matter to represse them.

I have also a Diarie of the winter weather, and observations of occurrents from August 1612, till Aprill 1613. December was very full of Snow (for I dare not present the whole) and the fresh-water Lake was frozen ouer, and the Frost and Snow by the tenth of that moneth, as in 20 any part of the two former places. Ianuary was much milder till the foureteenth, from thence it was very frosty. Their Becre was frozen, and they dranke halfe water (an ill remedy to cold.) The Cattell did not well thrine, as comming out of a Countrie not fo cold. And therefore Irib Cattell (where the wincer is warmer) are not fo fit to be transported hither. George Danis died of the Scuruic, and after him Edward Garten, Edward Hartland, John Tucker, and one and twenty were ficke (most of the Scuruie) the whole Colonie was fixtie two. February was much warmer and more temperate. Toby and Grigge died in March, the rest recovered. Turneps being found as good to recouer from the Scurule as the Aneda tree to Iacques Carriers Company. Nicho-Las Guies wife was deliuered of a lufty boy March 27. The Easterly windes and some Currents brought Ilands of Ice from the North Seas, which made the weather colder that Spring then in 30 the depth of winter when the same windes blowed, namely Bast and Northeast, those llands being blowne into the Baies, and the windes from them even in Aprill very snarpe; and the Snow on the tenth of Aprill as thicke as any time that yeare,

In October Iobu Guy with thirteene others in the Indeauour, and fine in the Shallop, went vp. on Discouery. A: Mount Eagle Bay they found flore of Scuruy-graffe on an Iland. In the South bottome of Trinitie Bay, which they called Sauage Harbour, they found Sauages houses, no peo-Copper kettle. ple in them; in one they found a Copper Kettle very bright (you shall haue it as one of them writ it in his owne tearmes) a furre Goune of Elke skin, fome Seale skins, an old faile and a fishing reele. Order was taken that nothing should be diminished, and because the Sauages should know that some had bin there, every thing was removed out of his place, and brought into one of the 40 Cabins, and laid orderly one upon the other, and the Kettle hanged ouer them, wherein there was put some Bisket, and three or foure Amber Beades. This was done to begin to win them by faire meanes. This time of the yeare they hue by hunting; for wee found twelve Elkes hoofes, that were lately killed. A little peece of flesh was brought away, which was found to be a Be-Their houses uer Cod, which is forthcomming to be feene. Their Houses there were nothing but Poles fer in round forme meeting all together aloft, which they couer with Deere skins, they are about ten foote broad, and in the middle they make their fire : one of them was couered with a faile, which they had gotten from fome (briftian.

All things in this manner left, every one returned by the Moone-light, going by the brinks of the Lake voto the enterance of the made way ; and a little before they came thither, they paf. 50 fed by a new Sauage house almost finished, which was made in a square forme with a small roofe, Their Dares, and so came to the Barke. They have two kinds of Oares, one is about four foot long of one peece of Firre; the other is about ten foot long made of two peeces, one being as long, big, and round as a halfe Pike made of Beech wood, which by likelihood they made of a Biskin Oare, the other is the blade of the Oare, which is let into the end of the long one flit, and whipped very strongly. The short one they wse as a Paddle, and the other as an Oare. The thirtieth, without any further businesse with the Sauages, we departed thence to the Northerne fide of Trinity Bay, and anchored all that night under an Iland. The one and thirtieth, we rowed unto an harbour, which now is called Alhallowes; which hath adioyning vnto it very high land. Nouember the fixt, two Canoas appeared, and one man alone comming towards vs with 2 60 Flag in his hand of a Wolfes skin, shaking it and making a loud noise, which we tooke to be for a parley : whereupon a white Flag was put out, and the Barke and Shallop rowed towards them, which the Sauages did not like of, and so tooke them to their Canoas againe, and were going away : whereupon the Barke wheazed voto them, and flour hed the Flag of trace, and came to

Sauages.

anker, which pleafed them, and then they staied: prefently after the Shallop landed Master Whit. tington with the Flagge of truce, who went towards them. Then they rowed into the shoare with one Ganoa, the other standing aloofe off, and landed two men, one of them having the white skin in his hand, and comming towards Mafter Whittington, the Sauage made a loud speech, and shaked the skin, which was answered by Matter Whittington in like manner, and as the Sauage drew neere, he threw downe the white skin on the ground, the like was done by Mafter Whitetington : whereupon both the Sauages paffed over a little water ftreame cowards Mafter Whitington, dancing, leaping, and finging, and comming together, the foremost of them presented vinto him a chaine of leather full of small Periwinckle shels, a spitting knife, and a Feather that stacke in his care : the other gaue him an Arrow without a head; and the former was requited with a linnen Cap, and a hand Towell, who put prefently the linnen Cap your his head; and to the other he game a Knife; and after hand in hand, they all three did fine and dance; youn this, one of our company called Francis Topion went alhoare, vnto whom one of the Sausges came running, and gave him a Chaine, fuch as is before spoken of, who was gratified by Francis Topion with a Knife and a small peece of Brasse. Then all foure together danced, laughing and making fignes of ioy and gladnesse, sometimes striking the brests of our company, and sometimes their owne. When fignes were made that they should be willing to fuffer two of our Company more to come on thoare, for two of theirs more to be landed and that Bread and Drinke should be brought ashoare, they made like wife fignes that they had in their Canoas meate also to eate : upon this the Shalon longowed abourd, and brought lohn Gay and Mafter Teage a shoare, who presented them with a Shirt, two table Napkins, and a Hand-towell, giving them Bread, Butter, and Reasons of the Sunne to eate, and Beere, and Aquauna to drinke; and one of them blowing in the Aquauna Bottle, that made a found, which they fell all into a laughing at. After, Maiter Croste and John Crossber came ashoare, whom they went to salute giving them shell Chaines, who bestowed Gloues upon them. One of the Sauages that came last ashoare, came walking with his Oare in his hand, and feemed to have fome command over the reft, and behaved himfelfe civilly: For when meate was offered him, he drew off his Mitten from his hand before hee would receive it, and gaue an Arrow for a prefent without a head : who was requited with a dozen of Points. After they had all eaten and drunke, one of them went to their Canoa, and brought vis Beeres fiells dried in the imoake or winde, and drawing his Knife from out of his necke, hee cut every man a peece, and that favoured very well. At the first meeting, when figures were made of motion to pate, one of the Sauages prefently ran to the banke fide, and pulled up a roote, and game it the Maller Whittington, which the other Sauage perceiving to be durtie tooke it out of his hand, and went to the water to wash it, and after divided it among the foure, it tafted very well: hee that came ashoare with the Oare in his hand, went and tooke the white skin that they hailed vs with, and gaue it to Master Whitington ; and presently after they did take our white Flagge with them in the Canoa, and made negres vuto vs that we should repaire to our Barke, and so they out off, for it was almost night.

In the two Canoas there were eight men, if none were women (for commonly in every Canoa there is one woman) they are of a reasonable stature, of an ordinary middle fife, they goe bareheaded, wearing their haire fomewhat long, but round : they have no Beards; behinde they have a great locke of haire platted with feathers, like a Hawkes Lure, with a feather in it flanding Their fathioni voright by the crowne of the head, and a small locke platted before, a short Gown made of Stags skins, the Furre innermoft, that ranne downe to the middle of their legges, with fleeues to the middle of their arme, and a Beuer skin about their necke, was all their apparell, faue that one of them had shooes and Mittens, so that all went bare-legged, and most bare-foote. They are full eyed of a blacke colour; the colour of their haire was divers, some blacke, some browne, and some yellow, and their faces something flat and broad, red with Oker, as all their apparell is, and the reft of their body : they are broad brefted, and bould, and frand very voright. Their Canoa, are about twenty foote long, and foure foote and a halfe broad in the middle a. Their Canoas loft, and for their Keele and timbers, they have thin light peeces of dry Firre, rended as it were lathes: and instead of Boords, they yee the outer Burch barke, which is thin, and hath many folds, fowed together with a three made of a small root quartered. They will carry foure persons well, and weigh not one hundred weight: they are made in forme of a new Moone, flem and flerne alike, and equally distant from the greatest breadth; from the stem and sterne here riseth a yard high a light thin staffe whipped about with small rootes, which they take hold by to bring the Canoa ashoare, that serueth instead of ropes, and a harbour, for every place is to them a harbotough; where they can goe ashoare themselves, they take aland with them their Canoa; and will neuer put to Sea but in a calme, or very faire weather; in the middle the Canca is higher a great deale then in the Bowe and quarter, they be all bearing from the Keele to the portleffe not with any circular line but with a right line. They had made a Tile with a Saile that they got from fome (bristian, and pisched a dozen poles in the ground ucere, on which were hanged divers Furs, and chaines made of fhels, which at that inftant we fell not in the reckoning to what intent it was done, but after it came to our minde, as hereafter you shall perceiue.

20

CHAP. 8.

The feuenth day we figent in washing, and in beginning a houfe to shelter vs when we should come thisher hereafter, upon a small land of about fine acres of ground, which is injured to the mane with a small Beept is for any bartering with the Sauages there cannot be a sitter place.

The eighth day it began to freeze, and there was thin Ice ouer the found; and because we heard nothing more of the Sauages we began to return out of the Sounds, & comming to the place which the Sauages and made two dayes before fire in, wee found all things remaining there, as it was when we parted, was, an old Boat faile, three or foure thell chaines, about twelne Furres, of Beaturs moit, a Fox skin, a Sable skin, a Bird skin, and an old Mitten, fee tevery one yoon a feuerall pole: whereby we remained fatisfied fully, they were brought thit her of purpose to barter with vs, and that they would fland to our course to leaue for it what wee should thinke good. 18 Because we were not furnished with fit things for to trucks, we tooke onely a Beauer skin, a Sable skin, and a Bird skin, leaning for them a Hatchet, a Knife, and foure Needles threaded. Ma. Act Whitingson had a paire of Cizzars which he left therefor a small Beauers skin, all the reft we left there vintouched, and came that night to the harbour that we were in at our entring, which we call Flag-flaff Harbour-because we tound there the Flag-faffe throwned by the Sauages away, These Sauages by all likelihood were animated to come vinto vs, by reason that we tooke nothing from them at Sauage Eas, and some of them may be of those which dwell there. For in no other place where we were could we perceitue any tokens of any aboade of them, &c.

CHAP. VIII.

Captaine RICHARD WHITBOVERES Voyages to New-foundland, and observations there, and thereof; taken out of his Printed Booke.

r882

Tit well knowne, that my breeding and courfe of: life hath beene fush, as that I have long time for many people on worke, and fepast most of my dairs in trauell, forcially in Merchandizing, and Sex-Voyages. I have beene often in France, Spain, 30 Italy, Paringall, Saway, Demmerks, Normey, Sprincians, the Cameirs, and Siria Italy and the Cameirs of the New Jonath Anad, its alloss for familiarly knowne to me as my owne Comercy.

In the year 5,88.1 ferued under the then Lord Admirall, as Captaine in a Ship of my owne fee forth at my charge against the Spamile Assessing at deter such time as that service was coded, taking my leave of his Honour, I had his favourable Letters to one Sir Robert Demis, in the Countie of Demo, Rnight; whereby there might be some course taken, that the charge as well of my owne Ship, as also of two other, and a Pinnace, with the victuals, and men therem imploited should not be any way burthensome to me. Wherein there was such order guen by the then right Honorable Lords of the print Countell, that the same was well satisfied: which service is a some before recorded in the Booke as White Hall.

no et cent recorde in the Booke at Francisco Composition of the Pre-Institute of Pre-Instit

In a Voyage to that Countrie, about fix and thirtie yeeres fince, I had chen the command of a worthly Ship of two bundred and twenty tun, fet forth by one Mafter Greake of South-hampters. At that time Sit Humfrey Gibert, a Deusopher Knight, came thinker with two good Ships and Pinnace, and brought with him a large Patent, from the late most renowned Queene Elizabrit, and in her name tooke patietion of that Countrie, in the Harbour of Sain Labrit, whereoff was an ive-wincile. He failed from thence towards Vigninia; and by reason of ione winappy direction in his course, the greatest Ship he had strucke yone. Shelue, on the Coast of Casadiae, and was there both, with most gart of the company in her; And he himselfe being then in a small Panace of twenty tun, in the company of his Vice-Admiral (one Captaine Haper) returning towards England, in a great storme, was outerwhemed with the Sean, and (opersible).

In another Voyage I made thither, about foure and thirty yeeres part, wherein I had the command of a good Ship, partly mine one as that time own Sir Bernard Drake of Dewolfire, Kought, came thither with a Commission, and having divers good Ships vnder his command, hee there took many Portugus Ships laden with Fish and brought them into Soylandas Prizes. Omitting to speak of other Voyages, I made thither, during the late Opiens raign, I will descend to later times. In the vecer 1611, being in New-Jound-Land, at which time that famous Arch-Prizes. Peter

In the yeter 1611, being in New-16883-1888, at Whith time the fathout another lates, we have Eafton, came there, and had with him ten faile of good Ships well furnished and very rich, I was kept eleuen weekes wider his command, and had from him many golden promifes, and much weight offered to be put into my hands, as it is well known: I did perfused him much to defilt from his euill course; his intreaties then rome, being that I would come for Buyeland, to some but having no warrant to touch such goods, I gave him when the Maichte for his pardon: 10 but having no warrant to touch such goods, I gave him when his being ing to one Captaine Rahly of Po in Command; a man whom I know but onely by report: which he kectoringly released. Whereupon I provided men, victuals, and a fraught for the faid Ship, and so sent her home to Dartmouth in Dann, thought I never had to much as thankes for my kindensfe therein. And is leaving Easton, I came for England, and gave notice of his intention, letting passe my Voyage I intended for Naplan, and losh than hy labour and charges: for before my armail, there was a parion granted, and ten thin from Ireland, But Easton houring with those thips and riches vpon the Coalt of Barbary, as he promised, with a longing delire, and full expectation to be called home, loft that hope by a too much delaying of time by him who carried the Pardon. Whreeupon he failed to the Straights of Gibraltar, and was afterwards entertained by the Duke of Sanny, where whom labour he had because the submitted of the Sanny, where whom labour her believe the submitted of the Sanny, where whom labour her believe the submitted in the best with the labour of the Duke of Sanny, where whom labour her believe the submitted when the Duke of Sanny, where whom labour and the submitted in the submitted when the submitted with the submitted with the submitted when the submitted when the submitted when the submitted with the submitted when the submitted with the submitted with the submitted with the submitted with the submit

I was there allo in the yeere 1614 when Sir Henry Manuaring was vpon that Coaft, with fine good Ships (thoughy provided: he caused me to spend much time in his company, and from him I returned into Envisada, though I was bound from thence to Masselia, to make fals of such goods as I then had, and other imploiments, &c.

In the yeere 1615, I returned agains to New-found Land; carrying with mee a Commiffion out of the high Court of Admiralité, voder the great Sale thereof, authoriting me to empannell Initia, and to make inquire vyon Oxth, of liantly abules and diforders committed amongel Fiftermen yeerfy vpon that Coaff, and of the fitteft means to redrefte the fame, with foune caber points, Johnson a front particular relation to the Office of the Lord Admirall.

Whatwas then there done, by vertue of that Commillion, which was wholly executed at my owne charge, hath bin at large by me already ceruified into the high Gours of Administre-Noursheldfe, feeing the fame hath been outellips to use fince, & not produced third good infest; which were expected. It will, in fome concenient place of this Discourse field everye a briefe collection of the former part of my endeutours spent in that fetuice; not dollaboring but it will be as auditable for the fome part of my endeutours spent in that fetuice; not dollaboring but it will be as auditable for the former part of my endeutours spent in that fetuice; not dollaboring the interval of our intended designs, as any other resson I stall deliner.

In the yeere 1616, I had a Ship at New-found stand of a hundred tun, which returning laden from thence, being bound for Lisbose, was mer with by a Frence of Rechell, one David Theboth, who rifled her, took le outerbrow and loffe of my Voyage, in more then the flusshmood 866, both, who rifled her, took le outerbrow and loffe of my Voyage, in more then the flusshmood 860 pounds, and cruelly handled the Mafter and the Company that were in her, and atthough I made good proofe thereof at Lisbose, and repreferred the fame also to this Kingdome, as appearance, after my returne from thehexyet for all this 106. Il could never have any recompense.

Shortly after my returns from Lis bows, I was fent for by a Gentleman, who about a years be forc, by a grant from the Patentees, had vindertaken to fartle people in Non-Sound-Lord; he equanted me with his defignes, & after since conference outling the fishers, we fo concluded, that he gau me a convenience wader his hand and feale for the terms of my hife, with full power cogourne within his circuit vyou that Coal; 'whereupon' (being defrout treasdance chas worke) in Ann 16:18. I failed thinher in a Ship of may owne, which was vickualled by that Gentleman, my also carried from victuals for chose prople which had been formerly from to instabit there: but also carried from victuals for chose prople which had been formerly from to instabit there: but also carried from victuals for chose prople which had been formerly from to instabit there: but also carried from victuals for chose prople which had been formerly from to instabit there: but also carried the Malter of her, the Boattwains, & two others of the best men, with much of her victuals (the refl of the Company for feare running into the wood) and so Bett the Ship as a Prize, whereby our intended Ethins Voyages of both the Shipe-were ourschriewn, and the Plantation hindered.

Now feeing it pleafed your Maiestie many yeers since, to take good notice of the said Newfound-land, and granted a Patent for a Plantation there; wherein many Honorable and worthy mens endeuous, and great charge therein, have defensed good commendations (as is well-known)
the which I defire to further with all my best endeauers than do not to differe to dishbethe founthe which I defire to further with all my best endeauers than do not to differe to dishbethe founform of the said of the sa expectation and defere of the Vindertakers; neither have fuch good effects followed, as may be expected from a thorow performance hereafter. And feeing that no man hath yet published any fit moriues of inducements, whereby to perfwade men to aduenture, or plant there; I have prefumed plainly to lay downe thele following realons, &c.

A Relation of the New-found-land.

En frem leudis an fland, bordertog, spon the continent of America, from which it is diviied by the Sea : fo far diffant, as England is from the neerest part of France, & lieth between of the Gounty 46 and 53, deg. North-latitude His is necessar spacious as Ireland, and lieth necre the course that Ships whighly hold in their return from the Well Indies, and neere halfe the way between Ireland to and Fremis Libell not much needs to remmend the whollome temperature of that Countrie-feeing the greatest part thereof lieth about 3 degrees nearer to the South, then any part of England The tempera doth. And it bath bin well approved by fome of our Nation , who have lived there these many weeres, that summ in the winter it is as pleasant and healthfull as England is, And although the example offone Summer be no certain rulefdrother yeeres; yet thus much alio can I truely affirme. that in the pence 1615 of the many thousands of English, French, Partugal, and others, that were then you that Coaft(among it whom I failed to and iro more then one hundred leagues) I neither faw nor heard in all that exauell of anyman or boy of either of these Nations, that died there during the whole Voyage; neither was so much as any one of them sicke.

The Inhabiran:s, with their nature and customes.

The natural Inhabitants of the Countriers they are but few in number, fo are they fomething 20 rude and lausge people; having neither knowledge of God, nor living under any kinde of civil goperment, In their habits, cuttoms & marmers, they refemble the Indians of the Continent, from whence (Liuppole) they some; they live altogether in the North and West part of the Country, which is feldome frequented by the English But the Enench and Biscaines (who refort thither veerely for the Whale-fishing, and also for the Cod-fish) report them to be an ingenious and tra-Stable possis (being well viei) they are ready to affilt them with great latiour and patience, in the killing, custing and boyling of Whales; and making the Traine Oyle, without expectation of other reward, then a little Bread, or some such small hire.

Bayesinthat

All along the coast of this Countrie, there are many spacious and excellent Bayes, some of them The conveni- ilretching into the land, one towards mother, more when twentie leagues. On the East fide of the Land, see the Bayes of Trinitie and Conception; which firetcheth themselves towards the Santhenad The Row and Conclude Research with the All Santhenad The Row and Conclude Research with the Santhenad Sa Southereefte Tor Bay, and Capelin Bay, lying aliq on the East, firetch toward the West: the Bayes of Trepaffer, Si Mary, Berrell, and Plaifance; on the South part of the Land, extend their armes toward the North : The great Bay of S. Rerenlying on the South-west side of the Land, and East, Souther befrem the gratt Rings of Contenbeing about ewentie leagues diffant, the fame firetcheth toward the East. Andhere Ipray you note, that the bottoms of these Bayes doe meete togetherwishin the compaffe of a small compute by meanes whereof our men passing ours land from Bay to Bay may with much ficultion foouer the whole Countrie.

From the Bay of S. Ween round about the Well taken the Land, till you come to the grand Bang Which lieth on the North-fide of the Countrie; and to from the net; till you come round, back 40 to Twin Bar, are abundance of large and excellene Bayes ; which are the leffe knowne, because not frequenced by the English, who leldome into to the Northward of Triving Bay.

Commodions

And evisate be observed, checkound about the Coast and in the Bayes, there are many small Ilander noment them durther off thesix largue from the land both faire and fruitfull; neither doth and a worcommoness; then are there built by the admirable weekmanship of God; I will onely instance gwe or shree of the shiefest, for forse frientall reafons.

Trinitie Harbon affording di-

Trimble Harbour lyes fortie nine degrees North-daritude, being very commodiquity feasted to seceive flepping in reasonable meather, both to anchor in , and from thence to faile towards either the East , Weft, or South : It hath three Armes or Rivers ; long and large enough 50 for many handred fayle of Ships, to moure fast at Anchor neere a mile from the Harbours month; close adioyning to the Rivers ide, and within the Harbour is much open land, well Roredtwith Graffe feffeiehn, Winter and Summen; to maintaine great flore of ordinary Castell, belides Hogges and Goats; if fugh beatts were carried thither; and it Randeth North, moft of any Harbour in the Land , where our Nation practifeth Fishing ; It is neere vnto a great Bay lying on the Northbide of it, called the Bay of Flowers, to which place no Ships repaire to film; partly in regard of fundry Rockes, and Ledges lying even with the water, and full of damger : bin shiefly (as Loonie cure) bequie the Savage people of that Country doe there in-Sangesliuing babice tratoy of sheen fecretly every years - Some into Trimite. Bay and Harbour, in the night nect to Trimite time, purpolely to fleste Sailers Lupes, Hatchete; Hookes, Knines, and tuch like. And 60 this Bdy is not three, English milesount Land from Trimeie Bay in many places ; which people sie they might bee the used to the knowledge of the true Trinitie indeed, no doubt but it would bee a most sweet and acceptable facrifice to God, an everlasting honour to your Maiefly, and the heavenlight blefling to those poore Creatures, who are buried in their own luperitious ignorance. The taske thereof would proue easie, if it were but well begun, and constantly seconded by industrious spirits: and no doubt but God himselse would set his hand to reare vp and advance fo noble, to pious, and fo Christian a building. The bottome of the Bay of Trinity lieth within four leagues through the land South-west, The bottoms

Southerly from Trings, as by experience is found, and it comes neere vinto the Bay of Trepaffer, of divers Baies and the bottome of some other Bayes, as I have alreadie touched before.

Trepassey in like manner is as commodious a Harbour, lying in a more temperate climate, al. together. most in 46. degrees, the like latitude, and is both faire and pleasant, and a wholesome Coast, free The Harbone from Rockes and Shelues : fo that of all other Harbours, it lies the South-most of any Harbour of Trepafer ly. to in the Land, and most conveniently to receive our Shipping to and from Virgina, and the ing commodi-Bermuda Hands; and also any other Shipping that shall passe to and from the River of Cana- outly. dy and the Coast thereof; because they viually passe and returne in the fight of the Land of Tree paffe; and also for some other purposes, as shall be partly declared in the following discourse. The foile of this Countrie in the Vallies and fides of the Mountaines, is fo fruitfull, as The fertilitie of that in divers places, there the Summer naturally produceth out of the fruitfull wombe of the foyle, the earth, without the labour of mans hand, great pleneie of greene Peale and Fitches. faire. round, full and wholesome as our Fitches are in England: of which I have there fed on many times : the hawmes of them are good folder for Castell and other Beafts in the winter, with the helpe of Hay; of which there may be made great flore with little labour in divers places of 20 the Countrie.

Then have you there faire Strawberries red and white, and as faire Raspasse berrie, and Goose- Severallsores. berries, as there be in England; as also multitudes of Bilberries, which are called by some of Fruits there Whortes, and many other delicate Berries (which I cannot name) in great abundance. There growing. are also many other fruites, as small Peares, sowre Cherries, Filberds, &c. And of these Berries and Fruits the ftore is there fo great; that the Marriners of my Ship and Barkes Companie, have often gathered at once, more then halfe an Hogshead would hold; of which divers times eating their fill, I never heard of any man, whose health was thereby any way impaired.

There are also Herbes for Sallets and Broth; as Parille, Alexander, Sorrell, &c. And also Flow- Herbs & Flowa ers, as the red and white Damaske Rofe, with other kindes, which are most beautifull and de- ers both plealightfull, both to the fight and fmell. And questionlesse the Countrie is stored with many Physi- fant and medicall herbs and roots, albeit their vertues are not knowne, because not fought after; yet within cinable, thele few yeares, many of our Nation finding themselves ill, have bruised some of the berbs and Areined fome of the juice into Beere, Wine or Aquanite; and fo by Gods affiftance, after a few drinkings, it hath reftored them to their former health. The like vertue it hath to cure a wound or any iwelling, either by washing the grieued places with some of the lierbes boiled, or by applying them to thereunto (plaitter-wife) which I have feene by often experience. This being the natural fruitfulneffe of the earth, producing such varietie of things, fit for foode, without the labour of man: I might in reason hence inferre, that if the same were manured, and husbanded in fome places, as our grounds are, it would be ape to beare Corne, and no leffe fertill then the Enga

40 lifb foile. But I neede not confine my felfe to probabilities ; feeing our men that have wintred there di- Corn growing uers yeeres, did for a triall and experiment thereof fowe fome small quantitie of Corne, which I there, yeelding faw growing veriefaire; and they found the increase to be great, and the graine very good; and good increase, it is well knowne to me, and divers that trade there yeerely, how that Cabbage, Carrets, Turneps, Lettice, and fuch like, proue well there. In divers parts of the Countrie there is great flore of Deere, & some Hares, manie Foxes, Squir Store of Deere rels, Beuers, Wolues, and Beares, with other forts of Bearts, feruing as well for necessicie, as for &other Beafts profit and delight. Neither let me feeme ridiculous, to annex a matter of noueltie, rather then Ararecxample weight to this discourse. In the yeere 161c, it was well knowne to eight and fortie persons of of the gentle my Companie, and divers other men, that three feuerall times, the Wolves & Beafts of the Coun- nature of the trie came downe neere them to the Sea-fide, where they were labouring about their Fish, howling and making a noise : so that at each time my Mastiffe Dogge went unto them (as the like in that Countrie hath not been feene) the one began to fawne and play with the other, and so went M Guiss Mas together into the Woods, and continued with them, everie of thefe times, nine or ten daies, and did returne voto vs without any burt.

The Land Fowle (befides great number of small Birds flying vp and downe, some without name, that line by foraping their food from the earth in the hardest winter that is) there are also Hawkes great and imall, Partridges, Thrush, and Thrussels abundance, very fat. As also Filladies, Nightingales, and then like, that fing most pleasantly. There are also Birds that line by prey, as 60 Rauens, Gripes, Crowes, &c. For Water-fowle, there is certainly fo good, and as much varietie, as in any partor the world; as Geele, Dicks, Pidgeons, Gulls, Pengnins, and many other forts. Thele Penguins are as bigge as Geefe, and flie not, for they have but a little flort wing, and they multiply to infinitely, vpon a certaine flat Hand, that men drive them from thence vpon a boord Penguins, into their Boates by hundreds at a time; as if God had made the innocencie of fo poore a crea-

Siffiff a

Buffe & Greybound vied a. more deggede ly, one pulling the other the ture to become such an admirable instrument for the sustentation of man. There are also Godwits. Curlèwes, and a certaine kinde of Fowle are called Oxen and Kine, with fuch like; which Fowle doe not onely fleed those that trade thither greatly for foode, but also they are a great forthering to divers Ships voyages, because the abundance of them is such, that the Fishermen doe bast their hookes with the quarters of Sea-Fowle on them ; and therewith some Ships doe veerely take a great part of their Filhing Voyages, with fome baite, before they can

Fresh water and Springs.

The fresh waters and Springs of that Countrie, are many in number, and withall very pleafant, delightfull and wholesome, that no Countrie in the world hath better. And Fewell for fire is to plen, stull, that there is never like to be want of that commoditie.

Many forts of growing.

In like manner there is great abundance of Trees fit to be imploied in other feruiceable vies: There are Furre and Sproce trees, found, good, and fit to mail Ships withall; and as commodious for boards and buildings as the Spruce and Firre trees of Normay, and out of thele came abundance of Turpentine. No Countrie can thew Pine and Birch trees, of fuch height and greatnesse as those are there; and doubtlelle, if some store of your Maiesties subjects doe once settle there to live, and would be industrious to fearch further, and more throughly into the Countrie, then as vet it hath beene, there might be found many other commodities of good worth. Among the which I may not omit, that there is much probabilitie of finding Mines, and making of Iron

Good hope of Mines, and making of Iron and Pitch. Fift in great

The Ruers also and Harbors are generally stored with delicate Fish, as Salmons, Pearles, Ecles, 20 Herring, Mackerell, Flounders, Launce, Capelin, Cod, and Troutes the fairest factest and tweetell, that I have feene in any part of the world. The like for Lobsters, Crabfish, Muskles, Hens, and other varietie of Shel-hih great flore. And also observe here, that in these places there is vfaully store of the spawne and frie of seuerall forts of fishes: whereby the Sea-towleline so fat as they are there in the winter : And like wife the Beuers, Otters, and fuch like, that feeke their foode in the Ponds, and fresh Rivers. The Seas like wise all along the Coast, doe plentitully abound in other forts of fish as Whales, Spanish Mackerell, Dorrell, Pales, Herring, Hogs, Porpofes, Seales, and such like royall fish &cc. But the chiefe commodity of New-found land yet knowne, and which is growne to be a fet-led trade, and that may be much bettered by an orderly Plantation there (if the Tradersthither will take some better course, then formerly they have done, as shall be declared) if the Codfilling upon that Coast, by which our Nation and many other Countries are enricht. And if I should here fet downe a valuation of that Fish, which the French, Biscaines, and Portugals fetch yeerely from this Coast of New-found land, and the Barke, which lieth within fine and twen-The benefit arifing to France tie leagues from the South-Cape of that Countrie, where the French vie to fish Winter and Summer, viually making two Voyages energy yeare thither : (To which places, and to the Coast of Canadr, which lieth neere voto it, are yearely tent from those Countries, more then foure hundred faile of Ships:) It would feeme incredible, yea some men are of opinion, that the people of France, Spaine and Italy, could not so well live, if the benefit of the fishing youn this Coast, and your Mai-fties other Dominions, were taken from them.

Codefishing a great hope of benefit there-

on that coast.

voon those

coaffs.

But I trust it will be fossicient, that I give an estimate of our owne trading thicker, and partly of the wealth and commedities we reape thereby, without any curious fearch into other mens profits. In the yeere 1615, when I was at New-found-land with the Commission before mentio-Shipslying vp. ned, which was an occasion of my taking the more particular observations of that Country, there were then on that Coaft, of your Maiesties subjects two hundred and fiftie faile of Ships great and fmell. The burthens and Tunnage of them all, one with another fo neere as I could take notice, allowing enery Ship to be at least threescore tun (for as some of them contained lese, so many of them held more) amounting to more then 1,000, tunnes. Now for every threefcore tun burthen, according to the vivall manning of Ships in those Voyages, agreeing with the note I then tooke, there are to be fet downe twentie men and boyes : by which computation in thefe to two hundred and fittle faile, there were no leffe then fine thouland persons. Now every one of there Ships, to necre as I could gueffe, had about 120000. fifh, and fine tunne of traine Oyle one with another. So that the totall of the Fish in these two hundred and fiftie faile, when it was brought into England, France or Spaine (being fold after the rate of foure pound, for every thoutained in moit find of fifh, fixicore fifhes to the hundred, which is not a pennie a fifh, and if it yeelds leffe, it was ill fold) amounted in monie to 1 20000, pound, Now, as I have faid before, allowing to every Ship of fixtie tun, at least five tun of traine Oyle; the totall of that arifeth to 1250, tun; each tun, whether it be fold in England, or elfewhere, being voder-valued at twelve pound. So as the whole value thereof in monie, amounteth to the fum of 15000. pound, which added to the fifth, it will appeare that the totall value of the fifth, and 60 Traine Oyle of those 250. faile of Ships that yeere, might yeelde to your Maietties tubiects better then the Summe of 135000 pound, omitting to reckon the ouer-prices which were made and gotten by the fale thereof in forrain Countries, being much more then what is vivally made at home, and to the like in other yeeres. And this certainly, in my understanding, is a point worthe of confideration, that fo great wealth should yearely be raised, by one sole commodity of that Countrie, vea by one onely fort of fifth, and not vpon any other trade thither, which must needes yeelde, with the imploiments thereof, great riches to your Maiesties Subiests: And this alio to be gathered and brought home by the fole labour and industry of men, without exchange or exportation of our Coine, and native commodities, or other adventure (then of necellarie pronifions for the fifthing) as Salt, Nets, Leads, Hookes, Lines, and the like; and of victuals. as Bread. Brefe, and Porke, in competent measure, according to the number and proportion of men imployed in those Voyages. The connecting of these commodities (gotten by nihing) into mony, cannot choose but be a great benefit to all your Maiesties Kingdomes in many respects.

Whee bevaley of the Fishcon Ships did 1-

What the charge in fetting forth of these two hundred and fiftie saile might amount vnto (brwhat the charge in the the control of the control o is) doth yearely fet on worke, and relieue many numbers of people, as Bakers, Brewers, Coopers, ford to feuerall Ship-Carpenters, Smithis, Net-makers, Rope-makers, Linesmakers, Hooke-makers, Beiler and Sonp-Carpenting and many other trades, which with their families base their belt means of more charge. After this the form their New found-law Voyages. Adde vnto them the families of fertants of duties. Was author with and Mafters of fuch Shirps as goe thither, and Mariners with their families, hereby supplied and maintained, * &c.

turer; which I
THE Nations of the Countrey have great flore of red Oaker, which they vie to colour their base omitted Bodies, Bowesand Artowes, and Cannowes withall, which Cannowes are built in shape, as busied in his like the Wherries on the River of Tarmes; but that they are much longer, made with the rinds flory. The Book of Birch trees; which they few very artificially and close together, and ouerlay enery feame with such as defire Turpentine; and in like manner they few the rindes of Spruce crees, round and deepe, in propose to reade it I tion like a Braffe Kettle, to boyle their meate in, which hath beene well proued by three Mati- have also omit ners of a Ship, riding at Anchor by me, who being robbed in the night by the Sauages, of their apparell and divers provisions, did the mext day feeke after them, and came fuddenly where they had fet vo three Tents, and were feafting, having three Canoas by them, and had three Pots made ceedings. of fuch rindes of trees, standing each of them on three Bones boyling with twelue Fowles in each 30 of them; enery Fowle as bigge as a Widgeon, and fome to bigge as a Ducke: they had also many fuch pots fo fowed, and fathioned like the leather Beckets that are yied for queeching of fire, and thoic were full of the yalks of Eggos, that they had taken and boiled hard, and to dried fmall, which the Sauages vied in their brosh, as Sugar is wied in some meates : they had great store of the Skins of Deere, Beauers, Beares, Seales, Otters, and divers other fine skins which were well dreffed; as also great flore of feuerall fores of flesh dried; and by shooting off a Musker towards them, they all ran away naked without any apparell, but onely their hags on their heads, which were made of Seales skins, in fashion like our hats, sewed handsomely with narrow bands about them, let round with fine white fiels, fuch as are carried from Portugal to Brafeile; where they passed to the Indians as ready monie. All their three Canoas their Fiesh, Skins, Yolks of Egges. 40 Targets, Bowes and Arrows, and much tine Okar, and divers other things, they tooke & brought away, and shared it amongst those three that tooke it and brought to me the best Canoa. Bowes and Arrowes, and divers of their Skins, and many other things worth the noting : which may feeme to inuite vs to finde out some other trades with them.

Now also I will not omit to relate something of a strange Creature that I first faw there in the yeere 1610, in a morning early as I was standing by the water side, in the Harbour of Saint Tohns: which I espied verie swittly to come swimming towards me, looking cheerefully, as it had beene a woman, by the Face, Eyes, Nofe, Mouth, Chin eares, Necke and Forehead: It feemed to be fo beautifull, and in those parts to well proportioned, having round about upon the head, all blew strakes, resembling haire, downe to the Necke (but certainly it was haire) for I beheld it long, and another of my companie alfo, yet living, that was not then farre from me; and feeing the 30 same comming so swifely towards mee, I stepped backe, for it was come within the length of a long Pike. Which when this strange Creature faw that I went from it, it presently the reupon dined a little under water, and did fwim to the place where before I landed; whereby I beheld the shoulders and backe downe to the middle, to be as square, white and smooth as the backe of a man, and from the middle to the hinder part, pointing in proportion like a broad hooked Arrowshow it was proportioned in the forepart from the necke and shoulders, I know not; but the fame came shortly after vnto a Boat, wherein one William Hawkridge, then my servant, was, that hath bin fince a Captaine in a Ship to the East Indies, and is lately there imploied againe by Sir Thomas Smith, in the like Voyage; and the same Creature did put both his hands upon the fide

60 of the Boate, and did firiue to come into him and others then in the faid Boate : whereat they were afraid; and one of them strooke it a full blow on the head; whereat it fell off from them: and afterwards it came to two other Boates in the Harbour; the men in them, for feare fled to land : This (I suppose) was a Mermaide. Now because divers have written much of Mermaides, I have prelumed to relate, what is most certaine of such astrange Creature that was feene at New-found-land: whether it were a Mermaide or no, I know not; I leave it for others to indge, &c.

Plantarion there; which I

CHAP. IX.

The names of divers honorable persons and others who have undertaken to beloe aduance bis Maiesties Flautation in the New-found-land : written by the faid R.W. with extracts of certaine Letters written from thence.

January and Bartle verb He right Honorable, Him. Lord Cary, Vilcount of Fanke-land, Lord Deputic for the Kingdome of Irefand; buth vindertaken to plane a Colonie of his Maielles Subicechin the New familiand, and is well pleased to entertaine look as are walling to be Adventuries with him therein vinon fuch Ecubicities as a service. ling to be Aduenturers with him therein, you fuch Conditions as may appeare in the latter part of this Booke: And in his Lordships absence, hee hath authorized this Agent, Mafter Leonard Wellsted, by warrant under his hand and Seale, to rati- 20

he whatforter shall be by him concluded therein. The faid Master Wellsteds Chamber is more one Matter Garlands house, at the lower end of Same Marting land in the fields.

The right Honorable Sir George Calsere, Knight jone of the principall Secretaries vato his Maieffie, hath also undertaken to planta large Circuit of the Countrie I who hath stready fent this ther this years and the former years, a great number of worn and women; with all neocharie proin fons fit for them; where they have pleafanrly, building of Houresick sting of Land for Corne. and Meddowes, Gabage, Carrets, Turneps, and such like as also for Wood and Tobacco, Likewife they are there preparing to make Salt, for the preferention of Pull another weber, and for divers other feruices. And his Honor is likewife well plained to entertaine fuch as will adventure with him therein, ypon very the condition.

The Worldipfull John Slany of London Merchant, Whols one of the undertakers of the New- 30 found land Pfaniation, and is Freaturer were the Parentees of that Societie, who have maintained a Colomie of his Maiellies lubicote there about twelve years, and they are willing to entertains fuch as will furcher his Maieffies faid Plantation, voor firconditions, Divers Worthipfull Citizens of the Civie of Brifoll, have vndertaken to plant a large Circuit of that Commerie, & they have maintained a Colony of his Maiefties fubreds there any time thefe five yeeres, who have builded there many faire Houses, and done many other good fernices, who live there very pleasantly, and they are well pleased to entertaine vportar conditions such as will be Aduenturers with them.

The Worthipfull William Vangban of Tarraced, in the Countie of Carmanthen, Doctor of the 40 Civil Law, hath alfo vidertaken to plant a Circuit in the New-found land, and hath in two feuerall yeares sene thirther divers men and women, and hee is willing to entertaine such as will be Aduenterers with him vpon fit conditions.

And there are many other worthy perions Adventurers in the faid Plantation, whose names are not herein mentioned. And it is well hoped, that divers others will also put their helping hand to advance the same, when they are given to understand what honour and benefit may accrue thereby. And if his Maiesties subices of this Kingdome may be willing to set torth from everie feuerall Countrie, but one good Ship yearely thither, with people and prousions fit for them, it will be then not onely a great honour and benefit to his Marettie, but alto a great increase of Shipping and Marriners, and the imploying and inriching of many thoulands of poore people which pow line chargeably to the Parishoners. The which may be easily performed by the able Subiects, to let forth the charge at first, and foeuerie Parish to recour yearely their equall parts of the benefit which may accrue by the faid flocke, and thereby not onely disburden yearely them-Selves of some of those which lie chargeable vnto them within their severall Parishes; but also yeerely yeelde a great benefit to every fewerall Countie, though it lie fomething remote from the Sea-coaft, if they imploy a discreete honest man there, who may yearely be accomptable to eucrie Parish of the charge, and likewise the benefit. The which will not be anie way burdensome or hurtfull vnto any; as the following discourse which I have written will plainly informe them.

Extracts

Extracts of a Letter from Captaine ED WARD WINNE, Governous of the Colony at Ferryland; within the Prounce of Analon, in Newfound-

Land vnro the Right Honourable Sit G t O R G E C A L-YERT Knight, his Maifties Principall Secretary ; July 28. 1622.

My ispleafe your Honour :

I Ponthe fenencemb day of May . I received here your Letters of the wineteenth of February, from V. ibs bands of Robest Stoning. I pan the fin and in evident of the fame; a Ship of Matter Tennins, with your people and promitten arrived here in fafetie: and from the hands of Captaine Powell I received then your thereury Levers whihe fourtemnt of March. And von the last of lune Mafter lames acone beiberiffon Renoule and the Salamaker Master John Hickling from whose hands I received two Letters more, that by Mufter lames, being of the fourth of May, and the other by Hickion of the ber a limmediately addressed my selfe energy to our businesse. Nativishet anding our diligent labour left Lener tent ber a limmediately addressed my selfe energy to our unimage: Materialist and out authorized for an into England and extraordinary paints taking, it was Alhallentide before our first range of building was fitted for an incovere behabitable being coc.

After Christmafe, weedraployed our schoes in the Woods, especially in band menther, where wee got home as many Boord flockes as afforded us two hundred Boords; and about two bundred Timber trees besides. Mee got home as much ar as many Trees, as furned us to palizado ento the Plantation about foure Acces of ground, for the keaping of of barb man and heaft, with Post and Rayle seven foot bigb, fraggered in the top, the Treesbeing puched upright and fastened walb Spikes and Nayles, who got also togo ber as much Pira-wood as will ferue ve yet thefe two monates. We also fisted much Garden ground for Seed I meane Barley Oases Reale and Beares For addition of building weathank at this prefent a Parlank of founteene food Befides the Chroney, and twelve foot bread of conservious beight, and a lodging Chamber over it; to each a Chimney of Stone-work with Staires, and a Staires on Erbefides a tenament of two receives or a flory and a balfe, which ferues for a 30 Store boufe til west are exherites prounded. The Borge back barns similed the fe sine weekst; the Salt-works is now aloness ready. Marminssanding obin great sarkefur so for hunds; we have both to beat Bar-They were but ley, Oates, Reefe and Boanes abone she quantuse of one Acres. Of Gurden raome about balfe an Acre : twelve men all tey, Mishan etgle, and the house some we quantus of the acres, by Some are raine about any survives. Wetter that Corne, though fate forms, is not in early grabe Remon and the goodleth Forfesthat I care far, be applied. The lift Winterday is the time of the some a fair to see fate, be lift Winterday in the winter the control of the some and the see fate of the see

For the Country and Clymate : It is better, and not focald at England bibberto. My comfort is, that ing. the Lord is with your Hosper, and your designes: for we have grospered, to the admiration of all the beholders in what is done. And thus with my humble duty remembred, I rest, & c.

Another Letter to Mafter Secretary CALVERT, from Captaine WINNE, of the seuenteenth of August, 1622.

Mey it please your Honour; W E beneterbrean Bartey Oates, and Beanes both early and codded, and though the late foreing which the fact from the contrary, the uppear one fifth that is carried the lates because the contrary, the uppear one fifth that is carried the lates and the contrary. It is uppear one fifth that is carried the lates of the contrary the uppear of the lates of the ranke, that I bane not feene the like in England. Our Beanes are exceeding good : our Peale shall goe 50 pothent compare : for they are in some places as high as a man of an extraordinary stature , Raddill as big as mine arme, Lettice, Cale or Cabbage, Turneps, Carrets, and all the rest is of like goodnesse. We have a Meadow of about three Acres : it flourished lately with many cockets of good Hay, and now it is made up for a Winter feeding. Wee hope to bee well fitted with many Acres of Meadow against another recre : of Passure-land, wee base already to serve at least three hundred beads of Cattell: and to all this, if it please God, a good quantitie of Seed-ground shall be fitted, and such buildings as wee shall be able to

Now in the next place it may please your Honour to understand; That touching this Country, the Summer time here is fo faire. So warme, and of fo good a temperature, that it produceth many Hearbes and Plants very wholfome, medicinable, and delectable, many fruit Trees of fundry kindes, many forts of Berries wholfome to eate, and in measure most abandant : insomuch as many forts of Birds and Beasts are relieved with them in time of Winter, and whereof with further experience I trust to ft d some for the turne of Drers. Our high levells of Land are adorned with Woods, both fare and scemely to behold, and greene all Winter, Within Land there are Plaines innumerable, many of them containing many thou find Acres, very pleasant to see to, and well furnished with Ponds, Brookes and Riners, very plentifull of sus-

CHAP.IO.

Temperate Winter.

Brifto# Planta-

Salt made

Abuses of Fi-

dry forts of Fife : besides store of Decre and other Beasts that yeeld both Food and Furre. Touching the Gile, I find it in many places, of goodnessefarre beyond my expectation: the Earth as good as can be: the june, i fina non many pinces, of growings for the force of Cattle to feed it up, and with good ordering, it would become a most fledfait nourdbmens : whereof the large breed of Cattell to our Northerne Plantation, have lately given proofes sufficient, though since, they have beene most shamefully destroyed. The tion, have tricing even proofes influences, some government, some tree were here is very healthfull, the water both elect and wholfome, and the Winter front & tolerable, continuare overe to very ocumum, and part of March: the day in Winter longer then in England : the niebts both filent and comfortable, producing nothing that can be faid, either borrid or bideom. Neither was it Coold bere the lait Winter as in England the peere before, I remember but terce fenerall dayes of hard cold vere to smit me not extreame neither : for I have knowne greater Froits , and farre greater vo Snowes in our owne Countrey.

At the Brino of Hantation, there is as goodly Rye now growing , as can bee in any part of England : ther are allo well furnified with Swine, and a large breed of Goates, fairer by far then those that were fent

The Stones Kernells, and Seeds that Stoning brought mee, were put into the ground presently after bis arrivall, the which are already of a prettie growth, though late fet; for they came to my hands but voon the fenencenth of May. The Umes that came from Plimouth, doe profper very well : nay, it is to be affured, that any thing that growes in England , will grow and proper very well here: whereby it plainly appeares unto your Houser, what manner of Countrey the same is .

peares unto jour florour to understand, that our Salt-maker bath performed his part with a great 20 deale of sufficiency, by whom I have fent your Honour a Barrell of the best Sait that ener my eres beheld. who with better fetling doth undertake to better this, which bee bath made already, I shall humbly also delive you to remember my last yeeres (nit, that our delicate Harbours and Woods may not bee altogether destroyed. For there hath beene runded this yeare not fo few as 50000. Trees, and they beane out ballast into the Harbors, though I looks on, It may likewife pleafe your Honour to give express order; Fuffishet suro 100 Elarous, come generater, may be such men as shall bee of good firength: whereof wee fand m need such as be sent thinker bereater, may be such men as shall bee of good firength: whereof wee fand m need of fixe Malons, foure Carpenters, two or three good Quarry men, a Slater or two, a Lyme-hurner, and Lyme-stones, a good quantitie of bard Laths; a couple of strong Maids, that (besides other worke) can both Brew and Bake, and to furuik us with Wheeles, Flewpe, and Flax, and a convenient number of Wellcountry Labourers to fit the ground for the Plough. Secondly that no more Boyes or Girles be fent hither, 30 country). Loweviet is to pe tone ground for see a umple, executing the na more to ope or Great is fort better;
I meane, upon your Henry change, nor any other perfors which beam not been fromghey up to labor;
they are unfit for the feef affects. Thirdly, your Hours of needfalls must need to found from Gunner, and a Gunner with bus necessaries; for the place and time doe requirest. It is a distrible Chartel; they will command the Harbour, and secure all, &c.

A Copie of a Letter from N.H. a Gentleman living at Ferryland in Newfound-Land, to a worthy Friend W. P. of the 18. of August, 1622.

M Thumble service remembred; accounting my selfe bound unto you in a double bond, namely, lose and ante: I could not be unmanisfull to seem the same unto you in these rude lines, thereby to acquaint you with our health . the temperature of the Country, and the commodities and bleffings therein. And first, for the first : Concerning our health, there is not any man among it our company, that bath beene licke Carcely one day lince be came , but bath beene able to follow his worke. The Climate differs but little from England, and I my felfe felt leffe cold bere this Winter, then I did in England the Winter before by much. The arre u sweeter : for I nower smelt any enill sanor in the Country, nor saw any venemous creature to burt mee. Gods bleffings upon this Land are manifold : As for mood and mater, it puffit Bengland : the one most fuece in growing and burming, the other most pleafant to taffe, and good to drive. For in Wint and beliader (I taking mith me Matter Stoning) did couft some con miles in 50 to the Country Weltward from our Plantation, to make some discovery of the Country, and to killa Desre; and being some fine miles into the Land, where wee lodged that night in a Wood, we found much Champion ground, and good leuels of one, two, three or foure hundred Acres together, and at the foot of each Mountaine and Small Hill, wee alwayes met with a faire fresh Riuct, or a sweet Brooke of running water, whereof wee freely drauke, and it did quench my thirst as well as any Beere, and much refresh vi both, and never offended our stomaches at all. Wee travelled three dayes, but found no Deere faue their footings, which came to paffe by meanes of a great fire that had burned the Woods a little before ten miles compasse. It began betweene Formouse and Aquatort; it burned a weeke, and then was quen-

to me you me the most bree was that gaue fire to it, had I thinke hee was a fermant hired by the Detill 60 I to doe that method deed, who [I doe not doubt] will pay him for his worke. In the night the Wolues hing neere, did something affright vs with howlings, but did not hart vs: for wee had Dogs, Fire, and Sword to welcome them. As for the Beares, although there bee many; they beare us no ill will, I thinke, for L bane caten my part of two or stree, and taken ne burt by thems. Foxes heere are many, and at fabital as a Foxe, yet have wee soonned many of them of their rich coats, which our worthy Governour keepes carefully, as also of Cattagend's and Otters, whose concrings wee preserve as fitting presents for greater perfons. The Formles and Birds of the Land are Partridges, Curlues, Filladayes, Black-birds, Bulfinches. Larbes, Spirrowes, and Juch like. Those of the Sea, are Goofe, Ducks of foure forts, Capderace, Teale, Super, Penguyns, Murres, Hounds, Sanderlings, Redfbanks and others, all very fet, sweete and whol-Come. The Fewles of prey, are Tercells, Golbankes, Falcons, Laners, Sparhankes, Gripes, Offreis, Owles oreat and small, Runens, Guils, Pinerils, and some others; and of most of these forts I bane killed many. As for the plentie of Codfilb it is well knowne unto you. Salmons , Eeles . Mackwell , Herrings, Lance, Caples, Dog fish, Hollibuss, Flowkes, Lobsters, Crabs and Muskles: All and more then all thefe on are here in great plentie, very good and sweet meat. The weld fruit and herries, are small Peares, Cherries Nats, Resberries, Stramberries, Barberries, Demberries, Hurtleberries, with others, all good to cate. Many faire Flowers I have feene here, which I cannot name, although I had learned Gerrards Herball by heart : But mild Rofes are here bosh red and damaike , as fragrant and faire as in England. All our Corne and Seedes baue profested well, and are already growne almost to perfelt maturitie. &c.

THE SECOND PART OF THE TENTH BOOKE.

CHAP. X.

Diners Warlike Fleets fet forth to Sea against the Spaniards, by our English DEBORA, Queene ELIZABETH, of Glorious memory: Her manifold Delineries and Victories.

O I the Man, who fo Mafe nons'd on Plantations, New England, Virgin, Bermude, Newfound-landed, Lawrell for oline take, and make Relations Of Armes, Harmes, Fighes, Prigles, Flights, Depopulations, Romes Buls, Spaines broyles, Irelands mes Frances branded. GOD, Angels, Winds, Som, Men, Elizas Glory Conspire ; Shee outlines Death, in Heaven, in Story.

Aile greatest of English Names, Glorious ELIZABETH! Nor may wee after thy overgand pergrimation out of this World, vant thy true and hearnly home & Country, forget the great Acts of thy earthly Pulgrimage. Thou wait indeed the Mother of English Sea-greatnesse, and didly fifth both (Canarall), home the country to the property of the first by thy (Generalls) not salute alone, but awe and trrrifie the remoteft East and Weft, firetching thy long and firong armes to India, to Chua, to America, to the Persons Seas, to the Californian Coaff and New Albions Scepters: Thou mad't the Northerne Musiconits admire thy Greatnelle: Thou gaueft name to the North-well Straits (Meta Incomita) and the Southern

30 Negros, and Hands of the South-vnknowne-continent which knew not humanitie, were compelled to know Thee; Thou imbracedit the whole earthly Globe in thy Maritime Armes: thou freedit England from Easterlings and Lumbards borrowed legs, and taughtst her not onely to stand and goe without helpe, but become helpe to our friends, and with her own Sea forces to stand against, yea to fland upon, and flampe under free the proudest of her foes. Thou wast a Mother to thy Neighbours, Scots, French, Dutch ; a Mirrour to the remotest of Nations. Great Cumberlands twelue voyages before recited are thine, and the fiery vigor of his Martiall Spirit was kindled at thy bright Lamp, & quickened by the Great Spirit of ELIZABBTH. Drake, Candift, lobn and Rubard Hawkins, Raleigh, Dudley, Sherley, Preston; Greenuile, Loncaster, Wood, Raimund, Lenison; The Ficers se:
Moniton, Winter, Frobiber, Danier, abdother the Star-worthies of Englands Sphere, whole Platiforth by queen net-courfes we haue before related, acknowledge EL 1 ZAS Orb tobe their Eirft and higheft. Elizabeth Mouer. How many Royall Fleets did fince fet forthe In the yeares 85, and 87, effore vader Sir Sup. pag. 1082. Francu Drake, before mentioned , as that allo in 92. under him and Sir lohn Hawkins : another & f Fleet 1590. under Sir lohn Hawkins, and Sir Martin Frobilber to the Hands; also 1591. the Hand and Sir Robert Croffe, when the Madre de Dies was taken, and another Carrike burnt : An, 1894: Suce lent forth a Fleet to Breft , where Frobuffet was flaine. Another 1899. Vinler the Lord Thomas Howard A. 1600, vinler Sir Richard Lewifin a Fleet to the Hands: 1601. another to Ireland, A. 1602, under Sir Richard Leuison and Sir William Manson; and another under the fame Commanders, 1603. as bequeathing in her fatall extreames, Marine Actions and Glory to her Successour. These and other her Sea-glories I purpose not here to dilate, having already handled fome of them; but have fingled from the reft the actions of 88.89. 96. and 97. premiling fomthing as a Preface of the great deliverances which G id vouchfafed that Virgin Queen.

Fleet under the Lord Thomas Howard , now Earle of Suffolke ; that 1592, by Sir John Burroughs

CHAP.IO.

That Church which is myitically called, The woman drunken with the blond of Saints, had begun to perfecute her from her birth , Pope Clement the fixt decreeing against her Mothers mariage, 10 and Pope Paul the third thundring a terrible tentence against her Fathers Soueraigntie. And although King Henry had first enacted against his daughters, and after for them by Parliamentary authoritie yet when King Edward (which vied to call her be freet fister Temperance) was dead. there wanted not some which extruded both the lifters, and obtruded another succession. Queene Mary dispersing that storme, raised another, wherein shee was exposed to the c. lumnies of fairefoule-mou hed fycophants, which would have flamed the reigne of that Queene, otherwise branded, as Bort, blondy, unfortunate, with the flaughter of that Royall Virgin: Story and others laving. That in vame the boughs of Herese were lopped off, if the Root were suffered to continue. Long and ftraight imprisonment shee indired, and was forced by them to Massey Confession and externall profession of that Remile Catholicisme, which perhaps had not diverted her enemies deligne, 'ad ... not the perce foft of her enemies Gardiner beene auerted by his owne death; and had not also King Philip with the Spaniards entited to the French fo rich at Inheritance, as by Queene Mariet death without flue (which could fearly from her ficke and aged body be expected) was likely to fall upon Queene Mary of Scotland betrothed to the Dolphin of France, whereby the Spanish great neffe already embroyled enough, was likely to bee ouermatched by the French, increated with addition of three mightle Kingdomes. Queene Mary dying, and Cardinall Poole with mamy Prelates, as it were, attending her exequies with their owne, with generall applause Shee was acknowledged Queen. Her first care was to restore Religion, notwithstanding the dangers thence incompating her ; thee alto rejected the mariage with King Philip, whereof hee had treated with her by the Earle of Feria his Embaffadour, promiting to procure thereunto the Popes difpenfati- 30 on meither admitted fhee the offered march of Charles, fonne to Perdinand the Emperour; and when Henry the French King by the Guifians was perswaded to challenge England to his sonne and daughter in law, cauting them to vie her title Francis & Mary by the Grate of God King and Queene of Scotland, England, and Ireland) and prepared Warres against her, God tooke him out of the world, being il me at a Tilt iport.

Acre 17.5. Her perfecutithe wombe.

The new King and Queene continued their former challenge, Title and Enlignes, which gave no small occasions of those endls, which afterwards involved her, breeding a great dreuft becwit those two greatest Ladies which Christendome had, both Heires to an absolute Source gotic. (). Elizabeths Shee expelled the French out of Scotland, flablished the affaires of Ireland, procured armour and prosperitie. accession this weapons cut of Germany, cauted much Artillery to bee cast of Braste and Iron, new Mynes of 40 & other kinds, Braffe being found at Kefrorcke, and the Rone Calammaris vlefuli for Braffe-workes tound here alfo : prouition for Gunpowder was first at her commandement made here at home : Barwicke forthe B. of Chitified, the Navie furnished, the Sea Townes imitating her example and increasing dayly in Nacoeffer his Reuall forces, niwered by Martiali Spirits for Land and Sea feruice. Thus did God bleffe her that lizious Tractate of Thankshad glorified him in establishing his Truth., not withstanding the pouertie of the State at her giuing. See al o Camentrance, deepely indetted by her predeceffours; and the faint friendship or professed enmitte of Rome and all her disciples. This fhall it bee done to the Woman God will benour, and more then dens Elizabetha. thus: for what was all the time of her reigne but visifitudes of Treasons, Werres, and manifold Annalesof externall and internall broyles, and yet in an admirable working of Divine Grace, when had England folong and flourithing peace at home, or glory and renowme abroad? as if hee which 50 her Reigne.

the boule of George Duke of Clarerec. Ann. 1 569. Prushie impious Bull.

brought light out of darknesse, would permit all such contrary workings to bee the obitet of his goodnesse, the fewell and materialls of ber greatnesse. Arthur Poole, the tourth yeere of her reigne abufed the greatneffe of his bloud with other conspirators, to the Gustan purposes, but taken and sentenced received not bloudie reward from her mild and mercifull hand.

Pope Pine the fift denounceth her excommunicate, discharging her Subiects from loyaltic and alleaseance and arming them against her : Ridolf a Florentine playes the Merchant of Popish wates, the Earles of Northumberland and Westmerland take armes, the Duke of Norfolke is entangled, the French and Spaniard are perswaded by the Pope, who promised also if need were, to ingage to this purpose all the goods of the Sea Apostolike, Chalices, Crosses, and holy Vestments: 60 Onelleus is commanded to inuade England with an Army from the Low-countries : but God protected EL IZABETH, and her Enemies abroad were disappointed, the Traitors at home falling into their owne pit.

About the same time Edmand and Peter, brethten to the Earle of Ormand were busie in Ireland, to inflame which rebellion Mendoza came out of Spaine, but before it brake forth into any great combustion it was extinct.

Don lobn of Austria enters next upon the Stage (for I omit Barnes and Musbers, Sir Henry fon of challes Percie, the B. of Ross his attempts, and other Acts and Arts sauouring more of the Foxe then Emperour, the Lion) and pretended a peace, whiles hee intended the deliuerance of the Scottift Queene. 1576. and marrying her, to make himi-life King of England and Sectland, by helpe of fugitives and fauonr of the Pope and Gisfians : and in the midit of his warlike preparations fuddenly dieth. When Pin his impious curses had thus proved bleffings, hee deceaseth, and Gregory his successour in the A. 1572. Pius his impious curles had thus proued blettings, nee deceatern, and orgony in redeemed from the Papacie, and malice to Queene E L I ZABET H, the great Founder of Seminaties, gaping for no firm the lelle then a Kungdome to his base sonne lames Boncompagno, treateth with the Spaniard, who senence ahad (wallowed England alto in his conceit. Thomas Studies an English fugitive promileth fre- gainst Q.Elif. hand to the Popes baltard, who in recompence gives him the titles of Marquelle of Lagen, Earle of Study trea on Wexford and Caterloneb, Vicount of Moroneh and Baron of Rofs (all places of note in Ireland) and made him Generall of eighte hundred Italian Souldiers, the King of Spaine paying their wages. But Sebastian King of Portugall, which should have conducted the Spanish forces against England, being intangled with an African Expedition, procured Stacley to goe chither with him , where A.1578. both loft their lives. And the Spaniard was now diverted from English delignes to those neerer of Pertugal, there imploying the forces intended against vs. Doctor Nicolas Sanders playeth the next part, who having written in defence of the Popes 1579.1580. to visible Monarchy Eccleinsticall, and belehed out the fowlett flanders of Queen ELIZABETHS Sanders Auparentage that Hell could denile, would make his writings withle by his deeds; and with I ames booke De villo. Fuz Morice an Irifo Traitor, hanne obtained to be the Popes Numio, with a banner confectated Monarch, & of at Rome, and fome forces out of Spaine, entreth Ireland, there fortifieth and winneth Defmond to the forced tale his partie. San lofephon to Howeth with feuen hundred Italians and Spaniards , with Armour for Definificate fue thousand. Their Fort is taken, Fire movies first, and after the Earle with many others staine, Majacaso in which he abus Sanders runnes mad, and wandering vp and downe in the Woods and Mountaines dieth milera- feth he queens bly; the Country is pacified and ELIZABETH proundeth. The Seminaries (Schooles of Trea. Mother with fon) were now erecked at Rime and Rhemes, to become worfe then that Troian Hoyle, Cells of grole hes, nedesperate Empfartes ; incendaries of their owne Countrey: Campion and others fuffer; feditious uerbefore cen Bookes are written against the Queene, whereby Somerail was indigated to kill her.

Mendone the Spanife Embaffadour was commanded to depart our of England, having practice and spite shares fed with Threchmoren and others about an inusion of the Land, and to remove the Queene. A- eves which bout the fame time in manner miraculously, traiterous projects came to light by certaine papers Malice could of one Creighton a Scottish Lefitite, who being taken by Daich Perates tare them and threw them entertain uen of one Creighter a Section tentte; who dring taken by primer relates the tree and intervention then when the into the Son; which woodshoot bee according to lefuntical plots, but by the helpe of the winds was most maheought them backe to the Ship ; wrhich being delivered to Sir William Wade were toyned again, heions & moft and renealed new plots of the Pope, the Spaniard, and Gmilians to insude England: Whereupon ferpent fighted an Afforiation was made by many thorow the Kingdome, binding themselves by their hands and 153. scales to profecute all fuch to death as should attempt any thing against the life of the Queene. O Cardinall Amer for the English Catholikes Eccletiafticall, Inglafield for the Laikes, the Bishop of Cardinall Alex for the English Catholikes Eccletaticali, Ingispeta for the Laters, the blinder of Thankmorton.
Rolle for the Queene of Scotz, were laid to have agreed to deprine the Queene, and to difinherite Creighton, pa-

King IAM Es asa fanourer of Hereite, &c. A. 1 585. Doctor Parry (whom Queene E L I Z A B ET H had before pardoned his life) being Affo action. heartned by Ragazoniss the Popes Nunio in France, and absolued in the Popes name by the Car- Paris treaton dinall Comentie, undertooke to kill the Queene, being thereunto incouraged by Allens booke, Allens booke, teaching that excommunicated Princes may bee dispoyled of lines and Scepters. His partner reneales him, and his mischiefe lighted on himselse. Henry Earle of Northumberland (brother of Earle of Northum Thomas before executed at Torke) flew himselfe in the Tower, and the Lord Chancellour three thumberland. dayes after in the Statte Chamber declared that he had beene committed for traiterous denifes a-Jo gainst the Queen and State; the particulars whereof were then opened by the Atturney Popham. feeking to let free the Queene of Scots , to deltroy the Queene and the Religion , to have dealt with Charles Paget (termed Mope) about these things, with the inuation of England, &c. The Burker rebellion in Ireland fell out that yeere, and many broyles, which coft three thouland 2 who landers their lives at one time, the title Mac-William in Connagh extinguished, and the insolence of the the sin treland. flanders betwixt Scotland and England represed. The Spaniard arrested the English Ships in his Ports, whence the Expeditions of the Earle of Cumberland, and Sir Francis Drate before mentioned tooke their beginning, and the Warres betwixt the two Kingdomes.

A. 1586, that produgious plot of Samege, Balard, Babington, and the rest of that bloudy crue Babington, oc. conspiring to kill the Queene, was detected and the plotters were executed. In 87 the French 60 Embaffadour, a Guifian, conferred with Stafford to kill the Queene, making great promites to that purpole. And he and Moody were further treated with on that point by Trapping his Secretary, French Embal. which by Stafford was reuealed and prevented. But whiles all pretended the freeing of the Queen fad urs plot of Scots, by this meanes they shortned her dayes and freed her of her life. The flory is knowne, and I shall not need to infift upon these later things, nor on Tyrones Tra- Tyrons it, alons

byth fharceft

Logoz. Luke 8,29.

gicall rebellion, the death of fo many thousands English, Irila, Spanish; nor Lopez his plot to poifore the Queene, &c. I but propound these things to excite English thankfulnesse to God, and hatred to that Whoore, drungen wub bloud, which hath thus enchanted the Kings of the earth; yea like the Legion Deuill bath broken all chaines of allegeance, and hath initiated in hellish mysteries naturall fworne lubiects to inuation and mutuall maffacres ; yea to account it tolerable, lawfull. commendable, meritorious, and in ordine ad deum, necessary (ô times ! ô monsters!) to kill and murcher; and hath made it a compendious way to win the Kingdome of Heauen by killing the Kings of the Earth. And if the bloud of fo many Saints from Abel to Zacharias were threatned to fall on Ierufalem, fometimes the boly Citie; what may be faid of Rome? whose Temporall Monarchy first founded in the bloud of Rhemus brother of Romalus, proceeded in exiling their owne Kings, and in exterminating worlds of men out of the world (Cafar alone is faid in fiftie battells to have flaine ' 1192000. men, besides what was slaine in his Civil Warres) in a world of time together: exceeded in the fanctitie of the bloud of fo many thousand Saints and Martyrs in ten difmall persecutions, and yet fell short of the pretended Catholike Rome, that mysticall

Rome, Citie of murchers & haters of tings * Plind-7.5. 25.

Woman drunken with bloud.

Prefent Rome greatermanflaier & Saint-Erbnike.

I dare boldly aver, and by History make it good, (yea " in great part to a judicious observer the former parts of this Worke have shewed) that since the Papall challenge of Monarchy over Monarkes by Gregory the feuenth, the Deuills thousand yeeres of imprisonment being expired, Antichriftian Rome hath by Sword, Fire, Warres, Ciuill and Forraine, and other inhumane. immane. Etonice. * See to 1.4.8: distellish furies procured the shedding of more humans bloud, then ever Heathen Rome in farre 20. 6.1.4.3.4.6 6. longer time had fhed to erect their Heathenish Empire, from the dayes of Romalus which foun-1.2.c.1 10,2.1.8. ded the Citie to Angustine which grounded and stablished the Empire, and Tiberine under whom Christ was crucified : Yea if you adde the perfecutions of the succeeding Emperors till Inlien the Apollata ; yet haue the later Antichristian exceeded in numbers, as much as the executions of Warres are viually beyond all comparison of the Iudiciall and Legall. I adde that as the Ethnike Romans spilt none (except in persecutions) but Ethnike bloud : so the pretended Christan Romilts (except in the Indees and the Holy Land Wars) fled none in this account but Christian. This may feem a prodigal speech & prodigious paradox, to those which know not the millions which perished in the Holy Land Wars, fet & kept on foot about 200 veers together by Papall ambition : fo many hundreths of thousands which perished in the same times, by open warres made by 30 the Popes Crufados against the Albigenses , Waldenses , and what other names it pleased them to giue to better men then themselues, in almost eightie yeeres continued warres : So many Civill Warres in Germany, the fubiects and competitors armed by Crufados against the Emperours till that Eagle was plocked; where one Henry whom Hildebrand first deposed, fought fixtie battells: In England, France, Italy, and other parts, in the daies of King lobn, Fredericke the fecond, Conrade, Memfred, Philip, and others : and after that, the long Bobemian broiles drenched in bloud after Hulles fire ; and lately fo innumerable millions (pauperis est numerate) in America and the llands Pricits, agents which these bookes plainly cuince to have beene written in bloud by Roman authoritie and pretence; not to make mention of the Philippinas, the East Indies, the Wars in Sicile and Maples; and the Greeke Empire first weakned, and after by Romen ambition lost : how many hundreth thou- 40 The Pope Ma. fands hath France loft of Christians within these last hundreth yeeres ! how many more haue tafter Workman. Ken their fatall farewells in the Belgian quarrell ! How doe thole Low-countries and Germany still flow in bloud ! That I fpeake not of our England and Ireland ! But I hate the thoughts of those things, and therefore come to the $8, businesse, that also set on worke from Rome, the widest and openeft passage from hell for his ingresse and egresse, that was a Muriberer from the beginning, and in the last ages turning himselfe into an Angell of light , hath there established his principall Vicar under pretended titles and leemings of Christ and Christianitie. Yea this is also remarkable that in the treasons against Queene Elizabeth, and in those against our present Souereigne King lames (whom God long preserue) by Wasson, Clarke, Cobbam, &c. at first, and in the Master and Monfter-peece (which was now ready to breake forth with violence and virulence from Hell, 50 and to blow up all other Treasons) that of the Gun-powder Traitors ; still the busiest part of the Tragedie is committed to some Romish Prieft or Iefuite, who should fit and frame the resolute kil the Queen, diffolutenesse of wild spirits to the execution of it or themselves. The Master Workman (Isay He and Brifton not Beelzebub) is the Pope, as appeareth in those before mentioned, and in this of 88. whose Bull & Marin were declaratory against that Worthy of women followeth, as the contents thereof are delivered by Meteransu, to whose labours in this Story wee are principally indetted. It was to be published in the Popes name by Cardinall Allen after the Nauie had arrived in England, to command the English to yeeld their obedience to the Duke of Parms. From the Pope therefore wee will begin our 88 Story, touching the preparation and fuccesse of that Armada fignamed inuincible.

Allen or Alan was by Spanish procurement made Cardinall for this purpole; and had written a violent books which heartned Parry to Au hors of the Rhem: fb Tranflation and Notes of the CHAP. XI.

Octavefimus Octavus mirabilis Annus.

The Popes Buil, the King of Spaines preparations, the Duke of Medinas Expedition, the Duke of Parmas Forces, for the invalion of England: divers Sea-fights twixt the English and Spanish Fleets, the Sea flight of the Spanift, and milerable disasters in their returne. Their lies. The Queens Religious Triumph.

Ixtus Quintus, by dinine providence, unwerfall Pastor of the Flock of Christ, to whom by continued and lawfull succession, the administration and charge of the Catholike Church Papall pretenpertaineth; taking into consideration the miseries and calamities mbereinto the samous ded causes of deprining the Kinedomes of England and Ireland had false, which in times pass were commended so Queene. much for Vertues, Religion, and Christian Pietie and Obedience, and now by the im- Fuguines impious and whiast Empire of Elizibeth pretended Queene, and a few adhering to her, not potent Zeale.

onely to base come to a disolute estate and dangerous to it selfe, but also as infected and venemens mem. Spanish argubers are wont to easse infection and disease to the whole body of Christians: and wanting there the due remedies which elswhere by help of Christian Princes he vseib, to prenent abuses & tomaintaine Ecclesialis with with will. call discipline: Forasmuch as Henry the Eight, late King of England, a Rebell and forsaker of the Sea 2 Act. 24.14. 10 Apostolite separated bimselfe and bis from the communion of Christians by force and Elizabeth the pre- By the way Apostoure-separated timeses, not without great committee and danger of the Neighbour Regions, which they call lent V surper persenereth therein, not without great committee and danger of the Neighbour Regions, heresies owerlener jurger per jemeretu tuerem, met ette, fo that there is no hope that those Kingdomes may at any time frip wee the be reformed and reduced to the exercise of Christian Religion, true peace and quietnesse, except see be de- God of our faprined of the administration of the Kingdome.

Therefore our most holy Father desiring (as his Office requireth) to prouide for this easil, with pre- using allthings Therefore our most hoty Father descring (as his Universality of the vinuerfall Church , incited as well Law, &c. by his owne, as his predecessor affection and zeale, alway borne toward England; and moned by the con- b They make tinual follicitation, vehement and importunate exhortation of very many, and those principal men of the tchime or faid Nation; bee bath view great diligence with diners Princes, and especially with the Mightie and Ca-tent, which faid Nation; bee bath view great diligence with timers princes, and especially miles on prigotis and say, vanishy exthough King of Spaine, imploving but aide bereunto, by the reurience which hee heareth the Roman Sea, communicate onounce a long of spatting moreovering to a line between the bat bad with the Kings of England, by his fin- & cutofffrom gular charitie and benenolence formerly shewed to the Catholines of that Country; for obtaining by that the body of meanes bis desire of peace and quietnesse in his Neighbour Praninces for his studie and readinesse towards Christ, as Io.a. the propagation of Catholike Religion, and lastly for the furtherance of the common good of Europe; Sinte illes, cothe propagation of Catholine Religion, and initify of the following being him bereunto, that that Wo cifunt, och bath belonght him to confar all the Forces which God almightie hath einen him bereunto, that that Wo cifunt, och bath belonght him to confar all the Forces which God almightie hath einen him bereunto, that that Wo cifunt ille vain verous view in the degree, and that the enill men and burifull to mankind, which adhere to latryme. her may be panished, and that Kingdome may bee reduced to certaine reformation and quietnesse, from d Withlie and which ereat sood and many commodities to the Common-wealth might be to be expected. Wherefore that all thee reicebee might make knowne to all the world the lustice of this Cause, and the Subsects also of that Kingdome ted the title of Dee migos mare comme to an ine worth of antine of the might demonice the inft indeement of God against her 31 bath to awild from a might fully he farisfied, likewife that her might demonice the inft indeement of God against her 31 bath to awild from to swind from fermed meet to his Holinesse, with the Declaratory Sentence made against this Woman, to shem the cause appearance of alfo why be had fo proceeded against her.

First, because thee is an Heretike a and Schismatike b and therefore excommunicated of two Popes, declared her bis predecessors, contumacione, disobedient to God aud the supreme . Sea : Also shee tooke to ber selfe with presumptions vsurpation supreme Authoritie and Ecclesiatical surifiction over the Soules & of with prefumptions of arpation supreme Authorstie and Ecclesiatrical surifaction over the Soules a of power over all Men, against Nature, Reason, against all Lawes Dinine and Humane; and that as well by vertue of her subjects, to the fentences vinen by Clement she Seventh, and Paul the Third, as of the public declaration of King command the Henry ber Father. Thirdly, becamfe shee vsurped the Kingdome against all right, not onely in regard of to do their dutheory per rainer. I un any vecumje processing the old Contracts in times past made between the Sea Apother offices, folke and the Kingdome of England in the time of Henry the Second, when the faid Kingdome recon- exclusing forciled it felfe to the Roman Sea, for the murther of Sami Thomas of Canturbury. At which time it rain juridictis was agreed c, that none should bee taken for lawfull King of England mulbout consent of the Great Bi- on: as David, was agreed c, that none should bee taken for lawfull ting of England uniformed of Oath. Which thing Sal moncou-skop; which convention or contract was after renewed by King John, and confirmed by Oath. Which thing famine, & her was most profitable, and so established by the request of the Nobilitie and People.

For many and crieuous insures f, extersions, and other wrongs perpetrated by her and by others, had done exthrough her permission, against the distressed innocent Subjects of both Kingdomes. For feditions and rebellions between the Inhabitants of neighbour Proninces, raifed against their lawful or overPricits, Magistrate and & natural Prince, by which shee seduced innumerable Scules and many potent Regions. O impudency-What King of Expland ever fought the Popes confirmation: King 1-ba by Papall Arts made himfelife tributary, but 60 without and against his subjects concentras Ma-Paris & R.W. inducer then lining testifie at largest at writing being burnt and disclaimed the fibirely also revelling against the Author thereof. f Quinterum telemman reception: Shee wronged them much infound her throat from their blades. 2 Vinaturall Prince, which not centent with inheritance, would have made conquett of the Protimees, to to fwall-wall their priviledges, and fubice them to for rance inquifition and ruletto baving with toe millions of treasure and the bass of 40000 Christians, the folfe of those which would have bought and fought to be his subjects, if nee would have kept the oathes which the Pope dispensed with, twice made to them; and ruled as his predecessors had done.

Ttttttt

CHAP.

tainment to

thus roared.

The Spaniard

entertained

nor admir

as his Ance-

the inuader &

diff wher of peace? And

tes ?

handled as they had

lated.

O AD.1.2.

they are Abo-

them liers.

uer at their

her Funitiues.

For entertainment h given to Fugitive Heretikes, and Rebells, wicked and publike malefactors, and h The Pope undertaking their protection, to the great loffe and detriment of Christian Regions. contelfeth hee Alfo for fending to and procuring the Tutke, that our mightie i and craell Enemy, to innade Chrigane enternaome and disturbe ... the series reason of the Saints of God, for holy ... B. B. ill handled, spoyled, im-Fug times, and protoned, and diners torments and miserable tortures and slaughters done to the members of the holy and for their faltes.

Stendome and disturbe & the Setled Peace. the Oucenes

Catoning funcio.

For the whomane and united imprisonment and crueltie, lately exercifed against the most gracious

Princesse, Mary Queene of Scotland, which had sted into England, having first a received promote of fecuritie, pretection, and aide.

and the might For abolifying the true Catholike Religion o, the profanation of boly Sacraments, alfo of Monafte. 10 those whom he ries P. Temples, Persons consecrated to the memory of Saints, and all other things which make or may help would not juf- to eternall life.

fer to obey him And concerning Secular off aires 9 and the State politike, for that the ancient Nobilitie being rejected and excluded, thee bath promoted obscure and unworthy men to Civill and Ecclesiasticall dignities: flors had done i A mighty & and by this meanes hash made a fale of Lames and Rights; and lastly for the absolute tyranny t which Thee vierpeth and continually exerciseth, to the great contempt of God, oppression of the miserable & People cruell torgery of his Holiness the loffe of Soules, and destruction of Countries.

k Whorshere Wherefore seeing those affences are of that nature and moment, that some make ber uncapable of the Wherefore seeing twose agences are vy tom me Holmesso by the power of Almightse God, and of offor-Rolicall authoritie committed to him, doth renew the sentence of his predecessors, Pius the Fifth, and Green. whereto tends ty t the Thirteenth, whereby the faid Elizabeth is excommunicated and deprined of her Kingdome, And all this but to different by the sepresent Letters, the same Elizabeth agains excommunicateth and deprine the of all Rorall ditanuit peace? Dignitie, Titles, Rights and pretences to the first Kingdomes of England and Iteland; declaring her ille-Gracino deli- gitimate, and a true Usurper of the Kingdomes; and absoluing the Subjects of that Land, and all a ditione queren- there from all dutie " of Dominion , Fidelitie and Obedience , and from the Oath z ginen to her or to m Roner.&c. Enriber, exprelly commanding under paine of the anger 7 of God Almightie, that name of what focus was all handled condition or degree, after bee shall have notice bereof; doe presume to yeold her any obedience, favour, or because they ande what souner but that all man impley all their power and indenous, that due punishment man be taken of her; that she at length, which hath separated her selfe by many wayes from God and his Church, see were not fo ing her felfe for faken and destitute of all worldly refuse, way be brought to acknowledge her fault, and to bandled Cransubject ber selfe to the indgement of the most High, with all submission. mer Ridley, 8cc.

And therefore commands all and enery the Inhabitants of the faid Kingdomes , and all others , that n See M.Camdens History, a with all their power they execute the premisfes, withdrawing all belpe publike and primate from the faid perfon and ber adherents : and that as foone as they shall be hereof certified, they some themselmes to the Ca-A.1568. + Feg. where those tholike Armie, led by the Illustrious and victorious Prince Alexander Farnelius, Dake of Parma, and occurrents are Deputie of the Catholike King; with all the forces they can gather, that they may affilt the faid deprinaotherwise retion and punishment of the parties afore faid, and the reststution of the holy Catholike Religion, declaring that all which hall from themselves disobedient z to this Mandate, shall not escape deserved Thou bart tried รมทร์ไกรเลยร. them that (ay

Be it knowne further to all men, that it is not the purpose of his Holinesse, the Catholike King, or the faid Duces Highnesse, in this Expedition, to oppresse the faid Kingdomes, or thereof to make conquest files and are not or to alter the Lawes, Priviledges or Customes thereof, or to deprine any man there, of his libertie or life and haft found (except the rebellious and contumacious) or to bring any change a, besides that which shall be judged fit p How much by common voyces of his Holinesse, the Catholike Maiesty and the States of that Kingdome, to the restoring and continuing of the Catholike Religion, and the punishment of that Usurper and ber adherents: in demolifing Certifying and securing all, that all controversies which may happen by the deprination of that Woman the mean is of (whether they hall arife about prinate mens affaires, or about the Royall Succession, or betwint the Clergy fuperflition. and List, or what somer other discords) they shall be all compounded and decided according to the Lames, 50 how holy foc-Initice, and Christian equitie, without any minry or damage. Neither shall it onely bee provided conses niently that the Catholikes which have suffered so many enills be not spoyled, but favour is also granted to first institutió? So the braien all others, which being pentient shall submit themselves wato the Chiefe Commander of the Army. And

uine type of Christ crucified was demolished, See. q vis dicamquid si ?magnus es ardello. Pitie she promoted not Cardinal Allen or Father Parfine, the one to Lambeth, the other to Tib I flould fay the Broad Scale. r What a faire deliverance from this tyranny fould we have had by the Spanish Whips and Knives? f We had indeed bin miserable, had we false into the hands of such Phyficians. The holineife of three Popes curfe her, and the holy and bleffed Trinitie bleffe her.u Dutie and faith acknowledged and yet denied ! Is not this babbling? x But God will not hold him guiltleffe that taketh his name in vaine. y Yet this is the first commandement of promife; fo contrary are Gods bleffing and the Popes curfing Eph. 6.2. Z. A false Prophet! for neither did England ether profeser more, or feare the Pope or Spaniard leffe, or so much loue or honour Heror any of her progenitors, as Her Maietty after this: fuch a bleffed harueft God raifed out of this Curfers curfed feed. a The Duke of Medica Generall of this Fleet was of an- 60 other mind, who being told of Catholikes in England which would take his part, &c. answered, That he must make way how forces for his Mafter. And were not Count Egmond and Count Horne and others, Papills, which D' Alua executed ? There were 700. Eng-Life Fugitiues in Term is Array for this invafion, Qui omnum delpicatifime habiti, the baggage of the Armies eftimate; nor was to spectiginen to Stant; and westmerland, Traitors of note, Sed pro impietate in Patriam omni adieu probibilit de tanquam pessima austicia merita non fine detestatione resetts, faith Camden. They were excluded all Councells of Warre; for men vie to love the Treason and hate the Traytor.

whereas he due information made, wee are given to understand that there are many innocents, which through invorance of Christian Faith having falme, bane huberto erred onely of ignorance, being nenertheleffe restance amongst Heretikes : wee purpofe not at all to purify (uch per funs , but to maure pariently, till by conference of learned men, and good found counfells, they may be better instructed touching the truth and not her themselves obstinate, but desirous to prevent the effusion of Christian blond , and defirmation of Countries which may be expected by the refistance of some wicked principall adversaries.

Therefore by these Presents wee declare, that it is not onely lawfull for all, as well publice as prinate Matth . 6 se persons, besides these which have undertaken this Expedition, to lay hand on the said Murper, and other industrial ber adverents, to take them and deliner them to the (atholike fide; but alfothis deed shall bee estremed of went to the 10 vs for a fact hfull and singular service, and shall be recompensed with very great rewards, according to the chiefe Prices. on all the persons taken or betrajed. All others also which heretofore have given ander, or shall Priest presents bereafter affict to the punishment of the enill, and the reftitution of Catholike Religion in those King- the Traitor & domes Shall receive their reward and recompence, increased by vs in Dignities and Honours, as their good courraits to and faithfull fernice to the Common-wealth fhall defire, by berein as much as may be care thall be had that more then 20. and faithfull fermice to the Common-weatty jout agire, or vertue as much more property from the picces, before reckning and respect be bolden of the antient and hunourable Honfes and Stockes of the faid Kingdomes. he be followed Lailly free accesse and safe conduct by these Presents is granted to all men, which will some themselves to withwhat will the Caibbile Armie, and will bring thereto proussion, furniture of warre, and other necessivist, full and y would mare liberall (asisfaction is promised for all things, which for the fermice and commodistic of the faid Armie sewils Pich. Thall be supplied by them. And all are adminished and plainty commanded, that they doe their vimost in- wite cul, com-20 denour and deligence, that by their meanes cause may bee removed of vsing force in punishing those which Parce to hele Shall neolect this Precept.

Furthermore the 'Holy Father, in his fatherly lowe and singular affection to this Expedition, out of the "Holy Fa! Spiritual Treasure of the boly (burch (which is committed to bis custody and dispensation) doth libe the rally grant plenary Indulgences and remission of Sins, to all those which shall bring any aid or factour to the * Pro thesauro deprination and punishing of the Said persons, and the reformation of both Kingdomes: to wit, after due pe- carbonis.

The Pope nance. Contrition and Confession had according to the Lawes of God and Men, and the received custome graves that liamongst Christians.

berally which is all-ly.

NO w that all might bee carried more closely, and that this Expedition might feeme made against the Low-countries, rather then the English, a solemne meeting was appointed first neer Offend, after at Bronchburg in Flanders for a treaty of peace with the Queene of England. Henry Earle of Derby, the Lord Cobbam, Sir I ames Croft, D. Dale ; D. Rogers were fent. Richardet plainly faid that he knew not what might be put in practife in the meane time against England. But the Prince and he being demanded if their were any enterprise of intrading England, they veterly denied any thoughts the rot. Count Aremberg. Campignie, Rechardot, Maes & Garnier were the Princes Delegaces, and professed that they had fufficient Commission for treaty of peace. First a truce was propounded by the English and by them cemed. Then the English required that the ancient leagues betwixt the Kingsot England and the House of Burgundy might be renewed and confirmed, that the Low-countrimen might mior their prin ledges and libertie of conference, that Spamiards and forraine forces might be removed, that neither they nor their neighbours should have cause to seare; and then the Queene would redeliner her soure Cautionary. Townes. They whiled them with fuch answere as futed to their purpoles, and long adoe was made in weating and vnweating Penelopes web till the Spanish Armada was upon the Coalt, and the very Ordnance proclaimed in their eares a jurceafe from further illusions. Then did Parma dismisse them, pulled off his Vitor, vncafing the Fox, and ruly appearing in the Lions skin. But let vs now come to take view of this Fleet, and the preparations made for it.

The King of Spaine having with small fruit, about twenty yeeres together waged warre against the Netherlands after deliberation with his Countellours thereabout, thought it most convenient to affaul t them once again by Sea, which had bin attempted fundry times heretofore; but not with for forces sufficient. Vinto the which expedition it flood him now in hand to ioine great puissance, as having the English people his protested enemies; whose Iland is so situate, that it may either greatly helpe or hinder all fuch as fails into those parts. For which cause he thought good first of all to inuade England, being periwaded by his Secretary Esconedo, and by diners other well experienced Spaniards and Dutchmen, and by many English fogitives, that the conquest of that Iland was leffedifficult, then the conquest of Holland and Zealand. Moreover the Spannards were of opinion, that it would be farre more behoovefull for their King to conquer England and the Low countries all at once, then to bee constrained continually to maintaine a warlike Nauie to defend his East and West Indie Fleets, from the English Drake, and from such like valiant enemies.

And for the fame purpote the King Catholike, had given commandement long before in Italy & 60 Spaine, that a great quantitie of timber should be felled for the building of Ships; and had belides made great preparation of things and furniture requilite for fuch an expedition as namely in tounding of brasen Ordance, in storing up of corn and victuals, in training of men to vie warlike weapons, in leaving and multering of Souldiers: infomuch that about the beginning of the yeer 1,88. he had finished such a mightie Nauie, & brought it into Lisbon Hauen, as neuer the like had before Ttttttt 2 that time failed upon the Ocean Sea.

1800

Awary large and particular description of this Nauie was put in print and published by the Spaniards, the translated copy whereof, in perp-tuam rei memoriam, to incite English thankfulneffe. I have here interted, but abridged.

Squadron of the Galeons of Portugall.

He Galeon S. Martin, Captain Generall of the Armie, of 1000 tuns, carrieth 177 Mariners. o Souldiers, cholen men, 50. Peeces of Canon, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Cord, and all that

The falcon S. John, Admirall Generall, of 2050, tuns, carrieth 170. Mariners, 231, Souldiers, 50. Peeces of Canons, and Bullets, Powder, Lead, Cords, and that which is necessary. The Galeon of S. Markers of 792 tuns, and carrieth 292. Souldiers, 117. Mariners, and Powder.

Bullets, Lead, Match as much as is needfull, The Galeon S. Philip, of Soo. tuns, hath 415. Souldiers, 127. Mariners, 40. Peeces of Artillery, and Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and all that is needfull. The Galeon S. Lewes 830. tuns, hath 376. men of Warre, and 116; Mariners, 40. Peeces of Ordnance, and Bullets, March, Powder, and other things as much as is needfull. The Galeon of S. Mathew 750. tuns, 177.men of Warre, 50. Mariners, 40. great Peeces, and Powder, Bullets, Lead, Match, and all other things as much as is needfull,

The Galcon S. lames 520, tunnes, 300. Souldiers, 100. Mariners, 30. great Peeces, and Bullets, Powder, Lead, March, and all that which is needfull.

The Galcon of Florence, of 961 tuns, 300. Souldiers, 100, Mariners, 52. Peeces of Ordnance, and Builets, Powder, Lead, March, and all the reft as much as is needfull. The Galeon S. Christopher, 352. tuns, 200 men of Warre, 90 Mariners, 20 great Peeces Bullets, Lead, Powder, Match, and all that which they need. The Galeon S. Bernard, 352, tuns, hath 280. Souldiers, 100. Mariners, 30. Canons, and Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and other necessary things as much as they need. The Zabra Augusta, of 166. tuns, carrieth 55. Souldiers, 55. Mariners, 13. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, March, and other necessary things as much as they need. The Zabra Inlia, of 166.tuns, 60. Souldiers, 50: Mariners, with Ordnance, Bullets, Powder, and there are imparted ushem 3230. Souldiers footmen, & 1230 mariners, which are in fum 4624, men, & they carry 3,50. Freat Peeces and all that which is necessary to the rest, as bullets, powder match lead &c.

There is in this Squadron, 12. Vessells, 10.of them Galcons, and two Zabres, which are of 7737. turns & 30

The Armie of Ho Ship S. Angell, the Captaine is of 768, tuns, and hath 323, men of War, 114, Mariners, 30. 1 Canons, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and all that which is needfull. The Gangrin, Admirall m Captair See of 1160. tuns, currieth 300, Souldiers, 100, Mariners, 36, great Peeces of Canons, Bullets, Powder, nerall land May. tast of Ricalds. Match Lead, and all that which is needfull. The Veffell of S. lames, 660. tuns, hath 2xc. Souldiers, 102. Mariners, 20. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and other necessary prouisions. The Conception of Zubalzu, 468, tuns, hath 100 men of War, and 70, Mariners, 20, great Canons, and 40 Builets, Powder, Lead, Match, and all other necessary things. The Conception de Ivanes del Cano, 418, tuns, hath 164, men of Warre, 70. Mariners, 24, great Peeces, and Bullets, Powder, Lead, March, and all, that which they need. The Magdelone of John Frauncis of Ajala, 330 tuns, carricth 200 Souldiers, 70 Mariners, 22 great Peeces, and Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and that which is necessary to the rest. The Sup S. John, 350. tuns, bath 130. men of Warre, and 80. Mariners, and 24. great Preces, Ballets, Powder, Lead, Match, and all that which they need for the rest. The Mary of 16c.tuns, carrieth 180. Souldiers, and 100, Mariners, 24. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and other necessary things. The Manuela of $20, tuns, bath 130, Souldiers, 54. Mariners, 16. great Pecces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match and the rest of their fraught. The Ship of S. Mary of Monte-maier, of 707. tuns, 120. Souldiers, 50. Mariners, 30. great Peeces, Bullets, 50 Powder, Lead, and Match, and other proussions. The Pinnace, called the Marie of Aguiare, of 70. tuns, hath 20. men of War, 23. Mariners, 10. Peeces, of Canon, Powder, Bullets, Lead, Match, and other necessary things. The Pinnace, called Ifabella, of tuns, bath 20. Souldiers, 22. Mariners, 12, Canons, Bullets, and other necessary things. The Pinnace of Michel Susa, of 96. tuns, 30. Souldiers, 24. Mariners, 12. great Poeces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and all other necessary things. The Pinnace of S. Steuen, of 78, tuns, hath 30, men of Warre, 26. Mariners, 12. Peeces of Canon, Bullers, Powder, Lead, Match, and all other necessary things of prousson.

There is in this Squadron, 14. Ships, ten of thein great, and foure Pinnaces, which are of 6567, tuns The Armie of of burden, in, which Ships bee imbarked 2037. Souldiers, 868. Mariners, which make in all 1802. and 260. grant Pecces of Canon, 119000. Bullets, 467. Quintals of Powder, 140.of Lead, 89.of Match. 60 the Gallyes of

> THe Gileon S. Christopher, Captaine of 70. tuns, hath 20 c, men of Warre, and 120. Mariners, and 49, great Perces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and all that winch is necessary to the reit. The Galeon S. John Bapritt, of 750. tuns hach 250. Soulders, 140 Meinners, 20. great Pecces, & bullets. Powder, lead, Mitch, & other necessary things. The Galeon S. Peter, of $20. tuns, 120. men of Warre, 140. Mariners, and 40 great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Match, Lead, and all the reit needfull. The Galcon S. lebr, of g 30. tuns, 170. Soul liers, 120. Mariners, and 30. great Peeces, Powder. Bullets, Lead, Match, and all the reit. The Galcon S. lawer the great, of $20. tuns, 230. Souldiers. 122. Mariners, 30. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and all the reft, The Galcon S. Philip, and S. Lamer, of $10. tuns, 159. Souldiers, and 216. Mariners, 20. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Match, Lead, and ali that is necessary. The Galeon of the Afertion, of $20. tuns, 220. Souldiers, $ 14. Mariners, and 30. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, March, Lead, and all other necessary things. The Galeon of our Lady del Barrie, of 130, tuns, 170, Souldiers, 108. Mariners, and 30. to Canons, Bullers, Powder, Lead, and all other necettary furnitures. The Galeon of S. Medel and Celedon, of $ 20, tuns, 170, Souldiers, 120, Mariners, 20, great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, March, Lead, and all the reit. Gilcon S. Anne of the Port, of 250 tuns, 100 men of Warre, and 80. Mariners, 24. ereat Peeces, Bullets, Powder, March, Lead, and all the rest. The Ship of our Lord of Vigoma, 750. tuns, 100 men of Warre, and 130 Mariners, 30 great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Match, Lead, and all the rest. The Vessell of the Trintee, of 780, turn, 200. Southers, 222. Mariners, 20 great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Match, Lead, and all the reft. The Ship of S. Katherine, of 863. tunt, 200. men of Warr. 160. Mariners, 30, great Peeces, and Powder, Bullets, March, Lead, and all the reft. The Ship of S. lobn Baptist, of 652 tuns, 200 Souldiers, 20. Mariners, 20. Canons, Bullets Powder, Match, Lead, and all the reft, The Pinnace of our Lord Refary, 30. Souldiers, 25. Mariners, 24. great Pes-

10 ces, Powder, Bullets, Lead, Match, and the reft of their prouision. There are in this Squadron, fourteene Galcens and Ships, and two Pinnaces, which beare $714. tuns. In thefe Veffells there are imbarked 2458. Souldiers, 1719. Mariners, which are in all, 4177, and 248.

great Pecces, Bullets, Powder Land, March, and all that which they need.

"He Captaine Ship of 1950 tuns carrieth 304 men of War, 118 Mariners, 50 Canons, Pow- The Armie of The Captaine Ship of 1950 tuns carrier 304 men of was the Admiral of 914 tuns, 230, the Ships of der, Bullets, and the reft of their prouision. The Ship S. Prancie, the Admiral of 914 tuns, 230, the Ships of der, Bullets, and the reft of their prouision. The Calcon S. Andelso 240 Souldiers, 60. Mariners, 30. Canons, Powder, Bullets, and the rest of their promision. The Galeon S. Andels rest of John Baptift, of $10, tuns 250. Souldiers, and 40. Mariners, 40, great Peeces, Powder, Bullets, March, Cap. Den Pe-Lead, and thereft. The Ship S. lobs Gargaran, of 569. tuns, 170. men of War, 60. Mariners, 20. great drede Valdes. 30 Pecces, Powder, Bullets, Match, Lead, and the reft. The Conception of $62. tunts, 200, men of War, This Peirs de 65. Mariners, 25, great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Hatch, Lead, and all the reft. The Holke Duque-Valdet was ta-(4,S. Asne of 900, tuns, 250, men of War, and So. Mariners, 30, great Peetes, Powder, Bullets, ken, and prifor March, Lead, and all the rest. The Trimite, 650, tuns, 200, men of Warre, 80, Mariners, 20, Canons. Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and the reit. The Ship S. Mary de Innew, of 730, tuns, 240. men of War, 80 Mariners, 30. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and all the reft. The Pinnace of the Holy Ghoft, 40.men of War, 33. Mariners, 10. Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match and Cord. and all that which they need,

There are in this Squadron 11. Ships, 10. great, and a Pinneace, of the burden of $762. sums, in which are imbarked 2400. Souldiers, 800. Mariners, and 260, great Peeces.

"He Ship of S. Anne, the Captaine, of zaoo cuns of burden, hath 300 men of Warre, 60. Ma- The Armie of riners, co. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, and all the reft. The Ship of our Lord of the Ships come Rofe, Admirall of 945 runs, 230. Souldiers, 64. Mariners, and 30. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, from the Pro-Lead, Match, and all the reft. The Ship S. Sanier, of 958. tuns, 330. Souldiers, 50. Mariners, 30. uince of Gi-Canons, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and the reft: The Ship of Sastenen, of 936, tuns, 200, men which is Greof Warre, 70. Mariners, 30. great Peeces, Bullets, Powder, Lead, Match, and all the reft. The Ship nerall Michell of S. Marthe of $48. tuns, 180. men of Warre, 70. Mariners, 25. great Peeces, bullets, powder, and de Oquendo. the reft. The fhip, S. Barbe of 525. tuns, 160. Souldiers, 50. Mariners, 15. Canons, bullets, powder, lead, match, and all the reft. The ship of S. Bonanenture, of 369 tuns, 170. Souldiers, 60. Mariners, to 15-great Peeces, bullets, powder, lead, and the rest The Mary of 291. tuns, 120. Souldiers, 40. Mariners, 15. great Peeces, bullets, powder, lead, and the reft. The S. Croix 680. tuns, 150. Sculdiers 40. Mariners, 20. great Peeces, bullets, powder, match, lead, and the reft. The Holke Doucella, 500. tuns, 160.men of War, 40. Mariners, 18. great Peeces, powder, bullets, match, lead and all the rester The Patax of the Amunciation of 60. tuns, 30. men of War, 16. Mariners, 12. great Peeces, bullets,

The Patax of our Lady of Guadalouse is of the same burden also. The Pinnace of Magdelene, is also the same burden. There are in this Squadron, 14. Ships, ten great Ships, two Pataches, and two Pinnaces, of 6991.1 uns of barden. In which Dessels, there are imbarked 2092. men of Warre, and 670. Mariners, all com-60 meth 2708.

powder, match, lead, and all the reft, The Patax S. Bernabe, is the fame burden as the aforenamed.

He Regasona, the Captaine, which is of 1294. tuns, hath 350. Souldiers, 90. Mariners, 35. which is chief I great Peeces, powder, bullets, lead, match, and all the rest: The Lama, the Admirall, ot 728. Martin de Vatuns, 210. Souldiers, 80. Mariners, 30. great Peeces, powder, bullets, lead, match, and all the reit. tendana. Titttt 2

Caftille , of the which is Generall, Iaques Flores de Valdes.

The Rosa S. Mary crowned of 820, tuns, 240, men of Warre, 90, Mariners, 40, great Perces, riowtier beilets, nigtch, lead, and the reft. The S. lobnot Ciele, of 880. tuns; 290. men 6f Warre 702 Mariners, 20. Canons, and all the reit. The Trmitie Valencera, of a 1000. tuns, 240. Souldiers: 00: Alatiners, 41 great Preses, and all the rest of their furnitures. The Annintiation of 730, mins, 200; Souldiefe 90, Mariners, 30, great Peeces, and all the rest. The S. Nicholas Products of 824 tunnes 2801Souliets 84. Mariners 30. great Peers, and all the reft. The Initiale of 780, uns. 220. Souldiers. 80, Mariners, 36. great Peeces, and the reit. The Mary Pifen of 666, tuns, 250, Southdiers. So Mariners, 22 great Peeces, and the mithof their need. The Trimitio Efcala of good under to z. Souldiers, 25. great Peeces, and all the reft of their furniture.

In which Squadron there are ten Ships which are of 170 c. tuns of burthen , and there are imbarked to in them 1880. Souldiers, 8071 Mariners, 310: great Partes, with the rest of that they have

Halles in the which is Cap. Iohn Lorez of Michiga.

He great Grifon, the Captaine, of 670, tuns, 270. Souldiers. 60. Mariners, 40. great Pecces; and the rell, The S. Samur the Admirall of 650. tuns, 230. Souldiers, 66. Meriners, 30. great Pecces and the rest of their promision. The Sea Dog, of 200 tons, 80. Souldiers, 30 Mariners, 10. great Peeces, and the rest, The White Faulton the great of 500 tons, 160. men of Warre 40 Mariners. 18.great Peeces, and all the reft. The Blacke Caftle of 750.tuns, 250. Souldiers, 50. Mariners, 25. oreat Peeces and all the feft. The Barke of Ambing of 600 tuns, 250, men of War. to Mariners. 25. Canous and the reft. The House of peace the great, of the same butthen. The S. Peter the great of the same burthen also. The Samplan, and Peter the Small, doe beare the same. The Barke of Ana 20 24085. of $50. suns, 210. Souldiers, 50. Mariners, 26. great Peeces, and the reft of their provision. The Falcon, the meane White, of 300 tuns; 80 men of War, 30 Mariners, 18, great Peeces, and all the reft. The S. Andrew of 400 tuns, 160. Souldiers .40. Marmers, 1 c. great Perces, and thereft of their prouition. The Little bonfe of peace, of 350. tuns, 160. Souldiers, 40. Mariners, 15. great Peeges, and the reft of their prouition. The Flying Rauen of 400.tuns, 210 Souldiers 40, Mariners 18. great Peeces, and the relitof cheir furniture. the second section.

Patagoes and Zantes wherein Mendera com-

He Word Done; of 2x0. tuns, 60. Souldiers, 20. Mariners, 12. great Peeces, and the reft. The Adventure, 3. Barbe tranghted of the fame. The S. James 600 tuns, 60. Souldiers, 40. Mariners. 10. ereat Peeces, and all the reit. S. Gabriel of the Port, of 280. tims, 50. Souldiers, 25. Mari- 20 ners, 9. great Peeces, and the reft of their flurhiture. The Efay isfraughted of the fame. There are in this Squadron 23. Hulkes, which are of 10271. tuns, in the which are imbarked 2221.

men of Warre, 708. Matiners, 410. great perces, and then necessary provision.

The Captame of our Lord of Piler of Zaragoffe of 300 tunnes, 120 Souldiers, 50 Mariners, 12. great Peeces, and their furniture. The English Charity, of 180. tuns, 80. Souldiers, 36. Mariners, 12. great Peeces, sirt the reft. The Scottifb S. Andrew of 150 tuns, 51. Souldiers, 20. Mariners, 12 great Peeces, and their furniture. The Patache of the Crucifix, 150. tuns, 50. Souldiers, 20. Mariners, 8. great Peeces, and their furniture. Our Lord of the Hann fraught alike. The Conception of Caraffa. and our Lord of Begous, and the Conception de Capitillo, and S. Hiorofineing of the butthen of 60. or 70. runs, 50. Souldiers, 30. Mariners, 8. great Peeces, a Peece, and their furniture. Our Lady of grace, 40 the Conception of Frauncy's Lastero, our Lady of Guadalupe, S. Frauncy's, the Hoty Spirit, our Lady of Frenefda, all traughted alike. The Zabra of the Trinitie, the Zabra of our Lady Caffre, S. Andrew, the Conception of Zomartiba, S. Clere, S. lobn of Caraffa, and the of famption, all fraughted alike.

There are in this Squadron 22. Paraches and Zabres, which are of the burthen of 1821-tune, in the which there are imbarked 479. Souldiers, 574. Mariners, and there is 193. erect Proces, and all their furniture.

The foure Gaples, which are giue in charge to Dom Vio de Muncada.

He Galeace the Captaine called S. Lawrence, hath 270. Souldiers, 130. Mariners, 300. Slaves, 1 50. Peeces of Canon, and their furniture. The Galeaco Patrone, 180. Souldiers, 112. Mariners, 200. Slaues, 50. great Peeces, and their furniture. The Galeace Grone, 170. Souldien, 120. Mari- 50 ners, 300. Slaves, 50. great Poeces. The Galeace Neapolutaine 124. Souldiers, 115. Mariners, 300. Siaucs, 50. great Perces, and the reft of their necessary traught.

There are in these foure Galeaces 873. Souldiers, 468. Mariners ; 200. great Petces, 1200. Slaves, and the rest of their furniture.

The Gally Captaine, 110. Souldiers, 106. Mariners, 306. Slaves, and fiftie great Peeces, and other necessaries. The Gally Princesse, the Gally Diana, the Gally Vacana, are the like. In the about named Galeaces, there are $ 200. Slaves, and in the foure gallies. 885, which is in all 2083.

Moreover, they carry punder for their need, if it be offered to doe Autery, 600. Quintals. So that there are in the face Army 130 Ships of 57868. twns, 1929 . Souldiers and $450. Mariners, 2088. Slaves, and 2630. great Peeces of Braffe of all fores, among which there are Colcurines, and de 60

my Coleurmes, and Canons to the Stone, and other necessaries for their franche. In the Booke follow the names of the Aduenturers, also of fuch as in the Army were entertain ned for pay; such also as were imbarked for the service of the Canon, for the Hospitall, the Regiments, and Companies in pay, the Officers, &cc. which for breuitte I omit.

The Galeons were fixtue foure in number, being of an huge bignesse, and verie startly but, be- A distribution ing of margeilous forceallo, and folish, that they refembled great Cattles, mon fie of defend or the Calcons the miclues and to withfland any affault, but in guing any other Ships the encounter farre inferiour voto the English and Datch Ships, which can with great dexteritie weild & turne themselves at all affires. The uppersworke of the laid Galeons was not thicknesse and direcent disfficient to heare off Musker-thora The lower works and the symbers thereof were our of meaning frong being framed for plankes and a bs foure or fue foot on thickness, intomuch, that no bullets could pierce them, but fuch as were discharged hard at liand a which afterward proued true, for a great number of bullets were found to fticke fall within the maffer fubitance of those thicke plankes. Great and well pitched Cables were twined about the healts of their Ships, to ftrengthen them against the battery of shot.

The Gailiaffes were of fuch bigneffe, that they contained within them Chambers, Chappels, Adefering Tunets, Pulpirs, and other commodities of great houles. The Callesfes were rowed with great Oarrs, there being in each of them you faues for the fame surpord, and wereable to the wreat leruice within he force of their Ordnance: All there together with their should aforem med were furnished and beautified with Trumpets, Streamers, Banners, warlike Ensignes, and cooker fach liké ornamerits. Their Pieces of Braten Ordnance were 1600 and of tron 1000. The Bullets thereto belonging nanoa builess. were 120. thouland. Irem of Gunpowder 1600 quintale Of Match 1200 quintalis Of Muskets Gunpowder, to and Kaloinets 7000. Of Halberts and Partifans 10000. Moreover, they had great flore of Canons; and other furdouble Canons, Culurrings and field-pieces for land teruice.

Likeweile they were provided of all inftroments needfary on Land to conveigh, and transport Th ir provide their furniture from place to place; as namely of Carbs; Wheeles, Wagons; &c. Alto they had, on of victuals Spades, Mattecks and Biskets to fet pioners on worke. They had in the fore great fore of Moles: & other rings and Horfes, and whatfoeuer elfe was requifite for a Land-armie. They were fo well stored of necessary, Biscuit, that for the space of halfea yeers; they might allow each perion in the whole Flecte balfe a quintall every moneth! whereof the whole lineare amounteth wato an hundreth thou-

Likewise of Wine they had 147, thousand Pipes; sufficient also for halfe a yeeres expedition. Or Bacon 6500. q intuds, Of Cheefe three thouland quiscale. Beildes Pith, Rive, Beanes, Peafe, Oyle, Vinegar, &c. Moreouer, they had a sodo. Pipes of fresh water, and all other necessarie promision: as namels Candles, Lancernes, Lampes, Sailes, Hempe, Octo-hides and Load to ftop holes-that fhould be made with the batterie of Gun hot. To be fhort, they brought all things expedient onher tor 4 Fisete by Seator for an Armie by land.

This Name (as Diego Pimentelli afterward confessed) was esteemed by the King himfelfe to 32000 persons containe $2000, perions, and to cost him outry days orthoniand Directes.

There were in the fard Name fine Termes of Spaniards (which Termes the Fronthmen call Regiments) under the command of fine Gouernours, tearmed by the Spatiards Mafters of the field; 3200, foutiers, and among the reft there were many old and expert Souldiers choice out of the Garrisons of Siedie, Naples, and Tercera. Their Capraines or Colonels were Diego Pimentelli, Don Francisco de Toledo, Don Alonzo de Luçon, Don Nicolas de Illa, Don Augustia de Mexia: who had each of them two and thirty Companies under their conduct. Befides the which Companies there were many bands also of Caftilians and Portugali, every one of which had their peculiar Governours, Captaines, Officers, Colours and weapons.

It was not lawfull for any man, under grieuous penaltiesto carry any woman or harlors in the Baggage of the Fleete : for which cause the women hired certaine Ships, wherein they failed after the Name : Amada. some of the which being driven by tempest arrived upon the coast of France.

The Generall of this mightie Nauie, was Don Alonfo Perez de Guzman Duke of Medina, Sido-10 mia, Lord of S. Lucar, and Knight of the golden Fleece; by reason that the Marquelle of Santa Cruz appointed for the fame dignity, decealed before the time:

John Martines de Ricalde was Admirall of the Fleete; Francis Benadilla was chiefe Marshall: who all of them had their officers fit and requifice for the guiding and managing of fuch a multitude. Likewife Martin Aloreon was appointed Vicar generall of the Inquitition, being accompanied with more then a hundreth Monkes, to wit; lefustes, Capuchines, and Friers Mendicant, Befides whom also there were Philitians, Chirurgians, Apothecaries, and whatfoeuer elfe pertained vnto the Hospitall.

Ouer and besides the forenamed Governours and Officers, being men of chiefe note, there were 124 very noble and worthy Gentlemen, which went voluntarily of their owne colls and charges, to the end they might fee fathious, learne experience; and attaine voto glory. Amongst whom was the Prince of Afeole, Alonzo de Leina, the Marquette de Pennafiel, the Marquette de Ganes, the Marqueffe de Barlango, Count de Paredes, Count de Teluie, and sivers other Marquefes and Earles of the honorable families of Mendoza, of Taledo, of Pacheco, of Cordono, of Guzman, of Manriques, and a great number of others.

I have by me the Dukes Orders for the whole Nanie, during this Voyage, made about the Gallian Saint Martin, May 28. the beginning whereof I have added, the whole would be too long.

Don ALONS O PERES DE GVSMAN, the good Duke of Medina, Sidonia. Countie of Nebla, Marquelle of Cashelhe in Africa, Lord of the Citie Saint Lucar, Captaine Generall of the Occian Sea of the Coalt of Andaluzia, and of this Armie of his Maieflie, and Knight of the honorable Order of the golden Fleece.

Doe ordaine and command, that the generall Mafters of the field, all Captaines of the Sea Dil lats, Mafters, Souldiers, Mariners, and Officers, and what foeuer other people for the Land or Sea feruice commeth in this Armie, all the time that it indureth, shall be thus governed, as hereafter followeth, viz.

The cause of

Their Shrift

First, and before all things, it is to be understood by all the aboue named from the highest to the lowest : that the principall foundation and cause that bath mouse the King his Maiestie to make and continue this journie, hath beens, and is, to ferue God, and to returne vnto his Church a great many of contrite foules that are oppressed by the Heretikes, enemies of our holy Catholike faith, which have the m fubicets to their feets and vnbappineffe : and for that every one may put his eyes upon this marke, as we are bound, I doe command and much defire every one, to give charge vinto the inferiors and those vinder their charge to imbarke themselves, being shriven. and having received the Sacrament with competentand contrition for their finnessby the which contricion and zeale to doe God fuch great fernice, he will carry and guide vs to his great glory: which is that which particularly and principally is pretended.

Forauoiding and others.

In like manner, I doe charge and command you, to have particular care, that no Soldier, Marriner, or other, that ferueth in this Armie, doe blafpheme, or rage against God, or our Lady, or any of the Saints, upon paine that he shall therefore sharply be corrected, and very well chaftened, as it thall feeme best voto vs : and for other oather of leffe qualitie, the Governours in the 30 fame Ships they goe in shall procure to remedy all : they shall punish them in taking away their allowance of Wine, or otherwise as they shall thinke good. And for that the most occasions come by play, you shall publikly prohibit is especially the games that are forbidden; and that none doe play in the night by no meanes.

Debarring

Articles follow to suppresse quarrels, to avoid disgracing any man, and all occasions of scandal, forbidding carriage of common women with other orders for watchwords, attendance on the Admiral, for fire and wilde-fire, and lighes, armours bes, sounder, match, and other necessary instructions, too long to be here particularifed: that in the height of hamaine policie, and religious hypocrifie, the hand of God in Englands preservation way be made onident.

The preparatiaide the Spa-

While the Spaniards were furnishing this their Nauie, the Duke of Parma, at the direction 40 of King Philip, made great preparation in the low Countries, to gine aide and affiffance vinto the Spaniards, building Ships for the same purpose, and sending for Pilots and Ship wrights out of Italy. In Flanders he caused certaine despe channels to be made, and among the rest, the channell of Tper, commonly called Tper-lee, employing some thousands of workemen about that feruice : to the end that by the faid Cannell he might transport Ships from Answerp and Ghende to Bruges where he had affembled aboue a hundreth small Ships, called Hoyes, being well stored with vi-Stuals, which Hoyes he was determined to have brought into the Sea by the way of Slays, or elfe to have conveied them by the faid Tper-lee, being now of greater depth, into any port of Flan-

In the River of Waten, he caused 70. Ships with flat bottomes to be built, every one of which 50 should serve to carry 30, horses, having each of them Bridges likewise for the Horses to come on boord, or to goe forth on land. Of the same fashion he had provided 200, other vessels at Neinport, but not fo great. And at Dunkerk he procured 28. Ships of warre, fuch as were there to be had, and caused a sufficient number of Mariners to be leuied at Hamburg, Breme, Emdan, and at other places. He put in the ballast of the said Ships, great store of beames of thicke plankes, being hollow and befet with Iron pikes beneath, but on each fide full of claspes and hookes, to 10 year

He had likewife at Graveling provided 20. thousand of caske, which in a shore space might be compact and isyned together with nailes and cords, and reduced into the forme of a Bridge. To be thort, what focuer things were requifite for the making of Bridges, and for the barring & flep- 60 ping up of Hauens mouthes with stakes, posts, and other meanes, he commanded to be made ready Moreouer, not far from Neimport hauen, he had caused a great pile of wooden fagots to be laid, and other furniture to be brought for the reating vp of a Mount. The most part of his Ships contained two Quens a peece to bake Bread in, with a great number of faddles, bridles, and fuch other like apparell for Horfes. They had Horfes likewife, which after their landing should serve to conuey and draw engines, schi-pieces, and other warlike prouifions.

Necere vinto Nesupore he had sliembled an armie, ouer the which hee had ordained Camillo de Monte to be Camp -mailer. This army conflitedirf 20, bands or entires of Italians, of ten bands of Wallons, eight of Scott, and eight of Burgundians, all which together amount vnto 56. bands euery hand containing a hundreth perlons. Neere unto Dixmed there were muftered eightie bands of Duchmen, fixtie of Spaniards, fix of high Germans, and leuen bands of English tugitues, vinder the conduct of Sir William Stanlie, an English Knight In the luburbs of Cortreight there were 4000. horsemen together with their horses ma readinesse and at Water 900, horses, with the troupe to of the Marquelie del Grafto Captaine generall of the horiemen. Vinto this famous expedition and prefupposed victory, many pocentates, Princes, and honorable personages hed themselves : out of Spains the Prince of Melio, called the Duke of Pastrana, and taken to be the Son of one Ruygemer de Silua, but in very deed accompted among the number of King Thilips bale fons, Alio the Marquelle of Bargrane, one of the ions of Archiduke Ferdinand and Philippa Wallera. Vefpafian Gonfaga of the family of Manua, being for chiualty a man of great renowne, and negecofore Vice-roy in Spaine. Item John Medices, bate ion vnto the Duke of Florence. And Amadas of Sauor, the Duke of Sauor his bafe fon, with many others of inferi-

At length when as the Erench King about the end of May fignified vnto her Maieffie in plaine Her Maieffies 20 tearmes that the should stand upon her guard, because he was now certainly enformed, that there warlike prepare was to dangerous an invation imminent upon her Realine, that he feared much, leaft all her land and fea-forces would befufficient to withfrand it, &c. then began the Queenes Maiettie more carefully to gather her forces together, and to furnish her own ships of warre, and the principall ships of her subjects, with Souldiers, weapons, and other necessary promisen. The greatest and strongest thips of the whole Nauie the fent anto Plummonth, under the conduct of the right honorable Lord Charles Howard, Lord high Admirall of England, &c. Vnder whom the renowned Knight Sir Francie Drake was appointed Vice admirall. The number of thele ships was about an hundreth. The leffer thips being 30, or 40, in number, and vader the conduct of the Lord Henry Seimer were commanded to lie betweene Deuer and Caleis.

On land likewise throughout the whole realme, souldiers were mustered and trained in all plate Her. Mais slies ces, and were committed vnto the most resolute and faithfull captaines. And whereager was comi. Land forces, monly given out, that the Spaniard having once writed himfelte vnto the Duke of Parma, ment to inuade by the river of Thames, there was at Tilburie in Effex, over-against Graveferid, a mighter army encamped; and on both fides of the river fortifications were erected, according to the prefeription of Frederike Genebelli an Italian enginier. Likewile there were certaine hipsbrought to make a Bridge, though it were very late first. Vnto the faid Armie came in proper perion the Queenes molt roiall Maieftie, representing Tompris that Scitbian warlike Princelle, or rather diuine Pallas her felte. Alfo there were other fuch armiesteuied in England.

The principal Reculants (least they should for up any tumult in the time of the Spanis invasion) Catholike 40 were fent to remaine at certain convenient places, as namely in the Isle of Elr and at Wibich. And Roman. fome of them were fent vote other places, to wit, voto fundry Bilhops and Noblemen, where they were kept from endangering the state of the common wealth, and of her facred Maiestie, who of her most gracious clemency gaue expresse commandement, that they should be intreated with all humani ie and friendship. The Provinces of Holland, Zeland, &c. giving credit vnto their intelligence out of Spaine, made The preparation preparation to defend themselves : but because the Spanish thips were described voto them to be on other ner to huge, they relied partly upon the shallow and dangerous Seas all along their coasts. Wherefore ted Promuces they stood most in doubt of the Duke of Parma, his small and flat-bottomed ships. Howbert they had all their thips of warre to the number of nincie and aboue, in a readinesse for all assyes : the 50 greater part whereof were of a small burthen, as being more meete to taile upon their Rivers and shallow Seas; and with these ships they besieged all the hauens in Flanders, beginning at the mouth of Scheld, or from the towne of Lille, and holding on to Graneling, and almost ento Caleis, and fortified all their Sea-townes with strong garritons. Against the Spanis fleets arrivall, they had provided five and twenty of thirty good ships, committing the government of them virto Admirall Lorck, whom they commanded to inine him-felie unto the Lord Henry Seymer, lying betweene Douer and Cales. And when as the forefeld thips (whereof the greater part belieged the hauen of Dunkerke) were druen by tempest into Zeland, luftin of Naffanthe Admirall of Zeland supplied that squadron with fine and thirty shops, being of no great burthen, but excellently furnished with Guns, Mariners and Souldiers in great 60 abundance & especially with 1200 brave Musquetiers, having beene accustomed with Sea-fights, and being cholen out of all their company for the fame purpole : and so the find Inflim of Naffan kept fuch deligent ward in the Station, that the Duke of Parma could not title forth with his Nauie into Sea out of any part of Flanders.

In the meane while the Shangh Armada fet faile out of the hauen of Lisben vpon the 19. of

licat scherence inesti accessor

Gains valour.

They fee faile *pon the 11.of The Spaniards come within kenning of England.

Cap Fleming.

The L.Admirals (hort warnin: vpon-the Gods great not Flemming brought word, the Queenes Name hadea. Gly beene oppreffed : nor could it fo toon be ready had their opportu-

- May, An. Dom. 1 , 88. under the conduct of the Duke of Medina Sidonia, directing their confe The Spanijo for the Bay of Corunna, alias the Groine in Gallicia, where they tooke in fouldiers, and warlike if etelectatic voon the 19 of proution, this port being in Spaine the neerest voto England. As they were failing along, there arole luch a mighty tempeft, that the whole Elect was disperied, fo that when the Duke was re-O multim dile- turned vinto his company, he could not efficie aboue eighty thips in all, whereunto the refidue by a: Deo tib mi- little and little joyned themselves, except eight which had their Matts blowne over-boord. One of the foure Gallies of Paring all elcaped very hardly, retiring her felfe into the hauen. The other ad claffica veg. three were vpon the coast of Bason in France, by the affiftance and courage of one Danid Gum, an English Captine (whom the French and Turkish thues aided in the fame enterprise) ytterly dilabled and vanqui hed; one of the three being first ouercome, which conquered the two other, with the flaughter of their Gouernour and fouldiers, and among the rest of Don Diego de Mandrana. with fundry others : and to those flaues arrived in France with the three Gallies, fet themselves

> The Natic having refreshed themselves at the Groine, and receiving daily commandement from the King to halten their journie, horfed up failes the 11 day of July, and fo holding on their course till the 10, of the same moneth, they came then vnto the mouth of the narrow Seas or English channell. From whence (firiking their failes in the meane featon) they diffratched certain of their imali fluos voto the Duke of Parma. At the fame time the Spanish Fleete was efcried by an Englift Pinnace, Captaine whereof was Mafter Thomas Fleming, after they had beene advertised of the Spaniards expedition by their footes and efficient, which having ranged along the coat of Spaine, were lately returned home into Plummoth for a new fupply of withinks and other necessity. ries, who confidering the forefaid tempest, were of opinion that the Nauie being of late differfed and toffed up and downe the maine Ocean, was by no meanes able to performe their intended Voyage. Moreover, the Lord Charles Howard, Lord high Admirall of England, had received Letters from the Court, fignifying vnto him, that her Maiefty was advertised that the Spanific Fleete would not come forth; nor was tobe any longer expected for, and therefore, that vpon her Maietties commandement hee must fend backe foure of her tallest and strongest Ships vn-

The Lord high Admirall of England being thus on the fudden, namely upon the 19. of July about foure of the clocke in the afternoone, enformed by the Pinnace of Captaine Fleming afore- 30 Said of the Spaniards approach, with all speede and diligence possible hee warped his Ships, and caused his Mariners and Souldiers (the greater part of whom was absent for the cause aforelaid) to come on board, and that with great trouble and difficultie, infomuch that the Lord Admirall himfelfe was faine to lie without in the road with fix Ships onelvall that night after the which ma-Thezo, of July ny others came forth of the hauen. The very next day, being the 20. of July about high noone, was the Spanish Fleet escried by the English, which with a South-west winde came failing along, and passed by Plimmonth; in which regard (according to the judgement of many skilfull Nauigamercy to Eng. tors) they greatly overshot themselves, whereas it had been more commodious for them to have land. For had fraied themifelies there, confidering that the Englishmen being as yet unprouided, greatly relied vpon their owne forces, and knew not the effate of the Spanifo Navie. Moreover, this was the 40 most convenient Port of all others, where they might with greater fecurity have beene advertifed of the English forces, and how the commons of the land stood offeded, and might have stirred up fome mutinie, fo that hither they should have bent all their puislance, and from hence the Duke of Parma might more easily have conveied his Ships. But this they were prohibited to doe by the King and his Counsell, and were expresly commanded to vnite themselves vnto the fouldiers and thips of the faid Dake of Parma, and fo to bring their purpose to effect. Which was thought to be the most easte and direct course, for that they imagined that the English and Durch men would be vtterly daunted and difmaied thereat, and would each man of them retire vnto his owne Prounce or Port for the defence thereof, and transporting the Armie of the Duke under the protection of their huge Nauie, they might invade England. It is reported that the chiefe 50 commanders in the Nauy, and those which were more skilfull in nauigation, to wit, John Martines de Ricalde, Diego Flores de Valdez, and divers others, found fault that they were bound vnto fo firet directions and inftructions, because that in fuch a case many particular accidents ought to concurre and to be respected at one and the same instant, that is to fay, the opportunitie of the winde, weather, time, tide, and ebbe, wherein they might faile from Flanders to England, Oftentimes alio the darknesse and light, the situation of places, the depths and shoalds were to be considered : all which especially depended vpon the conveniency of the windes, and were by so much the more dangerous. But it feemed that they were enjoyned by their Commission to ancre neere vnto, or about Caleis, whither the Duke of Parma with his ships and all his warlike prouition was to refort, and while the English and Spanish great thirs were in the midft of their con- 60 flict, to passe by, and to land his fouldiers upon the Downes. The Spanish Captines reported that they were determined first to have entred the River of Thames, & thereupon to have passed with fmall thips up to London, supposing that they might easily win that rich and flourishing Citie, being but meanely fortified and inhabited with Citizens not accultomed to the wars, who durit not withftand their first encounter, hoping moreover to finde many rebels against her Maiestie. and Ponish Catholikes, or iome tauourers of the Scottifb Queene (not long before beheaded) who might be inftruments of fedition.

Thus of en aduertifing the Duke of Parma of their approach, the 20. of July they passed by Plinamonth, which the English pursuing and getting the winde of them, gave them the chafe and the encounter, and to both Fleetes frankly exchanged their Bullets.

The day following, which was the 21. of July, the English Ships approached within Musket The 21. of July that of the Spanish: at what time the Lord Charles Howard most hotly and valiantly discharged his Ordnance upon the Spanish Vice-admirall. The Spanisrals then well, perceiving the nimbleneffe of the English flaps in discharging upon the enemy on all fides, gathered themselves close into the forme of an halfe Moone, and flackned their failes, leaft they bould outgoe any of their company. And while they were proceeding on in this manner, one of their great Galliafles was to furionily battered with thot, that the whole Nanie was faine to come vp rounder together for the fategard thereof : whereby it came to paffe that the principal! Galleon of Smill (wherein Don Pedro de Valdez, Va (ques de Silmi, Alenzo de Sayas, and other Noble men were embarqued) falling foule of another thip, had her fore-mast broken, and by that meanes was not able to keepe way with the Spanish Fleete, neither would the faid Fleete flay to fuccour it, but I fo the diffresfed Galeon behinds. The Lord Admirall of England, when hee faw this Ship of Valdez, and thought the had beene voide of Marriners and Souldiers, taking with him as many thips as he Gileon for 20 could, paffed by it, that hee might not loofe fight of the Spanish Fleete that night. For Sir faken.

Francis Drake (who was not withit anding appointed to beare out his Lanterne that night) was giving of chale vinto five great Hulkes which had separated them (elves from the Spanish Fleete : but finding them to be Easterlings, hee dismissed them. The Lord Admitall all that night following the Spanis Lanterne instead of the English, found himselfe in the morning to be in the midft of his enemies Fleete, but when he perceived it, he clenly conveied himfelfe out of that great danger.

The day following, which was the 22.0f July, Sir Francis Drake efficed Valdez his thip, where- The 22.0f July unto he fent for his Punace, and being advertifed that Valdez himselfe was there, and 450, perfons with him, he fent him word that hee should yeelde himselfe, Faldez for his honours take to cauled certaine conditions to be propounded vnto Drakes who answered Valdez, that he was not now at leifure to make any long parle, but if he would yeelde himfelfe, he should finde him friendly and tractable : howbeit if he had refolued to die in fight, he should proue Drake to be no daftard. Vpon which answer, Valder and his Company understanding that they were fallen into the hands of fortunate Drake, being moued with the renoune and celebratie of his name. with one confent yeelded themselves, and found him very favourable voto them. Then Valdez Don Pedro de with forty or fiftie Noblemen and Gentlemen pertaining vnto him, came on boord Sir Francu Valdez with Drakes thip, Therefidue of his company were carried vnto Plinementh, where they were detai- his thips and ned a weere and an halfe for their ransome.

Valdez comming vnto Drake, and humbly killing his hand, protefting vnto him, that he and his to had resolved to die in battell, had they not by good fortune fallen into his power, whom they knew to be right curteous and gentle, and whom they had heard by generall report to be most fa- Virtus in heff # nourable anto his vanquished foe: infomuch, that he faid it was to be doubted whether his ene- laudanda. my had more cause to admire and loue him for his great, valiant, and prosperous exploits, or to dread him for his fingular felicity and wildome, which ever attended upon him in the wars, and by the which he had attained vnto to great honor. With that Drake embraced him, and gaue him very honorable entertainment, feeding him at his owne table, and lodging him in his Cabbin. Here Valdez began to recount vnto Drake the forces of all the Spanish Fleete, and how foure mighty Gallies were separated by tempest from them : and also how they were determined first to baue put into Plimmouth haven, not expecting to be repelled thence by the English thips, which they thought could by no meanes withiftand their impregnable forces, perswading themselves that by o meanes of their huge Fleete, they were become Lords and commanders of the maine Ocean. For which cause they marueiled much how the Englishmen in their small Ships durit approach within musket that of the Spaniards mighty woodden Cattles, gathering the wind of them, with many other such like attempts. Immediately after, Valdez and his Company (being a man of principal) authority in the Spanish Fleet, and being descended of one and the same family with that Valdez, which in the yeare 1574. belieged Leiden in Holland) were fent captines into England. There were in the faid thip 55 . thousand Duckers in ready monie of the Spanift Kings gold , which the fouldiers merrily shared among themselves.

The same day was set on fire one of their greatest ships, being Admirall of the squadron of Gui-60 pusco, and being the ship of Michael de Oquendo Vice-admirall of the whole Fleete, which contained great flore of Gunpowder, and other warlike proution. The upper part onely of this flip A great Bif. was burnt, and all the persons therein contained (except a very few) were consumed with fire, came ship ca-And thereupon it was taken by the English, and brought into England, with a number of miterable ken by the burnt and forched Spaniards. Howbeit the Gunpowder (to the great admiration of all men) rea mained whole and vaconfumed.

In the meane feafon the Lord Admirall of England in his ship, called the Arke-royall, all that night pursued the Spaniards to neere, that in the morning hee was almost left alone in the enemies Fleete, and it was foure of the clocke at afternoone before the refidue of the English Fleete could overtake him. At the fame time Hugo de Moncada, Governour of the foure Gallialles, made humble fuite vinto the Duke of Medine that hee might be licenced to encounter the Admirall of England: which liberty the Duke thought not good to permit vnto him, because he was touth to exceede the limits of his Commission and charge.

Slow motions Span Bihips.

Voon tueiday, which was the 23.0f July, the Nauy being come ouer against Portland, the wind began to turne Northerly, infomuch that the Spannards had a fortunate and fit gale to inuade the Englifb. But the Englishmen hauing leifer and nimbler ships, recourred againe the vantage of the Ic winde from the Spaniards, whereat the Spaniards feemed to be more incensed to fight then before, But when the English fleet had continually and without intermittion from morning to night beaten and battered them with all their shot both great and small; the Spaniards vniting themfelues, gathered their whole Fleete close together into a roundeli, to that it was apparant that they ment not as vet to inuade others, but onely to defend themfelues, & to make haite vato the place prescribed vnto them, which was neere vnto Dunkerk, that they might joyne forces with the Duke of Parma, who was determined to have proceeded fecretly with his small ships under the shadow and protection of the great ones, and to had intended circumspectly to performe the whole expedition.

Admirals hot

This was the most furious and bloudy skirmish of all, in which the Lord Admirall of England continued fighting amidit his enemies Fleete, and feeing one of his Captaines a farre off, he spake G praine Fen- unto him in thele words: Ob George, what doeft thou? Walt thou now frustrate my hope and opinion conceined of thee? Wilt thou for sake mee now? With which words hee being enflamed, spproached forthwith, encountered the enemy, and did the part of a most valiant Captaint. His name was George Fenner, a man that had beene conversant in many Sea-fights. In this conflict there was a certaine great Venetian ship with other small ships surprized and taken by

A great Venetian thip and other mall fhips taken by the English,

The English Nauy in the meane while increased, whereunto out of all Hauens of the Realme reforted flips and men : for they all with one accord came flocking thither as vinto a fet field, where immortall fame and glory was to be attained, and faithfull service to be performed vnto 30 their Prince and Countrey. In which number there were many great and honorable personages, as namely, the Earle of Oxford, of Northumberland, of Cumberland, of c. with many Knights and Genclemen : to wit, Sir Thomas Cecill, Sir Robert Cecill, Sir Walter Raleigh, Sir Williams Hatton, Sir Horatio Palanicini, S. r Henry Brooke, Sir Robert Carem, Sir Charles Blunt; Mafter Ambrofe Willonobbie, Matter Henry Nowell, Matter Thomas Gerard, Matter Henry Dudley, Matter Edward Darcie, Mafter Aribur Gorge, Mafter Thomas Woodbowfe, M. William Harnie, Ge. And to it came to palle that the number of the English thips amounted victo an hundreth: which when they were come before Douer, were increased to an hundred and thirty, being notwithstanding of no proportionable bigneffe to encounter with the Spaniards, except two or three and twenty of the Queenes greater fhips, which onely; by reason of their presence, bred an opinion in the Spaniards 40 minds concerning the power of the English Fleet: the Marriners and Souldiers whereof were esteemed to be twelve thousand.

Souldiers.

The 24 of Iuly

The foure and twentie of July, when as the Sea was calme, and no winde stirring, the fight was onely betweene the foure great Galleaffes and the English thips, which being rowed with Oares, had great vantage of the English thips, which not withflanding for all that would not be forced to yeelde, but discharged their chaine-shot to cut asunder their Cables and Cordage of the Galleaffes, with many other fuch Stratagems. They were now constrained to fend their men on land for a new supply of Gunpowder, whereof they were in great scarcitie, by reason they had Wantof Pow- fo frankly spent the greater part in the former conflicts. The same day, a Counfell being allembled, it was decreed that the English Fleete should be deuided into four equidrons : the principal 50 whereof was committed voto the Lord Admirall : the second to Sit Francis Drake : the third to Captaine Hawkins : the fourth to Captaine Frobisher. The Spanards in their failing observed very diligent and good order, failing three and foure and sometimes more ships in a ranke, and following close vp one after another, and the stronger Spanift order. and greater thips protecting the leffer.

The five and twenty of July, when the Spaniards were come over-against the Isle of Wight, the Lord admirall of Englandbeing accompanied with his best ships (namely the Lion, Captaine Whereof was the Lord Thomas Howard: The Elizabeth longs under the command of Sir Robert Southwell, fon in law vnto the Lord Admirall : the Beare vnder the Lord Sheffield, Nephew vnto the Lord Admirall : the Vidorie vnder Captaine Barker : and the Galeon Leiceffer under the fore- 60 named Captain George Fenner) with great valour and dreadfull thunder of thot, encountered the Temble fights

Spenish Alimitall, being in the very midt of all his Fleete. Which when the Spaniara's perceimed, being affitted with his ftrongest ships, he came torth and entered a terrible combat with the feath. English; for they bestowed each on other the broad sides, and mutually discharged all their

Ordnance; being within one hundred or an hundred and twenty yards one of another. At length the Spaniards horfed up their failes, and againe gathered themfelues up close into the forme of a roundell. In the meane while Captaine Frobiler had engaged himtelfe into a most dangerous conflict. Whereupon the Lord Admirall comming to fuccour him; found that hee had valiantly and discreetly behaued himfelfe; and that he had wifely and in good time given over the fight, because that after so creat a batterie he had sustained no damage. For which cause the day tollowing, being the fixe and twenty of Inly, the Lord Admirall rewarded him with the order of The 26.0f July Kojehthood, together with the Lord Thomas Howard, the Lord Sheffield, Mafter John Hawkins, and others.

The large day the Lord Admirall received intelligence from New hanen in France, by certaine Guident feared of his Pinnaces, that all things were quit in France, and that there was no preparation of fent- Tac.conq. A. ding aide vnto the Spaniards, which was greatly feared from the Guiffan faction, and from the Leaguers : but there was a falle rumour foread all about, that the Spaniards had conquered England.

The feuen and twentieth of July, the Spaniards about the fun-fetting were come order-against The ar of July, Doner, and rode at ancre within the fight of Caleis, intending to hold on for Dunkerk, expecting The Spaniards there to joyne with the Duke of Parma his forces, without which they were able to doe little or ancrebetore nothing. Likewise the English Fleete following vp hard vpon them, ancred inft by them within Caleis, coluering shot. And here the Lord Henry Seymer vnited himselfe vnto the Lord Admirall with his fleet of 20. hips which rode before the mouth of Thames. As the Spanish Name therefore lay at ancre, the Duke of Medina fent certaine Meffengers vato the Duke of Parma, with whom your that occasion many Noblemen and Gentlemen went to retreft themfel ies on land; and among it the reft the Prince of Assolibeing accounted the Kings bafeion, and a very proper and towardly your Gentleman, to his great good went on thoate, who was by to much the more fortunate, in that he had not opportunity to returne on boord the fame thip out of which he was departed, because that in returning home it was cast away vpon former the Irifb coast, withall the persons contained therein. The Duke of Parma being advertised of the Spanih Fleetes arrivall upon the coaft of England, made all the hifte hee could to be preferit himselfe in this expedition for the performance of his charge; vainely perswading himselfe that now by the meanes of Cardinall Allen, hee thould be crowned King of England, and for that cause he hadresigned the Gouernment of the Low-Countries vinto Count Mansfeld the elder. And having made his vowes vinto Shint Mary of Hall in Henault (whom he went to vinte for hisblinde devotions ake) he returned toward Bruger the eight and twenty of fully. The next Theas, of july day trauelling to Danier's he cheard the thundring Ordnance of either Fleete: and the same evening being come to Dismud, hee was given to vnderstand the hard successe of the Spa- These of last.

Vpon tuelday, which was the 12.0f July, about high noone, he came to Dunkerk, when as all The 30.0f July the Spanish Ficete was now passed by: neither durst any of his ships in the meane space come forth to affirt the faid Spanish Fleet for feare of five and thirty warlike thips of Holland and Zeto land, which there kept watch and ward under the conduct of the Admirall Instin of Nasan. The forefaid five and thirty thips were furnished with most cunning Mariners and old expert Souldi- States Fleets, ers, among It the which were twelve hundred Musketeers, whom the States had cholen out of all their Garrisons, and whom they knew to have beene heretofore experienced in Sea-fights. This Nauie was given especially in charge not to suffer any ship to come out of the Hauen, nor to permit any Zabraes, Pataches or other small vessels of the Spanish Fleete (which were more likely to aide the Dunkerkers) to enter thereinto, for the greater thips were not to be feared by reason of the fhallow Sea in that place. Howbeit the Prince of Parma his forces being as yet vinready, En life Hiftswere not come on board his ships, onely the English Figitives, being seven hundred in number, ninisced training winder the conduct of Sir William Stanley, came in hit time to have beene embarked, because they hoped to give the first affault against England. The residue shewed themselves vowilling and loath to depart, because they saw but a few Marriners, who were by constraint drawne into this expedition, and also because they had very bare prouision of Bread, Drinke, and other necessary vi-Quals. Moreover, the ships of Holland and Zeland stood continually in their sight, threatning shot and Powder, and many inconveniences vnto them: for feare of which ships; the Mariners and Sea-men fecretly withdrew themselves both day and night, least that the Duke of Parma his Souldiers should compell them by maine force to goe on boord, and to breake through the Hollanders Fleete, which all of them judged to be impessible, by reason of the straightnesse

But it seemeth that the Duke of Parma and the Spaniards grounded upon a vaine and pre- The Spaniards to fumptuous expectation, that all the thips of England and of the Low-Countries would at the first vaincopinion fight of the Spanish and Dunkerk Name have betaken themselves to flight, yeelding them Sez-concerning roome, and endenouring onely to defend themfelues, their hauens, and Sea-coasts from invasion, their area aces Wherefore their intent and purpose was, that the Duke of Parma in this small and flat-bortomed thips, should as it were under the shadow and wings of the Spanish Fleete, concey oner all his troupes, armour, and warlike provision, and with their forces fo vnited, should invade England: or while the English Fleete were bulied in fight against the Spanish, thould enter voon any part of the coalt, which he thought to be most convenient. Which invasion (as the Captines afterward confelled) the Deke of Parma thought first to have attempted by the River of Thames: voon the bankes whereof having at his first arrivall landed twenty or thirty thouland of his principall Souldiers, he supposed that he might easily have won the Citie of London; both because his imall thins should have followed and affifted his Land-forces, and also for that the Citie it felfe was but meanely fortified and easie to ouercome, by reason of the Citizens delicacie and discontinuance from the warres. When as therefore the Spanish Fleete rode at ankerbefore Caleis, to the end they might con- Io fult with the Duke of Parma what was best to be done according to the Kings commandement. and the present estate of their affaires, and had now (as we will afterward declare) purposed vpon the second of August, heing Friday, with one power and consent to have put their intended bufinelle in practife; the Lord Admirall of England being admonished by her Maiesties Lettere from the Court, thought it most expedient either to drive the Spanish Fleet from that place, or at least wife to give them the encounter; and for that cause (according to her Maiesties prescription) he tooke forthwith eight of his worst and bateit ships which came next to hand, and disburchening them of all things which fremed to be of any value, filled them with Gunpowder, Pitch, Brimttone, and with other combultible and fiery matter; and charging all their Ordnance with

The as of fully powder, bullets and fitones, and fent the faid fully sypon the 28. of fully, being Sunday, about two of the clocke after midnight, with the winde and tide against the Spanish Fleete: which when they had proceeded a good space, being for saken of the Pilots, and fet on fire, were directly carried vpon the King of Spaines Nauie : which fire in the dead of night pur the Spaniards into fuch a perplexitie and horror (for they feared left they were like vnto those terrible ships, which Fredsrie lenebelli three yeeres before, at the fiege of Animerpe, had furnished with Gunpowder, flones, and dreadfull engines, for the diffoliction of the Duke of Parma his Bridge, built wpon the River of Schold) that cutting their cables whereon their ankers were fasted, and horfing vp their failes they betooke themiclues very confusedly vnto the maine Sea. And this fulden confusion, the principall and greatest of the foure Galiasses falling fowle of another thip loft her midder: for which cause when the could not be guided any longer, the was by other por the force of the tide cast into a certaine thould y pon the shoare of Catri, where she was immediate the hoalds be- arely affaulted by divers English Pinnaces, Hoyes, and Drumblers. And as they lay battering of her with their Ordnance, and durft not boord her, the Lord Admirall fent thither his long Boate fore Caleis. with an hundreth choife Souldiers vinder the command of Captaine Amou Preston, V pon whole M Amias Freapproach their fellowes being more emboldened, did ofter to boord the Galliaffe; against whom for valuately the Governor thereof and Captaine of all the foure Galliaffes, Hugo de Moncada, flourly opposed handeth the himself, fighting by so much the more valiantly, in that he hoped presently to be succoured by the Galhaffe. Dake of Parma. In the meane feafon Moncada, atter hee bad endured the conflict a good white, being hit on the head with a Bullet, fell downe starke dead, and a great number of Spaniards allo were flaine in his company. The greater part of the refidue leaping ouer-boord into the See, to 40 faue them elues by wimming, were most of them drowned. Howber there escaped among others Den Anthonio de Mauriques, a principall efficer in the Spanish fleete (called by them their Veador Generall) together with a few Spaniar de befides : which Authorio was the first man that carried certaine newes of the fuccesse of their seete into Spaine. This huge & moustrous Galliaste, where-50000, duckets in were contained three hundred flaues to lug at the Oares, and four e hundred foul liers, was in the foace of three houres rifled in thesame place; and there was found amongst diners other commodities 10000 Duckets of the Spanish Kings treasure. At length when the flaues were released out of their fetters, the English men would have fet the faid ship on fire, which Monfieur Gourdon, the Gouernour of Caleis, for feare of the damage which might thereupon entire to the Towne and Hauen, would not permit them to doe, but draue them from thence with his 50

ling the 23. of

The Galliaffe

great Ordnance. Vpon the 29.0f July in the morning, the Spanift Fleete after the forelaid tumule, having arranged themselves agains into order, were, within light of Greveling, most brauely and furiously encountered by the English, where they once again got the winde of the Spaniards: who suffered themselves to be deprived of the commodity of the place in Caleis rode, and of the advantage of the winde neere ento Duckerk, rather then they would change their array, or separate their forces now comogned and writted together, standing onely upon their defence. And albeit there were many excellent and warlike fh ps in the English fleet, yet learle were there 22.or 23.2mong them all which matched 90.0f the Spany fhips in bignelle, or could conveniently affault them. Wherefore the English ships wing their prerogative of nimble flirrage, whereby they could 60 turne and wield themiclus with the winde which way they lifted, came oftentimes very neereypon the Spaniards, and charged them to fore, that now and then they were but a Pikes length at funder : and fo continually guing them one broad fide after another, they difpatched all their flos both great and small vpon them, pending one whole day from morning till night in that violent kinde of conflict, vittill tuch time as powder and bullets failed them. In regard of which want they thought it convenient not so puritie the Spannards any longer, because they had many great vantages of the English, namely for the extraordinary bigneffe of their ships, and also for that they were so neerely contoyned, and kept together in so good array, that they could by no meanes be fought withall one to one. The English thought therefore, that they had right well acquitted themselves, in chasing the Spaniards first from Caleis, and then from Dunkerk, and by that means to have hindered them from joyning with the Duke of Parma his forces, and getting the winde of them, to have driven them from their owne coafts.

The Spaniards that day fulfained great loffe and damage, having many of their ships shot thoto row and thorow, and they discharged likewise great store of Ordinance against the English; who indeede fultained fome hinderance, but not comparable to the S. aniards loffe; for they loft not any one thip or perion of account. For very diagent inquificion being made, the Englishmen all that time wherein the Spanish Nauie failed vpon, their Seas; are not found to have wanted above one hundreth of their people; abeit Sir F. Drakes thip was pierced with thot about forty times, and his very cabben was twife fhot thorow, and about the conclusion of the fight, the bed of a certaine to the Entille-Gentlemanlying weary thereupon, was taken quite from under him with the force of a Bullet. Likewile, as the Earle of Northumberland and Sit Charles Blunt were at dinner vpon a time, the Bullet of a Demi-culturing brake thorow the middelt of their Cabbin, touched their feete. and throoke downe two of the Handers by, with many fuch accidents befalling the English thips, which it were tedious to rehearfe. Whereupon it is most apparant, that G.d miraculously preferned the English Nation. For the Lord Admirall wrote vinto her Maietty, that in all humaine reason, and according to the judgement of all men (euery circumstance being duely considered) the Englishmen were not of any luch force, whereby they might, without a miracle, date once to approach within the fight of the Spanife Fleete: infomuch, that they freely afcribed all the honour of their victory vato God, who had confounded the enemy, and had brought his coun-fels to none effect. The same day the Spanish ships were so battered with English shot, that that very night and the Three Spanish day following, two or three of them funke right downe : and among the reft a certain great flip flips funke in of Bifeay, which Captaine Croffe allaulted, which perished even in the time of the conflict, so that 30 very few therein elcaped drowning; who reported that the Gouernors of the same thip flew one another your the occasion following : one of them which would have yeelded the ship was suddealy flame; the brother of the flame purty in reuenge of his death flew the murtherer, and in the meane while the thip funke. The fame night two Portugall galeons of the burthen of feuen or eight hundreth tune a peece; Two Galeons to wit Saint Philip and Saint Matthew, were fortaken of the Spanish Fleete, for they were fo torne taken and carwith thot, that the water entered into them on all files. In the Galeon of Saint Philip was Fran- ried into Zeland cis de Toleda, brother unto the Count de Argus, being Colonell oner two and thirty bands; befiles other Centlemen; who feeing their maft broken with flot, they shaped their course, as well as they could, for the coalt of Flanders: whither when they could not attaine, the principall 40 men in the flup committed them! lues to their skiffe, arrived at the next towne, which was Oftend; and the thip it felfe being left behinde with the refi ue of their company, was taken by the Villingers. In the other Galeon, called the Saine Massbew, was embarked Don Diego Pimentelli another Camp-mafter and Colonell of two and thirty bands, being brother vinto the Marquelle of Tammares, with many other Gentlemen and Captaines. Their thip was not very great, but exceeding flrong, for of a great number of Bullets which had batterd her . there were fearce twenty wherewith the was pierced or hure: her vpper worke was of force fifficient to beare off a Musket that : this thip was that thorow and pierced in the fight before Greneling : intomuch that the leakage of the water could not be stopped : whereupon the Dake of Medina fent his great skiffe vnto the Gouernour thereof, that he might faue himfelle and the principal persons, shat were 50 in his ship : which he, vpon a hault courage, refuted to doe : wherefore the Duke charged him to faile next voto himselfe; which the night following hee could not performe, by reason of the abundance of water which entered his ship on all sides; for the audiding, whereof, and so save his thip from finking he caused fitty men continually to I bour at the Pump though it were to small purpole. And feeing himfelfe thus forfaken and reparated from his Admirall, he endeuored what no could to attaine vnto the coast of Flanders; where being espied by foure or five men of war, which had their flation affigned them upon the same coast: he was admonished to yeeldehimselte vino them; which he refused to doe, was strongly assulted by them altogether, & his ship being pierced with many bullets, was brought into far worle case then before, & forty of his souldiers were flain. By which excremity he was enforced at length to yeelde himielfe vnto Peter Banderduefs 60 and other Captaine, which brought him and his ship into Zeland; and that other ship alfolast before mentioned : which both of them, immediatly after the greater and better part of their goods were valaden. funke right downe. For the memory of this exploit, the foresaid Captain Banderduels caufed a Banner of one of these shups to be set up in the great Church of Leiden in Holland, which is of to great a length, that being tailed to the very roofe, it trached downe to the ground.

Vuquuuq 2

Engliffe fhips

A fmal! thip caft awa. abe utBlankenAbout the same time another small ship being by necessity driven woon the coast of Flanders. 2bout Blankenberg, was cast away upon the lands, the people therein being faued. Thus Almighty God would have the Spaniards huge thips to be presented, not onely to the view of the English but also of the Zelanders; that at the fight of them they might acknowledge of what small ability they had beene to reflit fuch impregnable forces, had not God endued them with courage, proindence, and fortitude, yea, and fought for them in many places with his owne arme-The 29. of Iuly the Spanife fleete being encountered by the English (as is aforesaid) and Iving cloie together under their fighting failes, with a South-west winde failed past Dunkerk, the Enoctole together valuer their agating laites, with a South-west winde lailed past Dunkerk, the English with the spaniar difficulty fill following the chase. Or whom the day following, when the Spaniards had got Sea we see the spaniar dechase. uy & the pra- mome, they cut their maine failes, whereby they fufficiently declared that they meant no longer to the LAdmiral to fight , but to flie. For which cause the Lord Admirall of England dispatched the Lord Henry Segmer with his fquadron of small ships vnto the coast of Flanders, where, with the helpe of the Dutch thips, he might stop the Prince of Parma his passage, if perhaps he should attempt to issue forth with his army. And he himselfe in the meane space pursued the Spanish ficet vital the fea cond of August, because he thought they had let faile for Scotland. And albeit he followed them Powder & Bul- very neare, vet did he not affault them any more, for want of Powder and Bullets. But voon the lets preclaime fourth of August, the windcarthing, when as the Spaniards had spread all their failes, betaking themselves wholly to flight, & leaving Scotland on the left hand, trended toward Norman (wherepower & mer- by they I ficiently declared that their whole intent was to faue themselues by flight, attempting power of mental both delicital both de being vinwilling to participate that danger whereinto the Spaniards plunged themislues, and be-Th. En lifere. cause they wanted things necessary, and especially Powder and Shot, returned back, for Englands un home no leaving behinde them certaine Pinaffes onely, which they enjoyined to follow the Spaniards athe pursuit of loofe, and to abserve their course. And so it came to passe, that the fourth of August, with great danger and industry, the English arrived at Harmich; for they had beene toff d vp and downe with the 4.0t Aug. a mighty tempest for the space of two or three dayes together, which it is likely did great hure water the Spanift fleet, being (as I iam before) to marmed and battered. The English now going on shoare, provided themselves forth with of Victuals, Gunpowder, and other things expedient, victory.

The diffence-

The Spaniards feeing now that they wanted foure or fine thousand of their people, and having divers maimed and ficke persons, and likewife having loft ten or twelve of their principall ships, they confulted among themselves, what they were best to doe, being now escaped our of the hands of the English, because their victuals failed them in like fort, & they began also to want cables, cor lage, anker, masts, failes, and other naual furniture, and otterly despaired of the Duke of confult to faile Parma his affitance (who verily hoping & vndoubtedly expeding the return of the Spanifo fleet, round about was continually occupied about his great preparation, commanding abundance of ankers to be 40 Scotland & Ire- made, and other necessary furniture for a Nauy to be prouided) they thought it good at length, so taus, and to to return thoms. foone as the winde should serve them, to setch a compasse about Seosland and Ireland, and so to re-

that they might be ready at all affayes to entertaine the Spanish fleete, if it chanced any more to 10 re urne. Bu being afterward more certainely informed of the Spaniards course, they thought it beit to leave them vnto those bottlerous and vncouth Northren Seas, and not there to hunt

Horfes caft

For they well understood, that commandement was given thorowout all Scotland, that they should not have any succour or affiftance there. Neither yet could they in Norway supply their wants. Wherefore, hairing taken certaine Scottife and other fitherboats, they brought the men on boord their owne ships, to the end they might be their guides and Pilots. Fearing also least their fresh water should taile them, they cast all their horses and mules ouer-boord; and so touching no where vpon the coaft of Scotland, but being carried with a fresh gale betweene the Oreades and Faar-Isles, they proceeded farre North even vnto 61 degrees of latitude, being distant from any 50 land at the leaft 40.leagues. Here the Duke of Medina, Generall of the Fleet, commanded all his followers to shape their course for Bifcay : and he himselfe with twenty or five and twenty of his thips which were best projuided of fresh water and other necessaries, holding on his course over the maine Ocean, returned fafely home. The refidue of his ships being about torty in number, and committed vnto his Vice-admirall, fell neerer with the coast of Ireland, intending their course for Cape Clare, because they hoped there to get fresh water, and to refresh themselves on land. But after they were driven with many contrary windes, at length, voon the second of September, The hipwrack they were cast by a tempest arising from the South-west vpon diners parts of Ireland, where many of the parado of their thips perished. And amongst others, the ship of Michael de Oquendo, which was one of the great Galluffes : and two great thips of Venise alio, namely, la Ratta and Belanzara, with other 36 60 or 31 fhips more, which perifhed in fundry tempefts, together with most of the perions contai-

Likewise some of the Spanish ships were the second time carried with a strong West wind into the channell of England, whereof tome were taken by the English vpon their coast, and others by the men of Rochel vpon the coast of France.

Moreover, there arrived at Newhauen in Worm andy, being by tempest inforced so to doe, one of the tours great Galliaffes, whereby they found the ships with the Spanish women which followed Of 124 thinsof the Fleet at their letting forth. Two ships also were call away vpon the coast of Norway, one of the Sounish deer them being of a great burthen; howbeit all the persons in the laid great ship were saued; info- there returned much that of 134 thips, which fee taile out of Portugall, there returned home 53 onely, small and home but 53. great : namely of the foure Gallialies but one, and but one of the foure Gallies, Of the 91, great Gilleons and Hulkes there were milling 48, and 23, returned: of the Pataches and Zabraes 17. were miffing, and 18. returned home. In briefe, there were miffing 81. fhips, in which number were Galliales, Gallies Galeons, and other veffels both great and small. And amongst thee a. ships to remaining, those also are reckoned which returned home before they came into the English channell. Two Galeons of those which were returned, were by misfortune burnt as they rode in the haven; and fuch like mishaps and many other undergoe. Of 30000, persons which went in this expedition, there perilhed (according to the number and proportion of the ships) the greater and better part; and many of them which came home, by reason of the toiles& inconneniences which they furtained in this voiage, died not long after their arrivall. The Dake of Medina immediately D. of Medina voon his returne was depoted from his authority, commanded to his private house, and forbidden to repaire voto the Court; where he could hardly fatisfie or yield a reason voto his malicious enemies and backbiters. Many honorable personages and men of great renown deceased soone after their returne; as namely John Martines de Ricalde, with divers others, A great part also of the Spa- Ricaldes deaths

no wish Nobility and Gentry employed in this expedition perished either by fight, diseases, or drowring, before their arrivall; and among the rest Thomas Perent of Grandnell a Dutchman, being Earle of Cantebroi, and fon vnto Cardinali Grandnell his brother.

Voon the coait of Zeland Don Diego de Pimentell, brother voto the Marquesse de Tamnares. and kinfman vnto the Earle of Beneventum & Calna, and Colonell ouer 22. bands with many on ther in the fame thip was taken and detained as pritoner in Zeland.

Into England (as we faid before) Don Pedro de Valdez, a man of fingular experience, and greatly honoured in his country, was led captine, being accompanied with Don Vajques de Silna, Don Alonzo de Sayas, and others.

Likewise vpon the Scottish Westerne Isles of Lewis, and Ila, and about Cape Cantre vpon the 30 maine land, there were cast away certaine Spanif Ships, out of which were faued divers Cap-taines and Gentlemen, and almost foure hundred fouldiers, who for the most part, after their hipwracke, were brought vnto Edenborough in Scotland, and being miferably needy and naked, were there cloathed at the liberalitie of the King and the Merchants, and afterward were fecretly fhipped for Spaine; but the Scottifh Fleete wherein they paffed touching at Tar- Spaniards vitis mouth on the coast of Norfolke, were there stated for a time untill the Counsels pleasure was tied. knowne; who in regard of their manifold mileries, though they were enemies, winked at their paffage. Vpon the Irifo coast many of their Noblemen and Gentlemen were drowned; and divers slain by the barbarous and wilde Iril. Howbeit there was brought prisoner out of Ireland, Don Alon-AQ 30 de Lucon, Colonel of two and thirty bands, commonly called a Terza of Naples: together with Rodorigo de Laffo, and two others of the family of Cordona, who were committed vinto the cultody of Six Horatio Palanicini, that Monfieur de Teligny the fon of Monfieur de la None (who being taken in fight neere Antwerpe, was detained prisoner in the Castle of Turney) might be ransomed Souther general for them by way of exchange. To conclude, there was no famous nor worthy family in all Spain, loffe. which in this expedition loit not a fon, a brother, or a kinfman.

For the perpetuall memory of this matter, the Zelanders caufed new coine of Silver and Broffe New coines to be stamped: which on the one side contained the armes of Zeland, with this inscription; stamped for the to be stamped: which on the one had contained the armost perfect of certaine great ships, memory of the with thefe words; THESPANISH FLEET: and in the circumference about the fhips, IT CAME, WENT, AND WAS. Anno 1388. That is to fay, the Spanish fleet came, so went and was vanquished this yeere; for which, glory be given to God onely. Likewise they coined another kinde of mony; vpon the one fide whereof was repreferred a ship fleeing, and a ship finking : on the other fide, foure men making prayers and giving thankes vnto God vpon their knees; with this sentence : Man purposeth, God diposeth, 1588. Also, for the lasting memory of the same matter, they have stamped in Holland divers such coines, according to the custome of the ancient Romans. Also other coines were stamped with a Fleet slying with full faile, and inferibed ; Venit, Vidit , Fugit ; It came, faw, fled : others with the fired fhips, and the fleet in confusion, the word DVX FOEMINAFACTI.

While this wonderfull and puissant Natie was failing along the English coasts, and all men 60 did now plainly fee and heare that which before they would not be perfuaded of, all people The people of did now plainly tee and heare that which before they would not be pertwaced or, an people England and of thorowout England profitated themselnes with humble prayers and supplications with God: the mited probut especially the outlands (h Churches (who had greatest cause to feare, and against whom by uinces pray, name, the Spaniards had threatned most grienous torments) enjoyned to their people continual faft, and give failtings and supplications, that they might turne away Gods wrath and fury now imminent thankes valo Vuuuuuu 3

whon them for their fins : knowing right well, that prayer was the onely refuge against all enemies, calamities, and necessities, and that it was the onely solace and reliefe for mankinde, being visited with affliction and milery. Likewise such solemne daies of supplication were observed throughout the vnited Prouinces.

Alto a while after the Spanish Fleet was departed, there was in England, by the commandement of her Maiefty, and in the vnited Provinces, by the direction of the States, a folemne feftinall day publikely appointed, wherein all persons were enjoyned to refore vnto the Church, and there to render thankes and praifes vnto God; and the Preachers were commanded to exhort the people thereunto. The foresaid solemnity was observed upon the 19.0f November: which day was wholly fpent in Preaching, praying, giving thankes, with the accustomed solemnities of IQ

Bonfires, Singing, Ringing, and other wonted expressions of publike iov. Likewife, the Queenes Maielty her felfe, imitating the ancient Romans, rode into London in eriumph, in regard of her owne and her subjects glorious deliuerance. For being attended voon very folemnly by all the principall effaces and officers of her Realme, the was carried thorow her faid Citie of London in a triumphant chariot, and in robes of triumph, from her Palace vinto the Cathedrall Church of Saint Paul, out of the which the enfignes and colours of the vanquifhed Spaniards hung dilplaied. And all the Citizens of London in their Liveries flood on either fide the street, by their seuerall Companies, with their Ensignes and Banners : and the streets were hanged on both fides with Blew cloath, which, together with the forefaid Banners, yeelded a very trately and gallant prospect. Her Maiesty being entered into the Church, together with her 20 Cleroy and Nobles gaue thankes vnto God, and cauled a publike Sermon to be preached before her at Pauls Croffe; wherein none other argument was handled, but that praise, honour, and glory might be rendered vinto God, and that Gods name might be extolled by thankigining. And with her own Princely voyce the most Christianly exhorted the people to doe the fame : whereupon the people with a loud acclamation wished her a most long and happy life, to the confusion of her foes. The Lord Admirall had a pension assigned for his good seruice.

This publike toy was increased by Six Robert Sidney (now Earle of Leicester) who returning out of Scotland, related to her Maiestie the King of Scots faithfull friendship, and loue to her, and to the Religion. He had beene employed to the faid King, whiles the Spanish Fleet housered on the coast, to gratulate with him in the Queenes name, for his alacrity in the common cause, and to 30 obtains his promise of aide, if the Spaniards landed in Scotland; and to put him in minde how ambitiously the Spaniard fought to I wallow in all Britaine, viging the Pope to Excommunicate him fo to ftrip him of Scotland, and quit his fucceffion in England; to admonish him of the threats of Mendoza and the Popes Nuntio; that therefore he should be very wary of the Papists in Scotland. He answered concertedly, amongst other speeches, that be bepedfor no other benefit from the The Kings wife Spaniard, then that which Polyphemus had promifed Vlyffes, namely, that when the reft were denoured, be frould be fwallowed laft.

Thus the magnificent, huge, and mighty fleet of the Spaniards (which themselves tearmed in all places inuincible) fuch as failed not youn the Ocean Sea many hundreth yeeres before, in the veere 1 588. vanished into smoake; to the great confusion and discouragement of the authours 40 thereof. In regard of which her Maiesties happy successe all her neighbours and friends congratulated with her, and many Verses were penned to the honour of her Maiesty by learned men, whereof we will here annexe thole of Maiter Beza.

triumphall Ad (evenissimans Elizabetham Anglia Reginam Theodor. Bezg.

Epinitian or

S Trauerat innumeris H:spanus nauibus aquor, Regnis iuncturus sceptra Britanna suis. And all to joyne the Kingdome of that land Vnto the Kingdomes that he had in hand. Tanta buins, rogitas, qua motus causa? superbos Now if you aske what fet this King on fire. To practife warre when he of peace did treat. Impulit Ambitio, vexit Anaritia. Quam bene te ambitio mersit vanissima ventus? Et tumidos tumide, vos superastis aqua! Quam bene toims raptores orbis auaros, Haust inexhausti insta vorago maris! At tu,cui venti, cui totum militat aquor, Regina, ô mundi totius vna, decus, Sic regnare Deo perge, ambitione remota, Vs te Anglislongum Angles ipsa fruaris, Quam dilecta bonis, tam metuenda malis. The Came in English.

Pradiga sic opibus perge innare pios,

With so great rage as nothing could appeale, And with fuch ftrength as never feene before :

It was his Pride, and neuer quencht defire, To spoile that Ilads wealth, by peace made great: 50 His Pride which far about the heavens did iwel And his defire as vnfuffic'd as hell. But well have winds his proud blafts overblown And swelling waves alaid his swelling heart, Well hath the Sea with greedy gulfs vnknown, Denoured the denourer to his imart: And made his ships a pray vnto the fand, That meant to pray vpon anothers land. And now, O Queene, about all others bleft, For whom both winds &waves are preft to fight 62 So rule your owne, fo fuccour friends opprett, The Spanish Fleet did flote in narrow Seas, So rule your owne, so succour friends oppre And bed her ships against the English shore, (As farre from pride, as ready to doe right) That England you, you England long enioy,

No leffe your friends delight, then foes annoy;

CHAP. II. Packet of lyes, concerning the successe of the Catholike Army.

I have thought good to adde here the prime reports made by the Spaniards and their friends, touching the successe of their Armada, as they were printed in Spaine, and after published and sorned in England.

The true Relation of the successe of the Catholike Armie against their Enemies, by the Letters of the Post-master of Lograno of the fourth of September, and by Letters from Roan of the one and thirtieth of August, and by Letters from Paris of the Kings Embassadour there: wherein be declareth the imprisonment of Francis Drake, and other great Nobles of England, and how the Queene . Like live is in the Field with an Armie, and of a certaine Mutinie which was amongst the libelette ce.

is in the Field with an Armie, and of a certainte Midtine which was almong that A blind BalOueenes Armie, with the successe of the said Casholike Armie since they entred Indinates the in the Groyne, till they came on the Coast of England, with two Ballets * com- Homer for Apounded by Christouer Brano, a blind man of Cordona, Printed with licence by chillian con-

Gabriel Ramos Beiarano Printer.

He newes of England is confirmed bere, by a Letter of the Gouernour of Roan. Hee writeth bee By a Letter of He newes of England is confirmed were, by a Letter of the Comment of the English Ar Diego Peres, bath in his power the chiefe Pilot of Capitaine Drake, and that he knowed bear all the English Ar Diego Peres, bath in his power the chiefe Pest. 20 mie remained ouerthrowne, basing funke two and twentie Ships, and taken fortie, and imprifored Francis chiefe Post-Drake, baumg ginen them chase almost as high as Abspurge, and same many by the sword, and likewise master of Lofaith that there was found in Captaine Drakes Ship, a Peece of Ordnance of fine and twentie foot long, fecond of Sepwhich discharged a Shot of a hundreth weight at once made of purpose, with one onely Shot to sinke our tember, 1588. Spanish Admirall, and it pleased God, alshough shee was somewhat battered, yet was shee repaired againe. and oversbrew the English Armie.

He English baue loft abone fortis Ships in one encounter where they could not flye, which was in Copic of a Luxaten a Hauen in Scotland , to the which place , fince the departure of the Spanish Armies letter that tohn from Calleis, the English Armie followed , and supposing they went to take that Hanen, they got before Gamara wince 20 ours to defend the entrance : wee feeing them fo neare the English Fleet, and that they could not retire, at 21.0fAugust of they alwaies did when they pleafed to the Enghila Hamou, they fer upon them fo voltimeth that they funke the fame years twentie of their Ship; and they rooke twentin fix whole and found, and the rest feeing their destruction fied away with great leffe of men, and their Ships very much battered, and with this (they fay) the Spanish Armie tooke the Hauen where they are very well ledged, as every one affirmeth, and so the newes is here: I pray God gine them good successe: Wee understand by the Post come from Calleis, that in England it is forbidden open pane of death and losse of goods, that in bodie dee write news from thence to any place: which confirmeth the newes about.

Doe not write news of the Spanish Armie , because they are diners, and would gladly write the very Copie of a AD truth. Now by the newes which runneth from divers places, as Calleis, Deepe, and Holland, and Letter that presumptions from England and other places, it is holden for certaine that they fought with the English, Pèare de d'id and broken their heads, haning funke many of their Ships and taken others, and the rest which ther far, did write from and broken their beads, having funke many of their Joseps and tagen others, and to east which they for Roan the first were twentie feuen Ships, returned very much battered to the River of London, which are all those that of September could escape: There goeth with this Post another Post of lorge Seguin of Calleis, which faith that cera of the same taine Masters and Mariners of Zeland, did affirme to the Governours of Calleis, Mounsier de Gorden, yeere. that our Fleet is in a Hanen or Riner in Scotland, called Trifla, where they (ay there may ride two thou-(and Ships : this is that which commonly is current here.

Tnewes from London the thirtie fix of August, it is knowne for most certaine from persons of cre- Adule from 50 Bdue, that the Queens Admiral Generall was arrived in the River of London, with twentie fine fing Landon, which onely without his Admirall Ship, which was taken by our Admirall Saint John, and it is well knowne in dor of our So-England, that to hide the loffe of their Admiral Ship, they fay bee put bimfelfe in a smaller Ship the bet- ucreiene Lord ter to follow our Armie: and it is knowne for certaintie that be faued bimfelfe in a Boat when he lost his the King reli-Ship, That Drake for certaintse is taken or flame. The same is confirmed by the way of Holland, by dentin Paris a Pinnace of theirs. And from Austerland, that the Oncene commanded bypon paine of death, that no had from body (hould speake of ber Fleet, and that there was great forrow in those parts of England, and that the thence. Queene bad in the field that ie thou fand raw Souldiers , betwint Dover and Mirgate , and that the Catholikes understanding that all their Fleet was dispersed, moned a certaine Mutinie, which forced the By a Letter of Queene to got ber selfe into the Field, and for certaine it is knowne that there is not brought into Eng- the chiefe Post 60 land, neither Ship nor Boat of ours, more then the Ship of Don Pedro Valdez, and that our Fleet may mafter of Bur-eone into Scotland, and arrived in a Hanen called Trapena Euxaten. Fier that I bad written this, bere is arrined a Scottishman , which faith that all the spinish Fleet Ass arrived in Scotland, and that Scottishmen have taken Armes against the English.

to the French Embaffadour,

Relation of that which this day, the fifth of Sept. 1588.till three of the clock in the atternoon, knowne by the relations and aduice come to his Maiethie from the baspy Fleet, wherot is Generall the Duke of Medina, in the conqueft of

THat upon the thirtieth of July, without seeing any sayle of the Enemies in the Sea, her came to the Channell, fixe leagues from Plimouth : where understanding the Enemies were , bee 140 ha h passed till thered together and set in order all the Fleet: and sayling the first of August, there was discousred some Sayles of the Enemies, the which the second day were numbred to bee threescore Sayle, of which the Duke tooke the wind, and passed without any fight, although be presented the same to them, how ben they becan to shoot at the Rearward : but the Duke in the Galleon S. Martin, fet the Trop of his Ship against the biggest of the Enemies, the which being succoured by twentie others, fled away of this fight and first encounter, there was sunke three Galeasses, and foure mightie Galeons of the Queenes: there was burnt of ours by negligence of a Gunner, the Admirall of Oquendo, and the Enemies tooke the chiefe Shis of Don Pedro de Valdez, which being entangled with others under his charge : wai left without to Tackle, and so neere the Enemies, that shee could not be succoured by others.

With this, our Fleet feeing that the Enemy in enery point did flye from giving battell, they failed with Some salme weather, and the Enemies after them, Shooting alwayes at the Rearward, until the senenth. that our Fleet ancored in the Road of S. John, betwiet Calleis and Bollin, nine leagues from Dunkerk.

and the Enemies did the like, the neerest they could to England.

The night being approached the Enemies got up their Ankers to get wind, and not to suffer our Shoe to see out of the Road to Sea, because they had trimmed eight Ships of fire, which with the current of the water . Should have put themselves amongst our Ships to have burnt them. But my Lord the Duke, forelesing the danger presented them , with commandement that the Ships that were neerest should cut their Cables, and take up the others with a readine se uncredible : and with this the Enemies pretence was him. 30 dered, and fo got the Sea most branely and with good fortune, that if bee had not done it our Army foculd bane beene in an enill case, for in the very place where we left, there was hot off by them out of those fiers Ships, such Fires and other Engines , that were sufficient to burne the Sea , much more Ships which are made of Wood and Prich.

In this departure, the Captaine of the Galeaffes had a great mischance : for getting up her Anker, a Cable fell foule of her Helme, that thee could not follow the rest, which cansed one of her sides to be so bish that her Ordnance could not play, and fo twentie fine Pennaces came and battered ber, and with all this if the Mariners. Souldiers and Rowers that were in her bad not cast themselves into the Seast is holden for certaine, that Don Hugo de Moncada bad defended ber as be did untillfee came into Caffeis, where at the entrance thereof, he was killed of two (aliner floot, the people on floore defended the Galeaffe, and all 30 that was in ber, and delinered the fame to our Soneraigne Lord the Kings Miniflers.

At this time the Duke had a very franke wind, and the like had the Queenes Fleet; and to they both paffed by the fight of Dunkerke, informuch as they on Land buen the Gallion S. Martin, and others that went fighting with the English Army, and in this order they went till the twelfth.

Afterwards they write, that their came into Calleis a Ship, which faith, that the twelfth day they did fee the two Fleets together in fight : another which came afterwards, faid be had feene fome Ships footled and torne, and from them they threw out their bag gage which they famed in Boats, which aroneth they were Ships of the Enemies, for that our men bad no place to faue them felnes, nor there were none of them arrived into Flanders, which was their place of returne.

Ott of England was adulte ginen, that on the thirteenth arrived lifteene of the Queenes Ships, and they faid that the Galleon S.Martin, wherin my Lord the Duke is (whom Godpreserve) had encountred with Drake, and had grappled his Ship, and captined his Person, and other Noble Englishmen, and taken other fifteene Ships, beside others that were districted, and the Duke with his Fleet followed his way io Scotland, because the wind was not come about.

With these newes his Maiesty resteth very much contented, and cansed them to be sent to the Empresse, by the bands of Francisco Ydiaquez, bis Secretary of Estate.

Imprinted in Senill, in the Houle of Cofmo de Lara, Printer of Bookes, by licence of the Counte of Orgaz, Affiftant in Sewill.

CHAP. XII.

A Discourse of the Portugali Voyage, A. 1589. Sir I o H M NORRIS and Sir FRANCIS DRAKE Generalls, written (as is thought) by Colonell ANTONIE WINGFIELD, imployed in the fame Voyage, formerly published by his friend to whom it was written : and here abbreniated.

Auing determinately purposed to pur on this habite of a Souldier, I grew doubt- 60 full whether to employ my time in the warres of the Low-countries, which are in auxiliarie manner maintained by her Maiestie, or to follow the fortune of this voyage, which was an aduenture of her and many honourable personages, in reuenge of viniupportable wrongs offered vato the efface of our Country by the

Castilian King : in arguing whereof , I finde that by how much the Challenger is reputed before the Defendant, by fo much is the journey to bee preferred before thole defensive Warres. For had the Duke of Parma his turne beene to defend, as it was his good for une to inuade : from whence could have proceeded that glorious honour which these late warres have laid voon him, or what could have beene faid more of him, then of a Respondent (though never so valiant) in a private Duell ! Euen that he hath done no more then by his honour he was tied vnto. For the gaine of one Towne, or any small defeat grueth more renowme to the Affailant, then the defence of a Countrey, or the withstanding of twentie encounters, can yeeld any man who is bound by his place to guard the fame : whereof as well the particulars of our age, especially in the Spanier d, as the reports of former Hiltories may affure vs, which have fill layed the fame of all warres upon the Inuader. And doe not ours in these dayes live obscured in Flanders, either not having wherewithall to manage any warre, or not putting on Armes, but to defend themselves when the enemy shall procure them ! Whereas in this short time of our Adventure, we have won a Town by Escalade, battered and allaulted another, ouerthrowne a mightie Princes power in the hearfall of the Field, landed our Army in three feuerall places of his Kingdome, marched feuen dayes in the heart grelibexploirs of his Country, tyen three nights in the Suburbs of his principall Citie, beaten his forces into the in this voyage, Gates thereof, and poff-ffed two of his frontier Forts , as shall in discourse thereof more particularly appeare. But our Army, which hath not coft her Maiestie much aboue the third part of one yeeres expences in the Lew-countries, hath already fpoyled a great part of the prouision hee had made at the Graine of all torts, tor a new voyage into England; burnt three of his Ships, whereof one was the fecond in the last yeeres expedition, called S. Inan de Colorado; taken from him aboue 150, Peeces of good artillery; cut off more then 60. Hulkes, and 20, French Ships well manned fit and ready to lerue him for men of warre against vs , laden for his store with Corne , Victualls, Masts, Cables and other merchandizes ; slame and taken the principall men of Warre hee had in Galitia : made Don Pedro Euriques de Gusman, Conde de Fuentes, Generall of his forces in Portugall, shamefully run at Peniche; laid along of his best Commander in Lisbon; wherefore I directly conclude that this proceeding is the most fafe and necessary way to be held against him, and therefore more importing then the warre in the Low-countries. I doubt not but this voyage hath sufficiently madeknowne what they are even vpon their owne dunghill; which, had it bin fet out in fuch on fort as it was agreed upon by their first demand, it might have made our Nation the most glorious people of the world. For hath not the want of eight of the twelve Peeces of Artillery , which were promifed vnto the Aduenture, loft her Maie ity the poff. fion of the Groine and many other places, as hereafter shall appeare; whose defensible rampiers were greater then our battery (such asit was) cold force : and therefore were left vnattempted ! It was also resoluted to have sent 600, English Hories of the Low-countries, whereof wee had not one, notwithflanding the great charges expended in their transportation hither ; and that may the Army affembled at Puente da Burger thanke God or, as well as the forces of Portugall, who fore-ran vs fix dayes together : Did we not want leven of the thirteen old Companies, which we should have had from thence; foure of the ten Duteb Companies ; and fix of their men of Warre for the Sea, from the Hollanders: which I may juilly lay wee wanted, in that we might have had fo many good Souldiers, fo many good ships, and to many able bodies more then wee had? Did there not upon the first thinking of the journey, divers gallant Courtiers put in their names for Adventurers to the sum of 10000. li. who feeing it went forward in good earnest, aduited themselues better, and laid the want of to much money upon the journey Was there not moreouer a round fumme of the aduenture of no fmall moment : What milery the detracting of the time of our fetting out, which should have beene the first of February, did lay upon vs, too many can witnesse: and what extremitie the want of that months victualls which wee did eat, during the moneth wee lay at Plimouth for wind, might have driven vs vnto, no man can doubt of, that knoweth what men doe line by, had not God given vs in the end a more prosperous wind and shorter passage into Galitia then hath been often seene, where our owne force and fortune remictualled vs largely : of which croffe winds, that held vs two dayes after our going out, the Generalls being weary, thrust to Sea in the same, wifely chusing rather to attend the change thereof there, then by being in Harbour to lofe any part of the better, when it should come by having their men on shoare : in which two dayes twentie five of our Companies (hipped in part of the Fleet were feattered from vs , either not being able or willing to spent in leaving, furnishing, and maintaining three moneths one thousand fine hundred men for the feruice of Berghen, with which Companies the Mutinies of Oftend were suppressed, a feruice double Ulbant.

These burdens layed upon our Generalls before their going out, they have patiently endured, 60 and I thinke they have thereby much enlarged their honour : for nating done thus much with the rall Drake. want of our Artillery, 600. Horie, 3000. Foot, 20000. It of their adventure, and one moneths victualls of their proportion, what may be consectured they would have done with their full complement : For our instruction against them, who had almost seduced you from the true opinon edu ation and you hold or such men, you shall understand that Generall Norris from his booke was trained up comployments, in the warres of the Admirall of France, and in very young yeeres had charge of men under the Earle of Effex in Ireland : which with what commendations hee then discharged, I leave to the report of them who oblered those services. Vpon the breach betwirt Don John and the States. he was made Colonell Generall of all the English Forces there present, or to come, which he contimued two veeres : he was then made Marshall of the Field vinder Conte Hobenlo : and after that. Crantrall of the Army in Frifand: at his comming home in the time of Monfieurs government in Flanders, he was made Lord Prelident of Munster in Ireland, which he yet holdeth, from whence within one yeere hee was fent for, and fent Generall of the English Forces, which her Majeffie leat then to the Low-countries, which he held till the Earle of Leicesters going ouer. And he was made Matshall of the Field in England, the enemy being upon our Coast, and when it was expected the Crowne of England should have beene tried by battell. All which places of Command which never Englishman successfuely actained vnto in forraine warres, and the high places her Blajeftie hath thought him worthy of , may fuffice to perfwade you that hee was not altogether valikely to discharge that he vadertooke.

What fame Generall Drake hath gotten by his journey about the world, by his adventures to the West Indies, and the sources hee hath laid upon the Spanish Nation, I leave to the Sontherne parts to speake of. But to answere the reports, which have beene given out in repreach of the Actors and Action by fuch as were in the fame: let no man thinke otherwife, but the they, who fearing the caruall accidents of Warre had any purpose of returning, did first aduise of fom: occasion that should moue them thereunto ; and having found any what focuer did thinke it 20 full iently just, in respect of the earnest defire they had to seeke out matter that might colour their comming home.

Of these there were some, who having noted the late Flemilb wars, did find that many young men haue gone over and fafely returned Souldiers within few moneths. in having learned fome words of Art yied in the wars, and thought after that good example to fpend like time among it vs: which being expired they began to garrell at the great mortalize that was among t vs. The neglect of discipline in the Armie, for that men were suffered to bee drunke with the plantie of Wines. The fearlitie of Surgions. The want of carriages for the hurr and ticke : and the penury of victualls in the Campe: It hath beene proued by fluckt, examinations of our Muffers, that we were never in our fulnette before our going from Plimente 11000. Souldiers, nor aboue 2500. 30 Mariners. It is also evident that there returned about 6000, of all forts, as appeareth by the feperall paiments made to them fince our comming home. And I have truely thewed you that of thefe numbers very neere three thousand for looke the Armie at the Sea, whereof fome passed into France, and the rest returned home. So as wee never being 13000, in all, and having brought home about fix thousand with vs, you may see how the world hath beene seduced, in beleeuing that we have left 16000. men by ficknelle.

If at home in the eyes of your Indices, Majors, Preachers, and Mafters, and where they pay for enery pot they take, they cannot be kept from their liquor : doe they thinke that those base difordered persons whom themselves sent vnto vs, as living at home without rule, who hearing of Wine doe long for it as a daintie that their puries could never reach to an England, and having it 40 there without money eyen in their houses where they lie and hold their guard, can be kept from being drunke; and once drunke, held in any order or tune, except we had for every drunkard an Officer to attend him ! But who bee they that have run into these discreters ! Euen our newest men, our youngest men, and our idlest men, and for the most part our slouenly prest men, whom the luftices (who have alwayes thought vnworthily of any warre) have fent out as the four and dregs of the Countrey. And those were they, who diftempering themselves with their hot Wines, haue brought in that fickneffe, which hath infected honefter men then themfelues. But I hope, as in other places the recourry of the difease, doth acquaint their bodies with the ayre of the Countrey where they be, so the remainder of these which have either recourred, or past without ficknesse will proue most fit for Martiall services.

If we have wanted Surgeons, may not this rather be laid vpon the Captaines (who are to proui le for their seuerall Companies) then vpon the Generalls, whole care both been more generall. And how may it be thought that every Captaine, vpon whom moil of the charges of raiting their Companies was laid as an adventure, could provide themselves of all things expedient for a war, which was alwayes wont to be maintained by the purfe of the Prince. But admit enery Captain had his Surgeon : yet were the want of curing neuers beleffe : for our Enelas Surgeons (for the most part) bee vnexperienced in hurts that come by shot because England hath not knowne warres but of late, from whose ignorance proceeded this discomfore, which I hope will warne those that hereafter goe to the warres, to make preparation of such as may better preserve mens

From whence the want of carriages did proceed, you may conjecture in that wee marched through a Country neither plentifull of fuch provisions, nor willing to part from any thing yes this I can affure you, that no man of worth was left either hurt or nicke in any place voptomized for. And that the Generall commanded all the Mules and Affes, that were laden wire any bagpage to be upburdened and taken to that wie : and the Earle of Effer and he for mony hired men gage to be viscouter to sent tanether the Earle (whole true vertue and nobilitie, as it dothin all other his worthy his actions appeare, to did it very much in this) threw downe his owne stuffe, I means apparell Acts. and neoglisties which hee had there from his owne carriages, and letthem be left by the way to pat burgand ticke men your chem.

And the great complaint that these men make for want of victurils; may well proceed from their not knowing the wants of warre afor if to feed upon good Beeues, Muttons, and Goares, be to want , they have endured great francisie at Land , whereunto they never wanted two dayes . together wine to mixe which their water, nor bread to eat with them meat (in fome quantitie) ex-10 cept it were fuch as had vowedrather to flarue then so thir out of their places for food; of whom we have too many.

After hix dayers sayling from the Coast of England, and the fifth after we had the wind good, be. Our men land ing the sweatieth of Aprill in the eneming, we landed in a bay more the state English mile from the within a mile ing the twentieth of April in the eneming, we randed in any more enemalia any in the troit of the G one.

Groine, in our long Boats and Primaces without any impeachments from whence we preferrly the 10-01 April, the 10-01 April. marched toward the Towne, within one halfe mile weowere encounted by the enemy, who being charged by ours, retired into their gates. For that might our Armietay in the Villages, Houses, and Mils next adjoyning, and very neere round about the Towne, into the which the G leon named S. John (which was the second of the last yeeres Elect against England) one Hulke, two fmaller Ships, and two Gallies which were found in the Road, did beat vpon vs and vpon our 20 Companies as they palled too and tro that night and she next morning. General Norris having that morning before day viewed the Towne, found the fame defended on the Lind fide (for it francesh vpon the necks of an land) with a wall vpon a dry Dich's whereupon hee refolued to try in two places what might be done against it by Escalade, and in the meane time adulied for the landing of some Artillerie to be upon the Ships and Graties, that they might not annoy vs : which being but in execution, woon the planting of the first Peece the Gallies abandoned the Road, and berooke them to Ferell, not farre from thence : and the Armada being beaten with the Artillery and Musketers that were placed upon the next shoare, left her playing upon vs. The reft of the day was frent in preparing the Companies, and other proudions readie for the furprife of the bale Towne, which was effected in this fort.

There were appointed to bee landed 1200, men, wader the conduct of Coloriell Huntler, and Captaine Fewer the Vice-Admirall, on that fide nemetroncing weby, water in long Boates and Pinnaces, wherein worst placed many Perces of Artiflery to beat upon the Towns in their spproach : at the corner of the wall, which defended the other water file, were appointed Captain Richard Wong field, Lieutenant Colonell to Generall Noris, and Captaine Samplon, Lieutenant Colonell to Generall Drake, to enter at low water with fine hundred men it they found it piffable,but if not, to betake them to the Efentede, for they had also Ladders with them sat the other corner of the wall, which towned to that fide that was attempted by water, were appointed Colonell Umpton, and Colonell Bret, with three bundred men to enter by Efcalade. All the Companies which (hould enter by Boat being imbarked before the low water, and having given the 40 alarme, Gaptaine Wingfield and Captaine Sampfon betooke them to the Efculade, for they bad in commandement to chargeall at one instant. The Boats landed without any great difficultie : vet had they some men hurt in landing. Colonell Bret, and Colonell Fingten entred their quarter wichout encounter, not finding any defence made against them : for Captaine Hinder being one of them that entred by water, at his first entry, with some of his owne companie whom hee trusted well, betooke himselfe to that part of the wall, which hee cleered before that they offen red to enter, and so scoured the wall, till he came on the backe of them, who maintained the fight against Captaine Wingfield and Captaine Sampson; who were twice bearen from their Ladders, and found very good reliftance, till the enemies perceiving ours entred in two places at their backes, were driven to abandon the same. The reason why that place was longer defended then 50 the other, is (as Don Iuan de Luna , who commanded the fame affirmeth.) that the enemie that day had resolved in counsell how to make their defences, if they were approached : and therein concluded, that, if wee attempted it by water, it was not able to bee held, and therefore upon the discovery of our Boates, they of the high Towne should make a fignall by fire from thence, that all the low Towne might make their recreat thither : but they (whether troubled with the fudden terror we brought vpon them, or forgetting their decree) omitted the file, which made them guard that place till we were entred on every tide. Then the Towne being entred in three feuerall places with an huge cry, the Inhabitants betooke them to the high To a netwhich they might with leffe perill doe, for that ours being frangers there, knew not the way to cut them off. The rest that were not put to the sword in f. rie, 60 fled to the Rocks in the liand, others hid themselves in Chambers and Sellers, which were energy day found in great numbers. Amongst those Don luun de Luna, a man of very good commandement, having hidden himselfe in a houle, did the next morning yeeld himfelfe. There was also taken that night a Commissarie of victuals, called luan de Vera, who contested that there were in the Groine at our entrie fine hundred Souldiers, being in leven Companies, which returned very weake (as appeareth by the fmall numbers of them) from the sourney of England. The rest falling into the hands of the common Soundiers, bad their throats cut, to the number of fine hundred as I conjecture, first and last, after Intemperate wee had entred the Towne, and in the entry thereof there was found entrie Seller full of Wine. dishing cause whereon our men by inordinate drinking, both grew themselves for the present sensite of the danger of the flor of the Town, which hurt many of them being drunk, and tooke the field excund of their ficknesse; for of fugh was our first and chiefest mortalitie. There was also abundant store N wyovage to -of Victualls, Salty and all kind of prouision for shipping and the warre : which was confessed by Excland incn. the faid Committary of Violualls taken there, to be the beginning of a Magafin of all forth of prothe faid Computary or visitians taken that of the faid Computary or visitians taken the faid Computary or visitians taken that the faid Computary or visitians that the advantaged vs, and prejudiced the King of Spaine.

The next morning about eight of the clocke the enemies abandoned their Ships, And having ouercharched the Artillery of the Gallion, left her on fire, which burnt in terrible fort two dates Gallion burns, together, the fire and ouescharging of the Peeces being fo great, as of fiftie that were in her, there were not about fixteene taken out whole; the rest with ouercharge of the powder being broken and molten with heat of the fire, were taken out in broken pieces into divers Ships. The fame day was the Cloifter of the South fide of the Towne entred by vs, which joyned verie neere to the wall of the Town, out of the chambers and other places whereof we beat into the lame with our Musketiers.

The next day in the afternoone there came downe fome two thousand man, gathered together out of the Countrey, even to the gates of the Towne, as resolutely (led by what spirit I know 20 not) as though they would have entred the fame : but at the first defence made by ours that had the guard there, wherein were flaineabout eighteene of theirs, they tooke them to their heeles in the same disorder they made their approach, and with greater speed then ours were able to follow : notwithstanding wee followed after them more then a mile. The second day Colonell Huntler was fent into the Countrey with three or foure hundred men, who brought home very great Hore of Kine and Sheepe for our reliefe.

The third day in the night, the Generall had in purpole to take a long Municion-house builded voon their wall, opening towardes vs, which would have given great advantage against them; but they knowing the commodity thereof for ve, burnt it in the beginning of the enening; which put him to a new councell : for he had likewife brought fome Artillery to that fide of the Town. Dangerous fire During this time there happened a very great fire in the lower end of the Towne; which, had it not bin by the care of the Generals heedily feene voto and the fury thereof precented by pulling downe many houses which were most in danger, as next vnto them, had burnt all the prouisions we found there, to our wonderfull hinderance.

The fourth day, were planted under the guard of the Cloifters two Demy-canons, and two Coluerings against the Towne, defended or gabbioned with a crosse wall, thorow which our battery lay; the first and second tire whereof shooke all the wall down, so as all the Ordnance lay open to the Enemy, by reason wherof some of the Canoniers were shot and some slaine. The Lieutenant also of the Ordnance, M. Spencer, was flame fait by Sir Edward Norris, Mafter thereof: AO whose valour being accompanied with an honourable care of defending that trust committed vnto him, neuer left that place, till he receiued direction from the Generall his brother to cease the battery, which he presently did, leaving a guard vpon the same for that day; and in the night following made fo good defence for the place of the battery, as after there were very few or none anneyed therein. That day Captaine Goodwin had in commandement from the Generall, that when the affault should be given to the Towne, he should make a proffer of an Escalade on the other fide, where he held his guard : but he (mistaking the fignall that would have beene given) attempted the same long before the assault, and was shot in the mouth. The same day the Generall having planted his Ordnance ready to batter, canted the Towne to be summoned; in which summons they of the Towne shot at our Drum : immediately after that there was one hanged over 50 the wall, and a parle defired; wherein they gaue vs to vinderstand, that the man hanged was hee that shot at the Drum before : wherein they all intreated to have faire wars, with promise of the fame on their parts. The rest of the parle was spent in talking of Don Inan de Luna, and some other prisoners, and somewhat of the rendring of the Towne, but not much, for they listned not greatly thereunto.

Generall Norris having by his skilfull view of the Towne (which is almost all seated vpon 2 Vidermining. Rocke) found one place thereof mineable, did prefently fet workemen in hand withall; who after three daies labour (and the feuenth after we were entred the base Towne) had bedded their Powder, but indeed not farre enough into the wall. Against which time the breach made by the Canon being thought affaultable, and Companies appointed as well to enter the fame, as that which was expected should be blowne up by the Mine : namely, to that of the Canon, Captaine Richard Wingfield, and Captaine Philper, who led the Generalls Foot-company, with whom allo Captaine Torke went, whose principall commandement was over the Horse-men. And to that of the Mine, Captaine lobs Sampfon, and Captaine Anthony Wingfield Lieutenant Colonell to the Master

Matter of the Ordnauce, with certaine felected out of divers Regiments. All these Companies being in Armes, and the affault intended to be given in all places at an inflant, fire was put to the traine of the Mine; by reason the Powder brake out backwardes in a place where the Caue was made too high, there could be nothing done in either place for that day, During this time Captain Prouisions Hinder was lent with some chosen out of every Company into the Country for provisions, where breught in-

of he brought in good ftore, and returned without luffe. The next day Cap. Anthony Samplen was lent out with some fine hundred to fetch in ponisiona for the Army, who was encounted by them of the Country, but he put them to flight, and returned with good fo ale. The same night the Miners were fet to worke againe, who by the second To day after had wrought very well into the foundation of the wall. Against which time the Companies aforefaid being in readineffe for both places (Generalt Drake on the other fide, with two or three hundred men in Pinnaces, making proffer to attempt a firong Fort voon an lland before the Towns, where he left more then thirtis men) fire was given to the testine of the Mine, which blew up halfe the Tower under which the Powder was planted. The affailants having in charge you the effecting of the Mine prefently to give the affault, performed it accordingly; but too foone : for having entred the top of the besich the other halfr of the Tower, which with the first Towerfallets. force of the Powder was onely shaken and made loose, tell woon our men e vider which were buried about twentie or thirtie, then being under that part of the Tower. This fo amazed our men that flood in the breach, not knowing from whence that terror came, as they for looke their Commanders, and lett them among the ruines of the Muse. The two E ungues of Generall Drake and Ca praine Anthony Worg field were that in the breach, but their colours were refeued : the Generails by Captaine Sampfons Lieurenant, and Captaine Wingfields by himfelfe. Among ft them that the wail tell voon, was Cap. Sydenbam pittifully loft; who having three or foure great Rones voon his lower parts, was held to fait, as neither himfelfecould ftirre, nor any reasonable company recouer him. Not with standing the next day being found to be aline, there was sen or twelve loft in accempting to relieve him. The breach made by the Canon, was wonderfully well affaulted by them that had the charge thereof, who brought their men to the pull of the Pike at the top of the breach. And being readie to enter, the looie earth (which was indeede but the ribbilh of the walld) with 30 the weight of them that were thereon flipped outwarder from under their feet. Whereby did app: are halfe the wall subactived. For let no man thinks that Culterit of Demy-canon can fallficiently batter a defentible rambire : and of those Reeces which we had; the better of the Denay canons at the focond that brike in her carriages , to m the battery was of left force , being but of

three Peeces

In our recreat (which was from both breaches thorow a narrow lane) were many of our men hurt ; and Captaine Dolphin, who ferued very well that day, was hurt in the very breach. The failing of this attempt, in the opinion of all the beholders, and of fuch as were of the best judgement wis the fall of the Mine; which had doubtleffe faceeeded, the rather, because the approch was unlooked for by the enemy in that place, and therefore not fo much defence made there as in the other which made the Generall grow to a new refolution : for finding that two daies battery had fo little beaten their wall, and that he had no better preparation to batter withall : he knew in his experience, there was no good to be done that way; which I thinke he first put in proofe, to try if by that terror hee could get the upper Towne, having no other way to put it in hazzard to speedily, and which in my conscience had obtained the Towne, had not the defendants bin in as great peril of their lives by the displeasure of their King in giving it vp, as by the Bullet or Sword in defending the same, For that day before the affault, in the view of our Armie, they burne's Cloi-Her within the Town, and many other houses adjoying to the Castle, to make it more defenfible: whereby it appeared how little opinion themselves had of holding it against vs , had not God (who would not have vs fuddenly made proud) laied that misfortune spon vs.

The next day the Generall hearing by a prifoner that was brought in, that the Conde de An- cende de Ac-So drads had affembled an Armie of eight thousand at Puente de Burgos, fixe miles from thente in dradahis Ars the way to Pelance, which was but the beginning of an Armie : in that there was a greater leavy mic. ready to come thither under the Conde de Altomira, either in purpose to relieue the Groine; or to encampe themselves neere the place of our embarking, there to hinder the same; for to that purpole had the Marquelle of Straibs, written to them both the first night of our landing, as the Commiffary taken then conteffed, or at the leaft to ftop our further entrance into the Countrey, (for during this time, there were many incursions made of three or foure hundred at a time, who burnt, spoiled, and brought in victualls plentifully) the Generall, I say, hearing of this Armie, had in purpose the next day following to visite them, against whom hee carried but nine Regiments: in the Vantguard were the Regiment of Sir Roger Williams, Sir Edward Norrie, and Colonell Sadieg : in the Battaile, that of the Generall of Colonell Lane, and Colonell Medierte and in the Reareward, Sir Henry Norris, Colonell Huntley, and Colonell Brets Regiments; lealang the other five Regiments with Generall Drake, for the guard of the Cloiffer and Artifilery. About ten of the crocke the next day, being the fixe of May, halfe a mile from the Campe, or the social

20202-01

wee discourring the enemy Sir Edward Norris, who commanded the V aut guard in chiefe, appointed his Lieutenant Colorieli Captaine Anthony Wing field to command the thot of the fame, who dissided them into three troupes; the one he appointed to Captain Meddleton to be conducted in away on the left hand : another to Gaptain Erugton to take the way on the right hand, and the bodie of them (which were Mulquetiers) Captamo Wing field tooke himfelfe, keeping the direct way of the march. But the way taken by Captaine Middleton met a little before with the way held by Captaine Wingfield, fo as he giving the first charge vpon the enemy, was in the infant leconded by Captaine Wing field, who beat them from place to place (they having very good places of defence rand croffe Waltes which they might have held long) till they betooke them to their Brilge, which is over a creeke comming out of the Sea, builded of Stone vpon Ar. ches. On the foot of the further fide whereof, lay the Car pe of the enemy very firongly entrenched, who with our hochesten to the further end of the Bridge, Sir Edward Norris marchine in the point of the Pikes, without flay palled to the Bridge, accompanied with Colonell Sidner. Captaine Hunder, Captaine Falferd, and diners others, who found the way cleere over the fame. but through an incredible volley of thot; for that the thot of their Army flanked vpon both files of the Bridge, the further and whereof was parricaded with Barrella; but they who should have guarded the same, feeing the proud appropriate wer made, fortooket the defence of the barricade. where Sir Edward entred, and charging the first defendant with his Pike, with very earnest nelle in overthrufting, fell, and was grieuously hurt at she sword in the head , but was most honoursbly refcued by the Generall his brother, accompanied with Colonell Sidney, and some other 20 Gentlemen : Captaine Hinder also having his Caske shot off , bast fine wounds in the head and face at the fword : and Captaine Fulford was fnot in the left arme at the fame encounter : ver were they fo thorowly fesonded by the Generall, who thrust himselfe fo neere to rive encounragement to the attempt (which was of wonderfull difficultie) as their braueft men that defended that place being courredrowne, their whole Army fell prefently into rout, of whom our men had the chale three miles in foure fundry waies, which they betooke themfelues vato. There was taken the Scandard with the Kings Armes, and borne before the Generall. How many two thousand men (for of somany consisted our Vantguard) might kill in pirefute of foure sundry parties, fo many you may imagine fell before ye that day. And to make the number more great, our men having given over the execution, and returning to their flands a found many hidden in the 30 Vineyards and Hedges, which they dispatched. Also Colonell Members was feat with his Regiment three miles further to a Cloufter, which hee burnt and spoiled, wherein he found two hundred more, and put there to the fword. There were thank in this fight on our fide onely Captain Copper, and one private Souldier: Captaine Barton was also hurt voon the Bridge in the eye. But had you seene the strong barricades they had made on either side of the Bridge; and how strongly they lay encamped thereabouts, you would have thought it a rare refolution of ours to give to braue a charge vpon an Armie fo strongly lodged. After the fury of the execution, the Generall

The notable te de Burgos.

> fort to the enemy within the fame, who shot many times at vs as we marched out; but not once in our comming backe againg. The next day was fpent in shipping our Artillery landed for the battery, and of the rest taken at the Graine, which had it beene fuch as might have given ve any affirence of a better battery, or had there beene no other purpose of our journey but that, I thinke the Generall would have spent fome more time in the fiege of the place.

> fent the Vantguardone way, and the battell another, to burne and spoile; fo as you might have feene the Countrey more then three miles compalle on fire. There was found very good flore of Munition and victualis in the Campe, tome plate and rich apparell, which the betterfort left be- 40 hind; they were to hotly purfued. Our Sailers also landed in an Iland next adjoyning to our ships, where they burnt and spoiled all they found. Thus we returned to the Groine, bringing small com-

The two last nights, there were that vndertooke to fire the higher Towne in one place, where the honges were builded upon the wall by the water fide; but they within suspecting as much, 50 made to good defence against vs, as they prevented the fame. In our departure there was fire put into energe house of the low Towne, intomuch as I may fully fay, there was not one house left standing in the base Towne, or the Cloister.

The next day, being the eight of May, wee embarked our Asmie without losse of a man, Which (had wee not beaten the enemie at Puente de Burges) had beene impossible to have done.

After we had put from thence, we had the wind to contrarie, as we could not vodernine daies recouer the Barlings; in which passage on the thirteenth day the Earle of Esfex, and with him M. Walter Doneraum, his brother (a Gentleman of wonderfull great hope) Sir Reger Williams, Colonell Generall of the Footmen, Sir Philip Butler, who hath alwaies beene most inward with him, and Sir Edward Progfield , came into the Fleet. The Earle put off in the fame wind from 60 Falmouth, that wealeft Plimouth in, where he lay, because he would avoid the importunitie of Mellengers that were daily fent for his returne, and some other causes more secret to himselfe, not knowing (as it feemed) what place the Generals purposed to land in, had bin as far as Casia in Andalazia, and lay vp and downe about the South Cape, where her tooke fome Ships laten with Corne, and brought them wato the Fleet. Alfo in his returne from thence to meet with our Fleet, he fell with the Ilands of Bayon; and on that fide of the River which Cannas standeth voon,he, with Sir Roger Williams, and those Gentlemen that were with him went on shoare, with form men out of the Ship he was in , whom the enemy that held guard upon that Coaft, would not abide, but fled vo into the Countrey.

CHAP. 12. Portugall Voyage. Peniche taken. March and Fleet for Lisbon. 1921

The fixteenth day we landed at Peniche in Peringal, under the shot of the Castle, and about the They land at wafte in the water, more then a mile from the town, wherin many were in peril of drowning, by Perilete. real on the wind was great, and the Sea went high, which ouerthrew one Boat, wherein fine and twentie of Captaine Dolphins men perished. The enemy being fine Companies of Spaniards, vnof der the commandement of Conde do Fuenter, fallied out of the town against vs, and in our landing made their approach close by the water fide. But the Earle of Effex, with Sir Roger Williams, and his brother, basing landed fufficient number to make two troupes, left one to hold the way by the water fide, and led the other over the Sand-hills; which the enemy feeing, drew theirs likewife further into the Land; not, as we coniccured, to encounter vs, but indeed to make their speedie pallage away : notwithstanding they did it in such fort, as being charged by ours which were lent out Dy the Colonell generall under Captaine lack for, they flood the fame euen to the puth of the Pike : in which charge and at the path, Captaine Robert Pier was flaine. The enemy being fled further then we had reason to follow them, all our Companies were drawne to the Town; which being vofortified in any place, wee found undefended by any man against vs. And therefore the 20 Generall caused the Castle to bee summoned that night; which being abandoned by him that commanded it, a Portugall named Antonio de Aurid, being possessed thereof, defired but to be assured that Don Antonio was landed, whereupon he would deliver the fame; which he honeftly performed. There was taken out of the Cattle fome hundred Shot and Pikes, which Don Emanuel Prairie taken. furnished his Portugalls withall, and twentie Barrells of Powder: fo as possessing both the Town and the Caltle, we rested there one day; wherin some Friare and other poore men came vuto their new King, promiting in the name of their Countrey next adioyning, that within two dayes heeshould have a good supply of Herse and Foot for his affitance. That day wee remained there, the Generals company of horses were vnshipped. The Generalls there fully resolued, that the Armie should march ouer Land to Liben, wader They march 30 the conduct of Generall Norris; and that Generall Drake should meet him in the River thereof towards Listen with the Fleet; that there hould bee one Company of Foot left in guard of the Caftle, and fix in the Ships : also that the ficke and hurt should remaine there with prouisions for their cures. In this march Captaine Criffe the Prouelt Marshall caused one who (contrary to the Proclamation published at our arrivall in Persugal) had broken vp an house for pillage, to bee han- Good dice. ged, with the cause of his death woon his breast, in the place where the act was committed: which good example providently given in the beginning of our march, stufed the commandement to be more respectively regarded all the sourcey after, by them whom feare of punishment doth ouly hold within compasse. The Campe lodged that night at Lorings : the next day we had intelligence all the way, that the enemy had made head of Horse and Foot against vs at Tores Vedras. which wee thought they would have held : but comming thither the fecond day of our march, not two houres before our Vantgard came in, they left the Towns and Castle to the possession of Don Antenie. There began the greatest want we had of victuals, especially of bread, you a commandement Want of bicate given from the Generall, that no man (hould spoile the Country, or take any thing from any Pering all : which was more respectively observed, then I thinke would have bin in our owne Countrey, among to our owne friends and kindred but the Countrey (contrary to promife) wholly neg-Ic ded the prouition of victuals for vs, wherby we were driven for that time into a great fearlity. Which moved the Colonell Generall to call all the Colonells together , and with them to adule offe me better courle for our people : who thought it beft, frit to advertife the King what needto fitie we were in, before weihould of our felues alter the firft inftitution of abstinence. The Colonell generall, having acquainted the Generall herewith, with his very good allowance thereof, went to the King; who after some expostulations vied, tooke the more carefull order for our men, and after that our Armie was more plentifully relieved.

The third day we lodged our Armie in three fundry Villages, the one Battalion lying in Exact rama de los Canalleres, another in Exarama de Obifos, and the third in San S. baftian. Captain Tarke who commanded the Generalls Horse Company, in this march made trial of the valour of the Horsemen of the enemy; who by one of his Corporals charged with eight Horses thorow for tie of them, and himfelfe thorow more then two hundred, with fome fortie Horfes: who would ag bide him no longer then they could make way from him.

60 The next day we marched to Lores, and had divers Intelligences that the enemy would turry we there for the Cardinall had made publike promife to them of Lasbon, that he would fight with ws in that place, which he might have done advantageoutly ; for we had a Bridge to pulle ouer in the same place : but before our comming he diflodged, notwithflanding it appeared vinto vithat hee had in purpole to incampe there; for wee found the ground flaked out where their trenches

Earle of Effex

comes to

should have bin made; and their Horsemen with some few Shot shewed themselves youn an Hill at our comming into that Village; whom Sir Henry Norris (whose Regiment had the point of the Vanteard) thought to draw voto fome fight, and therefore marched without found of Drum. and tomewhat faiter then ordinary, thereby to get neere them before he were discovered for hee was hadowed from them by an Hill that was betweene him and them : but before he could draw his Companies any thing neere, they retired.

Generall Drakes Regiment that night, for the commoditie of good lodging, drew themselves into a Village, more then one English mile from thence, and neere the enemy : who not daring to doe any thing against vs in foure dayes before, tooke that occasion, and in the next morning fell downer pon that Regiment, crying, Vina el Rey Don Antonio, which was a generall falutation thorowall the Countrey as they came : whom our young Souldiers (though it were voon their guard, and before the watch were discharged) began to entertaine kindly, but having got within their guard, they fell to cut their throats : but the alarme being taken inwards, the Officers of the two next Companies, whose Captaines (Captain Sydnam and Captain Toung) were lately dead at the Grome, brought downe their Colours and Pikes voon them info refolute manner, as they prefently draue them to retire with loffe othey killed of ours at the first entrance fourteene, and

Some died with drinking Earle of Effex his attempt.

The next day we lodged at Aluelana within three miles of Lisben, where many of our Souldiers drinking in two places of standing waters by the way were poyfoned, and thereon prefently dved. Some doe thinke it came rather by eating of Hony, which they found in the houles plentifully. But whether it were by Water or by Hony, the poore men were poifoned. That night the Earle of Effex and Sir Roger Williams went out about eleven of the clocke with 1000, men to lie in ambufcade poere the Town, and having laied the fame very neere, fent fome to give the alarme voto the enemy; which was well performed by them that had the charge thereof, but the enemy refuled to like after them. to that the Earls returned as foone as it was light without doing any thing, though he had in purpole, and was ready to have given an honourable charge on them.

They come to

The act of May in the euening we came to the Suburbs of Liston: at the very entrance wherethe aburbs of of Sir Roger Williams calling Captaine Anthony Wing field with him, tooke thirtie Shot or thereabouts, and first icowred all the Streets till they came very neere the Towne : where they found none but old folkes and beggars, crying, Vins el Rey Don Antonio, and the houses shut vp : for they 30 had carried much of their wealth into the Towne, and had fired fome houses by the waterfide, full of Corne and other acoustions of victualls, leaft wer should be benefited thereby, but yet left behind shem great riches in many houses. The foure Regiments that had the vantguard that day, which were Colonell Designers, Six Edward Norry, Colonell Sidneys, and Generall Drakes (whom I name as they marched) the Colonell generall caused to hold guard in the neerest Streets of the Suburbs : the Battel and the Arrereward flood in Armes all the night in Field neere to Alcantara. Before morning Captaine Wingfield , by direction from the Colonell general! Sir Roger Williams, held guard with Sir Edward Norris his Regiment in three places very neere the Towne wall, and fo held the fame till the other Regiments came in the morning. About midnight they within the Towns burnt all their houses that stood upon their wall either within or without least we possel- 40 fing them, mighe thereby greatly have annoyed the Towne.

Hou es burnt

The next morning Sir Roger Williams attempted (but not without perill) to take a Church called S. Antonio, which toyned co the wall of the Towne, and would have been a very euill neighbor to the Towne : but the enemy having more easie entry into it then wee, gained it before vs. The relt of that morning was (pent in quartering the Battell and Arrereward in the Suburbs called Bona Vista, and in placing Musqueriers in houses, to from their Shot upon the wall, who from the same scowred the great Screets very dangerously. By this time our men being thorowly weary with our fixe dayes march, and the last nights

watch, were defirous of rest; whereof the enemy being aduertifed, about one or two of the clocke

fallied out of the Town, and made their approach in three feuerall Streets upon vs, but chiefly in 50 Colonell Brets quarter : who (as most of the Armie was) being at reft, with as much speed as he could, drew his men into Armes, and made head against them to thorowly, as himselfe was slain in the place, Captaine Carfes thor thorow the thigh, of which hurt hee died within foure dayes after, Captaine Carre flaine prefently, and Captaine Cane hurt (but not mortally) who were all of his Regiment. This ressance made as well here, as in other quarters where Colonell Lane and Their retrait, Colonell Medkerk commanded, put them to a sudden foule retreat ; infomuch, as the Earle of Effex had the chale of them enen to the gates of the high Town, wherin they left behind them mamy of their best Commanders : their troupe of Horsemen also came out, but being charged by Captain Torke, withdrew themselves againe. Many of them also left the streets, and betooke them to houses which they found open : for the Sergeant Maior Captain Wilfon flew in one house with 60 his owne hands three or foure, and caused them that were with him to kill many others. Their loffe I can affure you did triple ours, as well in qualitie as in quantitie.

During our march to this place. Generall Drake with the whole Fleet was come into Cafesia, and policified the Town without any refutance : many of the Inhabitants at their discourry of our Name, fled with their baggage into the Mountaines, and left the Towne for any man that would posses it, till Generali Drake lent unto them by a Portngall Pilot which he had on boord, to of- ken ter them all peaceable kindneffe, fo farre forth as they would accept of their King, and minister necessaries to the Armie he had brought; which offer they joyfully imbraced, and presently sent two chiefe men of their Town, to figuifie their loyaltie to Don Antonio, & their honeft affections to our people. Whereupon the Generall landed his Companies not farre from the Cloifter called San Domingo, but not without perill of the shot of the Castle, which being guarded with fixtie fine Spannards, held flill against him.

As our Fleet were cashing anker when they came first into that Road, there was a small ship of Brafil that came from thence, which bare with them, and feemed by ftriking her failes, as though the would also have ancred ; but taking her fittest occasion hossed againe, and would have passed vo the River, but the Generall presently discerning her purpose, sent out a Pinnaceor two after her, which forced her in fuch forc, as the ran her felte when the Rocks : all the men escaped out of her, and the lading (being many chefts of Sugar) was made nothing worth, by the Salt water. In his going thither alfo, he tooke Ships of the Port of Portsgall, which were lent from thence, with Ships taken. fifteene other from Pedro Vermendes Xantes Sergeant Major of the fame place, laden with men and victualls to Lieben: the rest that escaped put inco detined. 1

CHAP.12.

The next day it pleafed Generall Nerres to call all the Colonels cogether, and to admie with them, whether it were more expedient to tarry there to attend the forces of the Portugall Horse 20 and Foot, whereof the King had made promite, and to march tome concenient number ter Cafe as to fetch our Artillery and Munition which was all at purships lauing that which for the necessisty of the service was brought along with vs.whereunto, some carried away with the vaine hope of Don Antonio, that the most part of the Town stood follows, held it best to make our abode there; Consultation and to fend fome three thousand of our Artillery : promusing to themselves, that the Enemy being well beaten the day before, would make no more fallies : fome others (whose unbeliefe was very firong of any hope from the Portugal) perswaded rather to march wholly away, then to be any longer carried away with the opinion of things, whereof there was fo little appearance. The Generall, not willing to leave any occasion of blot to be laid vpon him for his speedie going from thence, nor to lose any more time by attending the hope of Don Antonio; told them, that though 30 the expedition of Paragad were not the onely purpole of their iburney, but an aductorare there in (which if it fucceeded properously might make them suspensely rick, and wonderful boooserble) and that they had done fo much alreade in triall thereof, as what end focuer happened could not hing impaire their credits: yet in regard of the Kings laft promise, that hee should have that night there chouldnot arend the sound on the regard of the Kings laft promise, that hee should have the right there chouldnot arred men of his owne Country, he would not for that night disloge, The King of Portugall (whether carried away with imagination, by the advertisements he receiued tron the Portugatio, or willing by any promife to being fuch an Armie into his Country, thereby to the sortune once more in trial) affired the Generall, that you his first landing there would be a revolt of his Subjects. After two nights staying at Lisbon , the King , as you have heard promised a supply of three 40 thousand Foot, and some Horse; but all his appointments being expired, even to the last of a night, all his Horse could not make a Cornet of fortie, nor his Foot furnish two Enfignes fully, although promises they carried three or four colours : and these were altogether such as thought to inrich themsclues by the ruine of their neighbours : for they committed more diforders in every place where we came by spoile, then any of our owne. The Generall, as you fee, having done more then before his comming out of England was required by the King, and given credite to his many promifes, even to the breach of the lait, he defifted not to perswade him to stay yet nine daies longer: in which time hee might have engaged himselfe further, then with any honor he could come out off againe, by attempting a Town tortified, wherein were more men armed against vs, then we had to oppugne them withall, our Artil-50 lery and Municion being fitteene miles from vs , and our men then declining; for there was the first show of any great ficknelle amongst them. Whereby it seemeth, that either his Prelacie did much abuse him in perswading him to hopes, whereof after two or three daies hee law no semblance : or heelike a illy louer, who promifeth himselfe fauour by importuning a coy mistrefle, thought by our long being before his Towne, that in the end taking pittie on him they would ket him in. What end the Friers had by following him with fuch deuttion I know not, but fire I am, the Laitie did respite their homage till they might see which way the victorie might sway; fearing to shew themselves apparantly vnto him, least the Spaniard should after our departure (if we premiled not) call them to account : yet fent they underhand meffages to him of obedience, thereby to faue their owne, if he became King; but indeed very well contented to fee the Spania 60 ards and vs crie by blowes who should carry away the Crowne. For they be of sobate a mould, 2000 as they can very well fubicet themselves to any gouernment, where they may imelize from blowes, and have libertie to become rich, being loth to indure hazzard either of life or goods. For durft they have put on any minds thorowly to revolt, they had three wonderfull great occasions offered them during our being there, &c.

Xxxxxxx 3

The riches that they might haue

. The most morning, feeing no performance of promife kept, the Generall gaue order for one marching away phimfelfe, the Earle of Effex, and Sir Roger Williams remaining with the fland that was made in the high threet, cill the whole Armie was drawne into the Field, and fo marched out of the Powing, appointing Captaine Richard Wong field, and Captaine Anthony Winfield in the Arrere ward of them with the thoe; thinking that the enemy (as it was most likely) would haue island our vaon our riling; but they were otherwise aduled. When we were come into the Field, eneric Battalion tell into that order which by courfe appertained vnto them, and fo marcied that night vinto Cascais. Had wee marched thorow his Countrey as enemies, our Souldiers had beene well supplied in all their wants: but had wet made enemies of the Suburbs of Libenwee had beene the richeft Armie that ever went out of England : for besides the particular to wealth of enery house, there were many Ware-houses by the water fide full of all forts of rich group to dis-in our march that day the Gallies which had some what, but not much appoyed vs at Liston (for that our way lay along the River Jerenied ve till we were past S. I ulians , bestowing many fhor amongst vs, but did no harme as ally fatiling that they strooke off a Gentlemans leg, and killed the Sergeant Majors Moile vinder him. The Horiemental fo followed vs afarre off, and cut off as many ficke men as were not able to hold in march, nor we had carriage for.

After we had beene two daies at Cofods, wee had intelligenceby a Friar, that the enemy was marching frongly towards us; and then came as farre as S. Inhan : which newes was fo welcome to the Farle of Effer and the Generalie; in they offered every one of them to gue the Mellenger 20 an hundred Crownes if the ground them in the place & for the Generall defining mothing more then to fight with themm held toome; difpatched that night a Mellenger with a Trumpet, by English to dight whom there wit a Cartell to the Generall of their Armie, wherein he gaue them the lie, in that it was by this met ported that weed dislodged from Lisbon in disorder and feare of them (which indeed mai min't falle) for that it was fine of the clocke in the morning before wee fell into Armes, and then year in dich fore, as they had no courage to follow out your vs. Alfo he challenged him thereing to meet him the next morning with his whole Armie, if hee durit attend his comming, and there comey out the infraeffe of their quarrell by battell; by whom also the Earle of Ellex (who preferring the hanoumof the taute, which was his Countries, before his owne fafetie) fent a particular Carrell, offering himfelfo against any of theire, if they had any of his qualitie; or if they 30 would libradmit of thet; fix dight, orten or as many as they would appoint, should meet so mamy of theirs in the heart of our batted toite their fortunes with them; and that they should have affurance of their returne and honourable intreatie,

Feare of the

The Ortherall accordingly made all his Armie readie; by three of the clocke in the morning, and matched even to the place where they had encamped, but they were diflodged in the night in great dilbrder, being taken with a fudden feare that we had been come your them as the Generall was the next day certainely informed . To as the Trumpet followed them to Lisbon , but could not get other answere to either of his Letters, but threatning to bee hanged; for daring to being fuch a mediage. Howbeit the General had confed to be written when the backfide of their Palpose, that if they did offer any violence voto the Mellengers, he would hand the best prifoners 40 he had of clients whichimade them to adulte better of the matter, and to returne them home; but withousanfwerdamade and

After our Armie came to Cafeais, and the Cafle faminioned, the Caffelian thereof granted, that you five or fix that of the Canon he would deliver the fame, but not without fight thereof. The General chinking that his diffreste within had been such for want of men or victuals, as he could not hold it many dayer ; because hee faw it otherwise defensible enough, determined rather to make him weeld to that necelline, then to bring the Canon, and therefore onely fet a guard upon the lame, least any supply of those things which hee wanted should bee brought vnto them. But hee fill flanding vponthele conditions, the Generallabout two dayes before hee determined to goe to Sea; brought chree or foure Peeces of battery ageinst it t voon the frit rire whereof he fur- 50 rendered; and compounded to goe away with his bageage and Armes thee had one Canon, two Culturings; one Battliske, and three or four other Field Peeces, threefcore and fine Scoldiers, very good fore of Municion ; and victualls enough in the Cafele; infemuch as hee might have held the fame longer then the Generali had in purpose to turry there. One company of Footmen was put into the goard fliereof, till the Artillery was taken out, and our Armie imbarked; which without having that fort, we could not without great perill have done. When we were readie to let faile (one halfe of the Fost being by order from the Generall blowne vp by mine) the company was drawne away.

During the time we lay in the Road, our Fleet began the second of June, and secont mued fix dayes after to fetch unfome Hulks to the number of threelcore, of Danik, Stetin, Roflock, Luocch 60 and Hamburgh, laden with Spanish goods, and as it feethed for the Kings provision, and going to Liber : their principall lading was Corne, Matts, Cables, Copper, and Waxe : among it which were some of great burthen wonderfull well builded for failing, which had no great lading in them, and therefore it was thought they were brought for the Kings promision, to reinforce his decaied Name; whereof there was the greater likelihood, in that the owner of the greatest of them which carried two milnes, was knowne to be very inward with the Cardinall, who rather Cardinall Althen he would be taken with his ships, committed himselfe vnto his small Boate, wherein he bert after marrecouered Saint Sebastians: into the which our men, that before were in flie-boates, were ried to the Inrecovered Saint Sebajtiant: into the which our men, that before were in included, with fanta and Rushinged, and the Flie-boates fent home with an offer of Corne, to the value of their hire. But fer of the Surthe winde being good for them for Rochel, they chose rather to loofe their Corne then the winde, n & Portot the and fo departed. The General alfo fent his Horfes with them, and from thence shipped them Low Countries. into England.

The third of June, Colonell Denereux, and Colonell Sidney, being both very ficke, departed for To England, who in the whole Journey had fliewed themselves very forward to all feruices, and in their departure very vinwilling to lease vs: that day we embarked all our Army, but lay in the road votill the eight thereof.

CHAP. II.

The fixt day, the Earle of Effex, your receit of Letters from her Maiefty, by them that brought in the victuals, prefently departed towards England, with whom Sir Roger Williams was very defirous to goe, but found the Generals very vowilling he footld do fo, in that he bare the next place vnto them, and if they should miscarry, was to command the Army. And the same day there came vnto vstwo imall Barkes, that brought tidings of some other thips come out of England with victuals, which were passed vowards to the Cape : for meeting with whom, the second day after we fet faile for that place, in purpose after our meeting with them to goe with the Iles of 20 Azores, the second day, which was the ninth, we met with them comming backe against owards vs, whose promision little answered our expectation. Notwithstanding we resolved to continue our courie for the Ilands.

About this time wanthe Marchant Royall, with three or foure other thips, fent to Pemche, to fetch away the commanios that vecrelete there; but Captain Barton having received Letters from the Generals that were forit overland, was departed before, not being able by reason of the enemies speedy marching thirther, either to being a way the artillery, or all his men, according to the edirection chald letters gandling; for he was no fooner gone, then the the my possessed the Towne and Caftle, and thorat our thips as they came into the road.

At this gime allo was the Ambifador from the Emperor of Margin entled Reys Hames Ben- Margaret Fra 36 cafamp, return; d, and with him M. Ciprian, a Gentleman of good place and defert, who fent from balladour.

Don Austrus and Captains On flor from the Generals to the Emperour.

The next meaning the nigo Gallicown left were lent not fine dairs before out of Andalus, in for the fireng thening of the Runr of Luben which being royard with the other twelie that were there before, though we lay hard by three at Same lalians, durk never make any attempt against vs) vpon our departure from theirce where texturning home, and in the morning being a very dead calme, in the dawning thereof, felt in the winde of our lett; in the vtrermoft part whereof they affailed one fungling Barkenf Planmouth, of the which Captaine Cauerley being Captaine of the land company, with his Lientenant, the Maiter, and fome of the Marriners, abandoned the fhip, and betooke them to the hip-boats, whereof one, in which the Mafter and the Captaine were, was outerradewith the Gallies, and they drowned. There were also two Hulkes stragled far from the firengels of che other (hips which were fo calmed, as neither they could get to vs. nor we to them, though all the great thips towed with their Bouts to have relieved them, but could not be recourred; in one of which was Captaine Minfhon with his company; who fought with them to the laft, yea after his flup was on fire, which whither it was fired by himselfe or by them we could not well different, but might eafily judge by his tong and good fight, that the enemy could not but fullain much lofter who letting also voon one other Hulke wherein was but a Lieutenant, and he very ficke, wereby the valour of the Lieuxenant put off, although they had first beaten her with their artillery, and attempted to boord her. And feeing also one other Hulke a league off, a fterne of vs, they made towards her : but finding that the made ready to fight with them; they durit not further attempt her : whereby it feemed, their loffe being great in the other fights, they were loath to proceede any further.

From Mar day milthe nineteenth of lune, our direction from the Generall was, that if the winde were Northerly, we should plie for the Azores; but if Southerly, for the Hes of Bayon. We lay with contrary windes about that place and the Rocke, till the Southerly winde preuai- Espon. ling catried vs to Bajon: among whom was Sir Henry Norris in the Ayde; who had a purpole (if the Admirals had not come in) with fome 500, men out of them all to have landed, and attempted the taking of Vigo. The rest of the fleet held with generall Drake, who though he were two dayes before put vpon those llands, cast off sgaine to Sea for the Azores: but remembring how vaprouided he was for that journey, and feeing that he had loft company of his great ships, so returned for Bayon, and came in there that night in the cuening, where hee paffed up the River more then a mile about Vigo. The next morning weelanded as many as were able to fight, which were not in the whole aboue two thousand men (for in the senenteene dayes we continued on board wee had caft

I COS

CHAP. 13. Callis taken by the Cardinall. Causes of the Voyage to Cadiz.

1027

Vice taken.

many of our men ouer-board) with which number the Colonell generall marched to the Towne of Vigo, neere the which when hee approached, he fent Captaine Anthony Winefield with a troups of that to enter one fide of the fame, who found vpon every itreates end a firone barricade, but altogether abandoned; for having entred the Towne, he found but one man therein but might lee them making way before him to Bayon. On the other fide the Towne entreu Generali Drake with Captaine Richard Wingfield, whole approach on that fide (I thinke) made them leave the places they had to artificially made for defence: there were also certains thins fent with the Vice-admirall to lye close before the Towne, to beate voon the fame with their artillerv.

In the afternoone were fent three hundred under the conduct of Captaine Petuin and Captain IQ Henry Poure, to burne another Village betwixt that and Bayon, called Borlis, and as much of the Countrie as the day would give them leave to doe; which was a very pleasant rich Valley; but they burnt it all, houses and come, as did others on the other fide of the Town, both that and the next day, fo as the Countrey was spoiled seuen or eight miles in length. There was found greet flore of Wine in the Town, but not any thing elfe : for the other dates warning of the thins that came first in gaue them a respit to carry all away.

The next morning by breake of the day the Colonell generall (who in the absence of the Generals that were on boord their fhips, commanded that night on shoare) caused all our Companies to be drawne out of the Towne, and fent in two troupes to put fire in every house of the fame: which done, we imbarked againe. This day there were certaine Mariners which 20 (without any direction) put themielues on thoure, on the contrary fide of the River from vs

The fame day the Generals feeing what weake effate our Army was drawne into by fickness determined to man and victuall twenty of the best ships for the Hands of Azeres, with General Drake, to fee if he could meete with the Indian Fleet, and Generall Merris to returne home with the reft : And for the flutting of men and victuals accordingly, purposes the next morning to fall downe to the Hands of Bayon againe, and to remaine there that day. But Generall Drake, according to their appointment, being under faile neuer ftrooke at the llands, but put ftraight to Sea : whom all the Fleet tollowed fauing three and thirty, which being in the River further then he, and at the entrance of the same, finding the winde and tide too hard against them, were inforced to cast ancre there for that night; amongst whom, by good forcune, was the Foresight, and inher Sir Edward Norris. And the night following, Generall Norris being driven from the rest of the Fleet by a great florme (for all that day was the greatest storme we had all the time we were out) came againe into the Hands, but not without great perill, he being forced to turft to a Spanish Fisher-mail (who was taken two dayes before at Sea) to bring him in.

The next morning he called a counfell of as many as he found there, holding the purpose her had concluded with Sir Francis Drake the day before, and directed all their courtes for England. tarrying there all that day to water and helpe such with victuall, as were left in wonderfull die fireffe by having the victuals that came laft, carried away the day before to Sea.

The next day he fet faile, and he tenth day after, which was the fecond of July came into 40 to Plumouth. Plumouth, where he found Sir Francis Drake and all the Queenes thips, with many of the others but not all : for the Fleete was dispersed into other harbours, some led by a delire of returning from whence they came, and some being possessed of the hulkes, sought other Ports from their Generals eye, where they might make their private commoditie of them, as they have done to their great advantage: Pretently upon their arrivall there, the Generals diffolised all thearmiefaums eight companies which are yet held together, ginng every Souldier fine fhillings in money, and the armes he bare to make money of, which was more then could by any meanes be due vnto them : for they were not in feruice three moneths, in which time they had their vie chuals, which no man will value at leffe then halfe their pay, for such is the allowance in her Maiefties thips to her Mariners, so as there remained but ten thillings a moneth to be paid, for which there was not any private man but had apparell and furniture to his owne vie, to as cuery common Souldier discharged, received more in money, victuals, apparell, and furniture, then his pay did amount voto.

CHAP.

CHAP. XIII.

Abriefe and true report of the Honorable Voyage unto Cadiz, 1 596. of the overthrow of the Kings Fleete, and of the winning of the Citie, with other accidents, cathered out of METERANYS, Mafter HACKLVYT * and others.

Feer that Callis had beene taken by Cardinali Albert, Archduke of Austria, which the large re-Fier that Callis had beene taken by Cardinali Albert, Archduke or Austria, William port of this afterwards by Papall dispensation married the Lady Isabella Engenia Clara Infan-Voyage with ta, who yet gouerneth the Belgians which acknowledge the Spaniard, Queene ten byone em-Elizabeth thought it fitter to inuade the Spaniard at home, then to expect his ploied therin forces here. The faid Cardinall (and Archduke of Anfria) had planted his vnex- out of which I toroes nere: The mid Cardinan (and Archduke of America) had pranted in which have raken pected fiedge before Caller, and begun his vinwelcome battery on Wednesday the that which fer-

17.06 April 1 coo. and the Towne defired truce for foure and twenty hours, which was rejected, ued our purwhereupon they yeelded themselves presently vpon condition of life and goods faued, and fixe pole. dayes truce to be giuen chem, with liberty either to flay in the Citie, or to goe to the Caffle; and if the King of Nanare (Henry the fourth, the Freuch King) did not in that space relieue them, they were to veelde the Caftle. Most of them betooke themselves to the Caftle, and left their empty houses to the Conquerours. The night before the truce expired, they began to shoot at the Spaniards, who had now made fo fatall preparations, that the next day, Aprill 24, before noone they had beaten downe the wals and ensered, the Gonernour of the Towne and diversothers being flaine. Queene Elizabeth meane while had prepared aide, and the Souldiers and Ships at Leigh in Effex, were detained by the windes, which then were Easterly, and instead of carrying the English thither, brought hither the servible thunders of the Spanib Ordnance; infomuch, that I have heard that they shooke the loofer glaffe out of the windowes in Doner and filled the shoares of Effex & Kent with the hideous reports of Calis her vnanoidable mine. And thus in fo fhort time the Cardinall won that ancient Port, by Strabe called limm, by Psolomer Gefforiacum (as Meteranus collecteth) which had cost 30 the English eleven moneths fiedge, before they, under Edward the third, tooke it, An. 1346. They held it 202, yeers at which time Francis Duke of Ginfe, in the wnhappy dates of Queen Mary, and by reason of her valuekie towning with the Spaniards in their warres against the Franch, recourredit in a few dayes valooked for battery to the French, and therewith tooke " not that Towne "O. Mer faid alone, but the loy of life allo from that vinfortunate Queene; both which feeming difafters were before her alone, but the loy of the allo from that vanorunate openie; one which terming what is the price of Englands faire purchales; both gaine and liberty in the dipfering of that Spa. disthibution with the concentration of the space Agrichriftian Papall Milts, which was a (moake from the bottomlesse pit to them which recei- finde calls in uedit, and a fire to them which refused it of what degree soever: and in that as throwes of a herheart. grieuous trauell they brought forth a Virgin, both Truth to the Church, and Queene to the State; 40 the one a fruitfull Mother to the foules, the other to the wealth, honour, domesticke peace, forraine victories, and Nausli glorie of the English Nation. This renowned Queene, eight and thirty yeeres after, viable to alter that decree of the windes which now fremed themselves, and forced Calis, to become Spanish; would try their windy fidelity in another expedition; and prepared a ftrong Fleet to inuade the Spanife coaft: The charge whereof the committed to the Lord Rabers Earle of Effex, and the Lord Charles Howard Lord high Admirall of England, who came vnto Plymmouth (about the beginning of May 1596.) being there accompanied with divers other no-

for the expecting of some other ships, which were to come from divers places of the Realme, and Before their departure from Plymmouth, it pleased their Lordships to publish in Print, and make knowne to all the world, especially to such as it concerned, and that both in the Latine, French, Dutch, English, and Spanish tongue, what were the true, luft, and vrgent causes. that at this time prouoked her Maiestie to vndertake the preparing and setting ferth of this fo great a Nauie, namely the King of Spaines preparations against her, who had before whiles hee 60 treated of peace, Anno 1588, prepared to inuade her coast, and now also to that purpose daily encrealed his Nauie. If therefore any should furnish the Spaniard with munition and provisions, they should expect what force could doe; for all others of what source Nation they admired them to tortake the Spanift and Portugall Ports, or to loyne with the English for their owne fecurity.

they having no quarrell in this defigne but against the Spaniard.

ble Peeres, as the Earle of Suffex, the Lord Thomas Howard, the Lord Herbers, the Lord Warden Sir

Walter Raleigh: the Lord Marfhall Sie Francis Vere: the Lord Burk, Don Christopher yong Prince of Portugal, yong Count Lodowick of Naffaw, and the Admirall of the Hollanders, Sir John Vander-

this most honorable Action ; It pleased them, there to make their aboade for the time of that moneth, aswell for the new furnishing and renictualing of her Maiesties Royall Nauie; as also to ford: belides many other most worthy Knights and Gentlemen of great worth attending woon

* M. Harbbeit had published

Thus then, all things being in a very good order and well appointed, the most holy name of our Omnipotent God being most religiously and decountly called vpont, and his blested and Go cred Communion being divers times most reverently and publikely celebrated : being furnished with one hundred and aftie good faile of thips, or thereabout . In the name of the most bigh and everliving God: the first day of June they embarked themselves, weighed Ancre, and hoysed an fule, and put to Sea onward their journey from the Sownds of Plymment, to fliew her Maie-the streligious intendments in this exploit. I have thought good to adde here a Prayer made by Mostome of all our bearts conceits, and in them feeft the true originals of all our actions intended.

then that by thy forefight deeft stucky discerne, how no malice of remenge, nor quattance of interior, nor defire of blondbed, nor greedine fe of incre bath bred the refolution of our new fee out Army, but a beadefull care, and wary watch, that no neglect of foes, nor oner-furetie of harme might breede ei-

Of Omniposent maker and guide of all our worlds maffe, that enely fearchest and fadomest the IQ her felte (as was reported) and vied, as it was fitted, for that deligne.

our company; but they were both of them very honogably and well vied by the Lords Generall. and for after a few dayes tarrying, were peaceably fent away, after that they had conferred with them about facis matters, as was thought good in their honorable wifedomes. The twelfth of the Hamburgers fame moneth, Sir Richard Luifon Knight, affilted with Sir Christopher Blunt, fought with three taken. Hamburgers, and in that fight flew two of them, and hurt eleven, and in the end brought them

CHAR. 12. Arrivall at Cadiz. Opportunitie neglected. The Spanish Fleete. 1929

all three in-

The next day after, Sir Richard Weston meeting with a Flomming, who refused to vaile his foretop, with the like good courage and resolution, attempted to bring him in. The fight continued very hot betweene them, for a good space : in the end, the Swan, wherein the faid Sir Richard to wear, mad her forebeake altrooken off : and having spent before in fight the one fide of her tire of Ordnance, while the prepared to cast about, and to bestow on him the other fide, in the means time the Elemming taking his opportunitie, did get almost halfe a league from him: and so for thattime made his escape. And yet the next day after, the faid Fleuming being in a manner got to the very mouth of the River up to Lisbons, was taken, and brought in by Malter Dorrell, being Captaine of the Lobn and Prairies of London.

The 13. 14. and 156 dayes, cortaine little stragling Carauels were taken by certaine of the Fleete; and in one of them ayong beggerly Fryer vetesly valearned, with a great packet of Let- Leiters taken

The 38-day early in the morning we tooke an Irishman, and he came directly from Cadic, has histogramiately 20 using beene there but the day before at twelue of the clocke at high noone. This man being exallegence, mined, told truely that there was now great flore of thipping at Cade, and with them eightteene or nineteene Galhes in a readinelle, and that among those ships there were ditters of the Kitigs beit: and namely, that the Philip of Spaintwas amongst them, but what their intene was her could not tell. This man was commanded alfo to give his attendance. The 20. of lune, being Stinday; wee came before Cadi z, very early in the morning, and in all this time as yet, the whole Nauic had not loft either by fickness or by any other manner of water fix men to my knowledge.

Thus then I fay, being all imgood plight and fivong the so. of fune we came to Cadre, and there cadre. very early in the morning preferred our refues before the Towner, riding about a league or fome- Some which go thing lefte, from it. The Sea at that intant were manualous high, and the winds was exceeding proteff maclarge. Notwithstanding, a Goomiell being called, our Lords Generall forthwith attempted with tall to. wil ag targe. 1400 Well fide of the Touries Companies of their men at the Well fide of the Touries, by landing in first au capeuntan Buars, lighe horfemen, Einneces, & Barger made for the purpole, but could not compafe it and in the actempting thereof, they chanced to linke one of the Barges, wath fome foure the weather fore good fouldiers well appointed in her, and yet by good hap and great care, the men were all ferued; but the frore good toutsiers wen appointed for they were constrained to put off sheir landing till another fund outer faued excepting night. And therefore they were constrained to put off sheir landing till another day and other more conucnient time. Pretences for a morning very timely, there lighted a very faire Done vpon the maine yard of the Lord a million of Admirals ship, and there she fac very quietly for the space of three or foure houres. And as at our weakh. 40 very first comming to Castic chis chanced, fo likewife on the very lift day of our departing from Doues lighting the faid Towne, another Doue presented her selfe in the selfe same order into the same thip, and presently grew wonderfall tame and familiar to vs all, and did fo ftill keepe vs company cuen till our arruall here in England. We no fooner presented our selues, but presently a goodly fort of tall Spanish Ships came our of the mouth of the Bay of Cadre, the Gallies accompanying them in such good or ker, and to placed as all of them might well (uccour each other, and therewithall kept themselves very close to their Towne, the Caftle, and the Forts, for their better guard and defence, abiding there ftill; and expecting our further decermination. All that day passed, being very rough and boisterous, and liethe or nothing could be done, more then that about the evening there passed fome friendly and kinde falurations fent one from the other in warlike manner, by discharging centhine great

On monday morning being the 21.day, the winde and weather being become moderate and favourable, betweene five and its of the checke in the morning, our ships an the name, of the Almighter Gad, and in defence of the honeur of England, without any further delay, with all speed, courage and alacritie, did fee v pon the Spanish thips, being then wider faile, and making one of The Spanish the mouth of the Bay of Cadee, up toward Puente de Sunge on Granade inde, being in number 19. Fleete, tall thing, with 19.00 so. Gallier attending upon them forced in fixely good order, and restamble diflance as they might fill annoy vs, and alwaies relieue themselves interchange abit, a bausing lakewife the Cattle, Forts, and Towne, continually to affect them and theirs, and alwaye tready to play to vpon vs and ours, see the second value of a second In most mensopinous it feemed that the enemy lind a wonderfull aduntage of vs. all circumflances being well weng ted, but effect ship the straight nesse of the place, and the natural forme and fituation of the Bay infelie, being rightly confidered. For albeit the very Bay it lelfe is very tage and exceeding behavifull, to that from (whe to Port S. May, is some fix of lessen English ther danger to us, or glory to them : thefe being the grounds wherewith thou doest enfine the minde, we humble befeech thee with bended knees, proper the worke, and with best forewindes guide the iowines. freede the wiltory, and make the returne the advancement of thy glory, the triumph of their fame, and furety to the Realme, with the least loffe of the English blond. To these denont petitions Lord gine thou the bleffed grante The ninth of the same moneth comming something neere to the North Cape, in a manner in the fame altitude, or not much differing, which was about 43 degrees, and fomething more, yet bearing fo, as it was impossible to be descried from the land. There it pleased the Lords to call a fele Councell, which was alwaies done by hanging out of a Flagge of the Armes of England.

and shooting off a great warning peece. Of this telect or privile Counsell, were no moe then thefe: The two Lords Generall, the Lord Thomas Howard, the Lord Ward in Six Walter Raleiob. the Lord Marthall Sir Francis Pere, Su George Cary Matter of the Ordnance, Sir Coniers Clifford. and Sir Anthony Albler, Clarke of the faid Counfell. And when it pleafed the Lords Generall to call a common Counfell (as oftentimes they did vpon weighty matters best knowns to their honours) then they would cause another kinds of Flag to be hanged out, which was the red Cross of S. George, and was very easie to be discerned from the other that appertained onely to the feled Counfell, and fo often as this Flag of S. George was hanged out, then came all the Mafters and Captaines of all the ships, whose opinions were to be demanded, in such matters as apperrained voto the faid felca Counfell : It was prefently concluded that our course in failing should forthwith be altered, and that we should beare more into the West, for some purposes to them best knowne.

At that initiant many Letters of infructions were addressed and fent to every particular Master and Captaine of the Ships : What the contents of those Letters of instructions were, it was not as yet knowne vinto any, neither was it held meete to be enquired or knowne of any of vs. But vinder the titles and superscriptions of euery mans particuler Letter these words were en- 40 dorfed. Open not thefe Letters on paine of your lines, valeffe wee chance to be feattered by tempest, and in that case open them, and execute the contents thereof : but if by mishap you fall into your enemies hand, then in any case cast them into the Sea, sealed as they are. It should feeme that these Letters did contains in them the principall place and meaning of this entended action, which was hitherto by their deepe forefights kept to fecret, as no man to my knowledge ei her did or could fo much as suspect it, more then themselves, who had the onely mamaging thereof.

All this while, our fhips, God be thanked, kept in a most excellent good order, being denided into fine foundrons : that is to fay, The Harle of Effer, the Lord Admirall, the Lord Thomas Howard, the Lord Warden Sir Walter Raleigh, and the Admirall of the Hollanders. All which yo iquadrons, albeit they did every day separate themselves of purpose; by the distance of certains leagues, as well to looke out for fuch thips as were happily under faile, as also for the better procoring of Sea-roome : yet alwayes commonly either that day, or the next day, toward evening, they came all together, with friendly falutations and gratulations one to another: which they tearme by the name of Hayling : a ceremonie done folemnly, and in very good order, with found of Trumpets and notic of cheerefull voyces: and in such fore performed as was no small encouragement one to the other, befide a true report of all fuch accidents as had happened in their fquadrons.

Hitherto as I faid, our iourney was most profperous, and all our thips in very got d plight, more then that the Afary Rofe, by some mischance, either sprang or spent her forevard, and two dayes 63 after Sir Robert Croffe had in a manner the like mischance.

Now being thus betweene the North Cape, and Cape S. Fineent, and yet keeping such a course Flemming take a loofe, that by no meanes, those from the shoare might be able to descrie vs : The teach of lone, and dismitted, a French Barke, and a Flemming comming from the coall of Barbaris were brought in by fome of miles ouer or there abouts, yet be there many rockes, shelues, fands, and shallowes in it. fo there the very channell and place for lea roome, is not about two or three miles, yea, and in tome places not to much, for the thips of any great burthen to make way in, but that they must either be fee on ground, or elfe constrained to run foule one on another. All this notwithstanding, with great and intinciple courage, the Lords generall prefently fer vpon them, and forting out fome fuch convenient thips, as to their honorable wisedomes seemed fictest for that times service, they were driven to take some other course then before had beene by them entended, Wherefore voon a graue consultation had by a select counsed, they concluded that the Vice-admirall, the Lord Thomas Howard, in the Non Pareille for that time, and the Reare Admirall Sir Walter Release in the Warfpicht, allociated with Sir Francis Vere the Lord Marshall in the Rainbow, Sir Gange Can In ry Mafter of the Ordnance, in the Mary Rose, Sir Robert Southwell in the Lyon; having with them fome of the Ships of Landon, and some of the Dutch squadron of reasonable burthen, should lead the dance, and give the oniet, and that the two most noble Lords generall with some others of their companies, should in their convenient time and order, second the maine battelli. The fishe being begun and growne very hot, the Lord generall the Earle of Effex, being on Port Saint Man er fide, vpon a fudden and volooked for of others, thrust himfelfe among the formost into the mainebattell. The other most honorable Lord generall vinderstanding the most noble Earle to be in fight among them, and perceiving by the Mafter of his thip, the A keroyall, that for lacke of water, it was not possible, that he might put any neerer, wathout further delay, called presently for his Pinnace, and in the same Pinnace put himselfe, and his honorable son Lord William How- 20 ard about the Honor de la mer, & there remained in the fight till the battell was ended. The fight was very teirible on all fines, and to continued doubtfull cill about one or two of the clocke in the afternoone : about which time the Philip, whom in very truth, they had all most fancie voto be-

The fight be-

twist the two

Ficeres.

Enz'ifh.

mediatly hereupon, the refidue of the thips ran themielues on ground as far from vs as they could. thereby purchased their owne satetie, or rather breathing spice for the time. Of themail, two faire ships onely were boonled and taken by our men with most part of their furniture in them, 20 the one called S. Mathew, a thip by estimation of some twelve hundred tun, and the other S. Anforcedtopreach drew, being a thip of not much leffer burthers, The Gallies, feeing this fodaine great victorious operthrow . made all the halfo they could soward the Bridge called Puente de Suace . and there throwded themselves in such fort as our ships could not by any meanes possible come nigh them The Spanib thips in all were fifty nine, and as I faid, all tall thips, and very richly furnished gan to yeelde and give over, her men that remained alive flufting for themfelues as they were able. and fwimming and running alhoure with all the hafte that they could possibly, and therewithall, at the very fame inflant themselves fired their ship, and so less ther, and pretently thereupon a great Argofie, with another mighty great fhip, fired themselues in the like manner, Im-

and well appointed, whereof some of them were bound for the Indies, and other traighted and furnished for Lasbon, as themselves affirme : and had we not come that very time that we did, wee had certainly mist of them all.

Of what great wealth and riches the feships were, that I leave to other mens judgement and se report, but fure I am, that themselves offered two millions and a halfe of ducats for the redemption of the goods and riches that were in them : which offer of theirs, albeit it was accepted of the Lords generall, and should have beene received, yet we were defeated of it, as hereafter shall be more at large declared.

. In all this cruell terrible fight, there were not either flaine or hurt by any manner of meanes many above the number of 100 of our men; notwithstanding divers of our ships were many times shot thorow and thorow; yea and some of them no lesse then two and twenty times, as I was enformed by credible report of the Captaines and Masters themselves, I know not of any other hurt done . fauing onely that Sir Robert Southwell, who alwayes thewed himfelfe a most valiant resolve knight in all this action, making a little too much hafte with his Pinnace to board 50 the Philip, had there his faid Pinnace burne with the Philip at the same instant, and yet by good care and diligence his men were faued. One other milchance happed thus : One of the Flemmings Flie-boats, who had in all the conflict before, carried her felfe very well and valiantly, about ten of Flormill milthe clocke while the fight continued tharpest, chanced by great negligence and misfortune, to be fired and blown up by his owne powder, who could not have any fewer in him, then one hundred fighting men by all tuppofall, and so in the very twinkling of an eye, both thip and men were all cast away, excepting tenen grieight, which by very good fortune, and great care and diligence of fome of the other throstwere faned.

Immediately upon this notable victory, without any further flav in all the world, the Lord generall the Earle of Effer put to shore, & landed about 3000 shot and pikemen of the which number the one halfe was presently dispatched to the bridge Puente de Susge, under the conduct of Sie Christopher Blum, Sir Coniers Clifford, and Sir Thomas Gerard: with the other halfe, being 2bour fireene hundred, the most noble Earle of Esex himselfe, being accompanied with divers other honorable Lords, namely the Earle of Saffer, the Lord Harbers, the Lord Bark, Count LodeCHAP.14. Cadiz entred by the English. L. Admirals Age honorable by Acts.

nick of Nassam, the Lord Marshall Sir Francis Vere, with all expedition possible marched on sooce toward the towne of Cadiz, which was about three English miles march. That time of the day was very hot and faint and the way was all of dry deepe fliding fand in a manner, and befide that. Bad way, very vieuen, and by that meanes fo tirefome and painfull as might be. The enemie having reafonable companie both of horle and footemen, stood in a readinesse some good distance without the towne to welcome vs, and to encounter the Lord Generall. But the most famous Earle with his valiant Troopes, rather running indeede in good order, then marching, haftened on them with fuch yntpeakeable courage and celeritie, as within one houres space and leffe, the horsemen were all discomfitted and put to flight, their leader being throoken downe at the very first encounter; to whereat the footemen being wonderfully difmajed and aftonished at the vnexpected manner of the Englishmens kinde of fuch fierce and resolute fight, retyred themselues with all the speede possible that they could, to recouer themselves into the Towne againe. Which being done by them, with farre swifter legges then manly courage, our men were enforced to scale the wals : which thing in very deede, although it was not without great danger and difficultie to be performed : yet such was the muincible resolution, and the wonderfull dexteritie of the English, that in one halfe houre or thereabout, the enemy was repulfed, and the towne wall possessed, by the no- The Enelish ble Earle himselfe, being in all this action, either the very first man, or else in a manner joined enterthe tweether

The Town wals being then poffessed, and the English Ensigne being there displaied vpon them, to with all speede possible they proceeded on to march through the Towne, making still their way with fword and that so well as they could, being still fought withall at everie turne. The noble Earle was feconded by the noble Lord Admirall in person, who was accompanied with the noble Lord Thomas Howard, the most worthy Gentleman his Sonne (after Lord Howard) Sir Robert Southwell. Six Richard Lenifon, and with divers other Gentlemen, his Lordships followers of good account: his Colours being advanced by that valiant refolute Gentleman, Sir Edward Hobby Knight. And thus he like wife marching with all possible speede on foote, notwithstanding his * I bauebia L. many yeeres *, the intolerable heate for the time, and the ouertring tedious deepe fands, with told by some of other many impediments: Yet in good time, loyned himselfe with the Earle and his companies, and gaue them the itrongest, and best assistance that he could.

Thus then the two Lords Generall with their companies being joined together, and proceeding fo farre as the market place, there they were horly encountered, where and at what time, that worthy famous Knight Sir lobs Winkfield, being fore wounded before on the thigh, at the howass Novers very entring of the Towne, and yet for all that no white respecting himselfe, being carried away old, or between with the care he had to encourage and direct his Company, was with the shot of a Musket in the that and 70. head most vafortunately slaine.

And thus before eight of the clocke that night were these two most noble Lords General, Ma. 1624. crowned And thus before eight of the clocke that night were there two morthodie Longs General, may with filter flers of the market place, the forts, and the whole Towne and all, onely the Caftle as yet holding hires and golout, and from time to time as they could, stil annoying them with seuen battering peeces. By this dentaies of time night began to grow on, and a kinde of peace or intermission was obtained by them of the Ca- glorious a de. 40 file : to whom the Lords Generall had fignified, that voleffe before the next day in the morning The Gafile they would absolutely render themselves, they should looke for no mercie, but should every one delivered. be put to the fivord: vpon which meffage they tooke deliberation that night: but in the morning before breake of day they hanged out their flag of truce, and so without any further composition did yeelde themselues absolutely to their mercie, and deliuered vp the Castle.

And yet notwithflanding all this, in the night time while they had this respite to pause and deliberate about the peacemaking, there were divers great and sodaine alarms given : which did breede some great outrages and disorder in the Towne. At every which alaram, the two Lords Generall shewed themselves marueilous ready and forward.

These things being done, and this surrender being made, present Proclamation was publish-50 ed, that the fury now being past, all men should surcease from all manner of bloud and cruell dealing, and that there should no kinde of violence or hard viage be offered to any, either man, woman, or childe, vpon paine of death : permitting the spoyle of so much of the Towne as was by them thought meete, to the common fouldiers for fome certaine daies. This honorable and merciful Edict I am fure was freightly and religiously observed of the English: but how well it was kept by the Dutch, I will neither affirme, nor yet denie. For I perceiue betweene them and the Spaniards there is an implacable hartburning, and therefore as soone as the Datch squadron was espied in the fight, immediately thereupon both they of Smil and Saint Lucar, and also some of fome other places did not onely arrest all such Dutch thips, as dealt with them triendly by the way of trafficke and merchandise, and so conflicated their goods, but also imprisoned the Mer-60 chants and owners of the same, and as the report goeth, did intreat many of them with extreame

In the meane while, the very next day, being the two and twentie day of Iune, all the Spanish Spanish Ere fhips which were left on ground in the Bay of Cadez, where the great cuerthrow had beene their flips. but the day before, were by the Spaniards themselves there set on fire, and so from that time great worth action, that they heard the Lord Admirall who yet hucch

The English

forward they never left burning of them, till every one of them, goods and all, as far as we know were burnt and confumed. This their doing was much maruelled at of vs. Not long after the fame time (three dayes as I remember) the gallies that were run on ground, did quit themselves alio out of that place, and by the Bridge of the Hand called Puente de Suaço, made their way round about the same Iland, and so by putting themselves to the maine Sea, escaped to a towne called Rotte, not farre off, but something vp towards the towne of Saint Lucars, and there purchased their fatety by that meanes. Thus was this notable victory, as well by Sca as by Land, both begun and in effect performed, within the compasse, in a manner, of foureteene houres : a thing in truth fo strange and admirable, as in my judgement will rather be wondred at then beleeved of nosteritie. And if ever any notable exploit in any age was comparable to Cafars Veni, Vidi, Vici, certainly in my poore opinion it was this.

10 2

The Towns of it felte was a very beautifull towne, and a large, as being the chiefe See of the Bishop there, and having a good Cathedrall Church in it, with a right goodly Abbey, a Nunnery, and an exceeding fine Colledge of the Jefutes, and was by natural lituation, as also by very good fortification, very firong, and tenable enough in all mens opinions of the better judgement. Their building was all of a kinde of hard stone, even from the very foundation to the top, and every house was in a manner a kinde of a Fort or Cattle, altogether flat-roofed in the top, after the Turhilb manner, to that many men together, and that at cale, might walke thereon: having voon the house top, great heapes of weighty thones piled vp in fich good order, as they were ready to be throwne downe by every woman most castily upon such as passed by, and the streetes for the most part fo exceeding narrow(I think to avoide the intollerable great heat of the Sun) as but two men or three at the most together, can in any reasonable fort march thorow them, no streete being broader commonly then I suppose Watlingstreete in London to be. The towne is altogether without slaffe, excepting the Churches, yet with faire comely windowes, and with faire grates of Iron to them, and have very large folding leaves of wainfcot, or the like. It hath very few Chimnies in it, or almost none at all it may be some one chimney in some one or other of the lower out-roomes of least account, serving for some necessary vies, either to wash in, or the like, or elie, now and then perchance for the dreffing of a dish of meate, bauing, as it should seeme voto me, alwayes a greater care and respect how to keepe themselves from all kinde of great heate, the how to proude for any flore of great rofte. It had in it, by report of them that should know best 30 it, some foure thousand and moe, of very good able fighting men, and fixe hundred horsemen at the leaft. No question but that they were well furnished of all things appertaining thereunto especially fo many good thips lying there, and being fo well stored with all manner of munition, shot, and powder, as they were.

Of what wealth this towns should be, I am not able to resolue the asker; but as it should appeare by the great pillage by the common Souldiers, and some Marriners too, and by the goodly ing buthoften furnitures, that were detaced by the baler people, and thereby veterly loft and spoiled, as not rold me that worth the carrying away; and by the over great plenty of Wine, Oyle, Almonds, Oliucs, Raihe had the rife fins, Spices, and other fuch Grocery wates, that by the intemperate diforder of fome of the rather fore were knocke out, and lay trampled under feet, in enery common high way, it should appeare 40 that it was of some very mighty great wealth to the first owners, though perchance not of any and in hisre- fuch great commodity to the last jubduers, for that I judge that the better part was most riotously turne gaue and and intemperately ipent and confamed.

The Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday following, the Lords Generall spent in counsell about the disposing of all matters, as well touching the towns and priloners, as also concerning all other matters, thought meete of them in their honourable wildomes, and in all that means world did flew fuch honourable bounty and mercy, is not able to be expressed. For not onely the lines bies) of great of every one were spared, but allo there was an especiall care had, that all the Religious, as well men as women, should be well and fauourably intreated, whom freely without any manner of ransome or other molesiation, they caused to be safely transported ouer to Port Saint Mary, #50 Towns in a manner as faire as Cadiz : but at that time, as the case did Sand, certainely knowne to worthan angel be of no wealth in the world, and it was fome fixe or feuen miles diffant ouer against Cade, in robisignorant a manner as Paules is againit Southwarke, on the other fide of the Bay, in a part of Andaluzia, nimpucity, ne subiect to the territorie of the Duke de Medina Sidonia. Moreouer, at the fame instant they did uer ordained appoint that worthy Knight Sir Amias Presson, and some others in some convenient Barkes, to transport ouer to the faid Towne safely and in good order, a hundred or moe of the better fort of ancient gentlewomen, and merchants wives, who were suffered to put voon themselves, some of them two, yea, some three suites Apparell, with some convenient quantitie of many lewels, Chaines, and other ornaments belonging to their estate and degree.

fmiths house,

many Stones

deficription

feemed Ru-

to be rich.

Vpon Saturday, being the fix and twentieth, Sir Iobn Wink field knight was buried, in honoura- 60 ble and warlike manner, fo farre forth as the circumstances of that time and place could permit. At whose funerals the Nauie discharged a great part of their Ordnance, in such order, as was thought meete and convenient by the Lords Generals command. The feuen and twenty day beang Sunday, in the Abbey the divine Service was had, and a learned Sermon was made thereby one Mafter Hopkins, the right honourable Earle of Effect his Preacher, a man of good learning and fweete veterance, and even there the fame day, fomething before the Sermon was made, thefe worthy Gentlemen following were Knighted by the Lord Generall, And here I am to fignifie by the way that two of thefe were Knighted three or foure daies before, and fome three or foure moe were Knighted after that time, vpon certaine occasions: but yet I hold it best (and I trust without offence) to recite their names in this place altogether.

CHAP. 14. Cadiz Knights. B. of Cusco well vied. L. Admirals Letter.

CIs Samuel Bagnal.	Sit Christopher Heydon.	Sir Iohn Buck.	Iune 21.2
Sir Arthur Sauage.	Sir Francis Popham.	Six lobn Morgan.
The Earle of Suffex.	Sir Philip Woedhonfe.	Sir lobn Aldridg.	27:
The Lord Harbert.	Six Alexander Clifford.	Sir Iohu Afikinden
The Lord Burken	Sir Maurice Bareley.	Sir Mathew Browne.
Count Ladowick.	Sir Charles Blunt.	Sir John Alton.
Sir William Howard.	Sir George Gifford.	Sir Thomas Gates.
	Sir Robert Croffe.	Sir Gilly Meriche.
Sir George D'Eureux.	Sir James Escudamor.	Sir Thomas Smith.
Sir Henry Neuel.		Sir William Pooley.
Sir Edmund Rich.	Sir Urias Leigh.	Sir Thomas Palmer.
Sir Richard Leuen.	Sir John Leigh, alias Lee.
Sit Peter Egomert.	Sir Richard Weston.	Sit Iohn Stafford.
20 Sit Anthonie Albley.	Sir Richard Wasuman.	Sir Robert Louel.
Sit Henry Leonard.	Sir lames Wootton.	Six Iohn Gylbert.
Six Richard Leuison.	Sir Richard Ruddal.	Sir William Harnie
Sir Horatio Vere.	Sit Robert Mansfield.	Sir John Gray.
Six Arthur Throckmorton.	Sit William Mounton.	Don Christ. Prince of Ports.
Sir Miles Corbet.	Sir John Bowles;	gall.
Sir Edward Conway.	Sir Edward Bowes.	Sir John Vanderfoord Admirall
Sir Oliver Lambert.	Sir Humfrey Druel	of the Hollanders.
Sir Anthony Cooke.	Sir Amias Preston.	Sir Robert Dudley. 8. August.
Sir loba Townesend.	Sir Robert Remington.
10

Being in Cadiz, attending upon my most honorable good Lord, I talked with certains of the Religious men, such as I found learned, whereof indeede there were some, though not very manya I talked alto with the Bilhop of Cufee there, a grane aged comely man, and being of late chosen to that Bilhopricke, he was as then to have gone to the ledies, had not we then taken him prifoner, and to stated his journey for that time.

It pleated the Lords generall to deale exceeding fanourably with this faid Bishop of Cufee : for it was their good pleafure to give him his free paffage without any ranfome, and therewithall to let him to vaderitand, that they came not to deale with Church-men, or warmed men, or with men of peace weaklings and children, neither was it any part of their meaning to make fuch a to voyage for gold, filter, or any other their wealth and riches, &c. But that their onely comming was to meet with their dishonorable practifes, and manifold injuries, and to deale with men of war and valour, for the defence of the true honour of England; and to let them to vaderstand, that when soever they attempted any base-conceited and dishonorable practise to their sourraigne Queen, their Mistreile, that it should be reuenged to the vetermost, &c.

In this meane space, while the Lords generall continued at Cadix, there came to them certaine prore wretched Turks, to the number of eight and thirty, that had bin a long time gally-flaues, and either at the very time of the fight by Sea, or elfe immediately thereupon, taking the opportunity, did then make their elcape, and did fwim to land; yeelding themselves to the mercy of their most honorable Lordships. It pleased them with all speede to apparell them, and to furnish them with mony, and all other necessaries, and to bestow on them a Barke, and a Pilot, to see them free.

So ly and fafely conucied into Barbary.

The eight and twenty day being Monday, the Lord Admirall came abourd the Arke againe, minding there to remaine for a space, as indeede he did, and vpon the adurce of his Phistian, to deale fomething in philicke, for that his Lordship found his body fomething out of frame. At that time it pleafed his Lordship to write certaine letters to the Duke of Medina Sidonia, for the dehuerance of English Captines, who were remaining in the Gallies. For by this time, it was reported, that the faid Duke was come downe in person with some power, and that he was either at Port Saint Mary,or elfe at Rotta,or thereabout. His Lordship did indite the Letters himfelfe, but his pleasure was, they should be turned into Latine by another ; and so to be sent (as indeede they were) in the Latine tongue vnto the Duke.

The next day after, being the fourth of July, the Lords generall caused the towns of Cadiz to Codir have be let on fire, and raied and defaced fo much as they could; the faire Cathedrall Church, and the Religious houses onely being spared, and left vublemished. And with the Towne all such prouition, for faipping, and other things, as were femiceable for the Realmes vie, and yet were not either is convenient for vs to be carried away, as elfeluch as we shood no whit at all in neede of. were likewife at the same inflant confumed with fire. And presently thereupon, their Lordships. with as convenient freede as they could, and the whole army in such order and leifure, as they thought beit, came aboord.

Yazzzyy z

The next day being the fift of July, the Lords generall with all the army being under faile, and I have continue L. Admirall his now making for England, and but as yet passing the very mouth of the Bay of Cadra, a Galley ful of English prisoners, with a flag of truce, met vs from Rossa, sent by the Duke of Medina Sidonia. and fentas it should feeme, one day later then his promite : but yet their flig being either not big enough, or not well placed in the Galley, or not well differred of our men, or by what other michance I know not; but thus it was: by one of our smallest ships that failed formost, as soone 10 as the faid Gall-y came within Gunfhot, there was a great Peece discharged vpon her, and at that inftant there was one man flaine outright, and two other grieucusly hurt. The errour being efficiel and perceived, our fhip gave over immediately from any further shooting. As soone as the Galley came neere vs, my Lord Admirall caused a gracious salutation to be sounded with his truppets, and willed the Captaines forthwith to come aboord his ship : which they did, and then he feafted hem with a Banket, as the time and place might ferue. And then by them vnderflanding of that unfertunate mischance that had napned by the shot of the said ship, he was very forry for the fame, and yet fuch was the mercifull providence of almighty God, that even in this mischance also, he did hold his holy hand ouer the English; and all the harme that was done did light only upon the poore Turke, and the Spaniard himselfe. When this Lord had well banqueted 20 them, he presently called for his Barge, and did accompany the faid Galley to the Lord Generall the Earle of Effer, who then did ride with his thip a good diffance off: and there they being in like manner most honorably received, and intertained, the Spanife Gentlemen delivered vp their prifoners the Eaglish captines, of whom some had bin there hix yeeres, some eight or ten; yea, and fome two and twenty yeeres, and vpward, and fome of them but lately taken in Sit Francis Drakes laft voyage to the lades. The number of the pritoners delivered were but nine and thirty, and no moe, and were brought in, and delivered by Don Amonio de Corolla and his brother, and by Don Pedro de Cordea, and certaine others.

If any man presume here so farre, as to inquire how it chanced, that the Lord Generall rested folong at Cadra, and went no further; and why Port Saint Mary, being fo faire a Towne, and 30 fo neere to them, was forborne ? and why Shoras alias Xeres ? And why Resta, and the like? And why this or that was done . And why that, or this left vindone ? I will not answere him with our common English proverbe, as I mighe, which is : That one foole may aske mor questions in one houre, then ten discreete men can well answere in fine dayes. But that grave ancient wiiter. Cornelsus Tacitus, hath a wife, briefe, pithy, faying, and it is this; Nemo tentanit inquirere in columnas Herculis, fantinfq, au remerentins babitum eft de factis Deorum eredere, quam feire. Allo voon my knowledge, the chiefest cause why Port Saint Mary, and the rest, were left vncouched, was this: For that it was most certainely known, that they were Townes not worth the faluting of fisch a royall company, in which there was no manner of wealth in the world left, 40 more then bare houses of stone, and standing wals, and might well have served rather as a stale, perchance, to have entrapped, then as a meanes to have enriched.

And thus much for our journey to Cadez: for the accidents that hapned by the way, for the winning, spoiling, and burning of the said Towne, for the overthrow of the Spangh Fleete there, and for all other by-matters that hapned, as appendances to the same, both in the time of our abode there, as also at the very last houre of our comming from thence. As for our returne home, and our entrance into a part of Portugall by the way, with the taking, spoiling, and burning of the Towns of Faraon there, and marching into the Spanifs confines thereabouts, &c. I minde to leave it to some other, whose chance was to be present at the action, as my selfe was not, and shall be of more sufficient ability to performe it.

Meteranus writeth, that the taking of Cadiz had so terrified the neighbour townes, that the Inhabitants fied out of them; and Saint Lucar had beene also very easily taken, if a few thips had assaulted it; and that eighteene Spanish hip comming from the Indies ignorant of what had hapned, were English at vnawares, being very wealthy.

CHAP-60

CHAP. XIIII.

CHAP. 14 S.1. Earle of Effex his Relation of the Hand Doyage.

The Voyage to the Iles of Azores, under the conduct of the Right Honorable ROBERT Carle of Effex, 1507.

The Relation thereof by the faid Earle, and other Commissioners.

10

The Generall, having by her Maiesties gracious favour the charge of her Fleete and Armie, fer out of Plimmouth in lune 1 597. did both promife my felfe and give hope to her Maieftie, that I should be able to defeate the King of Spaines Fleete, commanded by the Adelantado, if I met them at Sea, or destroy it in the harbour of Feroll, if I found them there; as also to master and take all Fleetes of treasure, or of the East or West Indian Fleete, that I should finde upon the Sea in their way to Spaine: and laitly, that I should take in the Hand of Tergea; which I held an action of equall importance to the other.

With this confidence I went out, and to these ends: but none of these three being performed, it may be doubted, whether we have not through weakenesse or negligence failed of successe. For which we make answere, that if our whole carriage be examined, from the first hours to the last, it shall appeare that we have striven to attaine to every one of these with as much obstinate constancie, as any men in the world could doe, and that onely the powerfull hand of God, did binde our hands, and frustrate all our endenours.

The first for the enterprise of Ferel, we went out of Plinomonth the third of June, and stiered directly for that port, and when most extreame stormes and contrary windes met with vs. we Crossed with beate it up till all our Fleete was feattered, and many of our ships in desperate case. And because winder and Ishe Generall thought my too foone giving over would not onely deprive the Pleete of our prin- formes. 20 cipall thip, but abiolutly defeate the journey; I forced my company first to abide the continuall increasing of a most dangerous leake, which I made light of because I saw that with labour of men I could free the thin as fast as the leake did grow. Secondly, I made them endure the craking of both my maine and foremast, the one in two places, the other in three; so as we fill look. Danger of the ed when they should be carried by the boord; which was not enough to make me beare up, becapie I knew whenfoeuer I should loofe them both, I could with jurie masts, by Gods favour, carry the ship home. And I continued so long, that my ships Okam came all out, her seemes opened, her deckes and upper workes gaue way, her very timbers and maine beames with her labouring did teare like lathes ; fo as we looked hoursly when the Orlope would fall, and the Ordnance finke downe to the keele : then did those few, whom before I had wonne to fland with mee, all 40 protest against me, that if I did not within a minute of an houre beare vp the helme, I did wishully cast away the ship and whole company.

Then onely I suffred my selfe to be ouercome : and when I came to Plimmonth, halfe her Maie. They put in to flies ships, and more then halfe the principall officers by fea and by land were put in before mee Plimmouth. for the excremitie their thips were in. And when we were all of vs eathered together agains, at Plimmouth, and had repaired all the thips but mine owne, which was fent home to Chatham to be new builded, then were we kept in by continuall fforme and contrary windes, till our victuals (which were at fiff but for three moneths) were in a manner all spent, and the sicknesse in the Flie boates, that carried the land armie, growne fo great, that I had order from her Maiestie to discharge the land forces, all but the thouland old Souldiers, which were drawneout of the Low Order to dif 50 Countries. By which meanes, though we were disabled to land at Ferol, to beate the land Armie charge land there, and take in the forces, which was the certaine way to command the Adelantados Fleete; forces, yet I the Generall offered her Maiestie to fend in certaine ships of fire, and to second them with the Saint Matthew and Saint Andrew, and fome great flye-boates, and Merchants ships, with which I would defroy the most of the enemies principall shipping, and leave all the Queens own English built ships at the mouth of the harbour to affore our retreate. By this meanes I should hazard to loofe but two great Cartes, which before I had won, and for the adventuring of thefe defeate the enemies whole Nauie. Which counfell being allowed, though with reftraint of mine owne going in with the etwo thips, and an absolute barre to hazard any other, we went out the fecond time to put this project in execution.

60 But againe ere we could recourt the Spanish coast, the Saint Matthew, by looking her foremalt, Their foreign was put backe into England, and the Saint Andrew had loft company, till at one inftant within forth the fe fight of the shoare of the Groine, Sir Walter Raleigh the Vice-admirall brake his maine yard, which cond in ... forced him to beare along to the Westward before the winde; and I in this second ship had such a desperate leake sprang, as when we pumped and boled with buckets as much as we could for our

1936

owne lines, it grew still upon vs ; and when we fought by ramming downe peeces of Beefe, and Leaks remeholding linnen cloath wrong together, to ftop the comming in of the water, it came in not withfrancing to frongly, as it bare downe all, and beate away enery man that flood to fron it: Then was I faine to lye by the lee, and make my company worke vpon it all night, my matter Carpenter, the onely skilfull man I had, dying at that very instant. And w en by the great mercy of God we had stopped it, the winde being easterly the Fleete threwne.

Gape Finificate Was to farre thot a head, as I could not recour the most of them till I came to the Cape Finificate. where holding a Countell, and milling Sir Walter Raleigh (who being off at Sea, had no plying failes to get vp) miding him, I iay, with thirty failes that in the night followed his light . and hearing that the Saint Matthew, which was our principall flip for the execution of our intended 10 enterprife, was returned, and being barred to hazard any other in her place, it was by the whole Enterprise of Countell of warre concluded, that the enterprise of Ferol was ouerthrowne, both because, though the winde had ferued, we wanted the thips appointed for that feruice, and if wee had had the thip; we wanted winde to get into the harbour of Ferol; for the winde blew firongly at Eaft. which would have bin fully in our teeth as we had plied in. And now wee onely could thinke of the intercepting of the Indian Fleete, and defeating of the Adelantade: if he had put to Sea. For to take in Tergera, our land army being discharged, we had no meanes : whereupon wee bare for the height of the Rocke; hoping there (because it was our second Rende wons after Ferel) to meete with Sir Walter Raleigh. Into which height when I came, a mellage was defluered mee from Sir Walter Raleigh, by one Captaine Skabbels, that the Adelantado was gone out of Ferol with his 20

South Cape.

Tercers.

The Rocks. Fleete to Tercera, to wast home the Weit Indian Fleete of tressure, and that hee would attend mine answere off of the Burlingas; which message of Sir Walters was grounded voon the report of the Captaine of a ship of Hampton, which did confidently deliver it.

I the Generall there calling a Counfell, tooke a resolution, both because wee hoped to meete the Adelantado there, and because all our best experimented Seamen did affure vs that it was the out Pinnaces both to the Burlinges, and toward the South Cape (which was our third Rende-uons, by our first appointment) to cause Sir Walter Raleigh and ali others of our Fleete to follow. And being with the lland of Tergera, I looked into the roade of Brafil, and law there was no Fleete; whereupon we bare along the twixt Saint George and Graciofa for the Island of Flores, at which 30 we might both water and take in victuals, which in Merchants fhips her Maieftie had fent after Victurls fent vs : and where, if the Indian Fleete did come this yeere, they were likelt to fall. But when we had after them. spent at Flores some tendayes, in which time Sir Walter Raleigh and his company came vnto vs.by a imill Pinnace come from the Indies, I the Generall was told, that it was doubtfull whether the Indian Fleete came from thence or not, and if they did, they would change their viuall course, and come in fome height more to the Southward, till they were past these Ilands, where viully likelieft course to meete with the Indian Fleete, to goe for the Hands of the Azores. And I fent comming from the Indias. they are attended.

Which newes made vs resolue in Counsell to goe for Fayal, and so for Saint Michael, and to have some nimble ships to lye off and on at Sea, both to the Southward and to the Northward. In our passige by faile, Graciosa, and Pico, we tooke such commodities and refreshings as those I- 40 lands afforded : and in passing from them toward Saint Michael, wee were told that a great ship was discovered off of Graciosa: whereupon I the Generall gave order to divide and to direct the Fleete into three places : the one to furre away East North-east, and to goe along the Northide of Tergera: the other East South east, and to goe by the Southfise of the faid Hand, and both to meete in the roade of Brafil: fo as if the Carackes, or West Indian Fleete should strive to recover Tercera, they should be cut off: And the third part of the Ficete should ply to the Westward, which way it was faid that the great ship stood, and so to cut it off, it it fought for the roade of Fayal: which if the were kept from, Tergera was her onely place the could put into : and one of these three wayes she must needes stand; for the winde being at North North-west, shee could not goe but one of their three courses.

Byt as I had given this direction, there came to me a small Barke of Lime, whose Captaine 30 deonsilentialises are the small between the small beautiful and the small beautif did confidently afture me, that he was the man that did follow the chase, and fetched it vp, finding it but a small ship of our owne Fleete : which made vs resolue to continue our former intended course for Saint Michael. But in this meanetime, I the Generall hailing the Captaine of a Pinnace, and willing him to call to the ships of my squadron to follow my light, and those of the Viceadmirals (quadron to follow his light to the Westward (which direction I did presently after counter-mand) hee misheard, and willed some ships that were next, to rland about to the Wellward : which direction, together with his not hearing of me that, which was spoken to countermand it, made foure of her Maielties ships, the Garland, the Marie rose, the Dread-nanght, and the Rainebon, to fland off to the West all that night : of which, Sir William Mounfon mithe 63 Rainebowe fell in the night with the West Indian Floete; and it being calme, went off in his Boate to make and haile them: which hee did, and made himfelfe knowne vnto them: and straight rowing to his ship, hee shot off his Ordnance all night, and carried a light in his maine top : whereupon the other three of her Maiesties ships flood off with him, but could retrievely up the Spaniards till they were gotten into Tercera Road; before which, after they had flriued in vine to get into them, they plied till my comming, which was three dayes after : for I was hard Electres not abourd the Welfermott part of Saint Michaell before I heard these newes.

And then Handing about, I the Generall being on head of the Fleet, met in my way with a Torces. great Ship of the Governour of Hanana, and a Frigate of the Spanifo King, manned with the faid Kings Souldiers, and another Frigate of a particular man : which three I ferched out, tooke, and Three Scarift manned for the lafe bringing home of the Ship and goods, and fell the next night being Saturday.

with Tercera; where finding the wind ftrong at Northwest, we plyed with as much faile as ever we could bear to get up to the road of Brafil all that night. Al Sunday,

Io and Sunday night, and till Munday morning wee could not weather the point of Brafil: which when wee had done, while I the Generall gathered fuch of the Fleet as were neere, I tent in a Pinnace of my Lord of Cumberland, and foure or frue of very fufficient Captaines and Mafters, to fee whether it were possible for vs to get up where the Ships rode : and they brought me backe word, it was impossible. With which I being not satisfied plied in with mine owne Ship, keeping abourd with mee two or three of the principall Officers, that wee might judge by the eye, and dispute vpon the place; and when wee were in, wee faw the bottome of the Bay (into which they were towed and warped) lay right in the eye of the wind : fo as to lead it in with a fayle it was impossible, and to turne it vp would aske an whole day, if wee had scope, but both wee must upon enther board come within a quoytes east off their Forts, and yer our Ships would 20 wend in to narrow a place, wee should have beene on shoare. Which manifest discouerie, and not the idle Shot of all the Forts and Ships, though they were verie liberall, made mee fland off agains. And as it was impossible to doe any thing for the present, so when I the Generall called all the Captaines of her Maietties Ships together, and enquired the effate of their charge, I found that some by the naughtinesse of their Caske and leakage of Beere, had not about two dayes, and some not one dayes drinke aboord; and that which most of vs all had did fo ftinke, as our men dyed and fell ficke continually, and all men-protested, that if wee stayed to attend change of windes, and d. I not instantly seeke a watering place, both men and Ships were absolutely lost. Besides we faw the Galions had beene valuden, by their shewing their white bellies so much aboue wa-20 ter, and that the Merchants Ships lay all dry on shoare; so as we had abidden the extreamest hazard of her Maiesties troupes and Ships, for the burning of a few dry vnladen Vessells.

Thus were we driven to beare the second time with Saint Michael (our chiefe end being to water, but withall to facke the Hand if we could land neere the principall Towne) where wee came to an anchor before Punta Delgada the chiefe Towne; and forthwith went in a little nimble Boat to difcouer the landing places, which we found to be exceeding dangerous. For as about ail those llands of the Acores a Westerly wind bringeth in the hollow mother Sea , so the wind then being Weit Southerly blew trade, and made both a great Sea gate or wash voon the shoare. and a dangerous rode. So as besides the apparant likelihood, that our men had been all lost by the Querturning of our Boats ypon our heads : the loffe of our Boates, which could not have beene in 40 that place avoided, had kept vs from watering, and so had beene the manifelt deftruction of the whole Fleet, Whereupon, I the Generall, leauing commandement of the great Ships with Six Walter Raleigh (because the Lord Thomas Howard defired to land with mee) accompanied with his Lords Ship, and all the other principall Officers and perfons of qualitie in the Army, I put my felfe in the imal Ships, and towed the boats at our Sterns to feeke another smal Bay on the other fide of the Point to the Eastward, called Punta de Galera or Galy Point, where there was a Land Punta de la Fange, and confequently a smoother landing.

But we putting off in this manner at eleven of the clocke at night, I the Generall in a Pinnace of Sir Walter Raleigh, called the Guiana, wherein all the Officers of the Land Army did accompany me, & the Aduenturers of quality that came out of my Ship in another Pinnace with Captain

50 Arthur Champernon came to an anchor in this Bay; but fo dangeroully as wee were put from our anchor, and had like to have beene cast away : all the rest of the Fleet being put to leeward very farre. The next morning at the breake of the day, being driven as low as Villa Franca, and there finding a good landing place, wee let our troups on shoare; where wee found (besides many other commodities with which we refreshed our troupes) a better watering place, and a safer rode then any other that was about that Hand. Which, together with the impossibilitie of getting our small Ships and Boats to ply backe againe fine leagues against the wind, and to meet ve that should have marched by land, and they seeing of many of the Queens principal ships driven from their anchors about, and come to Villa Franca : These accidents, I say, made vs to resolue to draw all the Fleet to one place, and there to water with all possible diligence.

And wee being there faw it was fo dangerous for our Ships to ride, the wind growing more Ochober the Southerly, as on Sunday the fifteenth of October, wee re-imbarked all our men ; the Matters of fifteenth. the Ships hatting before protested, that if they were put from their anchors, as hoursly they looked to bee, that the Fleet and Land Forces were in danger to be seuered for this whole Winter : So as to have hazarded her Maiesties honour, and so many gallant men, for that which was never any of our ands, had beene as vinwife as it was vinlafe; and if the counfell of retyring were Their resume. good, the manner of it was without taxation : for wee imbarked first of all our idle persons . fecondly our aduenterous, and the old Companies one after another; and when weehad but three hundred and fiftie men on flore, the enemy marching in fight of our Guards, we went cut to meet him, and frond two hours readie to fight with the whole Forces of the Iland, till at last they retired one of fight. Thus left wee that Iland, the principall Commanders by Land and Seaftaying to bring off the last man. In this meane time, while the Land Forces were at Villa Franca. and the Fleet at Punta Delgada, there came into that Road a Carake and a small Brasil man. The Carack prefently ran her felfe on the Rocks; and after her men had faned themfelues, the last fee her on fice with all the goods in her, to avoid her being taken. Which Sit Walter Raleigh and Io those with him could not possibly avoid. The Brafil man was taken, and the Ship being found leakie, the goods were taken out and put into English Ships.

The Indian

her telie on A Ship of Braflaken.

* charles.

And now wee have given account of all our whole carriage vntill we bare for England. If our comming home scattering be objected, wee must plead the violence of stormes, against which no fore directions, not prefent industry carr prevaile. Wee must conclude with this. That as wee would have acknowledged that wee had done but our duties, if we had defeated the Adelantado. interpreted the Feet of Treasure, and conquered the Hands of the Agores : So wee having failed of nothing that God gaue vs meanes to doe ; wee hoped her Maieftie will thinke our painfull dayes, carefull nights, euill diet, and many hazards deferue not now to be meafured by the euent. the like honourable and just construction wee promise our selues at the hands of all my Lords. As 20 for others, that have fer warme at home and descant vpon vs, wee know they lacked strength to performe more, and believe they lacke courage to adventure fo much,

Signed

Thomas Howard, Chit Mountion.

Walter Raleigh.

Fran: Vere. Christ: Blunz. Antony Sherley.

d. IL

A larger Relation of the faid Iland Voyage, written by Sir ARTHYR GORGES Knight, collected in the Queenes Ship called the Walt Spite, wherein he was then Captaine; with Marine and Martiall Discourses added according to the Occurrences.

* Ofthefe Timds fee before Linfebatens obfernations: to which I have added this Authors defeription, as containing in omitted.

Thisbooke was written that great hope

A. 1607. and dedicated to of Great Brisaine, P. ince Henry , the Epiftle to him and the Preface I hau: 0mated in regardof our long volume. I haue not added a word of mine but the Heseles of the Afores are situate in the Atlastike or Westerne Ocean, and doe stand betweene 37, and 40 degrees, and distant from England 400, leagues. They are in number nine, namely Saint Marses, Saint Michaels, The Tercera, Gratiofa, S. Georges, Pyker Fynak, Flores, and Coerno.

This name of Afores was given vnto thefe Hands by the Portugues, of a kind of Hawkes called, 40 by them Afores (which wee name Gofbankes , and the Latines Accipitres) whereof there did breed great store in those Iles : But Ortellins fets downe this name to bee so given of the French word Efforer, which fignifieth, to dry or wither, but yeekleth no reason withall for that Etimofomwhat ther- logy. The Netberlanders doe call them the Plemift Hands, challenging that they were first discouered by the Merchans of Bridges, who found them meerely vn-inhabited, abounding with Woods and Cedar Trees, whether they fent Colonies to people and manure them. And afterterwards in processe of time they yeelded themselves Subicets to the Portugues, who since did inhabite and gouerne there, fo as now with them they are fallen under the power of the Spanifo

Among it these llands the Tercera's the chiefe, but is so called by the Spaniards, because it beth viurpation. the third Iland distant from the Coast of Spaine. It is plentifull of Fruit and Corne, and liath some Vines growing in it. The Inhabitants doe make great benefit and trade of Oade to dye Cloth, which growes there in great plentie: The chiefe Towne in that Iland is called Angra, and hath thereunto a very ilrong Fortreffe, called Brazill, and under it a Roade for flipping to ride, but an Hauen or fafe Port for all weathers, there is not one among it their nine Hands.

The Pike is so called of a sharpe Mountaine, rising steeple wife some three miles in height and fix or feuen miles in circuit at the foot; fashioned it is voward like an Hine, and the top therof most commonly to be discerned within and about the clouds. This Mountaine bath in a (by

Title and Marginall Notes; nor defalked any of the Authors (after my wont in others, not to make their writings mine, burbling, 60 the redioulactie in footen repetitions by often relators, and the inperfinities being fuch as would deterre the Realet;) The Dif courfes I have visually put in another letter, to diffinguish them from the History; the one the Eyes onsenutions, the ether the Minds, and both worthy both thine eyes and minds best observation. Hee added also Notes conching the Name Royall, who have worthy the noting but perhaps not to be permitted to enery vulgar and noteleffe eye. Sometim a collar of a may cause paines, and buffe labour may reap the reward of a buffeb. dy. I am losh to buy repentance, report) many great hollow Caues and deepe Vaults, and it is credibly reported that oftentimes it oreathes out flames and ipatkes of fire, as doth the Mountaine Lina. Also at the bottome of tins Mountain, towards the East, there is a great Spring of Fresh-water, which is teen many times to iffue out flakes and itones of fire with great violence, and of the number and bigneffe of the fromes that are throwne out by the force and fource of this Spring, and what huge workes they make of the multitudes of them, they confidently doe tell frange wonders, which I will neither affirme nor deny but leaue indifferent to credit as men lift.

Fazall is to called of Faza, which in the Portugues fignifieth a Beech Tree, wherewith that Hand Fajall, is faid to abound. But yet I faw there more ftore of luniper and Cedar, then of any other Wood to cr Timber. For Aireand Soyle, it is as pleasant and fruitfull, as any of the other Ilands, and in it are some fine Townes with many pretie Villages ; and in this lland there are yet remaining certaine families of the Fleamfb race. Gratiofa is so called of the exceeding fruitfulnefie of the Sovle Gratiofa and plealant temper of the Ayre. Flores, of the abundance of Flowers that grow in it. Cherno, of. Flores, the multitude of Rauens and Crowes breeding therein. And that Iland doth also breed Horses. Curva, Saint Maries, Saint Georges, and Saint Michaels, were so called of thole Saints names, vpon whole S. Maries &c. dayes they were first discoursed; for such is the custome of many Nauigators, and especially of the Spaniards and Portnewes, fo to call those Landes that they first make by the Saints day and name wherein they are discourred. And these three Hands for temper and fruitfulnesse are suteable with the others : But Saint Michael is the greatest of them all, Tercera the strongest, and Saint 20 Maries the neerest to the Coast of Spaine.

But now as wee come neerer to our intended purpole, for the better underflanding thereof, L thinke it very necessary and pertinent somewhat to speake of the chiefe Commanders, as well by Sea as by Land, and also of the number of our Ships and Souldiers, together with the project and deligne of that journey then undertaken for the feruice of her late Majeftie, and the Honour of our Nation.

It is therefore to be understood, that Robert Denerons, late Earle of Effex, Master of the Horse Commanders and Ordnance, and Knight of the Garter : First commanded in chiefe, as well Admirall of the names, and Nauie by Sea, as Generall of the Armie by Land. His Vice-Admiralt was the Lord Thomas chiefe officers, Howard Knight of the fame Order, and second Sonne to the last Thomas Duke of Norfalke, a No-30 bleman much honoured and beloued, and of great experience in Sea feruice. His Reare-Admirall was Sir Walter Raleigh Knight, Captaine of her Maieities Guard, Lord Warden of the Stanneries, and Lieftenant of Cornwall. For the Land fernice, his Leiftenant Generall was Sir Charles Blunt. Lord Meuntier, Knight of the Garter, Governour of Portfmonth, and a man in high favour with her late Maiestie. His Marshall of the Field was Sir Francis Vere Knight, a great Souldier, and Coronell Generall of the English Forces in the Low-Conniries. The Mafter of the Ordnance, Sir George Carem Knight , Leiftenant of the Ordnance of the Kingdome of England. His Sergeant Maior, Sir Ferdinando Gorges Knight, Gouernour of the Fores of Plimonth. The Coronell Generall of the Foot Sir Christopher Blunt Knight : The Treasurer of the Armie Sir Hugh Biefton Knight, one of her Maiesties Receiners Generall in the Principalities of Walles, with all other 40 Officers defigned to places requifite that were needful by Land or Sea, now too long to rehearle. And yet of all the Noblemen I will as neere as I can record their names particularly; but craue pardon if I faile in the precedencie of their places. The Earles of Effex, Rusland, and Southampton, the Lord Howard, the Lord Audley, the Lord Gray, the Lord Mounter, the Lord Rich, and the Lord Cromwell. But the particular names of all this service. the Land Captains that had charge Fould neuer come to the knowledge of, much leffe can I marshall them orderly in this discourse. And therefore I will palle to the number of the Ships in generall, and therein name some particulars of the chiefe and principall Vessells of the Rovall Nauie, with their Captaines.

The whole Nauie (which was divided into three Squadrons, viz. The Admirall his Squadron; The Nauie 50 The Vice-Admirall his Squadron , and the Reare-Admirall his Squadron) confided of 120. fayle, or there bout; whereof fixtie were good men of Warre and gallant Ships; thereft Victuallers, and Ships of Transportation. Of her Maiesties owne Ships the number was eighteene or faile nineteene, and these were their names. The Merhoneur Admirall, whereof sir Robert Manf. The Queenes field was Captaine : The Due Repulse Vice-Admirall, whereof Master Middleton was Captaine : thips and their The Waft Spice Reare-Admirall, whereof my felfe was Captaine : The Garland the Earle of Son. Captaines. thampton commanded : The Defiance wherein the Lord Mountier was shipped, had for Captaine Sir Amias Prefton: The Saint Mathem to Sir George Carem, Matter of the Ordnance : The Mary Rose to Sir Francis Vere Marshall , whose Captaine was M. John Winter: The Dread nought Sir William Brooke was Captaine of : The Nonparellia Sir Richard Luson was Captaine of : The Bo-60 nouentere SiriVilliam Harney was Captaine of : The Antiloge Sir Thomas Vauiser was Captain of : The Rainbow Sit Waliam Mounfon was Captaine of : The Swiftfure Sit Gilly Mericke was Captain of : The Colden Lion was lent after for a fupply. The Hope, whereof was Captain Forelight, whereof Sir Carem Reignall was Captaine : The Saint Andrew, whereof Mafter Marcellin Throckmorton was Captain : The Tramontana, whereof young Mafter Fenner was Captain :

The Moone, whereof Sir Edward Michelboorne was Captaine. Befides that there were fome other of her Mareties imall Pinnaces that attended the Fleet.

The reft of de differen

The refidue or the Fleet aforenamed confided of the best shipping of London, and other Port-Townes of the Kingdome, with fundry from Veffells belonging to lome Lords and Gentlemen that were Aduenturers in this Voyage. There were also added to this Name tenne fayle of good men of Warre, fent from the States of the Lon-Countries to attend her Maiesties Fleet in this fervice, under the conduct of one Mounfier de Duneincorde, well manned and furnished.

Ten Hollanders Land-Army.

The Land Army (betides Saylers that might be afforded and spared vponoccation of landing) confitted of ux-thousand able men well appointed, with ten Peeces of Artillery for the Field and Battery, with all necessary V tentils fit for them. The proportion of victuals was for four months se large allowance, & double apparell both for Souldiers and Mariners In this Armie there went Knights, Captaines, and Gentlemen, voluntaries fine bundred at the least; as gallant partonages.

Fine handred Voluntaries gallantly turnith d. The deligne.

and as branely furnished, as ener the eye of men did behold. The lift of whole names I did ferioutly inquire after, thereby to doe them right, but could by no meanes compaffe it. The end and purpose of this great Preperation was to the taking in of most of those Ilands, and especially of the winning of the Tercera it felfe, the which was refolied to have beene attempted by vs. with the Intent for Terena.

Plimouth.

other Hinds and Holds of importance, and in some of them to have placed strong Garrisons, if it had blealed God to have prospered the ioniney with happy successe: But in the very beginning with long contrary winds, and extremitte of foule weather, the maine plot and ground of this enterprise was hindred and maimed, as hereafter more at large shall be related in his due place. But this intended sourney for the furprifing and bolding of the Tercera alone, if it had taken effect (without any further respect to the other Hands, then onely to have facked them and rafed those Fortresses they have) had beene a service of great consequence for us, and as president to the King of Spaine, as any action that was ever undertaken agarest hom, fince the revolt of the Low-Countries; The which to fet downe in particular, would require more ample discourse, then either my leasure, or my memory cun suddenly afford. But what great vie and benefit bath the Portugues did, and the Spaniards doe make of thefe Hands is in daily experience. And se for that bare Allegation, how difficult and inconvenient st would bee for us to bold a peece fo farre off: men of Warre in their true indocements would easily answere. For as well it might be demanded, how the Forts are beld in the East Indies by the poore Postugues against mightie Nations, and yet so farre remote from Christendome: And bow Rhodes and Cyprus were beretofore long kept in despite of the Turke 20 in his very before. And bow the Spaniards of late bane kept certaine places in Britaine, and Amyens, and Callice in Picardie, mangre the force of France, and never quitted them but by composition : And Godknowes bow long Don Iom D' Lagurra would bane kept Kintale and Beare Cafile, if thefe had bin places buffe fa serrible, as those of the Tercera; or but the foutb part fo remote from vs, as the Tercera is from Spaine. Undoubtedly their industry and patience is far beyond ours, both in getting and holding matters of more difficultie. But vaine it is to fet a price of the Beares skin before hee be flaine; although I am verily persuaded that the contrary winds onely lost we both that, and all the King of Spaine his treafure that came that yeere to the Tercera. For the lourney was carried with as great fecrecie, expedition, and Royall preparation, as ever was any the fernany yeares, and they on the contrary as flenderly provided, and little doubting any fuch attempt. When all things were thus ordered, and wee furnished of our necessaries after some few dates abode in Sandwich for the meeting, mustering, and imbarking of our Land Army, about the fine and twent:eth of lune, in the yeere 1 597. we let faile from the Downes, and within three dayes with skane winds recovered Portland Rhode, where we ancored and flaied some fix or seven dayes, taking in men and victualls at Waymouth, and thence we made for Plimonth, where were were to take in our freshwater, much of our prouisions, and mest of our Mariners ; besides that this place was appointed the very randeuous for the knitting yo and dispatch of this Voyage: whether in a day and a nights sayle wee came, but with very extreme foule weather. Infomuch that even in the entrance of the very Harbour, many of our Ships falling foule one of another were forely diffrested. The Lord Mountary his Ship the Defiance, had her Beake head ftricken cleane off ; and the Saint Mathem (being a Spanil Ship of great 50 charge, very leeward and drawing much water) had like in the tempest to have runne her selfe vpon the Rocks, had not her Captaine Sir George Carew Mafter of the Ordnance, beene very refolute and carefull in that extremitie, when a great part of his Souldiers and Saylers would have abandoned her, and betaken themselves to their Ship-boats, to shun the imment perill that threatned them : which he staied to the preservation of the Ship and the company. Moreover a Flee-boat of our Traine, who had in her fortie Last of Powder was likewise bulged, and all the ftore had beene veterly loft, had not the Master of the Ordnance with like care and diligence beftirred himselfe to faue all that bee might, who with the aid of many Ship-boats, as the Flee-boat was finking, faued the greatest part of her lading. Yet notwithit anding seventeen Lasts of Powder was veterly spoiled with the Salt-water, as I heard the Master of the Ordnance himfelfe affirme.

Thus with great difficultie wee arrived at Plimouth, where within fix or feven daies our whole Army and Name met, and withall the shipping of the Low-Countries came to vs. And icone after having watered and taken in all our proutions and Marinrs, and muttered our men, we imbarked nor fame, and let fayle about the ninth of July, and for two dayes space were accompanied with a faire leading North-easterly wind. In which time we received a ship-board all our directions Fireughout the Nittle, with fuch orders and instructions as are vivally set downe by an Admiiall, and a Countell of Warre, together with the places of meeting from time to time vpon any Influctions rall, and a Countell or warre, together with the places of the engineer of the voltage of the rations of together with the places of the rations of the rations of together with the places of the rations of the ra of delinering directions when a Fleet is a Sea-board, and not before, is an use grounded upon many good onstauching realizate as to anoid the renealing of fecret plots, and the presention of sudden execution. As also to bun instructions. the discouraging of diners that doe often expose themselves and their adventures to Sea actions, either for lone to the Commanders, or cut of hope of Purchase, or, for many other respects, which perhaps they 10 would not doe if they knew indeed either the danger, or the true ends of some preparations. And this secret manner of proceeding bath bin often vfed by Philip the lateking of Spain, in diners great expeditions. who bath beene fa precise and seuere therein, as that oftentimes the Admiralls of his Fleet themselves have not knowne their instructions, nor beene suffered to open them, until they have beene thirtie or fortie leagues on their way. Wee now being in this faire courfe, fome fixtic leagues onwards our journey with our whole Fleet together, there suddenly arose a fierce and tempestuous storme full in our Stormes teeths, continuing for foure dayes with to great violence, as that now every one was inforced rather to looke to his owne fafetie, and with a low faile to ferne the Seas, then to beat it vo against the flormy winds to keepe together, or to follow the directions for the places of meeting. And here fome began to tafte the inconvenience and perill of high Cargued Ships drawing little water, and ouercharged with mightie Ordnance in a furious high wrought Sea : And now also o created wor thers found and felt the mischiese of weake built Vessells, and of rotten Tackle. For this extrea- weake ships. mitie of weather was fo great, as that wee were all one after another forced backe againe, fome into Plimouth, and di ers into other Harbours on that Coalt, so extreamely shaken and beaten, as that the Admirall was in danger to have foundred in the Sea, having many leaks broken out voon him, and his mid-ship beame (niuered in funder. And yet (as wee vnderstood after) some three or four of the formost of our Fleet (whereof the Earle of Southampton in the Garland was faid Returne to to be one) did recouer fight of the North-Cape, but yet forced to returne againe to Plimouth. Plimouth. And many of our Gentlemen and Knights, with this boy ferous and bitter entertainment on the Seas, returned extreame weake and lay dangeroufly ficke long after: Infomuch that some of them dyed thereof at Plimonib, and were there honourably buried by the Generall. Some also were so Great ficknesse much weakened and diffempered, as that they were not able to recouer frength to put to the Scas againe, as Sir Ferdinando Gorges our Sergeant Maior, in whose place our Generall did appoint Sir A. Sherh Sir Anthony Sherly; and Sir Caren Reignalls Captaine of the Forefight, to feuerely weakned with Placed in Sir Anthony Sherly; and Sir Caren Reignath Captaine of the Foreigner, to severely weakhed with roome of Sir Seas licknesse, as that his charge was delivered over to Sir Alexander Rateliste, a very format of F. Gerge. gallant young Gentleman, who (not long after) was flaine in the Warres of Ireland, with Sir Conniers Clifford Gouernour of Connaugh. And amongst others in the beginning of this bitter florme, Sir Alexander our Treaturer Sir Hugh Biston was also to extreamely afficted with Sea ficknesse, and in so great Rardiffe.

our Treaturer Sir ringo Diston was and to Carteninery amount of his marked into a Carthisominous uell of our traine to returne for England, feeing his weake body vnable to vndergoe the resolutiao on of his mind. And I thinke this losing of our Treasurer in the beginning, was an ominous prefage of the loffe of the infinite Treasures, which afterward so value kily past by and escaped vs.

Wee being thus with contrary winds, and extreamitie of weather beaten backe into feuerall Hauens, and yet at last meeting at Plimonth (except some few Ships of transportation, that were driven vpon the Coasts of France, Wales, and Ireland, with some of our Bands of Souldiers) we fell to repairing of out Ships, and to amend those inperfections which the Seas and stormes had discouered. But withall were inforced to abate a great part of the first proportion of our Armie, as well through the derects of the Admirall his Ships, and others, as allo for the waite and expence which wee had made of our drinke and victuals by the leaking of the Caske, and by the abundance of Salt-water, which was taken in during the storme, to the wetting and spoyling of many of our prouisions. Besides that, much of our beore aboard those Victualiers that followed our Fleet with divers other provisions, was very vile and vusavoury of it selfe, by the great abule of the Victuallers and London Brewers, as well for the carelelle brewing, as for the vinfeatonable Brewers faunt Hinking Caske which they deliver, a fault much vied among them, and too much tolerated, confidering the infinite ra earld gaines they make of felling Thames water, beyond all good order and proportion. But as God would, at that initiant when wee had discharged our Ships of that vnferusceable poisonous drinke, there came very happily into Plimonth for a supply, a tall prize A Prize. Jaden with Spanish Canary Wines , which was diffributed among it the Fleet to make Beuerage. And in this fort ving all in luftry and diligence for the fetting affice of our fforme-beaten Name, wee so fitted our selves againe within eight or ten dayes, as that wee were readie for a new for-60 tune. But yet this violent and dangerous tempett had fo cooled and battered the courages of a great many of our young Gentlemen (who feeing that the boyiterous winds and mercileffe great many of our voung Gentlemen (who feeing that the boyiterous winds and mercutine Seas, had neither affinitie with London delicacie, nor Court brauery) as that diffeharging their high standard agree and had so agree Plumes, and imbroydered Callockes, they Feretly retired themselves home, forgetting either to not with delibid their friends farewell, or to take leave of their Generall. And here by the way, a little to digreffe, cacyst bruces

Adulce for Gallants.

I thinke it not amisse instily to reprehend and taxe our Nation, for their unproper and vaine manner of going to the Warres, and especially those that had never scene service. For bee hee poore or rich when hee first prepares to que to firme, hee will take more care, and be at more cost to provide himselfe of a rossing Feather, and a clynicant Cost, then to bee furnished either of fit Armes, or of necessary clothing to keepe ont wet and cold: whereby they come both to the Sea and Field service, rather like Markers then Souldiers, as men apter to bring spoyles for the Enemy, then to conquer or win bonour from him. And yet at the last the maning of their needfull habiliments in times of extreamitie, doth make them truly to sinde their owne errour and superfluous vanitie in those idle and fruitlesse toyes : whereof I could wish a reformation. as well for the bettering of our service, as also for abating such needlesse expences. Such were the parish troupes and gilded Armies of Darius, abounding in pompe and delicacy: whose millions of effeminate 10 Perlians were ener dispersed and descated by bandfulls of the poore and hardie Macedonians. So were the fleele edged Souldiers of that renowned Hanniball, meramorphofed into Cowardise and Sloth, after ther had once relished the pride and delicacies of Capua, for their conquests ever after declined. So was allo that famous M. Anthonius overthrowne and vanquished, when he left the strict Martiall discipline of his owne vitt rious Country, and fastioned his Forces according to the branery and laxury of Egypt. to observe the bumour of Cleopatra, who had utterly corrupted and weakned the courage both of him and bu leasons with vanities, excesse, and idlenesse. And such in our dayes were the glorious glistring French troupes led by the Duke of Toyente, being for the most part compounded of the gallant Courtiers and dancing Minions of Henry the Third French King of that name, but be ten and ouerthrowne at the Battell of Couttras, by the valiant King of Navarr, and an handfull of his poore Hugonotes (as they then ter- 20 med them.) Farre otherwise was the wont and manner of those worthy Romans, that by their wisdome and valuer made themselves famous, and Lords over the World, whose glorious examples wee doe more willingly read then follow. They going a warfare departed Rome in obedience and strictuesse of Martiall discipline, in sobrictie of diet and active, fitted with Armes, like men that knew that Iron and Steele were mastring mettalls over Gold and Silver, and having archieved and performed their enterprises, returned then home in triumph, in glory, and in pride, hining in the spoyles and riches of their vanquified Enemies. and adorned with as much sumpenousnesse as they could get, brauing therein their conquered Foes and setting to the shew of the world the fruits of their Valour and Tranailes. Whereas wee for the most part contrativise going out branely, and returning bome againe beg garly, leane no other test mony wer records of our Enterprises and Victorius, either to the liming or to posteritie, then the Merchants bookes wherin we are 20 deep plunged, even to the more age or fale of our Inberstance, to convert the true bonor of Souldery into effeminate pompe and delicacy. But now to the matter: We having in this Fort repaired and supplied the defects of our weather beaten Navie, onely attended the favour of the winds; wherein it feemed the heavens were veter enemies to our defignes. For during the space of an whole moneth together (after wee were againe readie) the weather stood flat opposite to our course, insomuch that wee were not able to worke our felues out of the Harbour. And in this confumption of Time we loft the best season of the yeere for our purpose, and also greatly decayed our victualls and provisions; betides the number of our Souldiers and Mariners that daily diminished. And about this time the Lord Rich finding himfelfe (as many others did) altogether viable to indure the inconueniences of the Seas in a long and toilesome voyage, tooke his leave of our Generall, and gave o- 40 uer the journey. In this extreamitie of contrary windes and croffe fortunes (against which the policie and power of man could not prevaile) our Generall, with the advice of his counfell refolued upon some other course, and to fashion his enterprises according to opportunitie, and the proportion of the meanes that remained. And thereupon calling the greatest part of his Land Armie, hee onely retained one thousand of the best Souldiers (as was thought) most of them being Companies brought out of the Low-Countries : And also at that tithe hee discharged divers of the fmaller Ships, and many of the Victuallers, raking out of them fuch provisions and store as remained to supply that which was fpent, and to lengthen out the time for those leffer numbers that were to be imployed. And whileft these things were thus altering and ordering, and committed to the care and charge of discreet Officers : Our Admirall himselfe, with his Reare-Admirall re- 40 folged to ride post to the Court, to receive further directions or approbation in that he intended for her Maiestie, and the Lords of the Councell. Leaving the charge both of the National Souldiers in his absence, with the Lord Thomas Howard his Vice-Admirall, and the Lord Mounting his Leiftenant Generall by Land whom hee authorited, together with the Counsell of Warre, to marshall those affaires as occasion required. Have by it may be easily conicilured what it is for men requirea Print to undertake Sea-actions, that have not great meanes to follow the fame, with previsions and allowance of superfluitie to meet with lets and misadmentures, and not to depend on the bare ordinary promisions of a set proportion. For by this great crosse of ours, wee may well take knowledge how uncertaine and difficult it is to fet out and prepare a Sea Army, except it bee on the purfe and defraies of a Privace, able and willing to supply the expences and binderances of such wast and accidents, as doe many times bappen 60 by want of windes when all things else are in readinesse, wherein ofientimes the enershipping, and not taking of fix houres advantage of winde when it hath ferued , bath overshrowne a Voyage. And it bath to my knowledge so fallen out, that some Ships that have taken a present gale of a day, by the be-nefutbereof have performed their Voyage, and returning agains into the Harbour, finding others of their conforts bound for the same place, and ready at the same time, fill ficking fast at ancor; by leesing the fame or portunitie.

In this absence of our Generall at the Court, there fell out such extreame stormy weather, as that it greatly troubled and puzled our Ships, both in Plimouth Road, and in the Cat Water, informuch that many of their ancors came home, and a Ship of the Reare-Admiralls, of three hundred Tunnes, called the Roe-buck, draue a ground and bulged her felfe, and to became vinferuiceable for that journey, although much paines and care was taken of all hands, and specially by our Vice-Admirall himfelte in his owne person, to have preserved her, During all this time of our abode in Plimouth, (which was fome fix or feuen weekes) we neither found ey-to ther want or dearth of any manner of victualls, either in the Towne, where our Mariners were Good order daily resident, or in the Countrey, where the Land Army was quartered; nor yet that extreame for prousfood manner of inhaunting the prices of all things vied in London, and in other places of the at Pineauti. Realme, upon the extraordinary affembling of any such great troupes. And withall it is ftrange to fee, how happily that poore corner of England, doth often receive and fustaine fo many Armies and Fleets, as doe there many times meet, without any of those inconveniences or alterations, that vpon the like occasion are found, in many other more rich and fruitfull parts of the Kingdome.

Our Generall (as is aforelaid) having spent now fixe or seven dayes in that icorney to the Court, returned with a refolution to continue the voyage to the Seas, and there (as intelligence 20 fell out) to follow the best courses in spending the rest of the Summer, and the remainder of his victualls; all forts being very forry, that fo great preparations should have veterly qualled without effecting, or attempting fomething of worth. Wee therefore now proposed to our felues, that by tarrying out till the last of October, (for the which time we were victualled after the Land Army was discharged) wee might range the Coast of Spaine, and so doe service in some of the Kings shipping, or else lying in the height betweene the Rocke and the South Cipe, wee might intercept some Indian Fleet or Carrackes, either outwards or homeward s bound, or at the least wee might meete and fight with the Adelantado, who was then faide to bee preparing of a Fleet, and ready to put to the Seas. Besides there was a brute given out, tha our Generall meant to attempt the Grome or Ferrall, and there to diffresse some of the 30 Kings thipping that lay in the Harbour, But what foener pretences and freeches were ginen out for that matter; both our Generall, and the wifest of his Counfell of Warre, did well enough knows. that the Groyne or Ferrall were then no morfells fit for our monthes, our Forces being fo abated, and shole places to well marned and promided for, by our long delayes and impediments, befides there was no likelibood; that wee would ener ingage so many of her Maiesties best Ships, within the circuit and mercy of those Harbours, upon so great disaduantage and hazard, as they must have admentured in doing any good on any of them , as they were then farnished. But wee daily see that it is Pretenant the manner and falhion of great Estates and Commaunders in the Wars, to give out and pretend mane shines, that indeed they intend not, as well to make their names the more famous and terrible, as also many times to amaze the world with false Alarums, thereby either to hold their true purposes the more secret, or at least to give them the better speed and passage, by diverting the Enemyes. A custome neither new nor visuall : and therefore not repeated as any extraordinary observation. In this fore all things being ordered and repaired, and our Generall returned with full Commiftion and retolution to proceed : his Lordship in stead of the Merehoneur (which was to weakened and Jufabled, as that thee could not goe forth againe this journey) thipped himfelfe in the Dewrepulle, which was Vice-Admirall, and our Vice-Admirall tooke vnto himfelfe the Lion. in liew of the other. And on Wednesday, being the seuenteenth of August, 1597, a little before funne fetting, wee waved our Ancors, and fet fayle, but with much labour got out of Plamonth Road, being forced to vie our Tow-boates, to fet vs cleere of the Harbour, the winde being somewhat flacke and scant. Notwithstanding, afterwards a sea-boord, wee finding the weather more facourable, held our course for the North Cape, and the three and twentieth of Se August, wee fell athwart the Bay of Alchaster, and at last bare full in with it. The which Bay of Alchaster, courie, the Matter of our Ship (called Broadebant) much diffiked, thinking it very inconvenient forand perillous for io great a Fleet, fo wilfully to be imbayed upon an Enemies Coalt, but yet followed the Generalls courfe. The foure and twentieth of the same moneth, being Bartholmen day, wee met a foule storme in that Bay, most extreamly violene for the time, but lasted not aboue fine or fixe houres. In which fforme the S. Matthew, whereof Sir George Carew, Mafter of the Ordnance, was Captaine Si Matthew two houres before day falling into an head Sea, having her Spright-fayle out, brake over-boord diffrested. her Bolt-spright, and Fore-mail close to the Partners, which for the Ships safetie was cut from 60 her fide: In the Fore-top foure Mariners were drowned, keeping their watch there, and the fall of the Masta broke two Ancors, and carried the third into the Sea, upon which disafter (according to the manner of the Sea) some Ordnance was discharged, and many Lanternes hanged vpon the shrowdes, to give notice of her distresse in the night. But after day light, the Garland (whereof the Earle of Southampton was Captaine) drew neere to her fuccour, who beholding

Zzzzzzz

Small time

ces purfe.

Still croffed.

Lord Rich de-

Land Army

parte h.

Sir Gerree Can rems refolution

with griefe, the miferable estate that this Ship was in, and likely to bee worse, for that her Mayne Mast, with the Ships rowling had loolened it felfe in the Partners, and in danger to breake in the flep (which if it had done, it would prefently have funke her.) The Earle, though hee was not able to take all the men out of her, into his owne Ship, being in number about feuen hundred persons, yet hee was destrous and carefull to preserve as many as hee might. And to that end fent his Pinnace to Sir George Carew, praying him, and as many as hee would felect of his Company to come vnto him : which noble offer of his Lordhip, the Mafter of the Ordnance (as hee had reason) thantully received ; but having a more tender care of the loffe of his Honour, then of the hazard of his life, would not torfake the Ship, but made election rather, to run the fortune of the rest of his company, then to prounde for the IO particular fafetie of himfelfe, and some other Captaines, and Gentleman of good qualitie. whereof hee had store. This answere, being returned, the Earle was yet vintatisfied, and being defirous to faue as many as his Ship could well receive, and especially those of the Better fort, fent his Pinnace to the Saint Matthew againe, perswading them not wiscully to lofe themselues. But the Captaine perseuered in his former resolution ; and when fome gallant men of his company would gladly have taken the Earles offer, and have left their conforts to their fortune, Sir George Carem would in no wife futfer a man to depart, because it should bee no discomfore to the rest, but openly protested, that both hee. they, and the Ship, would altogether runne on fortune. Whereupon the Earle, feeing that his flaying longer with the Saint Matthew, could in no fort give her men reliefe, and tearing by flay- 20 ing too long, to be farre ingaged in the Bay of Alchafter, and to look his Admirall, followed These brane resolutions have beene also vsed heretosore oftentimes, by such as have commanded in the Royall Ships, and sometimes by the Admiralls themselves. And it is well knowne to many Sea-men lining at this day, that Edward, Earle of Lincolne, High Admirall of England, a valiant man , and worthy Gentleman , in the time of Queene Elizabeth, being in fernice on the Narrow Seas, with her Royall Nanie, chanced in a tempest to fall with his Ship athwart a fand, whereby free was in great danger to bee bulged and lost; whereupon the Captaine and Master of the Ship, persuaded him in that extreamitie and danger, to take the benefit of his Pinnace, and save himselfe aboord the next of the Fleet. But the Earle, according to his honourable mind, spenly vowed and protested, that no danger should cause him to leave his company in distresse, that for his love had followed bim to the Seas : Besides, Said bee, I benour the Queene my Mistreffe so much, to bring ber word that I have faued my felfe, and lost ber Ship; and therefore let vs do our best to faue alt gether; for at this banquet wee will all drinke of one cup. Wherein, as bee gane bimselfe great glory and reputation so it seemed, that fortune fauoured bis vertue and courage; for in the end, with diligence and lubour be-Audaces fortuyoud all hope, the Ship came safe off. These extreamities and hazards on the Sea, bring to my minde an accident worth; the relating, and a piece of fernice not emprofitable for Sea-men in like cales to bee sho ferned; and this it is. In the Queenes raigne, about the time that the Pope and the King of Spaine, fent forces into Ireland to and the Earls of Delmond, who then rebelled in Munker, there was Sir Idm Partot, fent to the Seas a Fleet of her Maieftier Ships , whereof Sir Iohn Partot was Admirall, in the 40 Reuenge, and Sir William Gorges, my Father, in the Dread-naught Vice-Admirall; who when they had performed their service on the Coast of Ireland, and other places, in their returne home-Sir W. Gorges. Drinalla Picat, wards, the Vice-Admirallebanced to take an English Pirate, whose name was Derivall, a very valtant and skilfull Mariner. This Derivall, the Admiral tooke aboord his owne Ship, and kept him ner thenman. prifoner in the Bilbowes. But fo it fortuned, that a great forme arising in the Narrow Seas, the Fleet was scattered, and Sir Iolin Parrats Shippe raune upon a Sand, where, a good time lice did dangerousty beate, having strucken all his Sayles, and with every Billow was like to bee bulged. And in this desperate extremitie they saw no other way left, but bow they might with Boates, and Rafts faue the men, and for sake the Shippe; some being of one opinion, and some of another, as mirall, that hee knew well the lying of that Land, and would direct them a way how to fame the bope or despaire led them. This Derivall being then prisoner in the Bilbowes, fent word to the Ad-Ship and all the company, if hee would promise him on his Faith, and Honow, to eet his Pardon when hee came home in recompence thereof. The Admirall willingly accepted the profer, and ingazed his Faith for the performance of his demand, and taking turn out of the Bilbowes, had him before the first himselfe. Whereanto Detituall answered. In hope you will save my life, according to your word and Faub given, I will (by Gods belpe) save all yours : but if I shounds otherwise, I had rather here drowne with so good company, then bee hanged at home alone. The Admirall hidde him not doubt st, but follow bis bufinesse. is hereupon Derius presently commanded the Master and Mariners, to horse up all their Sayles they could make, to the very Bats end, which was cleane contrary to that they bad done before. (for fearing the mighty winds , they had strooke all their sayles , and so liv thumping on 60 the Sands) but now the firong gale haung filled all their fayles, fill as the billow role, it draue the Ship forwards, and so in four eor five shounds, being driven with the violence of the windes and the wants, with his firrages be cut cleane through and athwart the Sand, and floated into the Sea. This was a di fortaleremed e for a di fortale danger; for if bee had not vied the benefit of her fajles, and curried ker ashwart (the Ship being a strong built vessell) shee would fill base layer sumbling on the Sand, and at last broken her (elfe. Notwithstanding this good service done by Detiuall, when bee came home, his reward was an halter, his offence being remembred, and his defert forgotten: and get the Admiral did Derisellhinhis best to fane bim according to bis promife. But furely (in my poore opinion) in (nch cases a State frould acd against dos well, for examples fake, and for incouragement of others, to take notice of fuch extraordinary feruices. and to remember that vertue deferues no leffe to bee cherified, then vice to be chaftifed, and that to Advice. whom a State committeeth the trust or considence of a Generalls or Admiralls place, st should also allow bim the honor, to make good his word for any thing, that concernes the advancement of the fernice wherewith her is put in trust.

Ed. E. of Lincolne High Admirall.

But I will returne againe to Sir George Caren , whom we left tottering in his wrackt Ship, and in a great storme, for I have occasion here to stand somewhat upon the Relation of his hard aduentures after his difatter , because I have heard it by many that were with him in the Ship, often, and at large discoursed of; and himselse being a princical Officer in the Action, fhipt in a vessell of great charge, it cannot bee reputed as a digression, or impertment from the matter, for small is the reward of those that so resolutely engage, and expose their lives for the feruice of their Prince and Countrey, if they should not bee allowed the comfort of honourable Story of the memory. After the departure of the Earle of Southampton from the S. Mathew, as aforefaid, ma- S. Mathew, ny Counfells in this diffressed Ship were held for the cutting of her Mayne Mail ouer-board, which with rowling was growne at last to be so loofe, as that it was continually seared that it would breake in the Stop, and when the Carpenters were ready to begin that worke, the fforme ceased, and the Seas began to calme, wherein finding comfort, they made of a space top Matt a lury Fore-mast, and the Pinnace sayle served for a Fore-sayle. In this pittifull estate the Ship still running before the winde, which shee could not otherwise doe by reason of her small Fore-sayle, within foure dayes after by the goodnesse of God, came rafely to an anchor at the Ile of Saint Martreines in France, where Sir George Carew made all the meanes hee might to get a new Mait, whereby hee might follow the Fleet. But vpon S. Matthew all that Coast hee could not prouide himselfe of any to fit to great a Gallyon. And therefore brough home of necessitie having setled his Mayne-matt, he returned for England, and within few dayes arriued in the Hauen of Portimouth.

Hee thus having brought the Saint Mathen (beyond all hope) fafe within a good Harbour, not any thing dilamayd with past perills , presently dispatched Captain Francis Slingsby in post C.Fr.Slingsby. to the Court, to aduertife the Lords of her Maiesties Councell, of the misfortunes which had befalne him, and there with all humbly defired that he might be permitted to take her Marefres thip Sit Garee Cacalled the Adventure, which was then in that Harbour, and inher to follow the Fleet, which being granted he shipped himsel'e in her, and according to the instructions (which were delivered tures with to every Captaine of the Fleet) hee fought for the Admirall at the Groyne, which was the first Aquenture, Randenous let downe in the instructions aforesaid, from thence hee made to the Rocke, and not finding the Fleet at either of these places, he failed to the Cape Saint Pincent, where it was resolved by the Lord Admirall and Councell of the Warre to stand off and on, and to attend the comming home of the West Inder Fleet. There hee had intelligence by a small man of Warre of Plemonth, that the Generali with the whole Fleet was at the Hands of the Afores, whereunto he directeth his courte. And when hee was (as hee efteemed) within one hundred leagues of the Tercora, he had intelligence by another fmall man of Warre, in the which a man of Sir William Brookes was Captaine, that followed the Fleet for purchase, that the Lord Generall in his opinion was at that time vpon the Coast of England, for hee had left the Hands fourteene daies before the Aduenture, and he did meet ; vpon which intelligence he changed his course for England. And not farre from Vihent in the night, hee fell into the middelt of a great Spanift Fleet, Spanift Fleet, which had bin with the Adelantado vpon the Coast of England, & then homeward bound; but the night being fformy, he escaped that perill, and yet not without great danger. For one of the Spanis Gallions which was supposed to bee the Admirall (for shee carried a mightie Lanthorne in her Poope) passed so neere to the Adventure, that their Mayne-yards in the end were foule one of the other, so as they hardly augyded their stemming of their Ships, which in all likelihood must have funke one, or both. With this storme the Adnessare was forced into Ireland, into Corke Hauen in Munster, where hee repaired his Ship of certaine leakes thee had, and also corke H. uen; mended her Mayne Matt, which was strangely shinered with a whirlewind. And then putting to Sea againe for England, a little before day, in a fforme the Ship was driven vpon the lee shoare Dangerby within Beach; in Suffex; and not being able to double that head-land, in the endeauouring wher- from e.

Rockes, they came to an anchor, every Billow overwalking the Ships head, that neither by pum-60 ping, nor lading out of the water, they were able to free her : and the men in her to tired with labour, as no hope of safetie was left. The last remedy was to cut all the Masts and Tackle ouerboord, which lightened the Ship, and by that meanes shee was preferred. After thirtie houres of this extreme perill, the ftorme cealed, and so by Gods fauour with a lury Mast, which was made of the Boat Matt, and the Boat Sayle, having no Matt nor anchor left but one, he arriof all the Sayles, being by violence of weather rent from the yards, to auoid running upon the

Zzzzzzz 2

ued youn Allbollenday in the Downes, beyond all expectation of the Masters and Mariners, who made no other reckoning then to be loft.

And thele were the accidents that separated Sir George Carem from the Fleet, in the huge ftormes on Bartholmew day, in the Bay of Alchafber, as aforesaid. In which ftorme the Saint Andrew at that time spent her mayne top Mait, and lost we for three or foure dayes, but all the rest of the Fleet, (except our Ships, which carried the Low-Country Souldiers) kept together in the Bay. And io many as came to vs after at the Rocke, were beaten also from the Admiral in that Bay, and fo were many other Ships, which found vs after at the Rocke, to the number of thirty and odde Contle of the fayle. Whereupon a rumour was afterward raifed, that the Reare-Admirall was gone away with thirty fayle from the Fleet, to the ouerthrow of the intended feruice. Our Admirall fill bare in Io with the Land, & the most part of the Fleet followed the same course. The next day we made the high Land of Portugal, and within some three houres after, Cape Prior, where our Admirall with divers other of the Fleet, did beare in so close aboord the shore, as that all the Country over began to kindle fires. The which manner of disconering our selwes (as I do remember) was much noted by divers good Souldiers, as well by Sea, as Land : for indeed it was reputed no great policie, nor discretion in vs. to runin so close aboard the shoare, if we had any secret or sudden exploit to performe on that Coast, as it was Brau dos often pretended. For that Branado of ours, ded but give them more marking to provide for themselves, and to prevolcalonable. went vs. And I baue observed that those braning bumours, have of late yeeres been the bindrance, and loffe of many good fortunes, as well in Sir Francis Drake bis two last Voyages to the Indies, and Sir John Norris in bis to Lisbon, by staying at the Groyne, as also in others, &c. Towards the enening, we pur roome agains from the Coast, and beat up and downe in the Bay to free vs from thence, expecting a wind wherewith to double the North Cape, which, within two or three dayes wee had, and so passed along within ten leagues of the Coast by Ferrall, the Grone, and Cape Bealins, and io weathered the North Cape. And as the Fleet together was paffing along towards the South, almost as farre as the Iles of Bayon, our Ship (the Wastinte) being then a middeft them all, on the feuen and twentieth of August, broke her mayne Yard in funder in the very middeit by the Parrell. Whereupon we prefently discharged a Peece of Ordnance. and made our misfortune knowne to our Admirall, who himselfe spake with vs, and also at that time had a great leake broken out vpon his owne Ship. And there by his order and permission we were willed to repaire our mayne Yard the best were could , and vitill it were finished in 30 that birth to goe on with our Fore-fayle towardes the Rocke before the winde, whiles in towardes the Coast, and so, wee there to ply up and hee with the Fleet would downe about the height of the Rocke, vntill his Lordship came vnto vs, or during the dayes limited in the generall inftructions, and thence to passe onwards to the South Cape, and there to remaine according to the faid directions. And yet wee did not for two dayes after depare, though to our great difeafe ; for wee wallowed in the trough of the Sea, and rowled fo extreamely, as that wee had like to have loft our mayne Mast alio. After this order giuen, wee presently tooke adunce the best wee could, and set our hands together for the repayring and finishing of our mayne Yard, being broken in the Parrell, a very euill place to amend : wherein that night wee could doe little good , more then to free the Sayles and Tackle 40 from it. Notwithstanding the very next morning the Admirall fent a commandement to vs, that wee should presently attend him with all speed, for that hee meant to put in with the Land : The which wee were altogether viable to performe, our mayne Yard being in funder, and impossible it was so suddenly in one night to repayreit, and without it, wee were not able to worke vpon a wind, (as all Mariners know) having but our Fore-fayle and Mizen, and the winde almost of the Land, so as it had beene but an idle labour, for the more we striued, the faster wee fell off. Besides, if wee could have layd the Land with that fayle, it had beene a madnesse to put our selues vpon the Enemies Coast in that estate, for if the wind had then changed to the West, we wanting all our mayne Sayles, must have yeelded or perished So as in regard of this necessitie, we did for two daies, as aforesaid ply vp and down, 50 untill wee had repaired our Yard, and fitted our fayles votoit, being now fine foot shorter then it was before.

Vice-Admirals

Whilest wee were thus distressed on our Enemies Coast, Sir William Brooke, Captaine of the Dread nought came vnto vs and tarried with vs, out of his owne charitie and friendly disposition, for there were no directions (that wee heard of) given to any to accompany vs in that diffresses Onely the Vice-Admirall (of his owne noble care) very kindly and honourably hayled vs, and offered what comfort and helpe hee could give vs; some others afterwards did the like. But we hauing yeelded due thankes to the Vice-Admirall for such his noble care and curtesie desired no more company, but wished all others of our Squadron to repaire vnto the Admirall, contenting our selves with Sir William Brooke in the Dread-naught, and two or three other small men of our 60 owne Squadron, which of their owne accord followed vs. Neither did we in all this time intreat the company of any one Ship more to stay with vs, albeit the contrary was very fallly suggested and reported in a strange manner of phrase, which was, that the Reare-Admirall vpon the breaking of his Mayne-yard, willed all his Squadron and those that loued him to keepe him company, and not to follow the Admirall. But as this was a monitrous vintruth, raifed out of malice to the Reare-Admirall, thereby to inuegle the Admirall against him; so the authors were after wards a hamed of their impudent flander, when the truth was made manifest at our meeting againe with the Admirall and the Fleet at the Hands of Afores:

As foone as wee had mended our Maine-yard, wee bare in with the Coaff, making all the inquiry that we could for our Admirall and the Fleet, but could not have any intelligence of them. Whereupon cafting many conjectures, weefent a small Man into the Iles of Baron, but could learne no newes of him there. Then wee thought verily that hee would hold on his courte for the South-Cape according to the generall instructions, we well knowing that hee could not then To put in for Ferrall or the Grome (as was afterward colourably fuggested) the wind being flat against him , and our whole Fleet having over-shot it neere twentie leagues before that our Yard was broken; and therefore it was rather a pretence to seeme desirous to undertake it, then that there was any possibilitie to performe it. For besides that weehad overshot it, and the wind contrary, to as we could not recouer it again, both those Ships were wanting which were chiefly defigured to bee adventured in that feruice, namely the Saint Andrew and the Saint Mathew, two S. Mathew and huge Gallions of the King of Spaines, that were but the yeere before taken at the facke of Cales, S. Andrew aand onely faued of fortie or fiftie faile that were then beaten and burnt to affres. Vpon their reas ken at cadize fons wee shaped our course for the Rocke, plying vp and downe in that height for a few dayes. In which time wee gaue chase to divers Spanish ships which wee beate into Cast-keyes, and caused 20 some of them to runne on ground, wee being so neere Cast-keper as that we could number divers tall ships that road there under the Fort. Here wee housely expected our Admirall, being the very appointed place for a Randeuous to all the Fleet, and would gladly have met with him, being of our felues but a weake force to lye on that Coaft, if the Spanish Armado had beeue abroads as wee were to suspect it was, or in a readinesse at the least, And therefore it was fouly rallihed or mistaken of those that gaue it out, and carryed the newes into England, that wee had of purpose left and lost our Admirall to range the Coast alone at our pleasures. For being no stronger then wee were, and lying as wee did in the height that was appointed by the generall instructions to the whole Fleet, it was not to be imagined in any fende or reason, that wee defired to leave or lose the Fleet upon the breaking of our Maine-yard to neere the Coast of Spaine, and 30 the Adelantadoes Forces then bruted to bee abroad. But indeed our Reare-Admirall commanded all our Squadron to follow the Generall, because he pretended to aduenture your the Groine. Yet we hoped, and so hee promised, that either hee would come off to vs againe where wee lay, or find vs without faile at the Rocke, but did neither : for there were three places of our Randenous appointed, if any separation happened. The first at the North Cape and failing there, then at the Rocke, and failing there, then at the South Cape. Now when all fuch thips as were fundred by tempeft in the Bay of Alcafber, failed of their Admiral at the North Cape, they then fought him at the Rock, where they found the Reare-admiral, who held them altogether, and brought them to the Generall at the Hands; elfe had they all returned home, after they had miffed of some Admis rall to command them at the third and last place of meeting ; for none of our Fleet went for 40 farre to the Southward.

Whilest wee thus stayed about the Rockes the Caruells of Lisbone, and of the parts thereabouts? would daily come twarming about vs like Butter-flyes, so neere, as that we might cast a stone into some of them, and yet could wee neuer catch any one of them, so yare and nimble they are. But if wee would have bestowed any musket or great shot on such bables, wee might peraduenture have killed some of their men, or sunke some of them, which wee forbare in hope to draw them to vs oftner, and then if any calme had happened we might have taken them with our Boars and by them gotten some Intelligence. At the same time also there came to the Rocke necre thirtie faile of thips of our owne Victuallers and Transporters, amongst whom was Captain Sidner, Captaine White, Captain Berry, and others, some of whom wee tooke into vs out of their owne weake thips; who having loft the Generall in the Bay of Alcafer, in the storme aforesaid, love ht him first at the North Cape; and missing him there, came to the Rocke, according to the generall inthructions, and they by chance finding the Reare-Admiral at the Rocke, were held together till wee either found or heard from the Generall. After we had thus plied vp and downe about the height of the Rocke, and yet determined at last to have passed on for the South Cape, there came athwart vs a small Barke of England, with whom wee communed, inquiring what newes in the South parts where they had beene. They told vs, that they had lately met a Man of Warre bound tor England, that had taken an Indian man, naming the Captaine, who (as they faid) informed Falle inte fithem for certaine that the Atlantado was gone for the Ilands, to weft home the Indian Fleet. Entiffeman, This report seemed to carry with it good likelihood of truth, for we beard before that the Atlantado was 60 preparing to the Seas, and also were certain, that both the King of Spaine his Treasure, and other Indian Fleets were to come home that yeere. Besides, we did not suspect that one of our owne Country would be so lend, or durst presume to infurme her Maiesties Naue, with a meere false coyned suggestion, as indeed this was found to be afterward. For such a dishonest treacherous part may sometimes turne to a great inconnensence, in discriting a whole Fleet by a false intelligence, and is a point better fitting a

Zzzzzzz z

Trastor then a true man, and well deserves b severe and publike punishment for an example to all other. For although (sa-furing men will now and then (as doe Poets and Painters) take liberty to fabilitetic is no good selling nor dalying with Princes affaires in that fort, and therefore if I could call to mind the Captaine or Masters name, surely I would doe them the curtesie now to remember them.

Hereupon our Reare-Admirall thinking it very require, and his dutie to informe our Admirall of this aduertifement as foone as might bee, ernoftly required the fame Man to ply un towards the North-Cape, all along the Coatt as well as he could, (because it lay in his way homewards bound) to find out our Fleet, & to informe our Admiral of this Intelligence. But he answered in the hearing of all the company, that the Captaine that had taken this Indian. Prize, had already fent the Admirall a Letter to the fame effect. Yet the Reare-Admirall for the more furetie 10 (doubting that a Letter might mifcarry, or that no such Letter might bee fent, being but an excule of this Man to put off the trouble of tecking out our Fleet, being a matter of great importance) commanded one of his small Men (that at that time followed vs) to deliner the same adpertifement to our Admirall, as hee had received it by word of mouth; and to vie all diligence to feeke him, and the Fleet, and to deliver the report truly in manner as it was related, and withall to fignifie vatolis Lordflip, that wee there attended him in that height according to the directions, and so would observe all places and times appointed, and that in such fort his Lordship should be fure to heare of vs, vpon any occasion to wait on him. This message, and Messenger could fufficiently witnesse, that we had no intent nor defire to abandon the Fleet, or to sequester our felies, being at the placefet downe in the generall inftructions. This small Man that had this 20 message in charge to deliuer to his Lordship, the next day (by good hap) found out the Fleet, and youn delivery of this newes, within two dayes after, our Reare-Admirall received two feuerall Letters to one effect from the Admirall one after another. First somewhat taxing him for not writing, then for his absence and withal requiring him presently to follow him to the Ilands, whether he faid he would (by Gods helpe) halten to find the Adelantado, not doubting but to giue his Meftreffe a better account of that feruice, then the Adelantado fhould yeeld his Mafter: fo, or much to that effect the Letters went, for I my felle read them (with the Reare-Admirall his permission) and therefore can truly report their contents.

Voon this fuldaine and itrict meffage, we presently altered our determination from going to yard began againe to cracke, infomuch that wee were interced to strengthen it with more fishing. And as commonly misfortunes never come alone, so in the necke of this trouble, our Mayn-mait began to thrinke alto, i pringing great flawes in diners places, in fo much that at laftiwe greatly doubted with every high blatt or wind, that it would have beene blowne over-boord. This fudden disatter much troubled vs, and the more, to thinke what vnequall constructions would be made thereof. Wee acquainted all the rest of our conforts with this late befallnemischiefe, and defired vie all our best means to come speedily after, desiring him, and all the rest to hast to our Admiral, and to fignifie our misfortunes, and withat to make the more speed, for that if the Adelantado were at the Ilands, our Admirals Forces would be wel helped by their companies, & fo for a few hours,

Sir William Brooke in the Dread naught to carry the light for all the company feeing that curihip 40 was to defective that we must needs stay to fee if we could make the Mast feruiceable, but would the South-Cape to haft to the Hands, and the fore we prefently gave notice to Sir William Brooke 20 and the rest of our conforts, of our Admirall his Letters, and what way he meant to take, and so instantly without any further delay, we shaped our course for the Ilands. But in this passage of

They shave for the Hands, ours towards the Hands, as weel had a franke wind, to met wee with other lets. For our Maine-

Leriers from

Sep. 8. They

Note for the

we and our conforts parted, only we retained two little small Men with vs for our better comfort. Yet not with flanding this order and direction given, so great were our delires to go on, & our labor fuch, as that the same night wee had new fined our crased Maine-mail with a spare Maine top Maft that lay by vs, and then to plied our fayles as that the next day towards the evening, wee ouercooke Sir William Brooke againe, and the rest of our conforts halting towards the llands as was directed. And on the eight of September, in the yeere 1 97, being Thursday, wee made the lle 50 cailed the Tercera, and weathered it to the North-west; where we met with an English Merchant that came from Saint Michaels, and had layen trading about those Handssome fix weekes together, but could not tell waany ne wes of our Admirall and the Fleet, albeit they were paffed by but two dayes before. Which showes how easie a matter it is for shipping to passe by amongst those llands unscene, and bow difficult it is to find out such Ships among those clauds, as would helter themselves from men of Warre, and court not to becmet withall, seeing that to great a Flee: could passe by unscene or the beard of, by one that came iust from the Hands, at the same time that our Generall came thither. And therefore it is a necessary observation for all such men of warre, as would meet or intercept any signing, that dith touch at thise llands, or do come from thence to keep in the maine fea, and fo to attend their comming forth, and not to puzzle themselves with running in amongst those llands to seeke for purchase, ex- 60 cept they have others of their conforts lying in the Sea at the recent, if they chance to flip by, which is eastlidone. This Merchant informed vs of certaine West Indian men, and two Carracks, that a month before had touched there, bound for Spaine. And by this Merchant wee wrote into Englandiowaffaires went. In patting thus onwards we discoursed Saint Georges Hands, and there we diffractional two of our final men, with charge to fearch about the Islands for our Fleete, and to enforme our Admirall, that we were going for Flores, and Cuerwos, in hope to meete him there. withall willing those imall men to come thirher vnto vs. And yet I remember many in our Ship were doubtfull, and laid great wagers, that our Fleet was not yet come to the Itlands, for that this Merchant could make no report thereof.

Whileft we were before Saine Garges, we were very much becalmed for a day or two, and the weather extreamely hot, infomuch as the winde could not beare the fartes from the maffex. bus were faine to hull in the Sea, to our great ducoutentment, that before had yield fisch great diligence and hafte to meete with our Admirall, and the rest of the Fleete. Notwithstanding to the winde began againe to be favourable, and to fetting forwards, the next of the Hands that we made, were Grasiofa, Pyke, and Fayall, And as we ranged by Gratiofa, on the tenth of September, about twelve a clocke at night, we faw a large and perfect Kainbow by the Moone light, in the bigneffe and Rainbowe by forme of all other Rainbowes, but in colour much differing, for it was more whitesh, but chiefly inclining Moonlight dito the colour of the flame of fire. Thus made us expell some extruordinary tempessuas meather, but in-from these or deede it fell out afterward to be very calme and hot. This Rainbow by the Moone light I doe the rather the Sunne. take occasion to note : for that I remember that Plinic in his natural! History of the world , speaking of Meteors, denietis any Rainbow to be feene, but opposite to the Sunne, and neuer in the night feason: and yet (faith be) Atiltotle reported for a raritie, that in bu time there was a Ruinbow frene by micht but withall affirmeth, that is could not be but at the full of the Moone. But in thefe parts they are very or-

20 dinary, as well when the Moone is not at the full as otherwise, which maketh me to thinke; that there !land were never knowne to the Greekes, nor to the Roman, nor that those former ages did truely conceine or know many things, that in the le latter times have ben discovered. For although Salomon faith that nothing is now under the Sunne (which ne doubt is malt true for all things have had their beine fince the first Creation) yet all things have not bin known in all places, and to all men alike. But as the long lives of men in the first ness (no doubt made their hummledes the ereater by the benefit of long observatson : fo againe, we in thefe latter dayes by the tradition of their knowledge, left onto us, and also by the difconery of those things which time bath renealed, have found out many secrets to them unknowne. But

The same night by the light of the Moone (which was then almost fallen with the Horison) 30 we might effic certaine ia les passing towards the Eastwards of Gratiofa; whereupon we gave order that a couple of our imali men should follow, and give them chate, as we in the Waltfprehe likewife did, and hone out two lights to caufe Sir William Brooke in the Dread-naught, and the reft of our conforts, to hold the fame course with vs , but wee were followed by none of them. which when we perceived, and the Moone-light being now by the earth fo shaddowed from vs. as that we could hold no longer fight of these failes (which had thrust themselves in amongst the Islands) we cast about, and held on our former courfe, But by this chasing for this lettle time (euen as we suspected) we lost the Dread-nangbt, and most of our conforts, and neuer faw them after, votill we met them with our Admirall, and the rest of our Fleete at Flores; whither with foant windes we came, on the foureteenth of September, and then discouered all our Fleete. But They come to 40 at the first making of them, we stood somewhat doubtfull, whether it was our owne, or the Span the Floria nil Armado, they being as farre from vs. as we were able to ken out of our maine too, and therefore we did full firing to keepe into the weather, in approaching neere voto them, virill at laft, we perfectly made them to be English bottomes. As soone as we were come within two leagues of them, the Seas being very calme, our Reare-admirall, my felfe, and some other Gentlemen of our finip, went aboord our Generall in a Barge, and dined with him, who feemed to be the joy- Entertainment fulleft man buing for our arrivall, protefting, that he neuer beleeved that we would leave him, al- by the General though divers perswaded him the contrary; and acknowledged that hee was forry for a Letter which he had written by Mafter Robert Knolles into England against vs, promising presently to make a dilpatch of purpole, contrary to the former ; having also found soone after by examina-

50 tion, that not any one of these thirtie and odde sales of victuallers, and transporters, which came now with vs., were drawne from him by the Reare-admirall, but that they all came to the Rocke to feeke the Generall, and there by chance found vs , who drew them to the Iffands, much against their defires, being most of them in great diffresse. Afterwards wee enquired abourd our Generall, what had paffed with them fince we departed, upon the breaking of our maine yard, before the Illes of Bayon; and we learned that in all this time, they had done nothing but ranged the Seas to leeke the Adelantado, and were come to the Hands but three dates before vs, where the Gouernours of the Islands of Flores and Cueruss, came to our Generall.

The Inhabitants of which two III and steemed to be but a wretched needle kinde of people, and II his tants of yet as crafty, as bale, and bare. Thefe very tubmifly humbled themfelues vnto our Generall, Flores Cherrot 60 bringing with them Fruites, Hens, and other fre'h victuall, imploring fauour, and mercie at his hands, and that he would vouchfate to give them his fafeguard under his hand, to protect them from the foode, and invation of our men : ailedging for themselves that they were an harm. Life poore people, that gaue offence to none, but divile in Itlands that yeelded comfort and reliefe oftentimes, to all sea-faring men in their long Voyages, betweene the Indies and Christendome,

Entle of ETex behau our to

1950

and were anciently subjects to the Portugals, friends to our Nation, and nothing guiltie of the Hothlitie betweene vs, and the Spaniards, who (as they faid) did viurpe, and tyrannize bothouer the Portugals and them. Our Generall heard, and entertained them, with great curtefie. and told them that he came not to afflict poore men, but was fent by the Queene his Miffris. to by niver and chaffife the intollerable pride and intolencie of the Spanish, whose Indian Gold and riches, were imploied onely to the oppression, and disturbance of divers Christian States and Princes; and these Islands being the chiefe places of retrait and refreshing for his Fleetes, that passed betweene Enrepe and the Indies, were great meanes, and helpes, to further their boundleffe ambition, and twrannie, with other discourse to that effect. And so inquiring of them very precisely, the times. and featons that the Indian Fleetes, both inward, and outward bound, held in paffing by those tea Illands; in conclusion gaue them divers gifts, and his Protection in wrighting vader his hand and feale from the violence of our Forces, which was very respectively observed, even to the value of an Hen, which no man durit take without paying for. Such was the moderation and bountie of this noble Gentleman our Generall, indued with many good gifts, though at the last he failed After we had bin abourd our Generall, and dined with him, he acquainted our reare Admirall with the many coniectures, and furmifes of our absence, and withall named vnto him some of those men that had taxed him secretly with strange reports, and yet pretended to love him. which he protested (as aforesaid) he never beleeved, but thereby the better observed some mens frandalous, and cankered dispositions. In this fort did our Generall receive and welcome our reare 70 Admirall, with the greatest kindenesse, and inward familiaritie that might be, and all the Gentlemen of his Companie with honorable cuttesie, to the great dillike and hart-burning of some that much enuied that liking, which of his owne disposition, our Generall did beare voto him : For albeit the Earle had many doubts and lealousies buzd into his eares against the other, yet I have often observed, that both in his greatest actions of service, and in his times of chiefest recre-Sir W. Ralei b. ations, he would ever accept of his countell and company, before many others that thought themselves more in his favour. And as touching the Advertisement that was sent into England, from the Illes of Bayon, by Mafter Robert Knolles, in a Pinnace called the Guiana, concerning vs, that were forfaken, and left alone vpon the breaking of our Maine yard : whereupon was pretended that many great exploits should have bin performed vpon the coast of Spaine, if wee had not fal- 30 len from them (as was vntruely fuggefted and reported) his Lordship promised the reare Admirall then, to fend another advertisement, how we were all metagaine, and had bin formerly feuered by misfortunes onely, and not by any wilfull default in the reare Admirall, as was doubteed. And that Aduertisement sent formerly by Master Knolles, we well knew proceeded not out of any particular malice of the Generall to vs, but onely to rake that as a fit excuse to free himfeife from the enterprises of Ferall, or the Groine, which he had promited her Maiestie to vindertake, but faw it impossible to performe, by reason of the former crosses, and our long stay in Plimmonth; and therefore was glad to take the opportunity of any colour to fatisfie her Maiestie, and to discharge himselfe of that burthen, which we did all perceive, and therefore did strive the lesse the publish our Apologies, or to contest with a man of his place and credit, which (though in a 40 right) had bin but booteleffe, and meere folly; and therefore we left him to his best excuse, and our apparant innocencie. And for the more plaine manifesting of the Message, I have thought it not amusse, here to insert the true copie of the Instructions verbatim, that our Generall sent by Master Robert Knolles into England, upon these accidents before the i sles of Bayon.

That we weighing Ancor and fetting faile from the found of Plimmouth, the seventeenth of this moneth of August, having sometimes calmes, but for the most part, Westerly and Northeasterly windes, we fellon thursday, the fine and swenty of this moneth with the Land, which is to the Eastward of the Cape Orcingall, which land we made in the morning about ten of the clocke, and food in with the sboare, till three in the afternoone. Then finding the winde scant to ply to the Southward, I stood all night into the Sea, and the next morning in againe to the Land. By which boords, by reason of the head-sea, and the 50 bare winde, we got nothing. On Friday night I stood off againe to the Sea, and about midnight the winde comming all Northerly, we got a good slant, to lie all along the coast : on Saturday in the morning, I disconcred the Saint Andrew, whom we had loft fight of two or three dayes before. I have with her, and had no sower got her up, but Sir Walter Rawleigh shot off a peece, and game us warning of his being in di-Streffe. I presently bare with him, and found that he had broken his maine yard. Whereupon I willed him to keepe along the coast that birth that he was, will be got in the height of the North Cape, and my feife baning a desperate leake broke out as ener fou fram withall, which I was fame to lye by the lee, and feele, to stop it, which how it held us, you can report: and (God be thanked) that night we onercame it, and stopped it. The next morning we all came to Cape Finiter, facing the Sain: Masthew, who upon breaking of her fore maste went bome : and the Waltipight with whom the Dreadnaught went without flop to 60 the South Cape. This is all that is hapned to me. If her Maiestie aske you, why there was no attempt upon the Fleets at Teral, you may fay, I neither had the Saint Matthew, which was the principall sup for that execution, nor the Saint Andrew, till mine owne hip was almost sunke, and I not able to make faile, till Sir Walter Rawleigh with his owne ship the Dreadnaught, and very neere twenty faile were cone. Wee are now gone to lye for the Indian Fleete, for by Spaniards wee bane taken, wee finde the Adelantado senot ont to Sea this yeare. Of our successe, ber Masefte shall from time to time be aduertifed : you hall acquaint Maiter Secretarie mith this instruction ; and both to him and all our friends you must excuse our baste.

We being thus met all at Flores, defired our Generall to give vs, and our conforts leaves to water there before we departed thence, as his Lordihip and the rest had done before, which he veelded vnto, and very nobly lent vs his owne long Boate, for our better speede, willing vs there to water, whileft he with the reft of the Fleete, did ply vp and downe to looke out for the Adelantado, or any Indian Fleete, that being the very fit place, and leafon for them. Hereupon whilele to our men and Mariners were prouiding to water, our Reare-admirall, with Sir William Brooke, my felfe, and diners other Gentlemen went ashoare, to stretch our legs in the Isle of Flores, and to refresh our selves with such victuals as we could there get for our monie. And at our first landing there, we met with the Lord Gray, Sir Gylly Merricke, and other Gentlemen, and wee altogether walked a mile or two into the Countrie, and there dined in a little Village, where the barelegged Gouernour caused such things to be brought vnto ws, for our monie, as the Island afforded

In other fort we tooke nothing, which was very faire wars. This Island seemes to be somewhat mountainous, yet having very good store of Fruits, Wheat, and other Corne. Their Corne they doe all keepe in large hollow vaults within the earth, hauing no other way nor entrance into them, but by a round hole in the top of the vault, onely to big 20 as a man may creepe into it, and when it is closed up with a planke, and ouerstrewed with earth is very hard to be found out by firangers, for the which purpote they are so made, and much like. the Caues in Galcorne, and Languedocke, and fuch as are mentioned by Calar to be viso in offfricke. This Island lies more subject to the invasion of Sea-faring men, then any of the reft; for there all traders of the Indies doe vivally water, and refresh themselves. But here I must not for- A Countilfor get to relate, that before we had our leaue to water, or were departed from the Generall, a Countraking in the fell was called, and holden, for the taking in of fome of the Islands, and an orderly course fer Hands. downe for the same: which was in this fort concluded on: The Admirall and Reare-admirall to undertake Farall; the Lord Thomas Haward Vice-admirall, and the Marshall Vere, to undertake Gratiola: The Lord Mounting, Lieutenant Generall, and Sir Christopher Blum Coronell Gene-30 rall of the Foote to Saint Michaels : and the Netherland Squadron, was quartered to Price, where the greatest flore of Wines doe grow, and therefore would not be taken in ill part of them.as we prefumed. The reason why we resolved to master and waste all these stands was, because is was determined by the Generall to attempt the Tercere it felfe : which enterprise was put off. because the Reare-admirall, and with him twenty or thirty saile were wanting. But being now (contrary to all expectation, and to many mens hopes) arrived, this refolution received a fecond live; but it was first thought necessary to take from them, and to helpe our selues, with all the victuals and other commodities that those Islands could affoord: For the performance of which with the more speede, we divided our selves into soure Companies, as before written: But surely the fortune of those poore wretches was lamentable, that fell into the Flemmings bands; for I thinke 40 no people on the earth, can vie leffe mercy, or greater infolencies then they doe, in all the places that they maister, which are subject to the Spanish Government : and yet I must fay truely for them, that the Spa- Spaniardsenting niards againe have ved fuch tyrannie, and outrage in their iurifdictions over that industrious people, as tie implacable hath well merited their irreconcileable malice, and withall bath coft the Spanish King many millions of Ducates, besides the life of many a prond Castilian, since the Execution of the Counts Egmount and Horne, And it is very admirable to fee what heart and courage those Netherlanders are now growns unto, and how powerfully three or foure little Provinces, doe refilt the forces of that mightie King. that keepes Millaine, Naple-, and Sicill in great bondage, in despight of all the Italians, who doe nish reake. After this confultation for taking in of the Islands, as aforefaid, and leave given vnto vs, and our conforts to water with all the speede we could, at Flores, we having prepared our Caske, and all things in a readinesse to bring our fresh water aboord, about midnight, being the sixteenth of September, there came vnto vs from our Generall, Captaine Arthur Champernoune, with this meffage; That my Lord Generall was borne up for Fyall, and ment presently to take it in, and therefore willed vs with all speede to follow him instantly, and though wee could not ouertake him, yet at least to finde him there so soone as we could, and the same word was likewise deliuered to Sir William Brooke, and the reit, that lay there to water. And further, our Generall lent vs word, that we should supply all our wants of water, and fresh victuals at Fayall. And this night as we rode at ancer before Flores, we faw another Rainebow, by the Moone light, as before, and afa Rainbow be thinke themselnes for valour, and for policie the Minions of the Earth, and yet bow their neskes to the Spa-

60 ter the famo manner, which (contrary to Plinies report of Artiforels opinion) was feene, though not at a the Moone. full Moone, for the other was so seene some seven dayes before, in the which space, there could not be two full Moones. Vpon this Meflage brought by Captaine Champernowne we forbare watering, and haited all we could, to weigh our anchors, and to follow our Generall. And therefore gaue a warning peece or two, to our Conforts before wee departed, and afterwards pack don all the failes we could make to follow our Generall, whom we could not ouertake, nor finde. The next morning we made Fayall, and entred the roade, and there miffed of him also, contrain to our hopes, and to our great discentent. Whereat we could not but greatly maruell, hecause when he fent for vs, he was fix leagues neerer it, then we were, and belides, fet faile towards it fixe or eight hours before vs. Being arrived in the roade, wee beheld before our eyes a very fine Towns, pleasantly seated along it the shoare side : from whence presently voon the fight of our entrance into the roade, they began to packe away with bag, and baggage all they could with carriages of Horles and Carts, Women, Children, Friers, and Nunnes, and fo continued in transporting all vp into the Countrey for two dayes together. There was belides a strong Fort at one end of the Town, and another on the top of a very high Mountain, neere adioyning, by nature very vnaccessible, and steepe, and artificially senced with Flanckers, Rampiers, and Ditch, and in it fix Peeces of great Artillerie, mounted vpon carriages, and two hundred Spaniards in garrison. befue others of the Island. These made certaine shot at our Ships as they anchored in the roade. but did not much harme, and fet vp a great red Auncient for vs to gaze at : Befides, there were prefently fent fix Companies with their Colours, to intrench themselves voon the shoare fide. to impeach our landing : Hereupon our Reare Admirall in his Barge, accompanied with my felfe onely and Captaine Morgan, rowed close aboord the high Fort, and all along it the shoare side, to wards the Towne, to fee what fit place there was to make a diffeent against our Generals comming. From whence we were faluted with divers musker thor; that miffed vs but narrowly by good fortune, for we undifcreetly had with vs neitheir Targets, nor Armors, but wished for them when it was to late. And therefore as well by that experience, as allo by others in the fame insurner. Vnormed rath. that I faw at our landing upon a fortified trench, I faw it to be but an idle and unfermiceable brauery, for men that are to doe feruice, to expose their unarmed bodies and limbs, to the mercy of a Musket, or the pulls of a Pike : whereby they can neither with that abilitie, nor refolution, profecute that they have in hand, nor yet fo well preferme themselves as they ought to doe, for the bettering of their attempts. Besides. out of a Christian regard, they should not desperately cast away themselves, or carelesty this their owne bloud, and the lines of many others, by fuch braning, and fooisft examples. This night as we roade in the Harbour, there fromme about us from the Towne two Portugals that disconcred unto us many things, greatly encouraging us to this exploit. And of this we may bouldly take knowledge, that the Portugals. and Inhabitants of those Islands, doe infinitely bate, and malice the Spaniards, and their Government, and 30 mould (no doubt) free themselves thereof eladir if they were fure to fall under any other Government that were able to protect them from the Spaniards. And therefore if any powerfull Monarch or State did attempt it, they should not be troubled as with a Conquest, for all the Inhabitants would some be persuaded > to renolt, and take part with the inuaders, for the advancing of that bufine fe. While we thus expected our Generall in vaine (to our no little maruell) that thought he had bin there before vs, according to Captaine Champernonnes report (the winde being as good then for him as for vs) our Reare Admirall called a counfell of many Captaines, and Officers (that were come thither by order) to confult of the taking of the Towne, if our Generall came not, thinking it a great shame and pittie to let slip to faire a pray, so neere at hand, without attemp-. ting it in time, before they had carried all away. Befides a great fcorne and difgrace weefhould 40 doe our felues, to enterprile nothing vpon them that had begun the warres, shooting first at vs as we roade at ancor, and then after their bringing downe to the water fide fo many Auncients, did proudly as it were inuite vs to affaile them, if we durft, having withall, hung out a red Flagge of defiance, from the top of the high Fort. The hope of the wealth of this good Towne, and the ranforming of Houses and Prisoners, together with those brauadoes which they shewed, did so fee on fire all our Mariners and Souldiers, as that they began to mutine, and raile on the Reare Admirall, and at all the Commanders there, taxing them for these delaies, as not during to attempt the taking thereof: Befides, they were the more eagerly fet upon the spoile, and gaining of this Towne, and Fort, for that they faw no great likelihood of benefit by this Voyage but what was gotten ashoare in the Islands. In conclusion, albeit we heard no newes of our Generall in two 50 dayes more expectation, yet at the counfell of Captaines which our Reare Admirall had affembled, some of them varied much from the common defire, and would by no mesnes affent to the landing, without my Lord Generall his knowledge. And of this opinion was Sir Guilly Mericke, Sir Nicholas Parker, and some other Captaines : Our Reare Admirall, with Sir William Brooke, my selie, Sir William Harney, and other Gentlemen, and Commanders of our Reare Admirall his Squairon (called to this confultation) were of a contrary opinion, judging that my Lord Generail would repute vs but Idlers, and Cowards, to Iye fo long, before fo good a Towne, with fo many Ships and men, and to doe nothing in his absence, seeing them hoursly before our eyes, to fait to carry, and packe away their goods and wealth. And this was alford common opinion and bruice, as well of the multitude, as of the Low Countrie Captaines. But yet the violent and earneit 60 periwations of Sir Guille Merricke, did to preuaile with vs, vrging our obedience and duetie to our Generall, as that we staied from the Enterprise at that time, and expected our Generals comming one day longer, especially for that they perswaded vs, it his Loriship came not the next day, then themselves would also land with vs.

Speniards baged by the Por-

CHAP.14. S.2. Sir G. Meriks indisposition. Spanish Brauade. English landing. 1953

Which when we had also expected in vain and the winde changing somewhat white for that Roade, our Reare Admirall, and disers of his Squadron, and many other of the Ships tollowing hin, wered, and coafted about the point, to the North-west fide of the Island , some soure miles further from the Towne then we were before, and there let fall our ancors, being then a better Roade then the first, as the winde was changed. But Sir Guille Merricke with Iome five or fixe Ships of his contorts, staied still in the first Roade, and would not budge. When we had in this fore changed our Roade, and being now the fourth day of our arrivall before Farall (which was not aboue a daies failing from the place, from whence our Cenerall tent for vs, wee might fee before ve, a very fine and plealant Countrie, full of little Villages, and fruitfull fields : and therefore we in much defired to refresh our selves aland there with victuals, and water, as our Generall had promiled we should doe, when we came to Fajall, and as divers others had done before vs at Flores, and as we had then, but that we were called away to Farall by Captaine Champernownes fodaine millage from the Generall, as was aforesaid. And in truth we were in great want of fresh water, which we had not renued, tince our fetting out from Plimonth. All these occasions confidered, and we being now retired from the Towne and Forts, we all refolued that wee might without offence, with a few of our owne men, goe alhoare, and refresh our felues, and feeke for water : whereupon we manned a Barge, a long Boate, and a Pinnace with three core Muskets, and forty Pikes, rather to guard our felues in our landing, and watering with differetion, then expecting any encounter or reliftance, from the Towne or Forts, on the other fide of the Ifland. But our nmen were no sooner placed in our Boates, and all things ordered, and we ready to put off from the Ships fide, but we might discouer fixe Auncients of foote, and some doten Horiemen comming on a speedy march from the Towne and Forts, directly towards the place where wee were to make our diffeent; for from one fide of the high Fort on the Mountaine, they might also ouerlooke vs, where our ships roade, and discouer all our preparation.

When we had a while admied of this new Branado, that they went about, and faw them fill to come on faster, with so many strong companies of men (or at the least the bodies of men furnihed with womens hearts) and had made luck hafte, as that they posseded themselves of the Trenches and Flankers, where we were to land, and there had placed their Companies, and Collors, attending our approach, as they made shew, by waving their Swords, and displaying their 30 Auncients ingreat brauery (for doubtleffe they thought we feard to land in their faces, because we lay folong before the Town, and neuer attempted any thing, and were fo shrunke aside off; after they had prouoked vs fo with great flot, and many other affronts) we feeing that proportion of an hundred men (prouided onely to guard our watering) to be too few to affault, and win a landing upon fo many, in a place of fo great disadvantage, and yet distaining to goe backe, or make any thew of feare; our Reare Admirall in his Barge rowed to Sir William Brookes Ship, and to Sir William Harneyes, and desired them, and some other Sea Captaines, to accompany him in landing, with fuch men as conveniently they could furnish : For (laid he) feeing these Spaniards and Portugals are to gallant to teeke and follow vs. and to keepe vs from watering, wee will try our fortunes with them, and either win our landing, or gaine a beating. Sit William Brooke, Sit William Harney, and some others, very willingly affented, and presently there were made ready with shot, and Pike one hundred and fixtie men more in Boates. And after this our Reare Admiral rowing by Captaine Bret, Sidney, White, Berry, and other Captaines of the Low Countrie Souldiers, that were there abroad in other Ships, they all cried out to take them and their companies with them, affuring him, that if he adventured to land with Mariners, and with his owne attendants, without tome Companies of Land Souldiers, hee would receive a ditgrace. He answered, that he durit not take any of my Lord Generall his company of the Low Committies, no knowing in what service he ment to vie them; but he was resolved with the Gentlemen, and company of his owne Squadron, first to make a discent, and then to call them, and fend Boates for them, if he proceeded any further, and that neither my Lord Generall, nor any 50 of his traine, should have caule to be ashamed of vs, for undertaking that in the face of our Enemies, which we durft not follow, and performe. And therefore told those Captaines, that hee would first attempt to win a landing, and then after it they could but second him ashoare with two hundred men more, hee would vindertake to lodge them that night in the Towne, and the next night after in the Forts. These Captaines were all glad of the newes, and promised to come after vs.if we would lend our Boates for them; for most of their Ships had lost their Boates with foule weather.

This order and direction being given, we hasted as fast as our Oares could ply without the company of any Low Countrie Souldiers (being as I faid two hundred and fixty firong, and the enemy more then the double as many) to the landing place which was first guarded with a migh-60 ty ledge of Rockes, some forty paces long into the Sea, and afterwards trenched, and flanked land in. with earth and stone, and onely a narrow lane betweene two wals left for our Entrance. But withall, we caused some of our Pinnaces that carried Ordnance, to lye as close to the shoare as they could, to flinke and beate vpon them in their trenches a little before, and iust as wee made. Helpe by Pinour approach; which we found to good purpose, and as well performed, especially by one Cap-naces.

raine Banker, in a fine Flee Boate of the Flemenift Squadron. But if there had bin but one hundre Low Countrie Spaniards at that defence, it had coft many of our lines, & yet perhaps have milfed our purpoje too: For a small company with any resolution, might have made good that place: against a farre greater force then ours were at that time. But as we made onwards with our Boate. the shot plaied so thicke upon vs, as that in truth the Mariners would scarce come forwards, ha uing the leffer liking to the bufinelle, the neerer they came to it. And in like fort did I fee fome there thaseer, and itand blanke, that before made great shewes, and would gladly be taken for yaliant Leaders : and some of these, our Reare Admirall did not spare to call vpon openly, and rebuke aloud with diffracefull words, feeing their bafeneffe. anke aloud with ungraviture recognizing a Mariners, and as it were a flay among the Mariners, and as it were a flay among the mariners and a supplication and a supplicat folution. They land.

Flight of the

More active

feete then

bands.

all the Boates, well peceiving that this manner of houering, was both more difgracefull, and also to more vulate, lying to open to the enemies shot (which through feare and amazement the Ma-Sir W.A.hisre- riners, and Rowers, neither observed nor vnderslood) with a loud voice commanded his Watermen to rowe in full upon the Rockes, and bad as many as were not afraid, to follow him : Heremon fome Boates ran in with vs, and out of them there landed Maffer Garret a Pentioner, now Earle of Kildare, a Noble and valiant Gentleman; Sit William Brooke, Sit William Harner, Sit John Scot. Mafter Duke Brooke, Captaine Henry Thinne, Captaine White, Mafter Thomas Rugeway, Mafter Walter Chute, Captaine Arthur Radford, Mafter Henry Allen, Captaine William Mergan. Maiter Charles Mackare, and divers other Gentlemen, whole names I would not omit, if I could call them all to minde, And so clambring over the rockes, and wading through the water, we passed pell mell, with Swords, Shot, and Pikes vpon the narrow Entrance. Whereupon those that were at the defence, after some little retillance, began to fhrinke, and then feeing vs to come faiter on vpon them, fuddenly retiring, cast away their weapons, turned their backes, and fled. and the like did the rest in the higher Trenches, and quickly recoursed the hils, and the woods. being a people very (wife, and nimble of foote; for we could take none of them, but fisch as after veelded vinto vs. And as for their Auncients, we could not recover one, for the Horfemen that they had, carried them cleane away. And in this fort we gained both our landing, and our Enemies Trenches. In which attempt fome few men were drowned, and flaine, divers hurt, and two long Boates bulged, and loit. And after that we faw all things cleare, we affembled our Troopes together, and refreshed ourselucs, with such comfort, as we had there, which done, we sent backe 20 our Boates for those Low Countrie Captaines afterward; who vpon their arrivall congratulated our good fuccesse, in taking to strong a peece of ground, fortified, and guarded with so many men, When these Captaines were come vnto vs, we then tooke our felues to be a prettie Armie, being then in strength to the number of foure hundred and fixtie well armed, and appointed : whereof there were of Captaines and Gentlemen of good fort thirty or forty which gaue great life to

And having done so much already, we then thought it the best way to goe through with the matter, and to prepare the Towne in a readineffe for our Generall, and to make our felnes Butgelfes thereof in the meane feafon, and therefore our Reare Admirall appointed Captaine Bret to vie the Office of Sergeant Major, and gave direction to the other Captaines to advance their Ad Colours, and to call their Companies together, in a readinesse, and so putting our Troopes in order, we marched directly toward the Towne, where by the way, divers of thele lame very Spaniards, and Portugals, that a little before fo braued vs, came and rendred themselves in great humility, with white Napkins on the end of stickes, all whom, wee received, and well intreated, vling some for Guides, and some for our Carriages, and others to tetch vs in fresh Victuals, and Fruites. And it is worth the noting , to jee the farre differing humors, upon the change of Formues, in these Spaniards, and Portugals. For where they conquer or command, no people are so proud, and in-Portugall final folent, and when they are once mastered, and subdued, no Nation of the world to bate, or swiler of service lers of Fortun crouching, and observance, as though on a sodaine Nature had framed them in a new mould, so soone in an instant will they fall from someraigntie to slanery. And surely (at home) they are in generall but a 50 baggage people, timorous, and very unwarlike. As we have well experienced by feuerall invasions, whereof one Arms was conducted by Sir Iohn Norris, and Sir Francis Drake to Lisbona, and the other by the Earle of Ellex, and the Lord Admirall Howard to Cadis, without any relistance, encounter in the field, or flow of affayling our forces by battaile, all the while we stated there. But afterwards with a little bardening, and kartening in the Warres, wee fee them proue very brane, and valiant ex-reame in Batremes.

Portugals yeeld

Spaniards and themiclues.

And are not other Nations fo? ! fus grom> tos facit.

Souldiers. This Towne was some soure miles from this landing place, and all the Country in which wee marched very champion, with precey little rifing hils, and all the fields over full of Mellons, Potatoes, and other Fruites. Betweene vs, and the Towne, was this high Fort, whereof I spake before, and that other Fort at the end of the Towne : By thefe two we were refolued to palle, the co better thereby to discouer and observe their strength, and situation : although there was another way that led to the Towne, fome two miles further about, which we tooke not. But our retolution was the next morning to goe in hand with these Forts, which now we could not performe, the day being too far spent, and our men already overwearied with the last works, togeCHAP. 14 S.2. Buckle-proofe. Difordered march, Garrison Souldiers not best. 1055 ther with a long march, and extreame hot weather, belides want of victuals. And therefore for that night we ment onely, either by faire or foule meanes to possesse our selucs of the Towne, and there to lodge, and fo to content our felues, as having performed already, a fufficient daies worke. But in our march, as we approached neere the high Fort (by which of necessitie we were now to paffe) they did very fiercely beate on vs both with great and finall thot, hurting divers, and killing tome of our people. Among ft others I faw a very strange accident happen to Captaine William Morgan, by whom my felfe at that time flood, when from the Fort he received vpon a round buckle or his girdle, just in the forepart, a Musket shot, that brused all his belly blacke, in a round Strange acciipot, and battered the Bullet flat at his feete, but did him no other hurt. Hee was in his doublet dent of a show and hole without any Armour, or Target, for the which a little before I found fault with him, and his answere to me was, that his fieth was of the Musket proofe, as indeede it after proued, with the helpe of a buckle of a Spanish girdle, and good fortune belides, which in the common oni-nion favoureth the valiant. In this approaching towards the Fort, our Reare Admiral accompanied with divers other Gentlemen of the best fort, to the number of forty, in the head of all the Troopes, with his leading staffe, and no other Armour then his Collar (a brauery in a chiefe Commander not to be commen- Reare Admira) ded) led on the Company with fost march, full in the face of the Fort, descending downe a little taxed, hill, whileft with their great Ordnance, and Musketteir, we were very shrewdly petted. But he, with this little Vauntguard was no fooner part, and entred under the couert of cheir trenches, and barricadoes, that were at the foote of this steepe hill, but the maine body of our little Atmie, that a while marched in good order, began prefently to breake their rankes, and from marching fell to flat running in ftragling manner to foone as ever they began to finde themselves within the mercy of the Musket shot, and so continued in this disorderly, and timorous course, vntill they were youn our heeles, and is the wals, and trenches, almost as foone as we, that were in manner of a Vauntquard come fome twelue fcore before them in a fleady flow march. Our Reare Admirall, and we all cried out on them for this hamefull diforder, and taxed Captaine Bret . and Captaine Berry. with other of the Captaines for it, and of them demanded, if thefe were the men, that should base done us such stead in our landing, to same us from dishonour, or if this be the manner of their old Low Country Troopes, to hew such hase cowardise, at the first sight of the Enemie, and for Musket shot so farre off from a Fort. The fault was not surely in these Captames, for they were well knowne, and liewed themselves to be bonest and resolute men, and did their best to stay this disorder. But their answere was this, that these comtanies, that did to beast like behave them felmes, were in deede men taken out of Flushing, and Brill, the Cautionary Towns, and raw Souldiers, that ener lined in a fafe Garrison, & feldome or never had seene enemie, or incountered with that in the field. And therefore for thefe kinde of Low Countrie Souldiers, they faid, we should never finde them, but as base and backward fellowes, as the other Regiments that bad folland, we formus never force to the state of confirme, their answere was true, and grounded upon reason and Experience. And therefore it is not a twist Campe mille to take good notice of such as onely ferme to take pay, to walkerounds, and guard ports in Garrison and Garrison Towner for in the field they will most commonly be miffing or at least (if present) doe little hart for con. Souldiers.

We being thus come vnto the foote of the high Fort, and vnder couert of the Trenches, and wals, which they had abandoned, retiring themselves into their fortifications, and strengths on the top of the Hill; our Reare Admirall commanded Captaine Bres to appoint a Sergeant or two, with tome few that, to goe proue and discouer the way towards the Towne, and take fafe in hand with them one of our Portagall guides, for the more affurance, and for the better inftructions for conducting the Troopes, because he was informed by the Guides, that the way in divers places lay very open, and dangerous to the shot of the high Fort, as well as to the Fort at the Townes end. And the worfe, by reason of low wals made of loose stones; on either side of the wayes, which the great Artillery, and Musketeir would beate vpon, and featter amongst vs. and so indeede afterwards in the march we found it true. Captaine Bret answered, that although it had 50 pleased our Reare Admirall to appoint him to another Office, yet, if he would expressy command him, he would also survey this passage himselfe. But it was not thought fit at that time to want the Sergeant Major among it such raw, and disorderly troopes; and therefore he was againe willed to appoint a Lieutenant, and a Sergeant or two, to got about that bulineffe, in manner as was aforefaid. But woon this order to given, Captaine Bret made report, that hee found the Sergeants and Lieutenants very vnwilling to vndertake this discouery, making the passage very difficult, by reason that they saw them from the hill top, to beate so dangerously with their great Artillery .vpon vs, and the loofe wals, & also to ply vs to fast with their Musketeir, the which they might better doe on that way. And therefore the Troopes were very definous, to have passed by with 60 fome speede, and not in any orderly march, and strength, which indeede had bin a very route, and also an hazardous course. For as we were credibly informed, the Island was able to make a thoufand men turnished with weapons, and wee were perswaded (or at least to suspect) that they would gather the body of their most strength, for the defense of their best Towne, towards the which we were now marching.

Assassa

Reare Admirais valour.

Out Reare Admirall feeing all men to make fuch forupulofitie of this bufineffe, when Cantains Bret had related vnto him the backwardnesse of these Low Countrie Garrison Souldiers, thereungo answered that he would not offer that to any, which he would himselfe refuse to vndertake, if neede required; although it were not the dutie and office of the chiefe Commander, to yndergoe for ordinary a feruice, but a thing duely appertaining to the inferior Officers, & Souldiers: Notwithflanding (laid he) though I could inforce others to doe it, they shall well perceine, that I my selfe will doe that which they dare not performe: whereof I am ashamed in their behalfe, and how our Generall and we all are abused, in the opinion of these Low Countrie Souldiers, And therefore called for his Curates and Caske, and faid, that he would both goe view the way for them, which they had made so nice of, and also the passages, and ascents voto the hill top, and as well as hee to could take view of the itrength, and fortifications thereof, for our better directions against the next morning that we should attempt it. Captaine Berrie thereupon very willingly offered himfelfe to hoe and did earneftly defire me to divert our Reare Admirall from undertaking it. And I thereupon did openly diffawde him that commanded in chiefe, from putting his owne person to those inferiour Offices of hazard, fitter for a Lieutenant or a Sergeant, then himselfe to performe. knowing, that all the direction, as well of those troopes, as allo of a whole Squadron of the Nanie. did at that time onely rest you him, in the absence of the Admirall, & Vice Admirall, Notwithflanding he was oblinate therein, as well in fcome to them that had refused, as also indeede our of a degre, to be the better informed of the strength, and fortification of the high Fort. Wherein when I iaw him refolued, I told him that I would out of the love of a kinfman, in particular, 20 and also out of an honest regard, take such part as he did, from whom I had received many kinde favours, and accompany him, but not out of any great delire I had to goe about a peece of worke. that confisted of much danger, and little honour in the performance. Hee thanked mee for mine offer, but yet wished me not to goe, if it were against my minde; notwithstanding I accompanied him, and so did some eight or ten more of our teruants and followers. But I say truely, and to afterwards it was much fooken of, that there was not any one more of quality that did accompany him in that bufineffe. In this fort, and in this number did he himlelfe goe to discover the passage, and also was care-full and diligent to observe and search out the strengths and ascents to the hill. In which doing, we were shrewdly troubled with the great Artillery, which did beat upon the old wals, alongst 10 the which we were to paffe, and therewithall much indangered and harmed vs. For befides fome that were hurt, two of our traine had their heads ftricken cleane from their shoulders; my selfe was then shot through the left leg with a Musket bullet, but miffed the boanes being but a flesh-wound but the bullet did burne both my filke stocking and buskin, as if it had bin finged with an hot Iron. I was then hard by the Reare Admirall, who also was shot through the breeches & doublet fleeues in two or three places. And ftill they plied ve to fast with small shot, as that (I well remember) he wished me to put of a large red scarre, which I then wore, being (as hee said) a very faire marke for them. But I was not willing to do the Spanuards io much honor at that time albeit I could have wished it had not bin on me, &therfore told the Reare Admirall again, that his white fearfe was as eminent as my red, and therefore I now would follow his example. But yet in my poore 40 opinion I fee no great honor, nor discretion in those nice ceremonies, but when men go to service, they may with reputation either put on, or put off all babilments, for their most advantage and securitie, and especially in going to disconer, which best may be performed, when them selves are least disconered And this puts me in minde of a report which I heard many peres since of Monsieur La: Noc shat samons French Captain, and one Buffey de Amboys, a gallant French Gentleman. Thefe two being with Monfieur the French Kings brother, some 24. yeer: fince, at the stege of Bines in the Low Countries, were to informe themselves of a flanker, or some Ranelin that was to be beaten with Artillery. La Noue was the Marshall of Monsieurs Campe, and Buffy e bis great fauourite, & Lieutenant Generall (as I take it) Buffey would needes before Monfieut in a branery, inuite La Noue to undertake with bim the disconery of that place, which La None out of his better indement, and experience in the Warres, thought not so sit a prece of service for yo their places, but rather to be preserved to some private Captaines of valour, and indecement, that would very conerily goe about it. But such was Buffeyes forward beate, and iolitie to the businesse, as that La Noue, who was inferiour to none in true valour, disclained to refuse that, which the other still veged, and made so light of. And being stirred by Bulleyes daring branery, he fell to the businesse, and led Buffey such a dance in his hose and doubled unarmed to the discourty, and so slily carried him on Bill with a fober discourse, further and further into the very mouth of the Cannon and Musket That, with a foft steady pace, as that Bussey began to finde and deslike their entertainment, feeing the imminent danger that they fill ranne into. And thereupon suddenly asked La Noue, what he meant so farre openly to ingage himselfe, and on so slow a pace: whereto La Nove answered, that bee ded fo, to make Buffey know, that La Noue had a beart as well to execute, as a tonque to give coun- 60 fell when neede required. But at last, they both falling into the true rechaning of their follies; the one, for orging a valiant old Souldier, and the other for affenting to the vaine elevious humour of jouthly inconsiderate courage, came off very quietly both together, baning bad their fils of disconcring. And jet thefe Simullates (as the Latines name them) have ever in all ages raigned. Cafar in his Commencaries makes an effeciall observation of two of his Captaines for the like: The one was called Titus Pulto and the other Lucius Varenus, and it happened in his Warres of France, in the wintering Campe of Quintus Cicero, one of bis Lieutenants being furwully affaulted by the Gauls, but most resolutely defended. The manner bee describeth excellently, and large, in bis Commentaries, to which ! referre you.

Dangerous

Scarle-braue-

ry perillous.

And now to our purpose, by this time, we had reasonably to our satisfaction, made a sufficient discouery, both of the way for our Troopes to palle, and also of the ascents to the high Forton the Mountaine. And then there came vnto vs Captaine Berry, and one Maiter Henry Allen, and others; who finding me hurt, very kindely bemoned my harme, and I in requitall of their curtefie. so as much lamented the want of all their good companies at that banquet; vpon the comming of these vato vs, we sent backe two of our men to Captain Bret (Sergeant Major for that time) to be his Guides, and to will him prefently to march on with his Troopes towards the Towne after vs. and that we would fray for them, because we then looked to be fought withall, or at the least, to have fome little fally, or bickering out of the Fort at the Towns end, which we must needes passe by before we could come to the Town. This was a very fine fortification all of stone worke, with by, before we could control to the Towns I have a but prefently upon our approach they abandoned it, and in our passing by we entred into it, and found that they had newly for faken the place. for faken, The like did they afterwards from the Towne, and were all fled up into the Countrie, and into Towne abane the Mountaines, fauing those two hundred that were garrisoned in the high Fort. The Towne doned. 20 was emptied, and left very bare of all things, but of fuch wares as could not fuddenly be remou-

ed : which was Wine, Salt, and Corne, whereof they left a little ftore for our refreshing. The reft of our Troopes by this time were now come on very necre to the Towne, but there were some fine and twentie of them fhot, and fome feuen or eight flaine in the passage.

And in this manner we did afterwards enter the Town very peaceably; which was a pleasant They enter the place, built all of Stone, and couered with Tile; and full of fine Gardens, Orchards, and Wels of Towne. delicate waters, with faire Streets, and one very faire Church, and also a Nunnery, and a Fryerie. Towne delete It is in bigneffe about the proportion of Plymonth, or Tarmouth, but feated much like Douer Town. bed. This Island is of late yeeres become very watchfull, and the people more growne to the vie of fit armes, and have for their defence erected this new fortification, on the high hill, with a Garrison

30 of two hundred Spaniards in it. For not long before, it had bin very gallently furprifed, and (as I thinke) facked, and ranformed, by the right Honorable George Clifferld Earle of Comberland (a no- Earle of Cumble Gentleman) that had often exposed both his purse, and his person, to his great honour and ex- beiland. See perience in those Seafaring Aduentures. And presently vpon our entrance we made Barricadoes. Soplas.s. placed good Guards in divers parts, and a strong Corps de Guard in the Market place. For the town being vawalled, we were to suspect, that if we lay there open, and carelessy refreshing our selves. and our fouldiers scattered abroad in seeking for victuals, we might easily be surprised without good order, and directions given, before we fell to our repait, or reft. But this order being first performed, then were others at better liberty to fearch lafely for bootie. Therefore Proclamation for lefety and was made, that voon paine of death none should straggle twenty score without the Towne, and poory. that not without the knowledge and leave of an Officer, and then to goe vpon their guard with fit weapon, and company. Hauing now refreshed and reposed our selves all night without any trouble more then two false alarmes, that were given voon the fight of divers of the inhabitants that approached towards the Towne, to view the manner of our dealings with their buildings (which proued nothing, but miftruft of the worst) for which, all things were well prouided to The Generals withitand the enemy) the next morning being the 22.0f September, euen with the day breake, comming. we might see our Generall with his Fleete at hand, bearing in with all failes towards the Roade of Fayall, who all this while had bin beating up and down the Seas, looking about for the Adelantade, and other Aduentures. V pon his arrivall, our intent for attempting the high Fort was frustrated, and all our proceedings in Fajall were by Sir Guillie Merricke at large related, vnto our Gene- Sir Guilly Meted, and all our proceedings in Fayau were by Sir Guide Merrice at targe related, vite our Genes ricky vich bei-rall, and fo apprauated, and wrested into an euill sense, by him, Sir Christopher Blum, Sir Anthony rible officious

So Sherly, and others, by putting my Lord in the head, that these parts were plaied by the Reare Adnesses. mirall onely to steale honor, & reputation from him, and to let his owne forwardnesse to the view of the world; which intimation of theirs, was an exception that they know our Generall was very apt of his owne difposition to take hold of being a man that did affect nothing in the world so much as Fame, and to be reputed matchlesse for magnanimitie, and undertaking, and could hardly bis ambition indure any that should obscure his glory in that kinde, though otherwise he fauoured them neuer of honour. to much. And that this is true, those that understand his humour hest, cannot instit deny. The which (I protest) I doe not speake, either out of any neglect of one that is dead, or to picke a thanke of any that lines, but simply out of a resolution to write an unpartial truth, or else to be silent. For those spirits that base

60 flattery, or feruile feare doth transfort in falkioning their Histories, are of all others to be reputed the unworthest, and most pernicious in a well-pollicied Common wealth, For wee feethat those Heathens, which have written the stories of Cyrus Pyrrhus, Alexander, Haniball, Scipio, Cefar, and of all other those great Kings, Frenouned Heroes, do as well taxe them for their vices as glorific them for their vertnes: For who lines without fault? And so sincerly & boldly do they follow the truth in their writings, author ther are therby freed from malice, or revenge, because they are free from all partialitie; or if any spleen arise. Tet it is secret; for the prosecution of such sinceritie is reputed meere implete in all forts, and flat Tyrannie in Princes. And to conclude, this impotent humor of induring rinality, and other mens praises, is versincident tomen in high places, effecially if they be of great courage, or sickled with Ambitton. It was be ides ail sadged, that the prefumption and fcorne, to land fuch Forces without his Lordinios leane, was not to be paffed over without feuere punishment, and a Marshall Court fie to be called, to confure the offence and breach of order, and discipline, with many other as bitter arouments, and deuiles, as their wits could compalle, to aggravate the Generals wrath against all that were in this Action, and especially the Reare Admirall. Against whom, they spared not so farre to inueigh, as that they gave it out, that he was well worthy to loofe his head for his labour. 10 And so had they inneighed the Generall against wall, as that all the forenoone was spent in reprehending and displacing all the Land Captaines, and Officers that accompanied the Reate Admirall in that Action, who being fent for to answere before the Generall abourd his ship. was before the Messenger came for him, gone in his Barge to fee the Generall, and to guide him to the Land, not to much as suspecting that any thing had bin ill taken for that matter, but rather Sir Walter Ralooking for great thankes at the Generall his hands. But fo foone as he entred the Generals ship. Leigh commeth he found all mens countenances estranged, as he passed through them. And when he was entred into the Generals cabbin, after a faint welcome, the Generall began to challenge him of breach of order and Articles: To whom the Reare Admirall answered, that he knew not of any such breach : my Lord replied , that there was an article that none should land any of the Troopes 20 without the General's presence, or his order. The Reare Admirall defined the Generall to give him leque to defend himselfe by those Lawes, which himselfe as well as others had denised, and his Lordship with the Counfell of warre had authorited, and that then his Lordship should finde that he had not committed any Errour at all. For (faith he) there is an Article, that no Captaine of any this, nor Captaine of any Company, if be be fenered from the Fleete, hall land any where without direction from the Generall or some other principall Commander, upon paine of death, oc. But I take my selfe (faid be) to be a principall Commander, under your Lordibio, and therefore not subject to that Article, nor under the power of the law Marshall because a succession commander of the whole Fleets in her Maiesties Letters Patents, your Lordship, and my Lord Thomas Howard failing. And besides your Lord-This agreed that I (bould land at this I fland, with your Lordfoip, whom I have attended thefe foure dayes, 30 andfinding that your Lordib to came not, being in your way this berwards halfe a dozen leagues before, I maied anchor, I could not but thinke, that you thought meftrong inough to take this I fland, and that your Lordship was gone, with some of the rest to some of the other Islands. And Stated so love from landing at

Sir Guillie Metrickes intreatie, as I heard more company, enen at my backe, murmur, and fay, that I durst not admenture it. And to tell your Lordifing a plaine truth, my intent at first was onely to mater, untill I fam them follow me in that braning manner, which with our reputations wer could not then flun, and eine oner being already in our Boates for that purpole. For if I had intended the taking of the Towne, I would never have retired to farre off from our first Roade, that lay right before it.

aboord :he Accufation.

Generali.

This dit pute held tome halte houre, and then the Generall went afhoare, and refted himfelfe in the Reare Admirals lodging, being well enough fatisfied at that time. In fo much as the Reare 40 Admirall defired my Lord to tup there, and that if his Lordship ment to call the matter further in queltion, he would claime no priviledge nor favour thereby, but answer it in the morning. To which Sir Christopher Blunt (taking my Lords and were from him) faid, that he thought my Lord would not sup at all. But the Reare Admirall finding Sir Christopher Blunts disposition, told him, that when he muited him he might disable his owne appetite, but if my Lord pleased to stay, he would be very glad of his prefence. In this meane while my Lord Thomas Howard very nobly, and kindely taking care, that no wrong, nor difgrace might be offered to the Reare Admirall by Conflian and any deutse, or practise of his Exemies, dealt with the Generall to finde how hee thood refolued, friendly medi- and the next morning affored the Reare Admiral, that my Lord fought nothing but a due acknowledgement of an offence, alleadging that the rest would thinke him a very weake and tame Com-50 mander, if he should receive no manner of satisfaction. The Reate Admirall hoping that hee had done nothing vniustriable, and well affured, that he was successively in the Commission, for the whole commandement of the Fleete (and therefore not subject to any corporall danger) as also because he affured himselfe of the Vice Admirall his honorable love, and fincere dealing, came agame in the morning to vilite the Generall. Otherwile (remembring the little truft that men ought to repose in reconciled enemies, and the strong malice borne him by others in greatest fauour with my Lord) had ment to have put himselfe into his owne Squadron, and to to have defended himfelfe, or left my Lord. But my Lord Thomas Howard, perlwading him to goe, and fatisfie the Generall (vpon whole word onely he made that adventure, after he had given him his honour, with great kindnesse, and resolution, that he would make himselve a party, if any wrong 60 The Generall or violence were offered, contrary to the General's promife vinto him; he did as the Vice Admirall aduited him. And fo all things after a little dispute came to a quiet end and conclution.

And within a day or two after, the Generall accompanied with the Vice Admirall, and other Lords, and Commanders direct aboord our ship, where he was exceedingly intertained, and consented. Onely this I omitted that when the Generall committed Captaine Bret, Berry, and Sidner, he Reate Admirall defited that those Gentlemen might receiue no hard mealure in his caule. for whatlocuer his Lordinip doth conceine to have bin mildone, hee must take it wholly on himfelle to answere, being at that time the Chiefe and Commander. This I have set downe in manner as I heard it, then from men of good fort, not being prefent thereat my felfe, nor at that time able to waite on the Generall, by reason of the shot through my legge, which I had received but the day before, in this thankleffe feruice.

CHAP.14.S.2. (age left, Birds flowne, Enuy bad to all, to it Celfe work of all.

Thus was the whole day spent in reprehending and disciplining vs for our paines. And yet maswithstanding, these aggravators, and chiefe Instigators of our Generall, vouchlafed to take the benefit of our reproued Trauailes, in lodging, and retreihing themselves in this good Towne, both this night, and three or foure dayes after. But in the fame day that our Generall animed . about one of the clocke after midnight, all the Porsugals, and Spaniards in the high Fort, with their High Fort a. bagge and baggage, abandoned the place, leaving behinde them fix peeces of great Artillery bandoned. mounted. For when they law the whole Fleete together, and io many gallant Troopes land with Our Generall, their hearts fainted, and fo they fled into the Countrie, and woodly Mountaines adjoining. Then in the morning when it was too late (although as yet wee knew not fo much) direction was given to certaine troopes, and companies, to guard all the foot of the high Fort, to flop, and flay them from flealing from thence, that were already gone, for it was given out, that if they did not prefently furrender it, the place should be affailed. But when newes was brought that they had abandoned the Fort, and carried all away, then was there much descenting of the foule overlight, so to suffer the Birds to escape out of the Cage, that might have bin to furely kept, if we had not bellowed more labour in disciplining and correcting our owne pretended faults for landing, then differetion or diligence in profecuting Enuiespieth and correcting our owner pretended rautes for landing, then different or oringence in posteriors the Enemy, whom we had at an advantage. For preferred y upon their arrivall, they did nothing trades, then in but examine and discipline our offence. Whereas if they had gone in hand with the Fort, and protested enccast a carefull ever thereunto, we had not lost the ransoming of io many Spanish prisoners, nor the mies, and is albenefit of the fooyle which they had carried out of the Towne, for fafty to that place. And at way worft to it this groffe errour there was much muttering. But now divers of the land officers (to colour and felfe, though excute their owne default) laid this blame also on vs, alleadging that we should have left a good ao guard vpon the Fort, if we had done like men of warre, vpon our first landing, and then all had bin fure. And although this excuse passed at first for some paiment, for the common and more ignorant fort, yet all men of judgement could eafily perceive, how impossible a matter it was for vs out of foure hundred and fixtie to spare so many, as should sufficiently guard two hundred souldiers, from fallying out of fuch a Fort, and yet proceede with the recouering of the other Fort. and Towne that was before vs. For the defence of both which, the Island was able and had in readinesse (as our spies and guides assured vs) aboue one thousand able men well turnished, voon whom we were to have a vigilant eye, and to keepe a convenient firength after we had once poffelled the Towne. But after the Generall was come, this might eafily have bin performed, or if he had not come, they had not fled fo fuddainly, and the fame morning, wee our felues had attempted the Fort, and made no doubt to carry it. But then with the presence of our Generall. voon his arrivall, all our determinations, and authorities were concluded.

Afterwards when our men entred this Fort, which the Spaniards had abandoned, there they found divers peeces of Artillery, and an English Gentleman whole name was Hart, and a Floriming with both their throates cut. Then were there certaine companies fent abroad the Coun- Bart and andtry, to trace those Spaniards and Poringals, and to make waite of all that lay in their way. But ther left with of the Garrison they could never recover one man. Now after three or fourc dayes the anger and throates cuts diflikes of our Generall towards vs, were well pacified, and vpon further confideration and conference with the Reare Admirall of his doings, hee grew againe into very kinde tearmes with him, and at his fuite released and restored all the disgraced Captaines that landed, and were in this service, and so having taken all the benefit, and refreshing of this Towne, and Island that we 'so could come by, our time being to thort, on the foureteenth of September we were all commanded to goe aboord. And so for a tarewell, and for the funerals of our lost men, and those two that were so dispitefully murchered in the high Fort, the Towne was brauely set on hire, and all the Townefired, Ordnance of the Towne, and Forts brought away with vs. And I am perfwaded that if the warres had not bin by chance to begon before by vs, vpon that I fland by their owne feeking, and foolish brauery, and afterwards aggravated by their cruelty in murthering so despitefully two of our company in the high Fort, Fayall had elcaped as feetiree as did Cuerno, Flores, Gratiofa, Saint Reward of cru-Michaels, or any of the other. For furely they were all at our metcy, the Fort of Tercera onely elly is cruelty. excepted. But in all their Actions I obierued, and well faw, that our Generall in his true dil po-sofition, affected rather to be renowned for bounty, clemency, and valour, then for the glory of a dreadfull Conquerour. All this while the Flemmings were playing their parts in the Ille of Pike. which was about a league from Fayall; where I leave them ranfacking the Wines, and burning all that was within their power.

The fix and twentieth of September we made towards Gratiofa, where wee cast ancor. and Aaaaaaaaa prefently

Grafio aluba mittethi. felic.

fland fubmitting themselves, and craving mercy of our Generall, alleadging (as they of Flores had done) that the inhabitants thereof were Portugals, and friends, and natural Enemies to the Spaniards, though they wanted meanes and force to show it, being held under them by frome hand. To this Illand our Generall thewed his accustomed mercy, and required of them some prounions of Wine, Fruites, and fresh victuals for the relieuing of the Fleete; but of any other come position we heard not, although it was supposed they did, or might have yeelded a better ransome : but this was very willingly fent by the inhabitants vnto vs. Here some of the Commandets went abourd the Generall, and befought him to goe aland, and fomewhat better to furney, great willing nelle vnto, But the Maiter of the Generals Ship, whose name was Grosela dell and voluckie feliow) was vecerly against that counsell, and alleadged that the veere was farre front. and the place of anchoring there not good for the ground tackle protesting that it would be danserous to, the whole Fleete, and put it in hazard, and therefore very earneftly perswaded and vised the leaving of that Roade; which adule of his, our Generall then followed, to our great leffe, and hinderance, as afterwards it fell out. But Grone the Mafter must parden mee to fav in mine opinion, that it was an undifcreete aduife, fo to divert our Fleete in fuch hafte from that Island, considering the long aboade he made afterwards before Saint Michaels, and at Villa Franca, to leffe purpose in as ill Roades as this, and later in the yeere. Hereupon wee waved, leaving Saint Michael. day, early in the morning, we made that land, and bare in with the finoare. And as wee came vevaluckie aduice of Grove the Master of his ship. Vpon the Intelligence given by these two ships, our Admirall finot off a peece, and prefently cast about, and therewithall, wee in the other ships perceived casting up of Hats, and great shootes abourd the Admirall, for joy of this newes. And the like afterwards was done in the Vice-Admirals thip, and to passed throughout all the Fleete. Within some few houres after, we incountered, and tooke three Spanifo ships, comming from the Hanana, the greatest of them being about foure hundred tunnes, and esteemed to be a very rich thip, as well for the lading, as for the patterngers that were in her. To this Spaniard, our thip called the Wall bight being neereft, gave Chair, and caused her to stricke, and yeelde : but yet my Lord Generali nafting after, would tuffer none but his owne Boate to goe aboord her, being full of good prisoners, and piliage besides her lading, which was Cochynella, and other such rich Wares. This ship, and the other two that were in her company, being very good prises also, made to the Generall a relation of forty failes of Indian men, whereof tome eight were fraughted with the Kings Treature, that did diffenbarge with them from the Hanana, bound for Spaine. And as we after heard, the Garland, the Rainebow, the Dreadnaught, the Marigold, and others, fell amongst fixteene faile of the richest of this Indian Fleete, whereof they foundred one, and whilest 40 they were busic in feeking to take the spoile of her (as it was credibly reported) all the rest did escape, and recouer Tercera. But of this I speake as the generall voice went, and not vpon other assurance, for they were then separated from vs, and the rest of the Fleete; And therefore I must adde this conclusion, to defire that I may of the understanding fort be pardoned if in these relations I cannot truely, nor at large write the accidents, and courses of all their shops in particular, being no eye witnesse thereof nor possibly could so be. For to doe that in a land army or in a battaile is very hard, and much more in a Sea Voyage confisting of to many bips fometimes (eparated. Vpon intelligence of this eleaping, and patting by to valuekily of these Indian Ships, we were

Grane saxed.

Newes of the

Three Star lb

Ind'an Fleets purfued to Ta

The Peere deferibed.

A Counfell.

presently whilest we roade before it, there came abourd our Generall, the chiefe men of the Ithis Island, and for one day to let his Fleete ancor in that Roade, which his Lordship shewed Lo Gratiofa v pon Saint Michaels Eue, and made for Saint Michaels Island, and on Saint Michaels 20 ry neere vnto it, two of the Sterne-most Ships of our Fleete, shot off twice or thrice, and bare vn with all failes they could packe on, towards the Admirals ship.

These brought newes of the Indian Fleete then by them discouered, comming directly from the Roade of Gratiofa, that the Generall had so vnwillingly left but the Euening before, by the all much perplexed. For by that chance, and by our vnfortunate haft from Gratiofa, but the very night before, wee faw that Euen, the wrath of deffiny denied to make vs fo happy, as to bee ma- 50 iters of so great a fortune, as then had fallen into our laps, if wee had not fall followed all those counfells that fell out to the world. Notwithstanding, with all the speed wee could make, we instantly followed after them to Tercera, where they were entred fome fixe houres before vs , and had moored their Ships fall under the Towne and Fort, being one of the strongest pieres of all Europe. There wee might aloofe behold them fafe within the Road; which was a great Inlet inwironed with a high Land, in manner of Peninfula; fo as the Shippes lay vinder the command of two ftrong Fortifications, a place neither fit nor possible for our Ships to follow them, except we had meant, that they should have there stuck tast for comming out againe. Now was there a generall counfell called abourd the Admirall, what courfe to take heerein, and many great aduentures proposed and offered to bee attempted, by some Coronels and Captaines, with Boates and 60 Pinnaces for the landing of men, to force those places, but all in vaine, and altogether volcafonable. For whereas they, with one thousand fine hundred men, offered to take both the lland and Forts, some others of the chiefest Sea-Commanders (in their judgements, well knowing the great difficultie to Land men, and Munitions on fo disaduantagious a place, and in so guill a season of the yeere; belides the great ftrength of the Fortifications, fo well furnished at that time by this new arrivall) were veterly against it, as a matter trivolous, and of more apparant danger to our felues. then to the Enemy, an I for it yeel led fundry reasons. All which thele Coronels feemed to account light or, and would needs in great brauery, fill vige the vinlertaking of it, if they might have but the proportion of one thouland five hundred men, before spoken of; which the General. himielfe feemed greatly to allow, and infift voon, and therefore of necessitie to be yeelded vuto by the interiour Commanders.

But our Vice-Admirall, the Lord Thomas Howard, finding indeed the marke whereat fome of our great Captaines floo, to wit, that it would have ferued their turnes to have vaunted, that if the 10 Vice-Admirall, and Reare-Admirall had beene willing to this enterprife, and not croffed it by counter counsells, the Spanib Fleet and Treature (ov maffering the Hands of Tercera) might baut been recovered his Lordship resolved either to tie them to their pretended resolutions of to make the n fee, that they could not ferue themselves of him, by any such finenesse & pretence. And therfore told the general plainly, that if indeed he would fo willingly have it attempted himfelfe, and the Reare-Admitall for their parts would be forward and readie to aduenture as farre as any others. And moreover, the berter to inable the action, faid, that they would undertake to find him three thousand strong and able men, to spare out of the Fleet, and yet leave the Navie sufficiently manned. And therefore ((aid they) if your Lordship fee no other reasons to let or hinder this offered attemp; there shall be no want of so many men as we speake of, which is double the num-20 ber that was demanded. But vpon this constant offer, the matter was againe debated, and grew fomewhat col ler, being better digested. So as in conclusion it was deemed inconvenient, and impossible to be effected, as our Forces and helpes, and theirs at that time stood, and the time of the yeere fo farre spent, and the winds and the Seas growne so tempessuous for landing in Boats. But if this offer had not bin made, then, the relinquishing of these glorious motions, and attempts, had bin laid voon the backwardnesse and disswarions of the Sea-men, which was well enough perceiued, and therefore accordingly answered.

These unscasonable ofers, and Brauadoes, puts me in mind of the like inconsiderate unfortunate atti- touching talks on of Sir R. Greenfield in the Reuenge, who being Vice-Admirall to the fame Lord Thomas onless and on of Sir R. Creenfield in the Revenge, who being the Jamen to the fame Data Hillias brands.

Howard Admirall in a journey to these clands in certains of the Queenet Ships, they fortuned to meet Sir R. Gronnile 30 with a great Fleet of the King of Spaines, were to the Ile of Flores, confiling of fo many buge and mighty his flory you Gallions, as was no way fit for them to undertake being in number and force three times as fivong as ours have before. 19.11. And therefore fister to be warily dealt withall, then raphly adventured upon Wherefore the Admi. which perhaps rall (out of the due confideration and indgement of the office, and place bee beld, as also for that at his re- may formulat turne bome, bee was to give a frict account of the charge committed unto bim) thought it fit to keepe fill bim. aloofe, and in the weather of this powerfield Nanie, and fo to fight with them at his best advantage, off, and on, as occasion ferned, or elfe to free himfelfe from them if need required : For his Ships being morenmable, yare, and fwift, then the Spaniards, it had bin a groffe errour to have thrust himselfe wilfully in amongst them and so to give them the advantage of boording, being high and mighty built Ships throughly manned and full of that, and the manner of fight, by boording maft advantageous for those buse Gallions. 40 Besides being as they were all men of Warre, and thruce as many as the English, and no other benefit to bee out by boarding them, but blowes, and the hazard of battaile, which is uncertaine victory ; it beboo. med him admisedly to carry himselfe, and rather to follow the heady steps of a Fabius Maximus, then the pies. beadie fury of a Terentius Varro. But bis Vice-Admirall, being indeed a man very wilfull, and violent in his courfes, could in no wife be persuaded to follow his Admirall, and his conforts. But thrusting himselferably in amongst the Spaniards, those mighty Vessels being a Sea-board, and some of them getting into the weather of him, to becalmed all his failes, as that hee could not vie the benefit of working upon a wind to bis best aduantage, nor free bimselse of them when bee would, but was clapt aboord by two or three of them; where to redeeme his errour, seeing hee had brought himselfe so undiscreetly into a desperate worke, be very resolutely fought, and made long relistance, to the great annoyance and losse of the Assay-30 lants. But in the end, being shaken and beaten to sitters with their great Ordnance, and oppressed with the multitude of them, comming in fresh upon him, was by mayne force mastered, and yet distaining to reeld. for that bee had received his deaths wound in the fight , fought by all meanes to have blowne up his Ship, by fetting fire on his owne Powder roome, and therewithall to have destroyed as many of the Spaniards as lay abourd him; but by the care of his Captaine (whose name was Laughorne) was with stood and preuented. A right autient Roman resolution, but sement at too much varying from the true Christian Religion; to draw 4 violent and fudden death on so main; soules, for the better gracing of his particular er. only Ship of rouse, And in this sorties have withtlessed, brought he one of the Royall Nauie, anto the power and the Nauy Royall Nauie, anto the power and the Nauy Royall Nauie, and the Nauie, and the Nauie, and the Nauie Royall Nauie, and the Nauie, and the Nauie, and the Nauie, and the Nauie Royall Nauie, and the Nauie Royall Nauie, and the Nauie Royall Nauie Ro possession of the Spaniaris, which during all the Warres, nener before nor after they could obtaine. And a all possessed faire grace of God it was , that his find example had not inticed more of them, at the same time to the like by the Spanie

60 felly and ruine. Now the best that bee could hope for, was after the exchanging of some great that with ards and dears shem to have come of againe of hee could. A brawery to [mall purpose, for to subdue them, was not in the ly bought power of all the English, if they had beene as many more in all likelihood and reason. Voon which grounds wife Commanders onght to build their resolutions, before they put themselves to the bazard of battaile. Besides, in truth is was a very insolent and disorderly part, for a Vice-Admiral, being a man of his yeeres and experience, so wilfully without cause, against all discretion to vary from his Admiralls course. and from the apinion of all his Conforts, onely to hid himselfe voluntarily to so fooldh and bitter a banquet wherein bee could be but loft. And bard would it be for Generalls, and Chiefe Commanders to fulfill their Instructions, or fatisfie that which is expected at their bands, if they should be drawne on, or ingage them-(elues by the vaine example of enery one that is carryed with a beaddy humour, to follow his owne wilfull conceit. For fo was that noble Paulus Emilius, and the Roman Armie with bim loft, at the Battaile of Capties, in being constrained to second the fooisis brauery of Vatto, his rash Colleague. And in the libe Rich Doi Torte unadurfed desperate fort, did that valiant Duke of Yorke, Richard Plantagenet, Father to Edward the Fourth, wilfuily cast away him seife, when with fine thousand men onily, contrary to the per swasiens and counfell of all bis friends, out of the pride of his branery, bee would needs fally out of his Cafile of Sandall. and eine battaile to the Queenes Army, that was twenty thousand strong : whereby his weate forces were quickely defeated, at Wakefield, and himfelfe flaine, with his young fonne the Earle of Rutland. It is faid to bee the dutie of a creat Captaine, to feeks victory with as little loffe to himselfe, as may bee, and more military discrebine thewed in making a faire and safe retrait, then in gining a farious and desperate charge. The experience whereof was well feene, in that gallant Souldier Sir John North, who wan as much Ho. nour and Fame, by that braue, and well ordered retrait which hee m. . befor : Caunt, as in any one viece offernice that ener bee did. We had also fresh in our memories, a Sea experiment of the very like tragi-

ter Stroffe.

call successe of Sir Richard Greenfield, in the liberalt attempt of Peter de Stroffe, Admiral of a French Fleet, against a mightie Spanish Nany, commanded by the Marquelle of Sancta Cruce, at these Hands. Where this Strolle ont of a wilfull brauery, contrary to the better adnice of all his Captaines, and Mafiers, baning alreadie landed many brane troupes of Frenchmen, in the llands, as offistant to Don Anthonio, named King of Portugali, upon the first view would needes lay the Marqueffe and the Spanish Fleet aboord, being compassed of mightie buge Gallions, and the French but stender nimble Ships. Br which unequall maich, and fools h daring he was beaten downe . ight, all his Nause destroyed (faung the Count Brylack, and a few others of better indgement, that would not follow bis vaine courle) and bimfelfe being taken prilomer, was aline most despitefully torne, and drawns asunder with two Ships. Thus lost he himselfe, and his bonour, brought many gallant Gentlemen and Son diers to a butcherly execution, and utterly thrust Don Anthonio from the possession of the lies of Alores, and confounded all those brave French troupes, which a little before he had placed in them. But in another manner, and with better (necellewere our affaires gonerned, in the yeere 88. when that mightie Fleet of Spaine, which they termed

Terrible exce

Example of 88 inutracible came to inuade vs. For them I remember, among it other good also plane, which they termed 30 Sea fight; it was straitly ordained, that none of our Ships Should voluntarily (if they could by any meanes anoid it) lay any Spaniards abourd, but alwayes to fight with them upon advantage, and indeanour by all meanes to keepe into the weather of them, and fo leave or take as occasion served, they comming to innade, Inuinfible fleet and our end only to keep them from landing. The which direction was fo well ebserved, as that this inninci-

ble Fleet, for all their force and powerfull appearance, proned at last inmifible, left many of their Ancors and good Ships behind them, got not, nor funke any one of ours : but being fore gauled and beaten, with this manner of fight, and greatly affrighted with fire, and such like stratagems, were at last glad to packe a war, as fast as they could out it the backe doore. I meane by the North Seas, round about Scotland, and Ireland: wherein they found a miferable and tedious flight, never having gotten formuch as a dish of our 40 freshwater, nor ener landed one man (except prisoners) upon our Coast. Now, if our Admirall, the Lord Charles Howard had beene a wilfull Commander, flanding upon those vaine clorious termes of boording and assaulting the enemy, and not have proceeded by counsell and policie temperately, then had be done that which the Spaniards expected and defired, their Ships being fit for the purpose, and comming to boording and handy fight, might very well have distressed us, and so have hazarded both the Name, and the Kingdome together. But this noble Lord, as hee was very fortunate and indicious in Sea service, so L. Admirall bee truely and wifely considered how great a weight and charge lay on his indeement and trust, and therefore did accordingly, with great wisdome and temper marshall bis diffairer, to the onerthrow of his Ence mies, to the perpetual bonour of bis name, and the victorious serving of his Prince and Countrey. This therefore may may frand for a Maxime and Caucat, to all great and wife Commanders, that to whom A 50 King or State commits the trust and directsin of an Army: It bridles him in the free vie of his owne conrage, or from expressing (upon energ temptation) his particular valour. For that forward humour of daring, is to be vied in younger yeeres, before they arrive to the eplaces of dignitic or command; and then euer after, counfell fould command their courage, alwayes we amping their heads in the Furre of the Foxe, and their Armes seldome in the Lyons skin, Setting aside all respects of byaning or vaine glory, as did that Fabius Cunctator, of whom Ennius in prasse faith; Non ponebat enim rumores ante lalutem. And the se presidents I have here taken occasion to record, thereby onely to shew what inconveniences and detriments doe follow such unbridled heat, and headdy humours, and to the contrary, what herefit and advantage is gained in the true use of timely and temperate proceedings. For swely, if these desperate offers, made by the Land Souldiers, infligating our forward Generalito the taking of the Tercera, had became then put in execution, the end had beene, that many a valuant man had there lett bu bones, and the for rest returned home with the scorne of a disgraced attempt. Besides, if the Adelantado with the Spanish Name had then chanced to have come on our backet, whileft our best men were ashoure ingaged about this desperate and unfeasable enterprise, it might have turned to the destruction of the whole Fleet, or at the least to the assured losse of as many as were landed about that businesse. But (thankes be to God) 200d counfell prenailed, and prenented the fe bazards.

After that this dispute was to calmely concluded; our Generall himfelfe, and the Lord Mounting in the Defiance, and two or three other tall Ships, bare in as close along the shoare as they could, exchanging youn pleature, fome fifteene or twentie great flot with them, to very little purpole, and to left the lie of Tercera, a place very fironge both by Nature and Art, and at that time well flored with Men. Munition, and Treasure: by reason of the late arrurall of those Indian Ships. From thence wee returned agains to the He of Saint Michaells, which before on Michaelmaffe day wee made, and left then vpon this Intelligence. And now as foone as we were They arrive ontred into the Road, that lies before Saint Michaells Towne, weelet fall our Ancors, and there, at S. Michaels the Generall accompanied with divers of our chiefe Officers, comming abourd our Reare-Admirall, hung out a Flag of Counfell, where it was consulted about landing, and the taking of this good Town, which lay to gloriously before our eles, promising many rich rewards to the Victors: In the which there was a flight Fort towards the Seafide, but the Towne vnwalled. The Generall appointed that all Companies should bee made ready to land forthwith. But our Reare-Admirall defired his Lordship; that hee would first permit him to view the place, and to find out where the Army might best make a descent, because the Billowes about those slands doe sometimes fo roule from the Sea, as might eafily ouerturne the best Boates we had, as wee found by ex- Hillow Sos. perience at Fajall, where wee had two long Boats overturned in landing, and Malter Thomas Rug-20 may also throwne with a Sea on the Rockes in his Boat. Our Generall at first, veelded to the Reare-Admiralls request, for viewing a fit place. But as hee was putting off, and fearce gone from the Ships fide twentie paces, my Lord, flanding in the Gallery with Sir Christopher Blant, called him backe againe in great half, and faid that he would not him telfe, and view it. Whereupon the Reare-Admirall returned againe, as my Lord commanded; and as his Lordinip went out of the Ship into his Barge ynarmed altogether but with his Coller and Sword, and without either Shot . or Pike to way to on him, the Reare-Admirall called aloud vnto him, and defired his Lordship to take his Caske, and Target proofe with him, it hee purposed to goe neere the shoare, seeing Boldnesseby there lay fo many Muskers on the reft, there to receive him. Whereumo my Lord answe-

But (in my opinion) though that answere much showed his valour, yet became it not the place that my Lord held, for in truth a Generall onebe not to bee fo adventuring, and careleffe of himfelfe open energy Right occasion, nor to goe warmed to places of mamment peral. Homer describes the valuent Heroes, and brauest Leaders of the Greekes to be best armed: As Achilles, an excellent Armour framed by Vulcan. at the request of Thetis his mother and Arax with his fewenfold fixeld. Infomuch as their very armes are famous even to these days , the wie whereof now wes make scornefull. But they are no beaten Souldiers in the warres , that hold thefe opinions : for it is truly faid, that a great and wife Generall Bould dre old. And I have read that finnous Epaminondas, was fined by his Countrymen the Thebanes, for being too forward, and lerning in a bastaile ill armed, although he wan the viltory. But to our matter : After 40 that thefe landing places were viewed a farre off, and were not well liked, nor yet fo neerely approached at that time, as within Culuerin Shot (for there lay all along it the shoare aboue foure hundred Shot upon the reft, intrenched to beate on our Boats;) in conclusion, after many offers and jurusies made aloofe, the conveniences of that place, for landing was excepted against. Albeit in truth it was a faire and fandy beach (as all the Fleet might well perceiue) and some foure or fine miles from the Towne, and Fort, and much more easie then that of Farall, where wee before wan our landing. And that this is most true many that were present (now lining) and saw both, red . That hee would none , because hee distained to take any advantage of the Watermen that

And although our Generall himselfe, was very resolute and apt to undertake any good occasion of feruice, yet hee was then so led and accompanied with such politicke Land Captaines, as that of all the feruices which fell into confultations and deliberations, those most commonly, which were vnfealable, were offered to bee undertaken, and things more likely and reasonable neglected. Whereby out affaires speed accordingly. And in this regard that this differnt was not by my Lord Generall his viewers, allowed of, as fit for the Army to land at, to many Entignes being placed and intremehed there to impeach vs, it was prefently by another confultation agreed, that the Reare-Admirall should with all the strength of the Fleet, lye as neere before the Towns of Saint Michael, as commeniently they could, to hold them in expectation, whilest my Lord Generall and the reft, with two thousand men imbarked into small Barkes and Pinnaces, fecretly in the night didconiesy themselves about the point, to land at a Towne called Villa Vil Franca, fome fixe miles further then the first determinate landing. And for that purpose, they 60 had most of all our Boats with them, and three English men for their guides, that perfectly knew all the Hands and the Townes, by long trade and huing among it them. There there guides affured our Generall both of a quiet landing, and of a very faire and fecret way, to march from thence to Saint Michaels Towne. Our troupes being thus shipped, and our Generall also, they made hast towardes Willa Franca,

They land at V.lla Franca.

where they arrived fafe, & were all landed by the next morning, without any manner of refifeance. For most of all the Town vpon their arrivall abandoned the Town, and we that were left vnder the command of the Reare-Admirall, in the best Ships before the Towne of Saint Michaells, did all the night give them perpetual Alarums, with Shot, Drummes, and Trumpets, in fuch Boats as were lett, fometimes in one place, fometimes in another, along it the shoare, where the Spaniards kept their Corps de Guards, and fiers, who were often in great amazements, calling, and running to and fro, thinking verily that wee were landing in that place or about it. And thus wee did to giue our Army thebetter, and more fecret meanes to make their descent, and so to come vnlooked for on their backes, as their very way did lie, and might in truth very conveniently have beene performed. They being thus landed, wee in the Ships did all the next day looke out apace, hoping to fee our troupes come marching ouer the Hills and Plaines, that were perfect in our view : for the most part of the way that they were to come, being all alongst the Sea side, was in our fight more brim from the Ships by farre, then if wee had beene alhoare. But this good Towns of Villa Franca, had so welcomed and intertained our men., (being feated in a pleasant foyle, full of fruits, wines, and fresh victualls, and the Sellars stuffed (o full of Oade and Wheat) as that our Army was content there to ingarrison, without any further pursuit of Saint Michaels Towns, and there for fixe dayes together they lay feafting, and carrying aboard of Oade, Wheat. Salt, and other merchandife, into certaine private mens Ships that followed the Fleet, for fuch whilest wee all in vaine still gaped for their comming, which wee the rather thought would have bin at the laft, for that in all this time, they never so much as fent word, to make vs partakers of their determination to the contrary, whereby they would be fure wee should neither participate any of their Commodities, nor fee the disposure of them; although twee cast many coniectures and aymed neere the marke, finding this lingring very strange. But, to doe right to eucry man, I affure my selfe, our Generall had no benefit of these wares and commodities, being of a disposition too noble and bountifull to valiew such trifles worth his regard. For it had beene easie for him to have abounded with wealth and possessions, without following the fortune of the warres, or the hazard of the Seas, if hee had aymed at such common markes. But in this meane while, as weein the great Ships, ancored in Saint Michaels Road , there came in about the Point that lies westwards from the Towne, a small Brasis man, and let fall his Ancor in the middest of 39 vs all. A little after him, wee might discerne aloose off a mightie huge Carack, bearing in with all fayles toward vs, whom thee tooke to bee the Spanish Armada. And the Brafil man confessed that hee thought the same also : for the King of Spainer men of Warre (when he makes Fleets) are compounded of the shipping of divers Nations, and therefore the more hardly to bee distinguished from ours, which was at that time compounded of English, and Holland Bottoms ; befides one great Spanift Gallion, called the Saint Actem, and some other leiler Spanift Veffels that wee had taken before. Now there blew a ftiffe gale from the Land, ouer Saint Michaels Towne, in such fort, that shee must either put roome into the Sea, or fall vpon vs. For as the wind then stood, she could not run in with the Towne or Fort by no meanes, neither was it any part of their

Greedineffe lofeth his morfell.

A Brail man.

A mightie

Carack.

The Carack ran her felfe on ground. She was fet on fire. Examples of

As floone as wee had made her to bee a Carrack, wee tooke in all our Flags by a general commandement from our Reare-Admiral: and withall directions were given, that no manshould once weigh an Ancor, or shoot off a Peece, or put off a Boat, but with leave or order. All this while she still bare in with vs, with all fayles to the Boates end, when fuddenly one of the Holland Squadron(contrary to al discretion & the direction before) weighed his Ancors, hoiled his top sailes, & made towards this Carack, now ready to double the Poynt that entred the Road where we lay: and when the Hollander came neere the Carack, hee prefently made two or three Shot at her. Whereupon sheediscouering vs to bee Enemies, changed her course, and at the very instant (in the view of vs al that observed it as if shee had had the wind at her deuotion) the gale changed, & came full of the Seas: with the helpe whereof, and with the feare of falling into our hands, thee 50 tooke a resolution to runne her selfe a ground, hard under the Towne and Fort, Which done, from thence there presently came multitudes of Boats, fetching away their men and best wares, and that done, fiee was inftantly by them fet on fire in many places at once, being full of great Ordnance, as appeared by the report they made. Such is now the cultome and oblimacie of all those Seafaring men under the Spanish surifdiction, as that by reason of the seuere order, set downe by the King to that effect, they will carelesty burne their Ships, and wares, if they can escape themselnes, vather then to grow to any composition to same balfe thereby. And the like was feene at Cades, by the Fleet ibat was ontwards bound for the Indies : who after they had entertained a parley with ve, to compound for their Ships, and all the merchandize, at a ranfome of halfe the valen : whilest they amufed vs with thusolaurable presence, shereby they gained time to flease out some of their goods, and afterwards set be 50 Shippes on fire, where they road. But this argueth as great secretic in the Sourraigne, as saury on

This Carrack was a Ship of infinite wealth, that at Saint Hellens watering as thee came from the East Indies, put ouer to Brail, and so coasted along ft the West Indies, and was fraughted with theriches and wares both of the East and West. Wee hasted all wee could when wee saw her a ground, tottering and reeling, with those few Boats wee had left, to have entred her. But before wee could make vs readie, or come neere her, being three miles off, thee was on light fire in many places, her Ordnance thundring off apace, and too hot to bee approached, much leffe to bee entred at that time, without incustable destruction. And yet such hast was made to have prevented this mischiefe, that divers had like by overcharging Boates and Pitinaces, to to have foundred in the Seas, the Billowes going very high. And in that case was our Reare-Admirall amongit others, who for half to this banquet tooke his Row Barge, and was so ill able in her to indure the Seas that were rough, and went high at that time, as that I by chance feeing him fo ill hefted, & in danger was faine to clap him aboord with a good front shipboat that I was in having made haft also to that feath as fait as I could But in conclution were came all too late for the broth was growne to hot for our supping. To behold her thus fiaming was a grieuous fight to vs. but a most wretched spectacle for the Portugalls, so to see their goods by their owne deedes and fury. to perish with fire and water in a goodly vessell, judged to bee 1800. Tunnes at the least, Shee Carack of was a whole night, and all the next day in burning, and in beholding her, you might have feene 1800, Tungi the very shape, Cordage, Masts, and Furniture of a Ship so perfectly in fire, as no Painter could have halfe fo well refembled it with Art or Colours. And when the was cleane confumed to the water, there arose still a great smoake out of the Sea for many houres after, by reason of fome close Decks full of Spices and Sugar under water, which the fire had taken hold of.

This Tragedy ouerpast, wee then fell agains to looke out for our Army comming, but all in vaine. For if su any time, for fixe dayes together after their landing, they had come forwards from Villa Franca, the Towne of Saint Michaels, and the Carach allo had beene our owne, fafe without question. For if our forces had in all that time innefted them felues of the Towne (which they might have done, there being namber Wades nor Bulwarkes to hold them out) the Carack would have runne ber felfe a ground, under the Towns as thee did : " if thee bad, then bad thee fallen into the band; of our Generall, and his Trouvers ar. I fine had kens a Sca-board, then had free fallen into the mercy of our Fleet, which by no mennes fee conid have efected. But it was a leffe then as inexessfable as lamentable, for that no good reafor could bee yeelded (as was shought) nor durft bee demanded, why fo gallant a Company, fo eafily landed for so good a purpose, should so long linger in a little Towns, surfacting shemselnes and the whole a Army. 10 upon Fruits and Wine, to the neglecting of the fermice determined. But it was manifest, that besides their pleasure and good cheer, the great store of Oade, Corne, and Salt, did intice some Land men of good credite. (who had Ships there of their owne) rather to take the pencenbie, and prinate benefit thereof, then to una dergoe some paine and perill, for the winning of Saint Michaels Towns, for the publike good. And this was a proce of fernice very unforemately negtetted, but upon what good reason I could never learne. And I am persuaded, that if his Lordship had built lesse upon some mens violent counsells, and vaine conceits, bee might have done many things better, and long have lined in great prosperitie. But all his care was to

to the custome of the world) hee found many times ungratefully to deale with him , to ferme their owne turnes, drawing birs withall into ambitsom bumows, and affellation of popularitie, which, with our Great 40 men rarely succeeds will. And very strange it was, to see so many great fortunes lost in this one inurner: but that the very Heavens did in them (like Commets) foreshew the beaut and lamentable desting, that traced our Generall towards his end, whose bright shining felicities was some after eclipsed, and admirably metamorphofed into ruine and destruction. Onely this comfort remained to his friends, that hee ended his life with at great resolution, pietie, and penetencie, at was possible to bee expressed in the countenance or words of a man, veterly disorced from the world, and wholly denoted to celestial Contemplation, so the undoubted comfort of his Soule.

contont and winne unto him, certaine Polititians and Marshall men, whom notwithstanding (according

We from the thips looking thus fill in vaine, for those that neither came nor fent wato vs wherby we loft all opportunitie of watering and refreshing our felves ; for we in the Walffelte, and diuers of our Conforts, had not watered tince our fetting out from Plimonth) began to refolue to poe 50 to our Generall, feeing wee could neuer heare from him in all that time. And as we were entrine into this deliberation, wee might perceive the Admiralls Ship by her Flag turning out from the point of Pilla Franca: And two dayes before, many of our great Ships had left the Reare-Admirall, contrary to the Generall his order, which wee durit not breake in the Wall fine by a late causat, because it was flat contrarie to that which was appointed by a Councell, and the Generall his command. But as foone as wee had deferred the Admirall (by his Flag) putting roome; our Reare-Admirall tooke his Barge, and Captaine Morpan with him, and rowed to him; and the same night sent Captaine Morgan backe againe, with directions in the Generalls name, to command all the Fleet to weigh , and to come for Villa Franca. This was no little griefe to vs all, that had fo long and diligently waited on Saint Michaels Towner, and looked to have had a better account 60 of that place, then so harely and absuptly to lease it after all these offers. And (to say the truth) it was either a groupe overlight, or a wilfull fault onexcufuble to the State, that it was not in better fort manna. ged. For (no diubt) they would willingly have ransomed their Towne, rather then have abidden the tortune of the Warres by Sword and Fire, and wee had amongst us, men of sufficient experience to deale on fuch compositions, which (for ought I know) they minds dog. Thus, with griefe and discontent we for returne.

left Saint Michaels good Towne, the Inhabitants whereof waning their Auncients, and shooting off their Ordnance, in great joy triumphed to lee this vnexpected modest departure of the whole Fleet, on a fudden without any further trouble: And to mee it was strange to see the Coronelle and Captaines, that a little before were to forward and violent to have landed at the Tercera, heing a place to difficult to attempt, and of to great thrength, to bee now to flow to come forwards to Saint Michaels Towne, that had neither Ditch nor Wall about it, they being already landed

Eut now approached the time of the yeere, that brings withit violent stormes, and extreame foule weather to those Ilands. In regard whereof, as also for that opportunitie was now past of doing any more good to our felues, or damage to our Enemies; vpon the meeting of the whole Fleet before Villa Franca, a generall commandement was given, that all forts should with all freed repaire abound their owne Ships, for the Wind and Seas began to rife too high to ride there any longer. And now our last worke, was to prouide for our returning againe into England: And therupon all the half and preparation that could bee, was made with the helpe of the small Pinnaces and Boates to conuey all our troupes aboord. Wherein, the best fort of Commanders spared no paines nor trauaile, and especially our Generall himselfe, who in his owne person was twice in very great danger of tumbing into the Seas, about the imbarking of the Souldiers, in overcharging his own Boat with those varuely people, among it whom at such times, it is hard to keep any order or moderation. And much trouble there was (confidering the rough weather, and how the Seas rowled) to get all our Land menaboord. Befides, our Ships began to find more tickle ryding 70 in that wild Road, then wee should have done eight dayes before at Gratiofa, where wee lost the Indian Fleet by tarrying one night. But now at our departure from Villa Franca, for a farewell the Spaniards and Portugues prefented vs with a brave skirmish, which being throughly answe-Knights, made, red, the Generall there did make certaine Knights. Our Army being thus brought aboord, and many ficke men amongst them, by reason of their lauish diet ashoare, where they more weak ened themselves then the Every. This Towne also was left intire, neither fired not demolished, But whon what considerations I know not, whelfe out of gratitude for the hospitalitie, Oade, Corne, and Salt, which it had alreadic yeelded : or elfe out of a provident regard to leave them in cafe to bee able to entertaine vs another time, or rather for some pettie ransome to some particular perfons that were more capable then our Generall, in vouchfafing to take any benefit whatfo- 30 euer. For fure I am, that fome reason there was, if I could light on it, wherein the Oademongers, and Corne Merchants might doe well to helpe mee, for they (I thinke) can ayme neerest to the marke.

Their returne.

Stills.

The ninth of October, 1 597. wee fet faile from Villa Franca for England, with a faire leading winde for three or foure dayes together, and then it grew scanter and icanter, and at last starke nought and flat in our teeths, with fuch great flor nes, foule weather, and exceeding high grown Seas, as that many of our Fleet were much puzzeled in the nights in falling foule one of another, Insomuch that the Mary Rose, by meere carelesnesses of the Master, and his Mates, had like to liane stemmed the Wast fore, if wee had not beene very carefull and diligent to avoid the sudden and emminent danger : which, yet wee escaped to nerrowly, as that the Mary Rose, with her 40 Beake head, toreaway all the Gallery on the Lardboord fide of the Wallfpite. This storme on a fudden separated all the Fleet, and wee in the Wastipite after this shocke, had fundry dangerous leakes breake out vpon vs , in such fore , as that much to doe wee had by pumping and all other meanes to keepe her aboue water, being a very new thip, but withall the weakest built Vessell that ever Iwam in the Seas of her burden, and carrying tuch great store of huge Ordnance as shee did, most of the which wee were inforced to strike downe into hold, to ease her labouring sides that hoursly were like to flye afunder. Befides all this, wee were in fo great want of Fresh-water and drinke, as that I offered to give to one of the Victuallers of the Fleet, fixe Chefts of Su-Want of water. gar, for fixe Hog sheads of Fresh-water, and yet could not have it at any hand ! Infomuch as wee were faine to begin to fer our great Stills on worke, to prouide for the worft the best wee could. 12 For if the storme had longer held in that violence, wee might have taken the choice, whether we would haue beene drenched'in the Salt-water, or choaked aboord our Ship for want of frest. For with the extreamitie of this Northeafterly forme, we were put-back cleane from our course and coalt, into no little def paire. And as wee in the Waftfpite, fo were all the reft of the Fleet (as I after learned) difperfed atunder, infomuch that fearcefly two flips in all the Nauie kept company together. But at lait it pleased God, to fend we more faire and it windes, wherewith wee brought our felues againe into our due course, and within three or foure daves wee began to meet with one another, stragbing and ranging in the Seas. And after that, wee in the Wall pight chanced alto to defery our Generall, by his mayne Flag (as farre as wee could ken) wayted on onely with two little Barkes, who fixe or feuen dayes before, was attended with fourescore layle of 60 good Ships. A true type of this worlds inconftant pempe, which the winde and Seas did faithfully teach vs not to build too much vpon. And I would our noble Generall, for his owns fake and better fortune, had made that good observation thereof.

When wee had thus met our Generall, jand had hayled and faluted que another, with all the joy that might bee, wee conferred of our course, and began to consult thereof with the adulse of our Mafters and Pylots. Wherein, ours in the Wast-fright somewhat varyed from the opinion of the Generals Nauigatours, but yet we submitted our ielues, and our skills to the wisedome and authoritie of his Ship, whose Directions wee were to follow. And withall, wee made knowne vnto his Lordship our great leakes, and scarsitie of Drinke, who told vs very Honourably, that we should want no helpe that hee could yeeld vs, and therefore he straightly of arged vs to keene his course, and to follow his Light, which wee did obserue, though our Maiter was very vnwilline thereunto, affuring himfelfe, that our Generals Matter was miftaken, and befides his courfe. by too much crediting the periwasions and Art of one John Danis a great Nauigator reputed,

10 who at that time tayled much of his Pilotage, and coniccture for the Sleene, to the no little hazard of the whole Fleet, as afterwards was seene. During this forenamed Storme, fundry Birds came flying into our Ships , when wee were two hundred leagues from our owne Coaft. First. there fell into vs an Onle, then a Taffell, and a Falcon, one of the which wee tooke, and brought Birds. into England, then at the laft a Done lighted on our Maine-yard, which we all liked well, and tooke it as a prefage of faire weather towards, and fo (thankes bee to God) it succeeded presently after two dayes. After wee had thus met with our Generall, and being well aduanced on our way for the Sleene, and as we coniectured not farre from the entrance of the Channell, wee began of all hands to fall a founding for ground, and the next day found ir, though indeed by that founding I faw few the wifer, or the more affured of the Coast. For it was the Banke of sucr. but

20 none could fay fo, nor then fo judge it, but onely the Matter of our Ship, whose name was Broadbant, a carefull man and a right good Marriner. For in the Generals thip, they were all of a contrary opinion, and according to their Errour shaped their courts, with straight commandement given to vs, and to the reft that were in his traine, to follow his Light and course. The which we did very diligently, my felfe indeed being most in fault for it. For the Master was losth to to doe. but that I vrged our dutie to the Generals commandement, and our danger in breaking it by former experience. And therefore I watched, and flood by the Helme, and Bitackle, most part of that night, to fee it performed, though with much repining of the Matter, and his Mates, against this dangerous Course as they tearme it.

This founding of ours, fo much in practice, and yet many times bringing no great certainty withall, 30 makes me now call to minde, an odde conceit and speech of a Spanish Prisoner, which the Generall game me in this Tourney, but never yeelded me other Ransome then some faire promises, and smooth discourses: For bee after confened or bribedhis keeper (a Captaine of a Pinnace) to whom I had committed him in charge, and very cleanely conneyed bimselfe away, without ever bidding me farewell. Howbest there found better fruites of their Prisoners, which the Generall game unto them.

This Spaniard of mine was a Gentleman, and a Souldier, but had of late geeres, traded the West Indies by may of Merchandize : With whom I one day talking and discoursing of their Voyages and Nawie ations (wherein hee was very well experienced) amongst wher things bee told me, that in their Nania gation from the Indies, they fought out Spaine in a more certaine and gallant manner, then wee did England, For (faid he) wee seeke out our Coast aiost with our Eyes, by the Heavens, by the Sunne. and 40 Starres, and with the vice of Art, and Instruments, w buch seldome or never fayles. But you (laid be) that feeke for England, when you are to runne into narrow Seas, are (as I heare fay) inforced for your fureft Directions (like men blindfold) to fearch under the water, and to ferape with Lead and Tallow to the bottome for Bankes, Sands, and Shelnes, as if you would rake Hell for instructions; to finde out the Channell, which you call the Sleeve, and yet for all your foundings, are oftentimes mistaken. I answered bim againe, indeed it was true, that our Humilitie taught vs, to goe by the ground : Whereas their Pride led them to gaze about the Clouds, and by that meanes fo dazeled their Eyes, as that they did often Sumble upon such men of Warre, that now vied as well to found Spanish Pockets, as the English Sleene. Whereat my Spaniard smiling, and shaking his Head, said, bee could not well denie it, bassing so lately made too true experience thereof, For indeed bee was throughly rifled and ranfackt of good short Wares,

30 before that ever bee came to my hands. These words of his I remembred, and found true upon our sonndings, and the uncertaine consectures thereof, with varieties of opinions.

For after wee had all found ground, all that Night wee held on so precisely in following our Generals light, as that very earely in the Morning, with the first peepe of day, wee in the Wast-fright looking about, found our selves on the North-fide of Sylley. Which when with cold comfort wee had perfectly made, and perceived with all our narrow escapes in that darke Night, hard alongft the Rockes called the Bifton, and his Clarkes : wee began of all hands to looke out for our comforts. And then wee difcryed our Generall and divers with him. advanced fome three leagues before vs, bearing in with all Sayles towards the Coast of Wales.

The morning was very close and foggie, and the Generall steering North-east, in stead of Eaft and by North, ranne right with the Sands of the Welch Coaft, on which in that darke weather hee had stricken; and perished, if hee had held on, but a few houres longer. But on the contrary, although wee reichied not to lofe the fight of his Lanthorne, yet wee kept our felues as farre to the East as wee could, and yet wee were scarce able to double Siller, but feil close aboord it, and a little to the North of it, at the breake of day. All which when I perceived Bbb bbbb b

(he later Watch being mine, and the Reare Admirai, being gone to rest) I did instantly coman the Mafter Gunner to fnoot off a great Piece to cause them to looke about, but both one ni it is, and the Matter Gunner were fo mad at me for forcing them to follow this course, asthat out hardly have suffered a warning Piece to bee shor, but said, they deserved to taste the or their owne wilfulnesse, having brought themselves and all the Fleet, cleane out of the into this danger. And out of very rage and discontent, these men had quite forgotten all

Charitie, and would by no meanes have bestowed a shot upon them, to alter them fi m that vnfafe courie, but that I vrged their Dutie, and inforced them to shoot, and shoot ao line three or foure times, one after another, much against their wills.

Whereupon we might within a little time, plainly percente our Admirall with all his Traine, to to tacke about finding their owne Errours, as afterwards they confessed. And therefore presently they beat it up, to double the Cape of Silley, thereby to enter the Sleene, which with muchadoe they performed. But we in the Wast-forgbe, being now by this time shot in along it the North fide of Cornewall, almost as farre as Saint Ines, our thip being extreame weake and leakie, and our Drinke and Water come to the last cast, at very bare allowance, wee durft not again put to the Seas in these wants, and in a Vessell so ill able to beat it vp against the winde, to double againe the Point of Siller, whereby to recouer the Sleene. And therefore food along it the Coaft, and that night anchored before Saint Imes, where wee found fundry Spanish Carauels, and Flee-boates of the Spanif Fleet, which was fet out under the Adelantado, to have incountred vs at our returne from the Hands, but were all dispersed and toffed with the same Storme, that before had scattered 20 vs. which fell our very happily. For if wee had met, wee must have tryed the Battell, chiefely by Boording, or elfe trufted to our Sayles, for that our best and greatest Ordnance (for the ease of our Ships in these stormes) were stricken downe under hold. So that wee should have found great disaduantage, to have incountred with a Navie, comming strong and fresh from the Maine, and wee tired, and feattered a funder, with a long and painfull Voyage. Herein was Gods fauout and mercy mightily shewed towards all sides : For by this Storme, which so furiously for the time afflicted vs, were wee, and hat Spanish Fleet under the Adelantado seuered, and kept from incountring, which had coft much blood, and mischiese: and to say a truth, in all likelihood, the worst might have fallen to our shares.

For when wee had lefe the Hands and were once croffe fayled for England, I observed, that be- 20 fore the Storme, divers of our best Ships, made all the haste they could homewards, never following nor attending the Admirals course, nor light. Which is an Errour too much vied amongit vs , and very diforderly and dangerous; as would have beene well found, if the Adelantado had then met with any of those straglers, or with the Admirall himselse homewards bound, so sten derly accompanied. Which manner of disorder and scattering, in the Conduct of a Royall Nauie, especially info

long a Voyage, is very fit to bee ftraightly reformed.

Diforderly

wards.

hafte home-

Death of Sir

Lord Bargo.

These Spanish Flee-boates and Caravels, had made many landings by stealth, on that side of Cornewall, and put the Countrey in great frights, and amazements : especially, vpon the report of a great Fleet, that was comming after them for England, Whereupon our Reere Admirall from 40 before the Saint Ines, left the Seas, and went a Land, to take some order for the Countrey of Cornewall, whereof hee was then her Maiesties Lieutenant, seeing it then in much amazement and feare, and so meant to goe over land to Plansuth, there to meet with our Generall.

From the Road of Saint Ines, the next morning, wee in the Waft-fright fet fayle for Kingroad, and met with fuch foule weather, as that ouer against the flat Holmes, slice brake againe her Maine yard, which was before broken, and new fished in the beginning of this Voyage. But at last, with much adoe wee brought her about, to Kingroad, and within a few dayes after moored her fafe in Hungroad; where I tooke speedie order for the paying, and discharging of her men, at the Spaniards cost, and also for the repayring of her decayes. By this time wee also had newes, that our Admirall and the rest of our Fleet, were safely met, 50 and arrived at Plimouth. And at the same instant also wee had intelligence, by a small man of Brafill, but newly come from Corke in Ireland, that Sir Iohn Norris Prelident of Munfter, and the Lord Burgh Deputie of Ireland, were both lately deceased.

Of which two men, her Maiestie and the Realme had no small losse, being both Martiall men of as great worth, and feruice, as England bred in many yeeres before. And although it be no part of this matter to speake of them, yet their Deathes, being divulged to vs at the same time, cannot be thought vnfit, or vnworthy (by the way) heere to be remembred and lamented.

After I had thus taken order with the Officers of the Ship at Briffoll, I received Letters from the Lord Treasurer, and the Lord Admirall, for the accomplishing of that, which I had already (out of due confideration) gone in hand withall : I meane the discharging and paying of the 60 Marriners and Souldiers, being to the number of foure hundred men, which would have growne toa great, and needleffe expense, to have kept them in pay and victuals untill fach time as I could haue fent vnto the Court, to receiue directions backe againe for the fame. And therefore did first take up monies upon credit, and then by the Drum make knowne in Eriston, that there were Sugars. Brailwood, and Fernanbuck aboord or Ships, which I would preferrly make fale of, to those that would give most for it, and not merchand it vinder hand, hor in ferrer, to the premdice and deceming of her Maieftie. And therefore with the knowledge and admice of the Mafter, the Purfer, and Boatiwaine of the Ship, and the Cuftomer, and Searcher of Briffow, I landed those Wares in fate Cellers, and fold them to the best Chapmen in publique, testified under the hands of their Officers of the Citie, and of the Ship, for my discharge in that behalie, and made thereof five hundre's pounds. The which lumme I delivered to one Asken then Puiter of the Wast-forght, to the end that hee by his Booke might pay the Marriners, and the Souldiers by the Powle, as a care of mine for those poore-men vinder my Charge, which was duely performed.

CHAP.14.8.2. Thrift the fuell of Magnificence, Privat gaines, publike Hor fleach. 1969

10 : The which I have beene the more precise to remember and notifie, for that I took e no small paines and care, in getting those Sugars, and Brasill-wood abourd os, out of a torne Brasillimm, that was ready to founder in the Seat before Saint Michaels, and abandoned to any that would adventure to ose absord her, to feich away the lading. Which bufineffe (in that vacant time that the Arpene lay at Villa Franca, and we before S. Michaels Towne) I put my felfe, and my Marriner wonto. And I had not fo much passes and travell in the getting, as trouble and vexation afterwards to preferre it, whileff it was abourd, when we came to Kingroad, from the purloyning and flealing of the Martiners, and Officers of the Ship. And to fay no more but a truth, I dare thus much anouch, and inflifie, that of there had beene in Some other of her Maiesties hips the like regard for these goods that were gotien, and of the Prizes taben in this lourney, and as faithfully answered as were thefe, that then for all the croffes and errours that 20 had bappened, it had fully returned to ber Maieffie, the double value of all the Charget, he had beene at for this Voyage. But it was frange to jee, what careleffe courfes were held in all fuch altions. as were let out by the State, and what poore returnes were made agains into the Exchequer. And therefore more Grange, that the Prince could Subsist fo often to fet out, fuch chargeable Voyages, without any manner of getting, more then to particuler persons. For fo jell it out before in the Indian Voyage, when Sando Domingo, and Cartagena were taken, and facte by Sir Francis Drake, and when Cades in Spaine was loffein many Surprised, and facht by the E 1g in Armie, where was infinite wealth. But that of Lisbons in Portu- Expeditions. gall, undertaken by Sir Iohn Nortis, where the Suburbes did fo abound with Merchandize and Spice-Tie, being wholly at the mercy and difficient of our Armie, was to be excused; for that our Ships kept not promise with him, in comming up the River, that should have both assisted the land Armie with Munic

20 tion and Villuals, and also carried away those Spiceries and rich Merchandize : wherem the Sea-men were greatly manting, and taxed by the generall voyce. But in this Voyage, wee all faw and knew, that there were besides Brail men, three good Prizes taken that came from the Havana, laden with Cochrmella, and other rich Merchandize, besides the Silver, Gold, Pearle, Cinet, Mushe, Amber-greece, which was amongst the Passengers. And those three Prizes (whereof one was about 400. Tunnes, by the report of those Merchants that same in them) were faid, and valued to bee richly worth above four bundred thouland Duckets. At the taking of them I flood in our Gallerie in the Walt fpight, with the Reere Admirall, and wee halled and called unto some, to suquire of their lading and Merchandize, and from what places they came, whereby wee learned, that they were come from the Houana, very rich, and at the least to the value abone faid. Wherenpon our Reere Anmiral faid unto me in private, that although wee an should be little the better for these rich Prizes, yet he was beartily glad for our Generals sake : because they would in good fort give contentment to ber Marefre, fo that there should bee no reprint against the poore Lord, for the expense of the Voyage, And for my better fatisfaction in the value of them. I had canfed mine owne Prisoner to give me notice of the Ships, wherein bee had Adnentures, and according to the Rates thereof fet downe upon his owne knowledge: those three Ships could not be so little worth, as they all had formerly affirmed. Now if wee doe but looke into the bufbandrie and promidence of former Ages. and of the mightiest Empire, and best governed State that over was, wee foull plainely fee, that they ever scoke a more strict and just account of the benefit of their gettings and Victories. And that it was an espescall repard of the Roman Confuls, and Generals, at their returns from a profeerous Warre, to render a. plentifull gaine into the publique Treasure, which made their State still able to subsist in their great all to ons. And many times their greatest and worthiest Captaines were deepely called in question, for incise-

St. ling any part of fuch gettings, as amongst others, was that famous Scipio, furnamed Africanus, profecalled in that kinde by the Petil j, norwithstanding his many great services to the Common wealth. But 3 13 1 11 11 what became of all thefe our gettings God knowes. Onely I beare, that there was a Composition made afterwards with her Maieftie for the Cochynella, and other Merchandize, wet to a third part of that it was morth. For neither that, nor yet any of the other riches, could truely come to light or publique nowledge. because they were never fauthfully certified under the hands and testimonies of sufficient Officers, when they were first taken : nor any of that which was preserved fold when wee came home , but onely to the Buyers advantage. And yet in Conclusion, they that had fo played the wife Stewards, in fo providing for themselves, and their followers, had all the grace and gaine, from those that had more carefully and 60 inftly intended the publique Sernice. But this generall neglect of truth and merit throughout the world, is the came, that to few doe apply to fellow those sincere and unprofitable courses : especially, seeing how many doe daily, by fraud and flatterie, finde shorter and smoother mayes to Honours, wealth, and preferment : Enen beyond all measure and expellation.

CHAP.14.5.2.

The Conclusion of the Worke, with some later Advertisements touching His Maiesties Care for VIRGINIA.

VVE have now compassed the World in the Courses of so many Planets, every of which had a peculiar wandering, and yet none erring from the publike benefit of the Vniuerse. And as in Geometricall compasses one soocies to fixed in the Centre, whiles the other mooveth in the Circumsterence, so is it with Purchas and his Piligrimes, in this Geographicall compassing: they have their owne motions, but ordered in this Circumsterence, from, for, and by him which abideth at home in his Centre, and sever travelled two hundred miles from Thaxted in Effex (lately adorned and augmented with Franchises by his Maiestie) where hee was borne. All their lines tend to this Centre, and this Centre to the Basis and Ground thereof, that is to his Countrey, to the honour and benefit whereof, he and all his are due. All Nations dance in this Round to doe the English service, and English Travellers here enion the Mayne, others the By, to attend, and with their Travels to perfect the English, at less the knowledge of the World to the 20 English.

The Map of England.

Yea, in this English Centre also I have chosen the Centre of that Centre, the Renowmed Name of Queene Elizabeth, to which, because Mortalitie hath deprived vs of Her Person, wee have added that of King I ames, the All that is lest vs of Queene Elizabeth, and more then that will in further perfection of Sexe and Arts. With those aussicious Names, as the saire States in the Constellations of both Poles, our Pilgrimes begaine their Progresse; by the Light of those two Eyes of Great Britiains, they have taken view of the World, and therefore heere wee end in our Pilgrimage with 10 those two aussicious Names.

His Maiestie first (for Brute is uncertaine) hathcombined a Trinitie of Kingdomes into an Vnitie, Fecite on in gentem waters, & made the Ocean the Wall to his Inheritance, hath rooted out the wonted barbarisme of Borderers, of Seestish Fewds, of English Duells, of trish Bogges; hath confirmed and settled those cruder and more indigested beginnings of our prospertite; shath enioyed sourraignes tie longer then euer did any of Eritaines Sourraignes (and still of kill may we long long enioy him) hath giuen somanisod securitie against the extreamest and most stadingor, both in number, weight and worth of Royall pledges.

The Map of Great Brittaine and Ireland.

He is beyond comparison compared with others, a meere transcendent; beyond all his Predecessors, Princes of this Realme; beyond the neighbouring Princes of his own times, beyond the conceits of subjects dazled with such brightness Beyond our victorious Debora not in sex alone, but as Peace is more excellent then War, and

1.527.10

1072

Salomon then David, in this also that He is, and we enjoy his present Sunshine : in regard of posteritie not onely sowing thereto the fruit of his bodie, but of his learned mind, like a Salomon indeed by voluminous Writings, and not (which is more viesuall to Princes, with apophthegme-flashes, recorded by others like Saul sometime among the Prophets; a Miracle and Oracle both, this in polemicall. politicall, problematicall, apocalypticall, positive Theology, and Bookes of denotion also; that, in that his Royall body hath had the honour not to be polluted with women; aboue men, aboue Salomon. And as wee haue trauelled abroad that to wee may bring forraine rarities home, wee find no greater raritie abroad or at home then his Maiestie, the Father of the Clergie, the raiser of so many Families to honour, and of honours to Families; whose bountie and clemencie none deny, (let others beware least they perhaps have enill eyes, because his is good) so honoured of his Subjects with awfull loue, with louing awe, that himselfe hath professed no King herein his superiour : and we can , and all History will professe with vs. that England neuer enjoyed better daies then under her deceased Mother, and the present Pater Patria, who hath secured Britaine in peace and prosperitie, whiles all Christian Kingdomes haue beene shaken with warres: and that which alone hath escaped the Lions, hath beene bitten by the Adder, the Spanish Dominions being coasted, braued, spoiled of thousands of their people, besides wealth and security. by the basest of enemies, the Algier Pirates. Thus at home doth Great Britain enion this Gem of Goodnes, the best part of the Ring of the worlds Greatnes: & abroad, we fee that as Gods Steward to others also, His Maiestie hath ballanced the neerer World by his prudence, by inflice of commerce visited the remoter, by trueft fortirude without wrong to any man conquered the furthest North, and by instell temperance disposed the overflowing numbers of his Subjects, not in Intrusions and Inualions of weaker Neighbours, but in the spacious American Regions, 10 (some thinly, others not all inhabited) to breed New Britaines in another World. We have given Voyages thorow this Booke, and being now returned home and fixed on so illustrious a Name, I meane to travell no more, here I hang vp my Pilgrims weeds ; here I fixe my Tabernacle, it is good to bee here : wee have brought all the World to England, England it selfe to the greatest of her Soueraignes, King IAMES.

But yet the mention of his Maiesties Plantations, makes me gratefully to mention his gracious care of the same, euen since the former Virginian Relations were printed. I then left Virginia with some griefe and sorrow, because of her 4 distracted Children and Fathers, the divisions and mutuall distasts of the Company here and Planters there, fighing to God for them, who hath put in his Maiefties heart to compaffionate these his Subiects, and having appointed the Gouerament to be according to a Commission in that Gase directed, hath to further Virginias gaine beene content to suffer the losse of many thousands yearly in his Royall Eustomes arising out of Tobacco (so I have heard delivered in open Court) that so only that of the New Plantations may bee vendible till the Colonie may re-

His Maiestie is also pleased to send a Running Armie of Souldiers to scoure the 9 Countrey of the vnneighbourly malicious Naturalls; and to secure the planters from their privie ambushments. For openly they dare not attempt, but lurking in fecret places attend advantages. I feare not but so bright a Sunshine will quickly produce bleffed effects.

Of their undertakers for three yeeres Tobacco, I lust not to speake, because I wish, and even from that undertaking, shortly expect better commodities from thence then Tobacco. I cannot but magnifie His Maieslies care, and manifest that allo of the Honorable Lords of the Councel, who after diligent learch of Virginian Affaires the last yeere 1622, appointed Captaine John Harney, Master John Porey, Mafter Abraham Perfey, Mafter Samuel Maribens to fearch further ime the dilea-Resand possibile remedies of that plantation. In Februarie and March last a genes rall Affembly was fummoned, and questions propounded to Sir Francis Wias Gonernour and the faid Affembly: First, what places in the Countrey were best and most proper to be fortified or maintayned both against Indians or other Enemics. Secondly, concerning the prefent flate of the Colonie in reference to the Sauages. Thirdly, touching the hopes really to be conceived of the Plantation, and fourthly roughing the Meanes thereunto, &c. Their answere I know not whether I may publish in other things; In this one I presume, for better confirmation of what hath beene faid before to incite and confirme Mens affections to Virginia: namely to their answere to the third, subscribed (as the rest) by about thirty chiefe mens hands. We hold it to be one of the goodliest parts of the Earth, abounding with Nanigable rivers full of varietie of Fish and Fowle; falling from high and steepe Mountaines, which by generall relation of the Indians are rich with Mines of Gold, Silner and Copper: another Sea lying within fixe dayes journey beyond them. into which other Rivers descend. The soile fruitfull and apt to produce the best forts of commodities, replenished with many Trees for severall vies, Gums, Dyes, Earths and Simples of admirable vertues; Vines and Mulberry Trees growing wild in great quantities; the Woods full of Deare, Turkies, and other Beafts and 20 Birds, Sir Thomas Gates and Sir Thomas Dales reports to the Company, concerning those praises were in no part hyperbolicall, nor any Countrey more worthy of a Princes care and supportance. Other reports concerning the healthfulnesse of the aire (especially where the ground is cleered of woods) and other needfull prouisions of the plantation in numbers of Men and Armes (which some had hyperbolically diffraced) and in all other necessaries, seeing the late massacre hath not permitted it better. I am glad & rejoyce that it is no worfe, and hope and pray for the fortunate increase thereof daily. I rejoyce also to heare (by one lately returned thence, Master Morell a Minister and man of credit) that the affaires of New England are There is re-30 thriuing and hopefull, which two Colonies of Virginia and New England (with all port also of an their Neighbours) God make as Rachel and Leah , which two did build the house of English Colo-Israel, that they may multiply into thousands, and there in large the Israel of God, Northin Guieand the Churches Catholike confines, doing worthily in America, and being fa- na full contimous in Great Britaine. These, with the rest of his Maiesties Dominions, and his nuing. neerest and deerest possession, Prince Charles his Highnest, the Count Palatine, Ruth 4.11.

the Lady Elizabeth (more thining, more pure in her fiery trialls, and like the preater weight) with the sweet and princely Fruits of her wombe, still multiplied (like the Ifraelites vnder the Croffe) God preserue and prosper vnto the Maiesty of our Dread Soueraigne, the mighty Defender of the True Faith, KING IAMES;

preffed palme, and her Royall Godmother, spreading her boughes the more by

Amen O AMEN.

The end of the tenth Booke.

FINIS.

ALPHABETICALL TABLE OF THE PRINCIPALL

things contained in the flue Bookes of the fourth Part of Purchas his Pilgrimes.

Ays a Prenince in Florida, 1553 Abayia formozo, a Harbour in Brafile, where is found great fore of Amber preice, Coral, Brafil-wood, Filb. coc. Abaufango Retambuero a great mountaine in Brasile. Abaufanga, the name of a valiant Aquatorke, a place fitnate in the Camball. Abermot, a great Lord of Mawoo-Aboro la jangerous Sands & clifts in the West-Indies betweene the Cape and Spirito Santo, 1222 Abraham Cock an Englishman maried in America. Abrioio great Shoalds in the Latitude of 21 and 22 Degrees from Hil aniola mestward, 1834 Acara a towne in Peru, 1446 Acacoustomed a Riner in Mawoofhen. 1874 Acapulea, the lituation and description thereof, 1418.1446.1562 Acarewanas, Indian Kings & Lords so called, Acari, a Tonne, where is made the best and oreatest store of wine in all Peru. Accomack, a River in Virginia, Acela, a Tonne in Florida, 1531 Achele, a Tonnein Florida, 1536 Achneres, a certaine people fo called: their natures, habitations, fashions, and commodities, Acle, a Gulph fo called, 1244 Acoma, a Towne of 6000 Indians, she passage to which is by stayres I bewen out of arocic, 1561, 1562 Acuco, a Pronince in America,

Acus, a Prosince in America. 1560 Acuti, a beaft of Brafile, like a Adams Tree in Brafile. L. Admirall of England his deferned commendations. Adultery, how punished by the Indians, 1159.by the Æthiopians, 1234, by the Guianians, 1272 Aquacay, a Pronince in Florida, Coast of China on the North, 1412 Age renerenced among the Sausges, Ague, a speciall medicine for the Aio, an Iland in Orenoco. 1248 Aire causing swelling in the legges, Alaqua, a risser in Brasile, the depth thereof, and how passed, 1239 Alimama, a Town in Florida, 1545 sallcatrace a ranenous Sea-fowle de-Alegranca, one of the most northerly Ilands of the Canaries, 1155.the inhabitants and commodities ther-

S. Alexio an Hand described, 1238 Alexandro Vrfino bis relations of Terra Firma, and Peru, 1418, Alexander, viz, Sir William Alexander Knight, his tatent for the Plantation of Nous Scotis, Alfonso Gabrero his comming to the riner of Plate, Algernoone-Fort in Virginia kept by Captaine Dauics, 1748 All Nelico, a tree in Brasil very precious and rich, good against bruifes, 1229 Allen the Cardinall promifeth the

Alo, a kinde of drinke weed by the Spaniards in the West Indies, like Braggat, made of hot spices, 1174 A tamaca-towne. Aluarez Nunnez, made Generall of the Spaniards in Brafile, his men morable explises, &c. 1356, &c lequ. His Bip-wracke, land-trawell, and famine, ibid. His difrespect among his souldiers, 1357. fedition among his men, 1359. His dissembled sicknesse and trecherous cruelty toward the Indians. 1360. Hee is captinated and fent into Spaine, and the differnion en-fung ibid. Vide Nunnez. Arnaie, a towne in Florida, 1592 Amam Buquano, two Ilands in Brafile. Amapajo Riner. 1248 Amana River. Amariocapana vallies, and sheinhabitants thereof, Amazons country, 1559, 1218-The names of all the Rivers and Nations betweene it and the Brabiffes, 1286. The description of their nature, country, customes. and commodities at large, Amazon women, their falhious, and

1237,1240,1313,1377, 1796 Ambition among Sauages, 1213 Ambros, a beaft in Sthiopia, Ambush of the Caribes, Amecaxo, Indians of Bratle, 1210 Amichas-towne in the river Marwin, countrie, 1358. Vide Women.

Amber, how called by the Indians,

Ambergreece where found, 1224,

America, 1221. How divided be-Crowne of England to the Duke | tweene the Spiniards and Portina gals, 1435. The frife about it, Americaes strange beasts, plants, etc. 1225. 1326. & lequ. Strange Birds, 1329, 1330. Bees and Butterfies, ibid. The ener of the Americans, 1220. Americaesmedicinable plants, and venemous, 1330. With leaves of incredible bionelle . 1 2 22. The cause f their warres, 1 3 33. Their irreconciliation with their aduer aries ibid. Their affemblies, weapons, skill, archery, firstagems, their clamorous ficraenesse, capsines, 1335,1336 vid. Indians and Brafilians.

Anato, a berry or cod wherewith the Indians paint, 1251 Anapermia a riner, how situate,

Anaquia, fanages so called, 1299
Anaica, aplaces Affrica, 129
The substainest stored, 124
The substainest stored, 124
borness wader the Sanne; most blacke of any, their religion, concubines, countrie, and commodisics; they are right under the line.

Anebas, a place in the Indies, 1248. certaine Moores (o called, 1250 Angola, a place in Ethiopia, 1212 The inhabitants, markets, lawes, King pompe et rites of obey fance. controuersies, et c. 1222. Their Religion, ibid. Description of the Country, their Canery to the Portingals, their coloured cleathes, prestelt disgrace, their feeding 3 lodging, 1233, 1234, their manner of taking Elephants, their coleblacke colour, frature, punishment of adultery, circumcision, how eafily their country may bee taken from the Portingals, 1234. yeerly shipped from it 28000 Claues.

Anhelim, Savages in the Maine of Braille, 1199 Anthors that are unfernicable, how mended without iron, 1390 Angra; the chiefe towne of Tercera, one of the Acres, the defirption and fortification shereof, 1668,

Anima, a bird in Brasile, that hath on his beake a medicinable horne, 1306 Anneda, a tree very sourraigne against the foresty. 1623 Atmes Hill the stream of it, 1142

S. Annes Hand, 1379 Aftorxi, «Towns in Florida the inhabitants whereof were taken by the Spaniards,

Ant-Bearc, a beaft with a mofe of a yard long, deceiving Ants with putting forth bis tongwe, 1214 It is also called Tamandros, 1216,

Ante, a place in Florida, the commodities thereof, 1503, 1504
Anteperittate, and the effects thereof, 1617

S. Anthonie, a garifon towns of the Spaniards in Florida, 1182 Sr. Antony Ralife forced to returne for England.

S'Autonio, a Riner, 1223, the deforpitien, commodities, &c. 1239
Artois, a Pronise neere Peur, nhofe inhabitants worshipped Types and great Stacks of 23 and 30 Types (125) Rec. Hot relation of the fost lone, and hermelfet. 1427

Apalachen a place supposed very well flored with gold nit Florida, 1901 the clieft enough thereof described, their manner of building, and fortification, their commedities of build; sowlet, and plants: a geographical description of their courtie, their assume the Spaniards, &c. 1502,1503

Ge. 1502,1503 Apamatica, a country in Virginia, 1688

Apamatucke-riser.

Apanawaspek, a great river in Mawooshen, fring West and by South of Ramasloc, 1874 Apanmenseck, a great river in Mawooshen, ibid. Apes with beards and mustachees.

Apetupa, certaine Indians so called,

Apigapigtanga, certaine sanages so called in Brasile, 1298

Aponig, a great river not far from Aponik, 1874
Aponik, a great river in Mawoofhen, ibid.

Appisham, a towne on the river Aponik, ibid.
Apples of America, 1332 Apples at ppies of America, 1332 Apples at Angola and Auanus, rleafant and wholesome but enting iron like Aqua-fortis, 1245. Apples in Guiana causing sleepe to death,

Aquirini Indians, 1299 Aquiguiva-Brassitians, 1299 Aquixo, a great Lord in Florida,

Aracawa Riuer, 1251. The commodities and inhabitants thereabout, 1251,1263 Aracuaizti, certaine Judian fanages, 1550 Araomi, an Ilandin Orenoco, 1248 fe of a Ararape, certaine Brafilian inhabitation in tants, 1298 Arawagatos, certaine Indians neere Orenoco.

Orenoco, 1248
Arbadaos Indians, their hungry life, 1517
Archers, very expert and frong, 1502. Archers then him here

Archers, very expert and strong, 1503. Archers that kill birds slying silbes swimming beasts running, Archers-hope, a point of land in Virginia so called, 1688. Archers relation of a Fleet sent to Virginia, 1733,1734 Arcias, certaine clists in Braileso called.

apt. Argals voyage and faces [6, 1758, x feq. His relation of his act in Wirefundantan 1613, his getting flore of corne for the plantation, 1764, 1765. His taking priforer Powhatons daughter, and freeing Englishmen, 1768, his returne, ibid. His valour in dissipation of the Fréch, 1768, 1808

Attrada funified against the English in the West Indies, their fight, 1398, & icq. An armada prepared against the Lord Howard, Admirall of her Maiesties steet at the Acres, 1114

ATTOWN running in at the menth of a man, and comming out at the pools, yet the mon faced, 1206, e.frowet size or size in one body escaping ibid. One med turns yet revues in one man that sixed after 4 boures, 1219, A hundred revowes in two men before they feld, 1256. Arrows of Indians that runne through a Target Pishell.

1688 1688

Atrowhotacks, certaine Indians of Virginia, having but 30 fighting men. 1692

St. Arthur Gorge, his relation of a voyage to the Iles of Azores, 1938

Articles offered to Port Ricco-men by the Earle of Cumberland, 1163. And received. 1164 Articles propounded by Mr. More to the Company planted in the Bermudas to hee subspicibed to generaly, 1795

Arraroopana, an entrance into the river Orenocc, 1248
Armes ofed by the Indians, 1361
Aruba Ilina deferibed, 1146, 1246
Aruburguary, a town of the Epcurerini in the indies, 1385 Arwarcas, certaine Indians so called that dwell in the Wyapoco,1253

Aliapana, the fuft Hand in Oceanque, 248 Aliacona, a Province in Guiana, 1285, Aliawais, certaine Indiana inhabitting the Plaines of Samia, 2448 Alhamabaga, a river in Mawoothen will med from Sagodok, 1875, Allhaw atoms on the river Aponeg in Mawoofhen. 1874

Allhaw a town on the riser Aponeg in Mawoothen, 1874 Aspiner a Gonernor in Nausse veder the great Massisters, his good entertainment of our English for-

Affumption, a place erelled by the Spaciards in the West Indies.

Asticon, a great Lord in Manooshen, 1874. Atabilipa Prince of Peru crastily taken by the Spaniards, and after-wardsperfidionsly slaine, 1445,1452,1490 1491 Atacames Bay, the situation thereof, 1401 Atacama, a towne in Peru, 1443 Athul, a pleasant Country neere the River Otenoce, 1248

Riner Otenoce, 1248
Atuhualpa,or Atabalipa, Emperor of Peru, his warres with his brother, his villory crueltie, &c.

1483,1484,1485
Ataios-Indians, 1516
Atricco, a place five leagues from Mexico, 1414
Attoca-River, 1248

Attoca-Kiner, Atturari, certaine inhabitants of the West Indies,
Anaialii, shirits possessing and vexing the inhabitants of West India, 2213 Auguares, certaine Indians so casted, Aubri a French Priest, lost in New France, and after many dayes found againe, being almost starued, all his food being a fruit worse

then wild cherries. 1622 Audacity of the English Admirallin
the voyage to the Azores, 1943

Augurati Brafilians, 1299
Autiamque a Pronnee in Florida described, with the commodules thereof, 1550, 1551

Axaaplace in America, 1561 Aximocuntla, a place in New Spaine, 1558

Azores Ilands, their number and nomination in particular, why called Azores, and why the Flemmillo Ilands, 1667, 1668. Azores Iles finated in the Atlanticks and Westerne Ocean, between 37 and 40 Degrees, 1982. the initiables of Porting 18 for the street of the Spanish and might be freed from them, and might be freed from them, if him night full with a Concernor the could preselt therefore the Spanish 1859.

Autalan a Pressince neere New Spains.

Ayard, Indian mood frouted, 1851

Ayard, a firefein Teccar. 1671

Ayard, a firme in Storied. 1871

Ayard, a Tome in Storied. 30 for the same of the s

Ayritay a Towne in Blorida, sailed by the Spaniards The towne of reliefe; the commodition and deferintion thereof.

8537

Bagies, a very france Fish in Rio Grand in Florida. 1548 Bahia a Towne in the West-Indies never the Line. 1189 Baldinia, his death by a cup of mol-

Baldinia, his death by a cup of motten Gold which she Indiam forcedhims to drinke, faying, Now glutthy felfe with gold. 1443 Baldinia, a places name neere the Sonth-fea. 1391. Baldima Port 1442. 1443 Balparizo, a place in America.

Baliamum, of three farts in Tuppan Balic neere Bralile, white, red & llacke, all very admiferous. 1189 Bancke in the New-Jouind Lund knowne by Mariners to been ever by the tellimony of Birds. 1628.

The description of it, and the filting there, ibid. Banner of a Spanish ship, bung up in one of the Churches of Leyden, in token of triumph, 1909 Brothine of Spaniards leaseth no

character as the Indians, 1323 Baptime forbidden by the Denili to the Saugees, 1564
Baratta, a delicate perfame, and admirable in curing greene wounds,

Barbudos Iland, the description and commodities thereof, 1255, 1256 Ba.ede, an Indian towne, 1364 Bareras Mermethues hils in Pareyna, 1237 Cupt. Barker of Bristowes naniga

tions, 1180 Capt. Backet flaine in Brafile, 1195 Backley, viz. Sir Iohn Backley bis noble refolution, ambition and convage, 1151

Baroti, an India towne, 1364 Barrenneise of women bow diffelled by the Indians, 2303 Barrennis Indian inhabitants, 1349

Batenetic of the Spanior ds in refufing the Earle of Effect his challed lengt.

Bills, group pleity fairment and winparties at Natzachieft. 1859 of Billimento Hands. 1244 A Bath remperately has in Domimics, 108 A Bath comparation.

A Bath temperately has in Dominica, 1138 A Bath caring disert diselect, 128,1128, But es beying meat, 1885 Battlein-Riverth Canada, 1611 Battlel of Sauages, 1218, 1134, 1232,1273,1273,1348, Bathlein-Riverth Canada, 1612 Battlel of Sauages, 1218, 1324, 1322,1273,1273,1348, Bathlein-Riverth Canada, 1885 Bathlein-Riverth Canada, 1612 Battlein-Riverth Canada, 1612 Bathlein-Riverth Canada, 1885 Bat

rell of Sanages with Spannards, 1200,1261 Batts very oreat and noxions, 1284 Baximete a place fertite with fine

Baximete a place fertile with finingold,

Bay of Cods in Canada,

Bay of heate,

ibid

Bay , a towne in Brafile, 1142.

Bayama, a Guife in the West Indies, 1241 Bayamond, a river in Port-Ricco,

Bayas de Sant Antonio, sands en the coufts of Brafile, 1238 Bayshas de Ambrobrio, certaino clifts so called, 1223

Beares tome taught by Sanages in feed of Ladders, to cary the climbers upon trees, 1644 Beares that from 14 Leagues from the Continent to feed on Birds, 2605 Beafts with armed scales repelling

Iron in America, 1376

A Bealt called Hay that liseth upon haire, 1328

A Bealt with a monstrone sinut.

Beafts hideoufly howling, 1381 Beafts that carie their young ones in a bas under their belly, 1502. A beafts hide of strange forms and faltson, 1540

Beds of whet kind wed amone the Sauages, 1188
Beets how kept in the Illands of M

na and Sauona, &c. 1146 Beenes infinitely plentifull, 1171. 1421

Bees without stings, 1364
Belle a voire, a river of Florida, discovered by the French, 1603 8222 Belligods,

Belligods. 1202 Bengulain Affrica. 1234 Saim Bent, an Ilond in Brafile, Bermuda plantation distrest by Rats denouring their fruits, bid. The in infinite number, 1796. Their weaknesse and mortality succeeding, bid. & 1797. The predi-Elien thereof portended by Ranens, 1797. Bermudas Plantation mader the gonernment of Maffer.

Moore, ibid. Vnder Captage
Tucker, ibid. Its grawih in henefit and commodities, 1798. Its gouernment by Captaine Kendall and Captaine Birler, ibid, Lis Forts built by Wafter Moore, 1802. Its government by a Triumuirate, ibid. A Church built, much supplies of all necessaries, b. Bernudas plantation-affaires under divers Governours, and the fortification therof at large, 1804-180e.1811. Be muda impregmability . 1822 . Englands naturall and nationall right to plant in Bermudas.

Be muda Ilands infamous for formsand thunder their fituation 1 160. Called the Deui's Hands, 1737; zude, circuit, and latitude. [eafons and comate, 1718 Pearlefiling there ibid. The dan er of armall touther by fligs; their foile, mant of we emons beatts, fruits. Ledars, 1739. Palmes there. and their commodities; trees, Silkewormer, ibid. The reason why shey were not formerly inhabited, ibid. Their want of fre h water, fil erest fore, m. hing of falt there. 1740 The wholefomne fie of she fish, and its can e: store of Whales Fowles , ibid , Wild Hogs and Tortoiles, 1741. Bermudas liked by Sir Thomas Gares, and other Mariners, and preferred before Virginia, 1745. The religions orders in Beismudas under the faid Gouernour, 1746. Bermudas possession saken, their fa-lemmities, Preaching, Admini-Bration of the Sacraments, mariagerites, o.c. 1746. Bermudas. eroffe erofted by Sir Thomas Gos in memorial of his deline-

re, the infeription, 1747. Ber-

mudas plantation by the English,

$793,1794. Articles proposed to the plantationers, 1794, Bermn-

dis fore of Ambergracce, 1796.

Bermudas geographically descri-hed. 1008. The faile, ibid. With other commodities at large 1200. 1800 Sta Another delminis on of statemental excellencies.

Bermuda Cingin Kirginia, 2767, Berries making drinke, of a referi-Stine operation Berria a River, 1306 Beuer-skins very plentifull in Car nada and New England . 1 902 Beuers berm by Sanages 1644 Baracaca & beaft in Brafile Nest and doors, Biefaie a nation neere the River Parana in the W & Indies, 1:64 B grorgia, Ingrans of Brable 1 2 00 Bird-land, one of the Virgin Hands in the West Indies. Birds incredibly plantifull there.

killerb wish his Sienching free Vinen

Birds francein Brafile, 13 05, 1306 Bi ds that have two venerations. that dance, that found like hels. that have three skins, that have hornes, ibid, Birds that bring tidings of thirs ariuall, whole far is good for loofenelle, birds that die and line againe : their fenerall names, 1316,1317. B. ds in Americavery delicate and olittering, their natures, names, and diuersties, 1 229. A bird of amost monstrous bill, 1220. A bird no bigger then a Drone Bee , that makes most harmonious melody, 1330. Birds beleened by the Barbarians to bee fent from their friends with newes, 1220. Birds like Snipes that discover dance. rous Sheales, 1374. Birds zak'n with booke and line, 1383. Their a feripiion, ibid. Bords wor hipped as gods. Birds Strangely taken in the Bermudas, by men yelling, and howling, Biscaines, a sanage people inhabi. ting neere Grand Bay, on the Borth of New-found Land, Biscouers we to fight well, 1150 Bishop of Casco taken prisoner by the English at Cadiz; he is set at liberty without ransome, 1923 Bishop and his Clerkes, certaine Rockes on the north fide of Siller so called. Blanches Bar. 1286 Blancke a place whither the French Biscaines, and Portugals yearely

repaire for Fish, neere the South

Blacke Dinace Junke, 1167 Blacke-Rocke, a place recreit filled by stores or foure hundred farle of Spaniarde Blanco land Blafus a Frier of she Order of Francitens of Simila, being in great exercinity through the Ranilb bondage of the Spaniards, was releened by the Sanager of the Ile of Dominica,  18×2 Blazing far in the soure 1 500. Ouer Tercera, 1678. Another

oner England Arme 1606, page Bloody filx rife, and the causes Blew-be. de welfold for two or three binared bufhels of corne, 1710 Bores in Brafile that have their namels on their backes, by the fens of which the Doos hunt and delirey thome

Boates of trange forme andfallion. 140 1. B at's onely of hollowed trees by the Indians of New France. A Boar that Coiled from the Berning dus so Irsland 1803. And there hungdap for a monument, ibid. Bo eyua; Snakes among the Sa-

Bogs and watry places engendring enill dijeafes, 1623.1624 Boicupecanga, a kind of Snake the hath wenemons prickles on his

Bolus, a River in Virginia, the commodities, and inhabitants, 1693 Bonas Avies, a place in the riner of Bonito or Spanish Mackarell, 1276

Boarding how to bee avoided in a Sea-fight, Boris a towne taken by Captaine Petuin in the Portugall voyage,

Boybona an Indian name of a mountaine in Brafile, in English the Rotten Whale,

Boycinings and Boicining peba, certain fnakes in Brafile that have hele in their tailes, and are very toyfonom, Boyes of the Indians not suffered to take Tebacco, their renerence to their elders, their babit, &c.

Boytiapus, aFreq-eating Snake or Serpent, wherewith if a barren womans hips be ftrooke, the Indians fay the prefently conceines with Cape of New-found Land, 1886 Boynara, a place in the Indies, 1246 Boifterous Seas, not agreeable to London delscacie. Brabiffe Riner , and the particular names of the Rivers betweene u and the Amazons, and Nations, Bracken neere the Paretaes in the West Indies. Branco de Malambo. Brafile, the Rivers, Capes, and Ports, thereof described : sheir danger or fafety for Navigasars . 1237, 1238, & /eg. Brafite when first found and discovered, and by whom , 1437. The controverse concerning it, betweene the Spaniards and Portugals.

Bralile , the difficulty of Cayling thither some times of the years, 11,6,

A Brasilian brought to K. Henry she eighth in his wilde accouffrements.

Brafile is fixe handred leagues from the Streights of M gellane. 1193 Brasilian coasts full of Shoales, Brafilian Sanares, 1224.1226.feg. france and monfrous Beafts in Brafile, their names, 1242,12:3. Brafilians their nature, fubi dion man-eating hooting nake dnes, flat-heads, 1243. plenty of mynes, 1243. Brafil, and Brafilians. described, 1280 & fea their opimion of an Iland of God. of their Coule and paradife, ibid. Their mariages rites, drinkings, diet. ruling children , liberalitie drunkenne ([e, rudene ([e, manner of eating, 1290. Their lodging , nakedne ffe, modeftie, barre, boufes, child-birth, ceremonies, love of children, and education, 1291. Their entertaining strangers with weeping welcome, their holoitali-

tie their drinking smoake of Peti-

gina, their traffq ing ornaments,

the viage of their wines sealouse,

mulicke, 1292. Singing, inframents, lone of poetry, their buri-

els and excelline lamentation, tooles . weapons . archerie , their arts, quick-lightednesse, trancis,

(wimming, filting, (words, 1293,

1294. Their manner of eating mans flesh, and divers their ceremonies at large , 1195 , 1296,

1297. Their creating Gentlemen, the badges thereof, and their three titles , Abaetes , Murubixab ,

Mocacara, 1207. Their languages and nations, ibid. The climate,

Tobacco, co.

Varietie of Arange milde beafts. 2201.1202.00 1202. Dwerfitt of fearfield Servents, and the ver nome of chatclimate $202 1 204) The varietie of Parats, and frangenelle of other Birde 1295. 1 206. Diversiries and wenders of their trais and fruits for Phylick . and otherwise: the foverall names of their trees and plants . 11207. 1208.1200. Rese and admirable plants, their (eventil mames 1211.1212. Their muleisude and fingularitie of fiftes; and their names at large, 1914, 1214 & Sea. Their Fish that liverb altogether in Salt-mater . and their names. 1216 . 1217. The delicate fresh-water of Bralile. and Rivers, ibid. Thei ftrange, walt, and fearfull fea-fergents. and their feverall names . 3217. 1218, What Portugali commodiries in Brafile . 1319. Brafite hath few Lice and Fleas but infinite flore of venemous quats, ibid. Articles for the good of Brafile to the Spanift King, 1320. of fea. The want of instice. and the irregularitie of those parts. 1221. Their dis-respect of the lefuits in the matters of counsaile, ibid. How ernelly the Bafilians are dealt with by the Portugals, 1321. & feg. Their want of in-Bruction, and inhumane flauerie 1224. Brafils beafts . plants and other living things described 1325 . 1326. & leg. Bafile wood, ibid. Difference of plants, beafts, and commodities from ours. and their severall description, 1:25. cf (eq. Their aftonifhment at the hearing of God : Their inconstancie . naturall parts . de. 1240. Their mariages and polygamie, the manners of women with child, cf.c. 1341. The de-RruElion of families, and bounds of their possessions . 1342. Their how hold Ruffe, 1343. Their entertainment. 1344, 1345. Their Phylicke and demeanour towards the links, their buriall attended with dinellifbrites. 1346. Brafils description and criefe Havens. 1282. A Brafile Ship rakenby Sir Water Raleigh, 1938. Brafile commodities feut for Spaine, not mely gold, but much other

Branadoes are Commercianes the his depers of success in great proiets, Braveric of the English turnerb to becorrie. Bridedrobines that give the firth hanfall of their paufer secheir hindred and friends. Brigalian Hand the firmation thereof

Buens Ventura, a River in the Wieft Indies , the descriptions thereof, 1413, 1414 Buenor Acres, a same in the Ri-.ver of Plate. Buccaw ganecants, a towns under . the dominion of Balhabez Sagamo of Mawoofhen. Building without tooles or engines. miraculous by the Indians of Peru. 1477, 1478 Burdones, a place fo called 260

Bi kes rebellion in Ireland. 1892 The Burlings, an Iland (o called : - aheloyle, commodition, and inhe bugnes described, - 3 13 1855 Butter how made by the Indians.

Abot, win. Sir Sebaftian Cabot his American tracels. 1177.1178. ch (ea be discovered so much of the continent of the New World, that it deferved to bee called Cabotiana, rather then Americ: Cabuito, a towne in Floria, 1544 Caact certaine Brafilians to called.

C. cra River. Cadiz taken by the English the Ca (He Corresdred ere 1921. Cadis described. 1022. It safet enfire andrased to the ground. 1033 Caiama Iland, the description therof.

Caiocame, a towne in Mawocfhen, Caioles, Cannibals (o called, living in Brafile Caiuari, certaine Savages of Bra. file living in Canes. Cale, a towne of Florida, . Calefornia, a/ea/o called , 1560 or an Iland , or many Ilandi, as others (av. 1181.1182 Calenture, Caliane, a River in Guiana , very aboundant with gold and filter.

Caliquen toine, 1533 treasures, as Ginger, Sugar, Hides, Callipuny a mountaine in Guyana.

·- 1302 Canari . a Province of More-1148 quito, Cannete, a towne in Peru, 1446 Canrie & towns in the River Marwin or America. Canibals with faces like does at Ports-delire. 1101. Other france and valerans Carnibals, 1208 Canibats profer famon to Candiffrie Santos, 1 20%. Cannihals naked and fearfull, 1204. cald Pories, 1208. Their france ensertalmment of Avaneurs, 1208. Canibals called Tamoyes, 1228, 1240, vid. Savares. Cano, a famous Nanigator . 1191 Canoas or boats of threescore foot land with 80 men in them. 1280 Cape Blanco, 3370 Cape Saint Francisco. 1400 Cape Saim Antonio, 1147 Capawucke a place in the laden. fored with gold, 1841 Cape bona Eiperman, the danger of the paffage there, 1151,1152 Cape Rico. 1170 Cape Verdia 1181 Cape de la vela, 118.,1244 Cape Frio, or cold Cape, its htmutien. 1202. Its Navigation, 1240 Cape Saine Augustine, 12:8 Cape Caldera, Cape de verde, its unhealthinesse, 1 270. Its Ilands, Capignramirinij a place in Bralile 1238. Cape Agreda, cape froward. 1286 Cape chiqui-towne, 1535. Cape Francois. Cape Saine Maries, Cape de Rare Cape Saint Lawrence, 1606 Capetrocca, a Saunge towne, 1285 Capicua a flat land in Brafile, 12;8 Cape-cod, 16 17. Cape Charls, 1601. Cape Henry in Fireinia, Caredenas, a Province in America, 1687. Cape Laware in Virginia, 1762. Its adjoyning Shosles, Captaines for marres, how chosen amone the Indians. Captaines errours checked, $307. parience commendable in a Cap-Captaine Listers dineerous attempt in my Lord of Cumberlands voyage, 1143. Hee is drowned and his Ship in his returne, ibid. Captaine Bayly flaine, Captaine Munion taken captine, Canduacu, Brafilion beaftithat dare their brifles through a mant Captaine Nortons Vorage, ibid. Carracke wfed to returne from the Captaine Caues farprivall of the Ar golie of Lisbone Captaine Nortons affailing a Pereineall, ibid. Capr. Caue, Admirall in the eighth Voyage of the Lord of Cumberland, flaine, Captaine Antonie killed, ibid, Captaine Dounton wounded, 1148 Capurifell & River. Capucaras, mater-Sergents in the Indies. Capari, a River neere Orenoque. Carrabouca, a place in India, 1249 Carcocies , Indians fo salled, 1364 Carder, viz. Perer Carder a farniff man , his bard fortune and escapes, 1187. The lote of bis company, 1 188. His fouing two moneths upon a fruit like Oranges, and his drinking of his wome Urine, bid. His converfing with Irdiane, be. Teacheth them to marre. 1189. His departure from them, ibid. His impresonment, deliverance. 1:89. 1190. His implayment, 1190. His escape from the Portingals, and winall to England after nine yeares voyage, Carigue, a Beaft in Brafile the that carseth her yong ones in a bag about with her. 1:46 Cari-River. 1148 A Carrak runneth a shore to avoid the English, aripo a tonne in Guiana, 1168 Caroli, a pleafant River neere Orenoco. Carraemba, Sanaves fo called, 1299 Carapana, a place in the Province of Emeria. Carraibas, certain Ingelers in Brafile. 1140 Carracus a place in the Indies, 1 242,1248 Carripapoory Ilands neere Guiana. Carendies a furce Nation of the Indies, neere the River of Place: their nature, warlikeneffe, and deferiorion. A Carrack runneth her felfe on ground for fewe of the English, Carracks taken and burnt by Englift Captaines , 1145 , 1147. Carracks not fo great as mealthy >

THE TABLE.

	_
ndies, at the Acores by Sepremoer, 1109
Carrack with four millions and	C a halfe of treasure burnt in Port-
Ricco, 1171	C
Ricco,	_
reat Carrack fired, 1182. Another	_ taken, 1183	C
archeonos Indians , 1364
arcarifo, Indians fo valled, 1353
	C
aribes neere Orenoco, 1249
great enemies to the Indians,	C 1261 arios Sauages,their nature, commodities, customes, towne, fortisi- cation, &c. described, 1351 apraine Carre slaine in the Por-	C anion de la Gril. I	_ catson, Sc. aejcribea, 1351
aptaine Carre flaine in the Por-	_ tugall Voyage, 1924	C
cruolos Sauages, cheir nature, and description, 1232
ana dejerspeion, 1232 arruco, certaine Sanages in Florida, 1510
apt. Carfey slaine in the Portugal Voyage, 1924
Voyage, 1924 artagena affaulted and taken,	С
artagena ajjaknea ana men,	~
1419, 1434. Tis massacred by Spaniards, 1584
Carnell Holne by Fuelish can Spannards, 1584 I Caruell folne by English cap- tines, 2151
	C
afcais, a towne of Portugall forfa-	·
ken at the approach of the Eng-lilb. 1923	: .
aliste, a great Floridan towne,	C
1541	C
	-
afuero Riser, 1348	·
alqui a great Gouernour in Americo, his large domainions, and townes, 1547, 1548
	1
making it, the goodnesse and de- feription of it, 1173, 1251 Cassia Fistula in Brasile, 1308 Castro, a place on the coast of Chili, making it, the goodnesse and we-
Scription of it, 1173, 1251
Caffia Fiftula in Brafile, 1308 aftro, a place on the coast of Chili.) 1442
astro his discoverie, 1447	C
Tastro his discoverie, 1447 Tasuays, a River in the Indies,	L
2123 Cassipa River, 1248 Cassipogotos Indians, neere Ore-affinomaros Indiane merre Ore-	1
sampogotos manno, nere Ote-	1
neco 1248	_
Castle of Cascais yeelded to the	C
English, 1924
Caftle of Saint Philip, neere Porto	1
Belle, 1244
Caralan - Panishan in Florida	C
Catalte, a Province in Florida,	٠,
1353	1
Catagua Indians, 1300	1
Saint Catalina Hand, 1438	(
Caturi River, 1248	1
Caturi River, 1248 Catamaya, a towne in Florida,	1
atamaya, a rowne in Fiorida,	1
1550	1
Cattle infinite store in Port-Ricco,	1
1171	1
	- 1
Cat of the Mountaine, called by	1

the Indians, Marcavahite, fore in Brasile. mounes, alanguage of fome Indians in Florida. was a Moumaine in Port Ricco. xamalca, a large Indian Citie, described, with its chiefe ornavas, a towne of Florida, 1549 vegoleoocoora, a towne in the River Marwin inhabited by the Arwaccas Savages. zique, a Title of dignitie among the Savares, as much as to fay, a Lard. edars, in New France, 1622. In the Bermudas, 1720. Cedars in Alexandria reported by the Ienes to be them of Libanus, that beare old and new fruit all the yeare, ibid, Cedars ill for Shipping. cuola, a Province, 1560. Init are fenen Cities neere toverher, their manner of making houses, for summer and winter their commodities of Turquefer and Emeraulds, their beatts, and climate. hachapuya, a Province in America of valiant men, and faire wemen, that worthip Snakes, $478 hagnate a towne in Florida, 1553 aptaine Chalons his voyage to the Northerne parts, his unfortuaduenture. North of Virginia, his comiferation towards a distressed Frier, his taking captine by the Spaniards. his goods divided into the Spanish | Chesepian-Bay, Ships , halaque Province. 1430 hampiains voyage into Canada in the yeare 1603, 1605 His ariuall at Canada: 1606. His discouering of divers Ilands hanca, avaliant Indian Nation, descending as they suppose from a 1457,1641 harges of certaine voyages to Virginia, little gaine for loffe of haritie, a oreat Ship landing at Plimouth in New England. 1856. Charitie of the Indians toby licknesse, 1860. Charitie and conrefic among favages, 1345 Christians defervedly controlled by Chawonock in Virginia, its diffe- the Indians, 1449 How thought rent languages mentioned, 1604 Chereno, a great Commander in Port Ricco 1160 Chebegnados, a towne in Mawoofhen. Cherente, a River in Florida Chiaza, a Province in Florida. Chickhahamania, a River in Vir-Finia, 1602. The inhabitants anverned by Priests. Chicaca a towne in Florida, 1944 Chichilcale, a Province in Ame-1502 M. Chidleys voyage for the Magellane Streights. Children throwne to door 1.82 Child-birth, how and with what ease amone the Indians . 1262. Chile , arich Connery in the Indies, 1232. Its description and discomerie by some Spaniards, 1442. The taking thereof by the Souniards. and the towne first inhabited by China hath two wayes to it through the Streights of Magelfane, and Capút bonæ íbei. Chiribuana brutilb Indians fo calhagre, a River in the Indies, 1180 Chirigiana, a Province fabiett to A Chirurgion curing with words . nate hap to the loffe of the whole Chifaptack a brooke in Virginia, I Henry Chaltons voyage to the Chifcha, a Floridan Province, Choamo . a connrey in Port Ricco 1160 1648 1834 Chefupioc-Bar. 1688 Chily, a Province Subject to Peru. its fewerall townes. Chilea Paplace in America, 1398 Chinca, a place in the South Sea, there, ibid. His returne, 1619 Chinchilla, a beaft of wondrous eftimationby reason of a rich Furr, a Lyon, which they worthip for a Cholupaha, a towne of Florida, Cheuakget-Bay in New France. 1842 Choofs, a valley in the South fea, 1.1216 Christs name blafthemed by the perfidie of Spenis Christians, 1450 mord it ofe which are impoverified Christians conelite to tash other exceeding faveges, afthy sheen an Indian definition of a Christian. 1450. Christians este one another. Chryffall. 1320 Chrystall Rocke in Virginia, 1772 Chryfall Mountains. Cholula a part of New Spannersinated in respect of the suh abitants, by Spaniards. 1577.1578 Challala, a place in the South Sea. 1577.1578 Chule, as liand sourch inhabit. d by the Spinismes in the South See, yearich with gold. 1392 Churches profasation partified.

1163 1461 Cibola, a Pravince in America, discoursed by the Spaniards. Conception, a town in Chili. 1443 Cicu. Indians of Brafile. Cicuic. stoppe in America. 1561 Cilicedenio, a mountaine in Guy-Cinque Llagas, a great Carrack Circumcition among Ethiopians. Cinet Cats. Civill differnions. 1452,1453 Sir Nicholas Cliffords death by a Bot, as hee was at supper. 1184 A Climate unsufferably bot, and within fixe miles againe intolerably cold. Coaio's, or Coucho's, Indians.

Cobe, a place neere Hausnain she Well Indies.

Cobrus, vide Serpent. Coca, a Floridan Countres, the somes and commodities therein.

Coche, an Ile neere Margarita. A Cocke treading a form another crowing clearely within swelve bourasse was batched. 1805 Cocos trees, and their fruit described. 1371,1372,1173 Corwina a towne. Coiula, a Province in New-Spain.

Cold very extreame freezing men to death, 1204.6 1205 Nid winter. Collick bow cared. 1308 Colliman a precious grunne in Guiana, for fundry difeafes. 1276 Colonies in Virginia the first.

1645,1683,1684 Colonies plantaries, requireth first afaire land, and a safe barbour. 1664. Colonies in Virginiaon what conditions granted, at it

appeareth by the Patent, 1683. Colonel Bret, flain in the Partugal Voyage. Comana a townes name. 1266. Its description and climate. ibid. Coman Ibes. Inhabitants in the Indies. Commanders, how farre to trust Officers. Comorratty , a towne in the River Marwinas America. 1282 Compate vied in travelling fandie Countries. Compostella Cirie. 1428

Concoe e, azonne in America inhabited by Sanages. $283 Congo, a Region in Affrica, she King thereof: his great strength, his Christian Religion , quard, pompe, riding on Elephants, rites of State.

Conde de Andrada bie Armie.

1384

Cort trit head

Conibas lake, 1566. Neere it a fately Citie of Indians . their ornament and great fortification.

Connies of two fores in Florida, the manner how they are taken by the Indians there. Conquacus, chiefe Prince of the great people of Nanohigganier, his challenge so the English men, he is terrified by a prefent of powder and Thot. Conjuration wied of the Indians. being in difireffe for want of raine.

Conversion of sinners, a morke mevitorious, witheffe a Sparish Cap-

Content a Small Slip of Sir George Carews, fought with three great Spanish Ships of fix hundred suns a piece,

Cooligoa, a Province in Florida,

Cocunibo, 'an excellent and safe harbor in the West Indies, 1 394. The markes whereby to findest.

Cordoua-towne. Cooropan, a place ten dayes intrney from the head of the River Marrawin, 1285. Directions for the iourney betwint Marrawin, and Cooropan, ibid. Directions to Cooropan from the head of the River Sebnama. 1286 Coofhebery, a Province in Guiana: the description , pleasantneffe .

healthineffe. and commodities thereof. Corburrimore, a some of he Epuremei in the Indies. 1285 Cape Corientes. Corne how kept in Tercera, 1660 Corn-hil a place in New-England, where the Savages were wont to hide their come, 1849. Corne much encreaseth in New-England. Coro, stemme in America, 1252 The fruitfulnelle & commodities shereof. 1248 Corrall. 1116 Combination of the English forces is New-England. Complaint of a Sanage weesan for her fonnes loffe , Stalne away by Hunt an Englisbman, Copiapo a soune of Chili, in the Coquinibo, en American ponne. Corefae Iland, how fit sate, 1146 Coro, a zowne and Cafile, burnt Mi Captain. Preston, and Captains Summers Corprocipe, or the River of Toads in America. Correr a Spaniard, comefteth with Don Antonio de Mendoza. for discoveries of land , (enderly forth Francis Vilua with a Fleet of shree Ships for shat purpose. Corupeo , a firit ving to pollefo and vexe the Americans, 1213 Cainero River. Costa Ricca, a West Indian towne, copious with gold, 1419,1446 Coverouinelle the cause of the dispeopling the Indies by the Spa-Couetoufnelle is an Idoll, unto which the Spaniards have facrificed millions of Indians, 1602, Couetousneise reproved by a Sa-Aprevinciall Councell held at Lvma. Countaile vsed among the Indians, on of them. Cowab, a Mountatine,

126e

1383,1334

Countries unhealthy.

Countries very healthy,

Roe-Bucke in Brafile,

Countries unknowne, and descripti-

Cowardline Te of the Indians, 1154

Cowardlineffe of the Mafter of the Cozco, the Imperiall City of Peru,

the opinion the Inhabitants have of it, the admirable Temple of the Summe in it, rich hangings, imaces , profuse ornaments , Chappels, roofes, plates, gardens, beaves all Church-inframents in gold, their priefes , and charine fe of their Temple, 1464, 1465. Their divers Monasteries, their riches, manner in mariaces, care of Infants, 1457. Their Superstition fealts braverie falts folemn feast's for the Sunne, 1472. Their adoration, & facrifices foleunized at therifing thereof, hely fire, festi-vall eating, drunkennesse, 1473 Their footh-faying, ibid. Manner of creating Knights, and Ceremonies , 1474. Cozco, alfo deferibed, with its fituation , fortification and splendour, 1496, 1497 Crabs on the land in great abundance. 1 172.12 20:Tenor twelve forts of Crabs, 1315 Crocodiles by the Indians called Aligartos, 1228. Their description and mener of filling for them, and best, ib. His Cods are muske, ib. Crocodiles in America harmleffe, and kept tame, 1326. Crocodiles in great Sconles, 1400.

Saint Croix point, and the countrey described, 1611, & 1622 Crooroorere, a Suppay towne in the Indies.

Croffes erecledby the Spaniards in New-Spaine intoken of poffeffion,

The Crozier, a Starre neere the Pole antartick. Crokemago, a Province in Mawoofhen, neere the River Sha-

Cruelty is companion of cowardize, 1395. And feare, ibid. Requited in the Spanish Governour by the Indians, 1449. Cruelty cruelly remarded, Cuba, an Iland described, 1147.115 want of fortification , the chiefe Port Lahanana, wherein is aca-Ale of Spaniards, 1415. The length and bre dib thereof, and the Christian towner thereof named, 1529. The King, commonaltie, men, women, and sucking children, how many murdered by Spaniards.

Cueremaghas, Indians fo called, their nature, strength , courtesie, and commodities, Cueruo, one of the Azories Iles, taking its name from the multistude of Crows breeding in that place, 1939 1399 Cuighe Indian,

Cuigraio, Brasilians fo called , 1200 Cuimechi . warlike Indians that wander in drones in the mountains to focke food. China Province. 1557 Cuinquiro, a place in New Spaine, Cuifeo Province taken by the Spaniarde Culiazzon, a Nation in the Indies, Cultalculebes, Indians of Florida.

Cumberlands first Voyage discove red, 1141. The sinse when they fet forth, his hips and company, ib. His arivall at Brafile, 1142. Hee taketh four Ships from the Portingall, ibid. The kinderance of his Voyage for the South (eachis disaftrens losse of a Hulke, men, and goods, his returne to Englandibid. His fecond voyage, his acts at Sluce, the 88 fervice, his company returne, 1142 Histhird voyage ibid. His grinall at Saint Michael, and attempt there, danger by a Fift. ibid. Taketh a prize from the Spaniards, the enafion of some of his men with a small Boat , 1143. His surprizatiof Fiall atownsn Tercera ibid. His loffe of men, and danger of his person , ibid. His great want of drinke, his clemencie, and equity, ibid. The number of his prizes taken in the voyace. his returne , 1144. His fourth voyage, purchase, losse, returne for England, ibid. His fifth veyage, hindrances, defeating, retiring to London , and committing the charge to Captaine Norton, ibid. His gaines by the Portingal Carrack taken in that veyage, 1145 , 1146. His fixth voyage, purchases, sicknosse returne, ibid. The seventh verage, ibid. The eighth vorage, and the furprize of a Carrack, 1147. The ninth voyages successe, 1148. The tenth voyage, ibid. Eleventh voyage. 1149. Trelfih voyage its preparation, company, and hips, ibid. successe of his plot, 1150. Ariues at the Canaries, 1151. His care Caynaccard a Province, and covernment of his company, 1151. His discreetnesse, and guidance by reason, 1152. His proiects, ibid. His arinall at Dominica, and entertainment, ibid. His commine to Port-Ricco, 1153,

His perill at the affault of Port. Ricco, 1161. Besieging Fort-Mora, bes inflice, leveritie, and taking the fortroffe, 1162, 1162. Offers the ransoming of Port-Ricco, departesh bence, 1168. 1169. Meetes with his Fleet by Flores, 1176. His returne and danger on the coast of Northans die 1 176, His unfortunate milfing the Spanish Ships at the Azores, where bee loft forty millions. 1673. And others of fine millions, Cumana, atowne, 1186, 1248 Cumpelie, Brafilian Sanages fo called. Cunames. Indiens in New Mexico their townes, and faculties of painting described. Cunarreo fands, Curenda, a populous Indian nation in the River Parana described. their apparell ornament and commoduies. Cures wronght by prayers, Curewapori Ilands. Curiadan, a place in Trinidad, the inhabitants called Saluaves. Curiapan, a place neere Orenoque,

A Current in the Sea, under thirty troo degrees, Currents that fet East or West man breed miftake in Navigators, ibid. Other uncertaine currents, 1400.

A Current festing to the Northward in forty degrees, 1759 Curucucu, Snakes in Brafile of 14 pans long very venemous, 1304 Curupija, Indians of Brasile, Cusco, a place in the South Sea, 1416. A Citic as bigge as Rome, it hath in it a thousand Spaniards.

Customes of fishing, of wonderfull seine to the townes of Lubccke. Hamborough, and Embden, Cuftomes paid yearely to the Prince of the Indians, His meanes to get intelligence , ill Cutifa-chiqui ,a Province in Florida.

D Ainty, a Ship of Sir Richard Hawkins, fortunate in voyage for her Maiestie, unfortunate for the owners. 1160, Toshe Canaries, 1155. Dale, viz; Sir Tho: Dales arinali at Virginia, 1733. His relation of the passages there, and how the affaires food, An. 1514.p.1768, & feq. His commendation, 1770 Damarius Coue, a place neere Munhiggen , forty leagues from Plimouth in New-England, North-east-ward Dancing, distinguishing nations in the Indies. Dancing of the Virginians, 1687, 1573,1574

Dariene, a Sound in the Indies, Sir Ber. Drake, his arine at the New-found-land. Captaine Darmers fishing voyage, his coasting the shore till bee came to Viiginia, his men fall ficke, his returne to the New-found-1and his disconerie of many fruitfull Coafts, and pleasant Rivers from Hudions River to Cape Iames . 1820 The proberous fuccelleke: had in m curing a truce betweene us and the Savages : is treacherously betrayed, wounded, and fiveth to Virginia for /uccour, and there dresh. 1831 Capt. Davies voyage to the South

Sea, 1101. & leq. His loffe of Cap. Candish successe, ibid. & 1eq. Accused for treacherie, 1102 Candishes opinion of him, 1164 Daycao, a riner in Florida, 1554 Dayes of publike Thanksgiving in-Rituted in New-England, 1867 Dayes length in New-England, Dead, not lamented by fome Ind :-

an., Deaws very unhealthy to Englishmen, and Indians,

Deere worshipped by some Indians , 1479. Deere of feverall forts bringing forth two , three or foure at once, 1831. Decre good flore in New-England , and the manner of taking them, 1845. Deeres-flesh dried in the minae. food of the Indians, Dermers resolution by letter, of some passases in Virginia, 1778

1779 Description of the King of Spaines invincible Armada, De Todos los Santos, a torine in the West Indies neere the line, "

D. vill consulted with all brehe Indians of Wy poco: they call him Peyar, 1253. As alfo Watup: and blow , $274. The Brafilians cal him Curupira, Taguain, Pigtangua Machchera & Anhangalabey feare bim much, and think these foules after death are surned into Devils.

The Devils illuding wounding, and tormenting the Savages of Floridz. 1 5 16. 1 8 17. The Devill mor-Ripped by New Spaniards, shat is, in Noua Hifpania : their de-Infion by him, 1 558. Temples built for him, and an oratory made. and meat given him by them of new Mexico. . 1561

The Divell forbids Bapti me to the Indians The deuils policy in keeping the Indians poore, 1868. His triall of thole which are dedicated to him. ibid. His being worthipped by the Virginians, bis images, feare, and name of Oke, Dyals, how admired by the Virginian Savages. 1708 D.amones in Brafile 1220. In Ca-

112 4.1612.in New France.1611 Difference betweene Campe and parison Souldiers, Dirgo Flores de Valdes a Spaniard

fent with a Flort to Brafile, and the successe, 1440, 1441 Diego de Almagro, the fir! Spanifb disconerer of Chili, 1475.

The next Pedro de Maldiusa, Discoveries of divers Ilands, and Laker in Canada . 1614. 6 100. A D. scoverie of the English full of danger. Discoveries proue best. when leaft discovered, 1955 First discoveries of America the new World by English, and Sta-Dilea es very ftrange, 1191,1214,

Di order, the fore-runner of sill Suggeste in Cand flats Fleet . 1202 Diforder more weakeneth the Eng-Lift then the enemy, Difpinations touching Spanish crueltie in the Indies, 1601, 1602, Diffequebe an Indian River 1260 Dogs worflipped, 1471. Ravenous dogs, 1172. Terrible to the 1;27, 1;28 Great dogs that fight with Buls and carie ffry pound on their backern hunting, 1561 Dogs that devoure men, first taught by Spaniards, D'es that cannot harke, 1606 who beat them sometimes blacke Dolphin described, his sone to mankinde, Saint Domingo, 1146. The defoription, riches, and fortification thereof.

Dominica, 1142. The inhabitants described, wish their bruts fineffe. 1685. The inhabitants have the Spaniards, lone the English, their prefents, tradings, and commedities ibid. Want of cleathes, ornaments Canons, Marchandise and red payming, 1158. Mare copiens description of the forla. moods mountaines towne, wanten, modefrie, King , familiaritie of their maids, chaffitie, defire of cloarbes. 1158, 1159. Their commonface. State, meat, baire, defire to learne English, 1159. Distinction of maids and wines. 1150 Dominica affaulted and taken by Sir Francis Drake, 1182. Inhabised by Spaniards, the fand of the Rivers mixed with gold, great plenty of Roots, and Sugar Canes,

Don Alfonto Perez de Guzman, Commander of the Spanish Fleet

Den Antonio de Mendoza, bis Arife with Cortez, for most difcoveries, and lending forth divers by fea and land for that purpofe,

Don Diego de Pimentell, taken prisoner in Zeland, Don John of Austria defeated of his intended treachery, to get to hime selfe Mary Queene of Scots bis rife. Dos Patos, a River in America,

Don Pedro and his company taken prisoners by Sir Francis Diake,

12:8 Douer-cliff-found, on the North of Virginia, · A Done lighted on the Mafies of English Shirs,

Dragnanes, a certaine kind of Indians in Florida,

Drake-viz. Sir Francis Drakes for # discovery of the Southermost land, 1291. His treacherous viage by the Indians, 1302. His expedition with a great Fleet, $434. His riches gotten by his voyages, 1439

Sir Frat . Drekes original parentage, education, progrelle, first voyage. surprising of the towne of Nombre de Dios , 1179. His burming 200000 Duckets in Merchandize, and protestation for the South fea, 1 1 80. His circumnauigation, the opinion of his riches, ibid.

THE TABLE.

Which were leauestred to the Queen, his voyage to Domingo, company and fhip: , arises at Saint Iaro, and takes it , 1181. His commune to Dominica, and Saint Christopher. 1181. Takes Saint Domingo 1 182. And Carragenaib. Fireth two Spanish fortresfes, ibid. His returne, benefit , loffe of men, ibid. His verage at Calz. bis Fleet and Prizes, ibid. Takes a Carrack. 1183. His going for the Azores, bid. His last voyage, His fellow Commifficner, his takine Rio de la Hacha, Rancheria, Tapia, S. Morthe, and Nombre de Dios, his death, successor, and Fleets arivall at Phimouth. 1182. His difarreeing with Sir John Hawkins 1184. His comparifon with him, 1185, 1186. Hisbariall, 1245. His clemency to conquered foe.

John Drake lined 1 e moneths with the favages, 1186. His mishaps, 1440,1441. Hisfame gotten by his tourney to the West Indies, and about the World, Drano, a River neere Orenoco. Its unhealthy passage, Dreames feeming ominous, 1191 Drinke to some poison, to other bodies beneficiall, although the very same, 1173. Great drinkingmarch by the Indians, 1284 Drink made of roots great want of drink, 1364. Its quality and varietie among the Indians, 1381. Drinking esteemed by those of Peru the greatest courteste that can be offered by King, or Subjett, 1473. Strange drinking, 1519. Drinke made of Berries at the Bernudas, 1730 Drinke made of Plummes in Virginia , 1784. Scarcitie of 1143 drinke. Drowth extraordinarie in New-1866 England. Diugs in Guiana, 1276

Drunkennelle, a vice of Savages. 1189, 1473. Drunkenneile like to overshrow an English Armie, 1916

Ducks, the curiousnesse of making their nefts in the Magellanc Streights, Dudley, vie. Sir Robert Dudley his voyage, and successe to Trinigada, and the conft of Paria, &c. Duke of Medina his kindue fe to the English, 1834. His yearely tri-bare of the Fishers of Tunny . Mul-lit. and Purgos, 1837. His pre-

Anno 1488. 1895 Duke of Parma his forces in 88, El estado de Arauco, the deferterion 1901. His apparell for horfes. 1002. His vaine hope of the Crowne of England. Duke of Medina is prohibited the Fi Ca'20, the Port of Lima 1446 Court becamfe bee returned without the English Crowne, 1910 Duke of Parma's force against Eng-Hand. Capt. Du Pont his voyages into the New-found-lands A Dutchmans courtefie to the Enolift, 1261 Dutchmens treachery to the Englishmens inhabiting Virginia.

Durchmens fall-beartedneffe, 1721 And abuse of Capt, Smith , by torning to Powhatan, 1721. Their treacherie frustrateth bis attempt for the furprizall of Powhatans houfe. 1725. Their plat to kill Capt. Smith, and fruis effe iffue.1726. Their continued base treacherie, and deserved pension; one comming to a miserable and amono the English; the others bavino their braines beaten out by Savages,

T. Arle of Effex, his worthy acts, L 1017 His valorous chalenge in Portugall Voyage, 1924. His voyage to the Iles, of Azores, 1935. His trouble, travell, and arivall: Heetaketh three Spanish Earth medicinable: earth like gunme in Virginia, 1765. Earth red like terra ligillata,

Earth-quakes, 1475 Farth quakes frequent in Tercera, 1670. Aterrible Earth-quake in S, Michaels Ile, and the dreadfull effects thereof, 1678, 1679

Eale and effeminate life, enemies to ereat practices. East-India warres, dishurden the Spaniard of West India gold and Ecatepeck, Supposed the highest mountaine in the world, from the sop whereof me differend the north and South (car. 1177 Ecliples, what conceited to be by some

Americans. 1462 Echro, an Iland neere Port Ricco,

Eggs very hard; and sounding like 1306 Ekinnick, a kinde of norme that por faneth the water, paration, for the Spanish Fleet in Elephants, how taken by the Ethiopians.

thereof, the fiercenesse of the inhabitants, and their opinion of the Spaniards.

Capt. Ellis his relation of Sir Richard Hawkins bis voyage, 1416 Q. Eliz peths providence in repairing her Army Royall. 1002

Q. Eliz beth denormeed excommumcate by Pope in the her lubsects are discharged from loveling and allegennee 1 802. Her enemies abroad are disappointed traitors et home taken in their owne pu, bid. Her triumph after the deliver rance in $8.

O. Elizabeths Encomium. 1823 Q. Elizabeths martial offairs, 1181 Elizabeth-Bar.

Elizabeths Ilein Virginia, 1648 Its description, being thought fit and commodious for plantation, 1649 Atlarge, 1651, vide Ile of Elizabeth.

Elizabeth her manifold dangers, and gracious deliverances, 1800 Elizabeth Iles , inhabitants , described:their ornaments, nasure, proportion, wittinelle, courtelie, vet theeverie, 1691. The description of the climate. Embalming by the Indians . how well performed, Embailage from the Enel: hto the Maffalove, chiefe Commender of the Savarer in Pacanokick, 1851 Embrodeije exercifed emone the Savares. Emeralds of ineffiniable worst . 1410 10.16. An Emerald as lise as an Estriches Egge, and therefore was adored by the Indians, 1481. Emerald: Store,

Emeria the eastermost part of Dorado. 1436 . Enemies to bee kett in one , as the Spaniards by the Earle of Cumboiland at Port-Ricco, who though he meant not to boile their towne, yet told them not formucha Enemics taken among the Savages are commonly killed and eaten, 1217.1218

Engines in morre by the Indians performed, 1267 Englishmens discoveries of Ancrica, An English Pilots treacherie, and > adherence to the Spaniards, bbbb a Eng-

Englands gaine by Salt-fift, Toore-John, Salmonds, and Pilchards . Englishmen rather desirous to bee renowned for mercy and clemencie. then for dreadfull conquest. English miracles by Captain Smith in Virginia, fuch as the Spaniard eled in the Indies, English-Bay in the Magellane freights, the description of the in-babitants, 1288 English Captines delivered by the Duke of Medina. English Nany returneth from Azores Hes. Englith forces muftered, English gallants reprehended for their unpromidence in going to 1942 English inhabiting the River Wis-Englishmen chufing rather to truft God and the Sea, then the dentil, and the Spaniard: Englishmen frieing terrour in the Charibes, 1273. Take poffeffion of the Mountaine Gomerigo, 1278 English mens nature. 1440 Englishmen flaine in Virginia by the treacherie of the Indians, and the canfe why. 1841 Englishmens encounters in New-England, 1841 Englishmen cheat the Indian of their victuals, and turne (avase, Englishmenstbroats ent by the Por-English fugitines appointed to gine the first onset against their owne Englishmen finke the Spanish Ships, or take them. 1673, 1674 English Fleet fet forth , and successe , English returns from the pursuit of the Spaniards. English ships by their nimblenesse farre exceeding the Spanish Gal-English victory , toyned with cour-English famine and mortalitie in English fouldiers dye with drinking E. ish defire a battell with the Portingals, English forbidden to furnish the Spaniard with munition. Entingy imparted by fending a rattle,

THE TABLE. Snakes-skinne full of arrowes, 1854 Entertainment, how ftrange among the Savages of Pores , 1208, 1292. Amone Brafilians, Enuv eftyeth more in pretended, then in professed enemies. Eparigotos, enemies to the Epuremi in India. Epeoya, a great Iland in Brafile. 1241. Called by the Indians Sapeawera. Epuremi, Indians weere the River Oreneco, 1248 Equibone, a towne at the foot of Marwin in America, inhabited in the Arwaccas, and Parawagotos Savares. Eregooda, a place neere Orenoco. 1248 Escudo, an Iland, 1185 Estanca, that is, a farme place, where Lanes keepe cattle, and make Cusani bread among the Indians. 1146 Estechemins, Savages in Canada, enemies to the Irocois. 1607 Estriches tame. Eccowbo, a mountaine in America. 1114 Ecepararinge, a mountaine aboun ding with gold. Etaoca, a place in America, 1210 Etapuca, a great mountaine in A. merica. Etamatiqua, a Cape in Brafile, its fitnesse for Navigation , 12:8. And description. Etapulick, a place su the Indics, with fingular mynes of gold, Erechemins . Savages of New-France, that are theenes and treacherous. Etoica, a River in Brafile, its dangerous Navigation. 1240 Euill-peace, a towns fo named by the The Feags a strange sicknesse in the Spanards in Florida, and the reason thereof. Europa, a River that commeth into Fcare, the cause of Tyrannie, 1248 Orenoco. Example prevaileth more then pre- Feare, caufing death in the Indians, 1743 F. FAIs of water very violent and

Grange.

nift policie.

the treacherous Indians by Spa-

1552

called Mailachenicts , 1859 oneribron,

Of the Indians towards Mafter Westons men. Famine very wront in the Indies , 1214. Miserable in the Carne commercy. 1248 Famine among the French-men. 1325. Among the Dutch and Spaniards, at the River of Place, the unnaturall effetts thereof, 1 3 48. Famine among Spaniards, 1401, 1477, 1508. Among the Indians , and some few hungry Spaniards, 1517. 1518. Incredible famine , 1526, Famine and mortalitie of the English in Virginia, 2690. Famine in great extremitie, enforcing man-slaughter, and man-eating. Familing frangely escaped by Andiew Hillyard, all his fellowes perishing, 1802, 1802 araon, a somme burnt up by the Er. risfb , in their veturne from Cadiz. Fast, publikely instituted, and observed, by the English in New Englan 1, being in diffreffe for want of afts instituted in England, and Zeland, for Gods gracious deliverance in 83. ather Martin Perez, of the focietie of Icius , his relation of his travels, and description of Ginoloa . 1562 , 1563 , & leg. His baptizing many Indians, and instructing them in a knowne tonque, erc. 1564. What kinde of Christianitie hee taught them, 1564,1565 Favael, one of the Hands of the Azores, the description and taking thereof by the Earle of Cumberland, 1672. Their feare of the English Nany, Bermudas, much annoying the English, Feafts of Savages. Feathers vied for cloathes, 1212 Feuers, how eafed by plants, 1311 How gotten in hot Countries and 1370,1371 anoided. 1610 Febacco Iland, False-heartednesse how anoided in Ferdinando Gorge, his employment in the plantation of New-Scotland, Falle-heartednesse of the Savages, Captaine Fenton his expedition and Fernambuc, apers in America, 1100.1202.1428 Fernandes Gires his discovery of a Land in the fouth Sea, with the rare commodsties thereof, 1422 Fetherstons Bay in Varginia, why fo called. Figs of Brafile. Fight betweene the English and and Spaniards in Saint John Port-Ricco, 1161. Betweene English and Indians with Portingals, 1197. Fighting against a native countrie rewarded 1404 Fighting betweene two Indian nations in Peru very extreame and bloody 1458. Betweene the Englift and Spaniards in the narrew Seas, 1906. A fight betweene the English and Spaniards before Greeneling, 1 908. A fight by fea betweene the English and Spanish before Cadiza Fire burning in the woods for the Space of three dayes, 1890. Great 1145,1918 danger by fire, A Fish endangering a boat and men. 1142. Fiftes flying, 1157, 12:4 Their danger of devouring in Sea or ATTE. Fishing of New England very commodious to the plantation of Vir-Filhing how commodious, and efpecially to the Hollanders 2821 Fishing with fwords, Fishing with golden hookes, 1216 Fishing nith wood, 1241 Fish oreat fore in Guiana, 1275.01 fill with foure eyes, two abone water, and two under: a fish also with warme blood like flesh. ibid. Fith made drunke with wood, 1276 Fish like beefe in taste and proportion, 1283. It is called the Qx-filb, the description thereof at large, 1212 1314. It bath eyes which it may elefe and thus at will, armes, and hands, in his head at hath 2 stones of approved (oversignmesse for the Hene in the body. A Fish that (norteth, and thereby is apprehended, ibid. A fish that hath two broad Genes in his mouth ibid, fish good against the poison of a Snake, and very wholesome. 1312. Fish that maketh the holders bands benummed, or Making as one that hath the pallie: Fish that maketh all that touch it to flicke fast varo it : Fishes like men and women , their fearfulness so the Indians, their manner of water, and enadeth the Fisher Fish that prones aremedy for the Spleene : a Fish that easts bis much, fell and feet, 1314, 1315 & feq. A Fish with fingers, and vitaring a fqueaking found, 1231 Fifth to plentifull that it may bee kild in the water with clubs, 1 549 Fishes that have voices like Owles. 1620. Good filling.

1803 Flatterers, base kind of people, 1957 A Flemmish Ship burne at the fight before Cadiz. Flores, aplace in the Azores, 1144 The description thereof, 1175,

Florida possessed by the Spaniards. 1 cos. The inhabitants many of them tall of stature, and expert erchers, 1503. The towner and inhabitants thereof variously described, 1503,1504. & feq. Florida hash gold and pretious fromes on the fea coast, 1554. The di-Stance of Suidry places one from the other, necessary for transellers, 1556.Loss of inhabitants in Florida by Spanish cruelty, 1589. The great age of some men there, 1 604. They line in the woods 3 months in the yeare, upon bunting, 1604. Englishmen the first difconcrers of Florida, 1813 Flutes made of Reedes, 1687 Fluxes stared by fraits, as Guianas Papaias, and wild Grapes, 1172. by a berry, 1276, 1308, by a plant

Fooles-coat, a linery of the Spanish Inquisition, Foreits travelled by compasse,

Fort Mora summond, befreged, and taken by the Lord of Cumberland, 1163,1164. The Brength and danger of passage for ships by it,

Fort St. Iohn of the Spaniards in Florida. Fortilezi, a towne in Port-Ricco, 1164

Fountaines of pitchy fubiliance very hot chat (crue to calke Ships with-A Fountaine that turneth wood in-Fox-Iland, on the north of Virginia,

Francis Bouadilla chiefe Marshall of the Fleet in 88 feat for England, killing men : Fish that dyes the Francisco de Zeres his relation of the consuell of Peru and Culco. called New Caffele, 1491.& fequ. Francisco Pisarro a Spaniard bis discourt of Peru and Successe. -$444.1451, $418,1480 4400. 1491,1404,1403,1494. g S. Francis a river in America. 12 12 A some share mich Chimbery.

1640

Firs-Morrice flaine in Ireland.

Franciscan Fryers of great efficience in the West Indies. French-Bay in New France, French Pos cared with Saffafras, 1673 . French nauigations to the north America, $600. Their diferent of Cape François, the River M.V. taking possession there, and disconering eight riners more, their diffention and overthrow, Towl. French famine on the Seas their milerable difireffed fearcity in Florida, muriny, and eafeby, Sir John Hawkins, 1604 Franchmen remove their plantation from St. Croix to Port Royall, 1626. Frenchmen feite themfelnes within the limits of the English in the Newfound-Land, though to their (mall advantage, 1813. Frenchmes courtefe to the Enslift nation, 18:4. Frenchmens conetousnesse, and their infams in that resard, 1638. Frenchmens mutiny against their Cuptaine, discourred and revenged, 1514. Frenchmen bastize Indians. 1644. French yearely repaire to the New-found Land for Traineoyle, 1884. French Kings wengs to England 1891, French Ambastador plotteth with Moody about the death of Querne Bizabeth, 1893. Frenchmen dif-

Risbop, Deane, and University of

Somerds

Spaines Armada, Fresh-water-springs in the Newfound Land. Fiver Marco de Niza accompanied with dissers other their voyage into New Mexico, and the adjoyning coults and lands 1560,7561 & leg. Fryers that flowed were charity to the Indians then Sine mariners of our English nation.

planted from Virginia by Captain

Argall, 1808, 1209. Frenchmen feife on part of the King of Captaine Frobisher his galances and prosperous conflic with the Spansh Armada in 88, and re-

Int, and natural fortification, Bunerals among the Indians of Wia-21320000 Eures very good bought for knines,

Tanes rich and meetek of any thing

Fyall or Fayall, a towne in the Azo-100 the fertilitie, beene Je dweltings, and taking thereof by the Lord of Cumberland, 1143

Aboretho, an Indiantowne, Gachepe, a high land neere the enwence mustbe river Canada. 1606. The description and big-. weffe thereof, 1616 Galliaces in mumber 4 in the fleet in 88, under the command of Dom Vgo de Moncada, 1900, They are described. Gallies, and their power in fighting,

1183. Gallies of Anda luzia feife on a Barke of Plimouth, Gallions comming to the West Indies were cast away on the Ile .1 Guaddopa, 1822. Galleons of the Fleet in 88 described, 1901. A Gallion barnt in the Portingall voyage. Games ofed among the Mallafoyes, Garcilla(co de la Voga, his relation of the ancient Kings, and Lawes of Peru before the Spanish conquest, Gardens of Gold, 1454, &1 cq. 1465,1466 Garone ariser in Florida, 1603 Gates, viz. Sir Thomas Gates his arinall in Virginia. Gates his Bay in the Bermudas, 1739. Sir Thomas Gates wrack and redemption on the Il.ind Bermudas largely related, 1734, & seq. His endurance of a grienous florme, 1734, 1735, 1736. Ari. wall at the Iland, 1737. His care jor the Virginian Colonie, fending Rauens there, and care and toyle to furnish Pinaces for a voyage, 1 742, 1743. His punishment and cie against him, 1743. His crosses by a fecond musiny, 1744. By a third, ibid. His punishing of a fuctions fellow, 1749. His Letters to Sir George Summers, containing his defire of furthering a Plantation. and reclaiming the factions, 1745, 1746. His religiom orders in Bernudas, 1746. and possessing it for the King of Gilbert-point, on the coeft of the Englands, with good rites and seremonies, ibid, 1747. His fettine fayle for Virginia, and arimelcome ibid. His affuming the Presidenty there, 1749. His speech to the distressed Company, with its acceptation, 1749. bis proposing orders to the Colony, 1749. His aliotting times of labour, 1750. Purpose to leave the Country, 1781. Relianing the Presidency, 1784 unto the Lord Dela Ware, ibid. His returns for England, 1756. His testimonie under cathof the State of Firoinia. 1757,1758 Gawarba, the north west point of

Port-Ricco, somewhat dangerous for nanigation, A Generall Bould bee couragious in fight, and courteons in victorie,

The Generals authority among the Spaniards, Geneue: a Riner. Gentlemen, in what manner made knowne and flyled among the Bra-Sir George Carew ois valour in Gnats, the voyage to the Azores Iles, 1840 | Goayar River, Mafter George Percies relation of the lanth colony of Virginia, 168; eticqu. Heis Deputy Gonernor in the absence of the Lord De la 1763

Mafter George Thorne too courteous to the Sanage-Tirginians, ernelly repaid. 1780 Saint George, one of the Hunds of the Azores, the Stuation and de-Scription thereof, 5. Geo ge, one of the Berniudas or Sommer Hands, 1794

George Fenner, his valorous encounter with the Spanish Armada Gold (which is frange) very much 1006

Georges Foit, a plentation neere the river Sagadoc in Mawoo-1874 Giboya, a great land Snake without poyson, in Brasile, Gilbert, viz. Sir Humfrey Gilbert pardon of musicies, and confpira- his arine at the New-found land, Goldin no valer, 1882. Loft one of his Ships at the Hesof Canady, and returning for England was overwhelmed in the Captaine Bartholmew Gilbert bis voyage to Virginia, with the occurrents therein, 1656. 1657. et leg. He is flame and foure men more by the Indians. 16.8

New found Lands: Ginge a towne of Sanages in the In-nall there; 1748. His miserable Ginoloa, an Indian Province, the description and situation thereof. 1563. The fruitfulnelle thereof. commodities, inhabitants, and their workmanship and apparell. their long haire, tall flature, orest valour, and weapons, 1563, 1564 readineffe in them to heave the Gospell, their Baptisme, and Cato bifme, Subjection to the Denill. and familiarity with him, their honses, incennity, and adoration of Caftles, with Matt, and conerings of Reeds, 1564. Their formes of mariages, and Polygamy, education of children, fashions in making Knights adopting somes, manner of barralls. ibid et 1565 Ginger plentifull in Port-Ricco.

> Ginger how it orometh, 1178 Gironde, ariner of Florida, difcowered by the French. Glaffes fold deare. Guamanga, a City inthe fouth fea, 60 leagues from Lina, 1416 1359

1248 God acknowledged by the Ethiopians, and called Cari-pongoa, 1233. by the Brafilians Tupan,

Godwin-fands, Gomeribo, a monntaine in Guiana very fruitfull possessed by the Englift 1278. delimery thereof to an Indian as tenant to the King of England, 1672 Gomora, one of the Canary Hands,

Iohn Goodmans voyage and di-Broffein New England, 1848 difprsifed, 1814, 1815. Gold in Post-Ricco, 1165, 1170. in Topimo,

Gold-getters shall have many corri-Goldready tried of great valen in the Rivers of Port-Ricco, 1170 1185

THE TABLE.

Gold among the Topinaques, 1229 among the Pories, fore, 1229. Gold, 1230, 1231 1232, 1358. In Affrica, 12:7. The marmer of purifying it in the Indies, 12A2. and plenty there, ibid. Gold in Guiana how, and how pure, 1249 1261. Gold in fbem, 1255, in the Riner Aracow, 1262. Gold how greedily defired, 1277. Gold fore in the mountaine Oraddo, and plaine of Mumpara, 1284. Gold gathered two waves, 1294. Plenty of gold, ibid. Gold pro-cureth trechery, 1415. Gold great store, 1419. Gold Bipped from Cartagena for the Spaniard euery yeare how much, 1420 Gold is not alwaies the oreatest elenation of the Country where st is,

A Gold-defirer how ferned by the Indians, 1391. The defire of gold mak th [bristians infamous among Pagans, 1449. Gold called by them the Christians god, 1443 Gold net valued. 1526 Golden Country,

A golden chain of incredible weight and bigneffe, 1480. Infinite fore of gold in Per., 1490. 1491, 1494. Agold-wedge, the greatell that ever was naturally found, lost in the Sea, Goinols voyage to Virginia, their resolution to plant, and breaking off againe, 1647,et (q.

Goinols hope, Gotier & his connerting the Indians after the Spanish fusion, 1449 Gouernment necessary by Land or

Sea, Gouernours-Iland, a little Iland neere Port Ricco, abounding with Store of Pigeons, Cap. Gourgues as renchmans navigation into Florida, his renenge on the Spania ds, for the wrongs his Countrimen (uft inedty them, 1604.1605 Grampus, a Bay in New England to called by reason of the multitude of Grampules found in that place all kand of hearber, roots, and trees, and a very fertile foile, 1846,

Granada, a new Kingdome of the Spaniaras in America, the plenty of gold, chiefe City, and fenerall Proninces therof, 1410. Extream desolation an these of inhabitants by the Sauace tor ures and cruelties of the Spaniards, 1591,1592 Guayanaguacu, cane. inhabiting Sa-- 1593,1594,1595 | wages,

Granata Iles, Grand Bay a Harbour on the north Grapes good against the flux, 1172, Graffe wanting in a blacke champlon country of the Indies, Gratiola, one of the Iles of the Azo- Gurracayo, inhabitants of part of res, 1671. It Submitteth it felfe to the English Admirall. 1960 Graitaca-Indiane. Gregory 13. his rage against Q. El zabeth.

1891 Greedinelle a dangerous enemy, Guadianilla, ariner in Port-Ricco, 11 c2,139 z. Greedinelle tofeth his prey, 1964. Greedinelle of Guaire Brafile Indians. 1200 the Virginian Colony, 1751 Sir R. chard G cenuile Generall of Gulgaifi, Indians neere the riner of Virginia, his voyage and acts, the Spanish Armadoes, 1061 Sir R chard Greenuites fight with the too unequal Spanish Fleet his stout resistance, and great presuhim, his taking and death, with his Encomium, Guamimbique . france [mall birds chadas some thinke of bubbles of ! Guacapo, drinke made of the coorhet fpices, in the Indies. 1174 Guacoya, a torme in Florida neere the river Rio grand, the inhabitaxts and commodities thereof,

Guada'canal, one of the Iles of Salo-Guadalupa-Ile, wherein is a Bathe so hot, that meat may bee seethed Guyrig Brasilians, Guiahate, a towne in Florida, well peopled, and plentifull with Maiz Guaiacatu , Sanages of Brafile,

Guaiscones-Indians. 1510 Gualda a ftrange Spring in Terce a, 1670

Guaniguanico, IO? Guarionix, a Realme in Hit aniola, the King pittifully abisfed by Spaniards, Guanes, a fruit in S. Lucia which enten ripe (ets a man a scouring, but greene, stayes from scouring. Guatatlan, a pronince in IVem Spain

1299

1186 Guayo, Brafilion Intains, Sti 209 Grande, a river in Florida, 1503 Gu vavag pl a suet with & Mands in the mouth: 1100 1446 of the New found Land, 1882 Gualco, a Pronince in Florida.

Gapes in New France, 1612 Guatimala, a Province in America dispeopled by Spanish truelty.

> Brasile, 1300 Guatalca, a principall Port Towne,

Mariners a maine preindice to Guirapanga, a bird that makes a found as hard as a Bell. $ 106 Plate their description : 1350 1647. bis desperatenesse against Gumins of rare operation for frind ? diseases in Gayana. A Gunners carele neffe, Gunpewder fonne by Sanares.

dice the Spaniards Suffained by Guacouolica, aplaterich with filter Mynes, Guits on the West Indian Boures.

in Brafile, of admired colour hat- John Guy his Letter from the New found Land, 1305 Guyanio, a great mountaine in Po t

Ricco. fest Sugar called Molatics, and Gayauas, a little excellent fruit as big as a Peach, with little 'eeds in them lake Goofberies.

It is good against the flax, 1172 Guyana, a river in Am rica, not that of Sir Walte Raieighs, the flore of Cattell, Sugar-mills commodities, and inbabitants thereof.

1228

Guarda Tomalongano, a riser in Affrica.

Guyana, 1247, & feg. Therwers and countries adsorning, 1:49. The bounds and limits, 1 270. Riuers and l'rouinces . 1271, 1272. the government thereof, instice, iealoufie, marieges, ibid. Their divers languages, ancient inhabitants Caribes, 1272. Artillerie, orderinthe warres, 1272, 1273. Policy Seasons, acrompts of time by the Aloone, religion, rites at burying Captaines, 1273, 1274. Their drankenne (c, opinion of the dead, Priefts and conference with the Devill, 1174. The quality of the Climat, 1274. their promision, bread drinke honey poffeility of vines, beafts, fish. fowle, fruits, 1174,1275. Its commodities of Merchandise, as Sugar-canes, cotton-wooll, wood for dyers of elosh. 1275. Sweet gums very precious in Physicke and Chirmgery, drugs, medscinall plants, strange wood Tobacco, 1276, 1277. The things these Indians most desire to trade for, ibid. 1277. hopes of Guvaxule-Pronince. Guyraupiaguara, a great land facke that south as fail on tops of trees as a man on the ground, 1303 Guyranhe eng eta, an excellent speaking Bird in Brafile. Giants Anatomy fent from China to the King of Spaine, of wondrom greatneffe, Gyants at Port-Defire, their length, bique (e, flinging-flones, 1232 Gvants at Brafile, 1 243.0f twelne for height, ibid. Gyants in Peru. of whom one eases as much as fifty men, TAberebin , a Plaine in the West Indies betweene Marwin and Coorepan, Marbours in Virginia verie fafe and admirable, Harbour of Pentecost, its de-(cription, and commendation, preferred before the riner O enoco. and others, 1664. Its senerall beneficiall matters of worth largely. 1665, 1666 Harbour of Frenchmen, called by the Indians Aiurema Piafaue in Brasile,it : passage for nanigators, Capt. Mich. Harcourt, his taking possession of Arrawary. 1278 Capt. Harcourts voyage 1267, & feq. His company, and departing from Dartmouth, 1267. His ariwall at the Canaries, and from thence to Wiapoco, and Guiana, 1267, 1268. commeth to Garipo, connerfeth with the Indians. 1268,1260 agreeth and relideth with them, 1270 taketh polleffion of the mountaine Gomerico, 1278 The loffe of his voyage 1279, leameth Guiana, 1281. Resurneth bome, his small losses of men by the ibid. & 1282 Harris, one that blew off his nofe in frofty weather, at the Straits of Magellanc, Hadarinner atown of Suppay-Sauages in the Indies. Halle at big as Fran ges,

H.

Haire as big as a mans finger, Halo, the circle Gen about the Moon very strange and large in the Barmudas Ilands. Hamaca-beds. Hamburgers Ships surprised by the English. Han, a Language of the Indians in Florida. Hanamob. a towne of the Arwac-Samages in the Indies. Haps hill in Virginia, Hapaluia, a great Floridan towne. and its commodities. Harbouring in enemies ports is verie denocrous. 1378 Hardoo an Arwacea towne in the West Indies. Hatuncolla, Pancarcolla, Indians that have diners fables of their Originall; they worship a Ramme, and facrifice unto him, 1461 Hawkins Mayden-land, 1384 Sir Iohn Hawkins his courtefie to the French, 1604, St. Joh, Hawkins voyage, 1177. His courtefie to the Spaniards repayd with trechery, ibids& feg. his missortune, 1179. Death, 1182. A comparing of him with St. Fran . Drake 1185.1186

Mafter Will. Hawkins men perfidsouffy flaine at Playa, Sie Richard Hawkins bis vorage, 1367, & leq. His comming to the Canaries, Ilands of Cape Verde, the West Indies, and accidents there en by the way, bid at large: the overthrow of his voyage, 1282 His comming to the Straits of Magellane, 1384. the danger of his hip upon a rocke there, 1388. their strange delinerance againe from (hipmracke, 1289. His commino into the Straits of Magellane, 1391. His taking five fisps, 1393. His fighting with the Spanish Armeda, his dangerous wounds, 1403, 1404, 1405, 1406 The successe and accidents of this fight at large, ibid. & 1407. 1408. His surrendring the Ship, 1410. His courteous vilage by the Spanish General, 1413.et leq. Imprisonment, &c. 1419. hisre-Spect with the Spaniards, 1417 Hauana, where fituate. 1242, 1501 Hay, a beaft in Brafile feeding on Hivara, a beaft in Brafile like a Ciarre and leanes of trees, 1243 Head-ache cured by a leafe, 1276 Herbes very medicinable in Brafile, their names and qualities, 1310.

st feq. Herbes good againft the poyfon of Snakes, against the stone. but burtfull to feners; others good for feners, with leanes of a faddome long, for vicers and the Poxe, for the stone, and liner, ibid. Good herbes againft the ague, for a purge, for the bloody-fluxe, for poylon, for feuers, for the wormer, for a momanife fluxe, for wounds, for old fores, for the cough and rheumes, for the scale, for abortion, 1311. An herbe that openeth or shutteth with the Sume, that is sensible, that hath no smell. Herbe that feemeth to have the fense of feeling, 1174 Heardimen of Port-Ricco, their thankefulneffe to Mafter Chalons for giving them a poore Frier

Heaven refused by some Indians, and Heaven enery with the English po-

S. Helena a Spanish garison towns in Florida. Henrico, a towne in Virginia, the description and lituation thereof.

Henry Earle of Northemberland murthereth himselfe, being committed for treason, Highney, a realme in Hispanicla. the Queen and inhabit ants burnt. hanged, terne in pieces, or otherwife tortured by the Spaniards.

Andrew Hilliard his strange and miraculous preservation from familing, 1802. His fustenance for eleven dives on his fell, and a (poonfull or two of water, with a little blood. ibider 1803 Hills-hap, a place so named in the North part of Virginia, 1646 Three Hils, markes of Namigators on the coast of Brafile, called by the Indians, Aquare, Wafon, Remitum, Hills worsh pped by some Indians,

A Brance Hill in Saint Michael an Hand of the Azores, wanting fire, and the Ayre cold, yet having hot fountaines neere it, 1243. A (moakie fiery Hill in Fuego, met-Cat, that eateth nothing but Hispania Noua described, the inhabisants, riches, and commodities thereof, 1432, 1433. Disconeries of divers Provinces thereabout, with their names, 1556, 1557. & Seq. The time when a first it was begunne to be inhabited by the Spaniards, 1977. The fertilitie thereof, bid. The cruelty committed by them on the poore Indians.

Hispaniola described, 1146. Inbabited onely by Spaniards without one naturall , 1419. The number of inhabitants confumed by the drowning , roafting, paunching, Grangling, and other unknowne butchering of the Spanards , 1570. 6 leq. Hispaniola hath eventy fine thousand Rivers plenseous with gold, the Realmes thereof . $571, 1572. The innocencie of the Inhabitants, and undeserved Spanish tortures, 1572

Hobbamoqui, a Power wor foisped of the Indians of New-England, the same which wee call Divell, 1867. His illufion, wherewith hee deceivesh that blind and superstitions people, 1867, 1868. His appearing to the Indians in fundry shapes, but usually in the forme of a Snake.

Captaine Hobson his voyage being directed by two Indians, the treacherie of his Indians, and bis returne with the loffe of the whole adventure, 1828, Hollanders trade in Hudions River, 1830. Their yearely revenues by the commodities of fishing, the number of their fishing bonts; their industrie in providing Ships,

Hollanders and Spaniards enmitie each to the other is implacable,

Honduras a Bay. Honestie of certaine Indians, in restoring such things as they found in the woods, Honey, aboundance thereof in certaine Trees. Honour preferred before life, 1944 Stephen Horkins a factious fellow condemned, yet pardoned for mutiny in Bermudas, 1744 Horrura, amountaine, 1285 Hories cast ouer-board, 1910 Horfes all trotters, 1171 Hories shooed with gold, 1490 Horics eaten, 1504

lo. Hortops relation of

edven-

tures. Hofpitalitie of the Indians to tramellers. Hospitalitie among Savages, 1188, Hot-countries agree not with idelers, Houses of two Bow-shot in Lingth, 1188. Houses on tops of trees, 128c. Houles without roofes, in Regions without Raine, 1 420. Houses of great men, how di-stinguished from those of inferiour ranke, among the Florida-Americans, Houses of the Savages in New-England, the manner of their building, and description of their boulbold Auffe. Lord Howard . Admirall of her

Maiesties Fleet to surprise the Indian Fleet, 1144. His valorous conflicts with the Spanish Armada. Huamachucu, Indians neere Peru,

that wor ship party-coloured stones and facrifice mans flesh, conquered, and reformed by the Emperour of Peru. Hunapampa , Indians that goenaked, worsbipping birds, beafts, or Huana Cupac, sometimes an Emperour in Peru, his worth, valour, conquest, enlargement of his Dominions , his subdued nations, clemencie, courtesie to women. 1480, 1481. Further conaucits, and atts, his dicreet conjecture of a power supremer then the Sunne, 1481. His feare, will and prophesie of the Spanish invasion, his death, 1482,

Hubates, a well-peopled Province,

Hugo de Moncada, flaine by the English in the narrow feas, 1908 An Hulke with nine tunne of gold, 1222. Threescore Hulkes laden with provision for Spaine, taken by the English. Humanitie among Savages of Flotida, to the diffressed Spaniards,

Hungry fare of the Savares snhabiring New-England, 1852 Hunt, a worthleffe fellow of the English Nation, his cruetty and treacherous vlage of the Savaces to the great disadvantage of many of our countrey-men, 1828

Hunting, how bandformely performed by the Indians in Florida. Fiunting the wilde Boars , how otchiened by the English at the Bermudas. Huntly wasteth the esternies in the Portugall vorage.

S Aint lago, a towne taken by Sir Francis Drake, and other Englift, 1181. The fruits forsification, commodities, and inhabitants thereof. 1271, 1420 laguacini beafts that are killed by their fleepinesse. * lacus Indians, their defire of Reli-Iamaica, the situation and descriptionthereof, 1147, 1185; 1419. poffeffed by the Spaniards; out of which were flaughtered by them fixe hundred thousand quittlesse Soules without faith or Sacra-I anies Ilands, 1270, The commodities thereof. ames town in Virginia, how firmate, 1692. The first founding thereof, 1707. The burning and repairing thereof, 1710, 1711. The chandoning, and re-affurning thereof by the English, 173 1. The description on, fituation, fortification, temple, building, and webealthmelle thereof, 1952,1753 langathus, things made of Canes.

and tyed together with Miths , in Read of boats, querequete . A tombe neere Saine Sebastian, 1211, 1212. The Inbabitants thereof. aquerealick, an American River, 1223. In what manner nausgable. laquetyus, a Tree growing in the mountaines in America, 1214 laques Carters navigations to Newtound-land . Bird-Iland, 1605

arraraca, venemons Serpents in Brafile whereof there bee fours kinds there mentioned, 1303.1104 Iararaques, Serpents that ofe the water among ft the Indians, 1211 Iawayri, a River in America iffuing from Potolin a mountain in Peru.

Iawayrippo, a towne in the West-1268,1212 Iberacua, a Snake whose wehement poison maketh the burt persons blood distributions hall the passages of his body, Ibiboca. cccè

Ibiboca, a Snake very faire to looke on, and of most veloement poyson, but very plentifull in Brasile,

Ico-mountaines of eight leagues,
1606. Ices of the NewfoundLand, how casted, Idolatry how casted among the Indians, 1558 Idols fold to the Indians by Spania ards. 1883

Icalousie of Sanages, 1662,1272 Ienero, ariner neere the Line in the Weff Indies, 1190. the description thereof, 1240. three hundred houses on it, its description,

Ieperos, Indian: fo called, 1361
Icronimo-riuer, 1386
Ierome Benzoes relation of the new World, 1448.& (eq. Ieliuts Colledge at Samos, 1203.

Ichius Colledge at Sames, 1203.
Ichius Frands to Sanges, 1243.
Ichius bring up the children of the Brafilians, 1232. are great effection comon them, 1298.
Ichius altis the Indies, 1564, 1365. Ichius exploits and transls, either for denotion we ambition, 1309, there pride, thickness, 1309, there pride, the lawates and the same of Florida.

Itha grande, a plate neere Brafile,

Ilands on the North of Virginia, their description and commodities for fish and falt. 1654 Iles of Salomon, their discovery and description, 1447 lle Mallado in Florida, 1508. the inhabitants, description, and commodifiest extreame mourning for children, and the needed of age, their burials, and mariagerites, their Phissicins, their hinses, beds.

forts, manner of curing the ficke, 1508,1509 Hes of Saim Peter, 7 neere Canada Hes of Saim Paul, 5 2606 Hand of Pearles in the South Sea, 1180.

He Francisco, 1180.1411
Faire Hand, 1384
Hand of Cockles. 1439
Hand of Birds innumerable, 1605
He of the Hare in the River Sagemay, 1610
He of Filbeards, ibid.
He of Orleans in Canada, necessary profest with democrous stats and foods, in description. F611
Tobry Wands full of Wantus meere

1612

Canada,

Ite of Saint Eloy, the fertility of the softe adsopting, simelf to be planted, 1611,1612 lles neere the Sault, or fall of Canada, description, various fertility of feedit, trees, and smits, 1613. Ile Percec in Canada, Ile de Bonadventure, ils.

Ile d'S. Croix in New France, its description and fertility in dissert kinds, 1622. its three discommodities that hinder good wintering in it, 1623, an Iland of Vines thereabout, 1633. lies very commodians and has borous, 1884. Iland-woyage wader the Earle of Effect, 1935, & feq. Illas de Lobos, defart llands in the Indies abomding with Seales,

1400
Illas de los Galapagos , defart Ilards and fraitlesse, 1400
Ile of Elizabeth, the Trees, Fowles, Beastis, Fruits, Fisher, Snakes, Colones, Astetals, and Stones, thereof described, 1651, 1652,

Image of our Lady at Mexico, 2178 Images of gold among the Indians,

1185
Imperiall, a City of Spaniards, the inhabitants familhs, 1477
Inca Roca, a Pernan Emperour, his alls and conquests, repairing Schooles for prossiciency in Arts, his death and successor. 1447

Incas, the name of the Emperours of Peru before the Spanish inuafion, 1458, their Sacrifices to the Sunne, their ceremonies, conceit of sicknesses, idolatry, Priests, Momasterses, dissission of Empires tythings, tything-men, officers, education of children, their Indges, and manner of deciding of controversies, Connsellors of Warre, Prinie Conneellors, and presended connersion of their neighbours, 1461, their Altrolorie, opinion of Ecliples, Thunder, and Rainbow, their Dreames, Geometry, Chorography, Arithmeticke, Musicke, Poetry, Commedies, Handicraft/men, 1462, 1463. The Incas, their Monasteries, and pretions golden ornaments, their life, challity, and emplayment, 1466, their manner of sharing of tillage, care of widowes and fouldiers tributes freedomes . mant of Beogars, Innes holpitals. treasuries, courses after victories, 1469, 1470. Inpendions riches and power of their Princesh bonger, and admired fingerflairy of gold on their emments, officers, bursting, and Poftes, 1470, 1471; the Incas morres their come Sifers, 1470, their should be supported from their comes for their comes, there is the support of their stands, bassifument, trecherous, company, and final extripation by the Spannard final extripation by the Spannard 1489, 1489, 1489.

Indians killing themselnes because they would not ferme the Spani. ards, 1419. A Brazasem of their against the Spaniards, $442. 1447. Indians how deale with by the Spaniards, 1448. their aberfing all Christians for their fake, 1449 their magnatimity, and feare of horses, 1449, their diferees reproofe of unchristians Christians, 1450, and opinion of them, their name for them, the promulgation of their liberty. 1453, 1494. Indians wor hipting high mountaines 1450. Indians that worthin the lea because it yeelds them fift, and the Whale because of his greatmesse, 1471. Indian policy and overthrow of the Spaniards, 1476. Indian victories , 1477. their valour and dexterity in armes, ibid. Indians names beyond Moreshego, 1280. Indian nations and languages almost innumerable in Florida, 1421. Indian superstition, 1522. Indians countries dispeopled by the Spaniards, the feare they beare toward them, they are fooner reclaimed by lone then cruelty. 1525. Indians laz y life, 1154 Indian Sodomy, 1010 West Indians described, 1158. Camball-Indians afraid to eate A man, left he should have the Pox, 1177 Indians at leaft thirtie thousand staine and captimed by the Portingals at one time,

An Indians courage vad (Prifitan desire at bir death, 1219.
Indian, a Fish in the Sea, and Fore in the wood, 1243
Indians arvillery, 1261
Indians manner of punishing mentither and adulterie, their selousse of their wines, 1273
Policie on their marret, 1273
Indians anyding the sight of Christians, and other Indians,

Indians

Indians with rough skinnes like buffe, 1280. Names of Indian Rivers, 1281. et 1182. names of Nations, 1280 ct 1282. Indians how bruitifuly and trecherously dealt mithall by the Camball Portingals, chusing rather to flye to the mercy of their fleshdenouring enemies, then there Christian Ansichristian Sauares 1 322. Their fruitleffe baptilmeby the Portingali, 1 222 the Indians religion of Brafile, or rather irrelipion, the feare they have of the Denill, 1226, 1237. their folomn allembly, linging, 1227, & lequ. dancing, ibid. Ceremonics, super-Rition, idslatrie, ibid. Indian valour, 1295. Indians worfe then flanes to the Spaniards, 1398.Indians vouernment, disposition, and fate in generall, $421. Indians valour, 1 447. and simplicity in matters of knowledge and religion, ibid Indians in New Engof hunting the beaft called Moile. 1832. Indians of Dominica taught to drive their Caneas with fayles, 1823. Indians fore terrified at the light of some Englishmen, 1843. Indians drinking enely at the Spring head, 1852. their feare of the English , upon report that they kept the plague buried in a store kouse permitting it to infect as it pleased them. 1855 they buy mens lives for Bekers skins, ibid. Indians of Mattachieft, their kinde vlage of the English, 18:8. Indians of Manomet much given to gaming, will play for the skin on their wines backes, 1859, their toyfull receiming some religious precepts, 1862 Indians in Port-Royall, their courtele in acting provision for the French Plantation, 1623. Indians oration and eloquence, courtesic, noblenesse, liberality upon mbat termes, $632. Indians of the Northerne America, their playing & musicke their customes in curing wounds, their simplicity and ignorance, yet (subtility, threewifenesse, and traiterou/nesse, 1634. they must not bec depended on, but (wayed with fenerity. ibid. an Indian womans prefent ibid. the Indians disapproofe of garments, ibid. Indians of diners Imgrages, not understanding one another in New France . 16:5. Indians how they may best be terrified, 1635. you must not express any (courity, but alwayes feeme to be marie, resolute, and prepared for them, 1635. Indians of New France their marfare, $6:8. Indian Southsaying, and supposed trechery, 1639. Indians lone to their children, ibid, they are preferred before (hristians, ibid. Indians weepe at the departure of the French from their coals. 1640. Indians christned in New France by the Frenchmen, 1644. Indian battaile, victory, and the consequents thereof, ibid. Indians of Virginia, their france apparell, and other description. 1644 Their great delight in musicke, dances, sceapons, ornamenss, boats, gardens. &c. 1655 trechery, and discovery, 1656. Indians disposicion and trechery, ceremonies, idolutrie, women , and their nature, their ornaments, 1662, 1662. & feq. Indian Virginian words of language weed amongst them, 1667. Indians in Virginia creeping upon all foure, with their bowes in their mouthes, desperate and hara 1686, their women and maids habit, and other cu-Gomes, 1680. An Indian 160 years old with a long white beard very lufty which is even e wonder amonest them, 1680. Indians Subtility and rebellion to the Staniards in Florids, their Accepter by them, after flauerie, 1533, 1 = 2 A. their murder by the Spani & feruitirie, 1535. an Indian Lady that swaid a Nation of them in Florida, the commodities of her country, and the courtefie fice showed the Spaniards, 1537, 1538. an Indian burned, ibid. another christned by the Spaniards . 1e:8. Indian firatagem as sinft the Spanisrds, 1944 their Sudden Slaughter, and endangered vimolt overthrow of them, 1545. Indians paint themselves with terrible colour, to fivike terror in their adaerfaries, 1546, their trecherie, bid. Indian eloquence, 1550. an Indians valinat and wittie answer to an imperious Spaniard, 1552. Indians ridiculous custome at the death of their Catique, 1552. Indians how they are wont to expresse obedience to Some of their superiors in Florida 1553. An Indian throwne to the does by a Spaniard, 1554 Indians conspiracy against the Spamads in Florida disconcred, the attor; greelly deale with all having their right hands cut off. sees. An Indian burnt for herefie, and conferracy by a Spanish Indre in New Spaine 1557 Indian idelatry and worship of the Denill. 1558. they must bee brought to Christianity by feare, as faith a Spanis Freacher, I sen, Indian bypocrifie, 1558. linea vltima. Indians fo couragions and valiant, that armed most with poore clubs, they contest branely with strongly wmed Spaniards on horse backe, 1558. Indians worthinping plants and birds, and finging Congs wato them : and that facrifice one mean yearely to a painted Serpent, which the facrificed man tak th patiently, 1360. Indian embroidery, 1560. Indian mane of Malle and instruction Minis fers, 1563. Indians capable of veligion, and their baptisme and instruction, 1 = 64 Indian fecrete Smothered by Spaniards lest they foould come to light with their defadnantage, 1567. Indies difebmered by the Spaniards, Anno 1492, the first Land inhabited the He of H fpaniols, 1560. The nature of the Indians in generall thereabout their simplicity, patience, mecheneffe, impocency, inge-nuitie, and tender breeding, 1569. Three Millions of Indians perils by the Spaniards in Hilpaniola. fine hundred thousand in the Lacayos, in all thereabout twelve or fifteene Millions, 1569, 1570 Indians to the number of a Mila lion flaine and confumed by them in John and lamaica Hands. 1573. Indians (appole Golden be the Spaniards God, 1573 Indians refule heaven, fewing to meet the Spaniards there, 1574. Indians how many in the Ile Guba denoused by Spaniards, 1574. Indians defirered by Scamards in Terra Firma, and their multitule, 1575, 1526. Indians in Nicaragina contumed by the Spaniards fine bundred thouland. 1577. Indians in New Spaine. and its fewerall Provinces, denonred by the Spaniards to two er three Millians, 1577, 1578. Indians in Guarvinala, dispatche by Spanierd innumerable, 1579 1580, and Spanifo Mancesters, that is, Spaniards allowing therebles of Mans-fleft for food, 1 5800 C C C C . 2

England, Infants flaine by the Savages to doe Cacrifice to their god Habbamok, Inquisition in New-Spaine, the punishment of two Italians there, 1177. Inquisitions barbarous crueltse .

Infolencie of the Indians of Matfachaotet. Interpreters to necestarie to a landtravell in a strange countrie, that without them it cannot bee Ioancho de Luyando, a Mini-master in Port-Ricco, hisriches, and plenty of gold, John Ortis a Spaniard, his taking by the Indians in Pamphilo de Naruaez, his veyage, his fundry misfortunes, and eleapes, with a happy meeting his countri-men, 1531. His large travailes with Captame Soto, his death, and the discontent thence is suing to the Captaine.

Saint Johns River in New France, its beauty, store of fish, vines, with other commodities.

Saint John de Port-Ricco , a Citie in the West Indies, taken by the English, its description, aire, dewes, greatneffe , Church, mant of Glaffe-windowes, doores , Standing of their Quire in the lowest part of the Church, 1144 Forti fication, 1165. Healthine ffe, ibid. Its situation, 1169 And fortifica- Irocois, Savages in Canada, 1607

Saint Iohns head, the eafterly part of

Port-Ricco. Captaine Iohn Smith his discoverie of Ruffels Iles, Point-Ployer, and Limbo Iles in Virginia, 1712. His entertainment by the Savages, with courtefic, and treacherie, his mens desire of returne, 1713. His many Savage bickerings, endinger by a stinging Fish, and (afereturne, 1714. His fetting forth agains, and encounter with the Savages, 1714, 1715. The lone bee received from Moico that Savage, ibid. His fight with the Tapahonecks, 1716. His great tempests, yet safe returne, 1716. His affeming the presidencie of Virginia, 1716. His oppo-Stion by the Councell, iourney to Powhatan onely with foure, 1717. His ftrange entertainment, ibid. His provision for Nanfamund, project for Powhatan, and and passages with Powhatan. 1721, 1722. His escaping death amidft his treacherous vaffals, ibid. His abuse by some treacherous Dutchmen, 1723. His great danger with fifteene men. by a multitude of Indians, ibid. His valiant evafion, and forcing them to compesition, captinating their King in the midit of them, ibid. of 1724. His poyloning by the Vallals of Powhatan and elcane. 1725. His death plotted by Dutchmen, his escape, encounter, and captivating the King of Palpahigh, and other bickerings, 1726. His progresse in the plants. tion, hinderance, and defire of remonall thereof. 1727.1728. His . hatred by upftart plantationers. escaping their plots, and revenge onthem, 1729. His suppressing mutinies, appealing, concluding peace, endanger by powder, 1730. 1731, His endanger of murther, grieugus torture, returne for England, and the canse, with the confequents. 1731, 1732. His accufers, and accusation, 1731. His innocencie.

Master Iones his endenours, surthering the plantation of New-England.

Ippoa, a place neere the great Iland in America. Iraling, a place feven leagues from Mexico.

Their River, and manner of fortification with Stakes, 1612. Their further description, provision, and townes, and warres, with their vangsishment, and affrighting 1643 with a musket-flot, Iron extelled above gold, 1814 Isla del Gallo, an Iland, 1444 Itshuera, a towne of the Caribes, one dates iourney from the head of the River Mai win, Saint Juan de Lua, achiefe partin Nous Hispania, Iuan de Ofnate, his discoverse of the North from old Mexico , bis armie and preparation, 1 563. His losse and revenge of his Nephen, his building a soune, and poffeffion for Spaine, Iuan Fernandes Ilands , their firma-

tson and plenty, Iucaran, how fo called, 1455. The inhabitants tortured, and coniumed, by the Spamards, 1581, 1582,1583

Setting forth, 1720 His discourse, Iumanos Indians,

THE TABLE.

Saint Iuo de Vilua . a Port towne, Juana the fecond fland in Orenoque Ixtatlan, a place in New-Spaine. Iyanough, a Governour among the Savages of Pechanochick , Saint Izabella, one of the Iles of Salomon.

[/ Aiwaire, atowne inhabited by the Careebees . in the River Marwin in America. 1282 Kebec, a place in New-France. wherein was a plantation of the French begun by Capt. Champlaine 1642. The natural fruit and commodities thereof ibid. Kecoughtan, a towne of Savages in Virginia, 1687. The inhabitants. maner of entertainment, dancing, Orations. Kenebek, a towne under the Don minion of Apomhamen in Mawoofhen. Ketangheanycke, a town under the Sagamos Octoworth, 1875 Capt. Keymish his voyage to Gui-Kiarno, a towne of the Sanares, Kietitan, a god of the Savages,

Kine very france in Brafile, livino in water, without hernes or vdders, 1243. Kine ftrange necre Quiuira , with bunched backs,

A Kings distinction from others amone the Amazons, is by a crowne of feathers, a woodden fword, or a chaine of Lyons teeth.

Kings bodses how bestowed after death by the Peruans, before the Spanish conquest,

Kings dring among the Floridan Indians, and Tartarians, two your men are flaine, to wait upon them in the next world,

King lames his name nothing respected among the Spaniards. 1834. His faithfulneffe to the Queene of England , his mile answere to her Embassadour. 1912. His gracious letters to the Earle of Southhampton touching the Silke-wormes, and ved fifteeene yeares at Santos, Kimbeki, a River in New France,

Knaw-faw an Iland, how situate,

Knights, how chosen and created La Buena Ventura, an unhealthy among the ancient Emperours of Peru, and who thought worth of Knighthood.

Kniners adventures, accidents, 1 102 He finds a cheft of Rials, 1203. Loseth his toes by frost, 1204. Narrow scaping death, 1205. 1206. His danger by a Sea-Monster, 1207. Eateth Whale. 1207. His escaping (all his fel-lowes staine) 1207. His comming to the River Innero, and escaping from drowning by a woman, his life there, 1208. His flaverie in a Sugar-mill, nakedne ffe, hame, and flight to the wildernesse, his life wage, 1208. By a Sharke-fift. 1209. His difastrous flight and wracke, 1209. Indanger offar-ving, ibid. His imprisonment, condemnation pardon, 1210. His wounding the Factor, fight, ionrney, and fortune, 1210. His fearfull travels through the wilder... nesse, and manifold dangers there, 1210, 1211. His returne to his old mafter after many perils. 1212. Kils a oreat dangerous Snake, 1215. Is stocked and brought to execution, laved, 1216 Paffeth in a weake veffell through a River that ran under-ground, 1217 His escape, all his fellowes devoured, ibid. His nakednesse, 1218. Returne againe to his Portingall Mafter, bis danger, ibid. C 1219. His adventure underwater, 1220. His escupe and vovage to Angola in Africa, his fending backe againe, ibid. His plot and dangerous discoverie, 1221. Saveth his master from drow-ning, ibid. Is imprisoned, 1222. Escapeth drowning, 1223. Ariveth at Lisbon, his sicknesse there, 1224. One and twenty times let blood, 1225. His recoverie, imployment, and imprison-amongst the Indians, 1229, A Knife bought eight women,

Silve-graffe in Virginia, 1787 Kuskarawaock, a river in Virginia, Io. King Englishman , one that ti- the inhabitants thereof 1694

Abour well implored both in L reward one time or other, place in Peru La Canela . a Country in Peru.

Lacana, a milerable come in Flor Laguada, a towns in Port-Ricco.

Lake of a bundred leagues in length,

A Lake wondrous oreat, 1612. A Lake of 80 leagues, 1614. Many others, ib. & 1615. One of three hundred leagues. La Loma de Camana, a very fertile joyle in America, the description

there, 1208. His perillby a Sa- La Mocha an Iland in America.

Lampere , a fortified Citie of the Carios in the Indies taken by the Spaniards.

Lancerota, the town and Castle taken by the Earle of Cumberland. 1151,1159. It is one of the orece tell Ilands of the Canaries, I Ice The chiefe towne in it described, 1156. The inhabitants , armes, fituation, commodities, latitude. their feverall harnests. Church Religion, anguage of Savages , 1237. A thousand languages of Savages, 1524. Languige mords of Virginian Savages, 1667.Language very copious and difficult.

La Pacheta, a small Iland, 1414 Laquedambaras, Nut-trees among the Indians.

La para Iua, a place in the Indies taken by French from the Spanish. and repossessed by them, 1428 Las Cabecas, Iles fo called, 1244 Las Ilhas , an American towne , Layfield, viz. Dollar Layfield bis relation of Port-Ricco voyage, 1155. 6 leq. His imployment under the Lord of Cumberland.

Kniues and Hatchets deare fold Lesfe in Guiana called Kellette curing poisoned wounds, and the heidach, 1276. Apparell made of leanes,

League betweene the Muffafois and the English, Leakes, how flop'd under-mater

France. Lepos Tomienos a kinde of Ca-Lerius his relation of Brafile, 1 325. 6-leg. 1836 Verrers lent from the Colony in New-England, Anno 1622.

1840. From New-found-land. 1889 Levhannos, a Savage people of the West-Indies.

Lignum Vita. Lightening hils two men, 1672 Lightening in a great tempest Cases Mariners from bipwracke.

Light at fea feene on the Shrouds in a hell darke might, conceits and names thereof, Lima Indians of Peru, 1365. Their

City, bigneffe, and inhabitants 1416,1421 Limbo-Iles in Virginia. Lime made of Oyfters, Timo River. 1148 Line, bow and when most fafely to be pussed, Listers dangerous attempe, 1142 Liver, by what meanes corroborated and preferved, Lizards eaten in America. 1326 A monstrous Lizard. Mafter Locks death neere the Line, the onely friend of Captaine Can-dish in his last vorace, 1201 Lomioo, a town in the Indies, inhabitedby Arwacca Savages, 1285 Londoners voyage to New-England, Anno 1616. p. 1838. To the Canaries from London , An. 1616. p. 1839. From London to New-England againe, An. 1620 enerthrowne by the rage of divers tempelts, to the loffe of goods and

Long-Ile in New-France, 1622 Long-reach aplace in the Straits of Magellane, 1389

Lopez de Agira, a mutinous Souldier among the Spaniards, his extreame cruelty, and event, 1436, 1437. His plot to poison Queene Flizabeth. Lonez Vaz. & Portingall, his voy-

are and Hiftorie touching places and discoveries in America, 1432 orfeq. Loquilla, A hill famous for Mynes

Port Ricco. Lopos Savages in B afile, called by the Portingals Bilreros : their houses, wyldnesse, harmlesnesse, Sharaclefneffe , beuftlineffe , momen, complexion, 1230. Store of Lord de la Ware his happy arinall at the diffressed Colony in Virginia 1 - 22. His presidency there. $754. his first Acts, and the constitution of Officers, his councell ibid. His fending Sir George Summers to the Bermudas for provision, ibid. His wrongs by Powhatan, marevenge, muh a message to him, 1755. Its successe and his pum (hing an Indian, 1756 His relation to the Lords and the Conncell of Vi ginia , southing his returne thence, 1762. 6 1cq. Hes fundry fickneffes, ibid. & 1763 His death in a verage to

Vaginia, Lord of Southampton Treasurer of Virginia, 1783. His provision and supply of it, ibid. Historiers to the Colony touching file-plants. 1787,1788

Lotterie fer up in London , for the Colony in Virginia. Lots cast for enery mans severall logding in New-England, 1848 Low-Countries supposed to have Ships great and smull of all forts , Saint Lucia, 1146. The description and commodities thereof, 1165 Lukes-Bay, a pleasant harbour in New-Scotland.

Lutherans thought a title of ignominie to the Spaniards, though they cost fed God took part with

Luyfa, a tomue neere Port-Ricco,

Luys de Moscoso made Gouernour of Cube, and Adelantado of Florida after Sotoe: death, 1552. His and his companies resolution to travellby Land Westward in that countrey, his ariuall at seuerall Indiantownes, and entertainment, 1553. His being in danger of tofing him felfe, and his company in the defert-countrers, ibid. His uncomfortable travels in the deferts, chendurace of scarcity there. his returning the fame way hee came, 1554 And taking paffage downe a River to the fea, the whole remainder of his company. their dangerous forme, and perill by the Indians in the River, 1555. His arinall at Panuco, 1556 Lying , how punished by some Indians.

Lyma, aplace in the West-Indies. 1242, 1393. The description of the Bay that leadeth to it, 1394 I vons in the West Indies, 1211. They call them Iswarolou, 1229. are worthspeed in Peru . 1457

M Acanao, the westermest point of Margarita, 1266 Mace, his vovage to Virginia, in a barke fent by Ser Walter Releigh, Machaleis, ariver in the West In-

Maccab, a Small River neere Ore-11000, and Guyana, 1246 Macucagua, a Birdresembling the Fealent, and bath three skins one ouer another. 1 206

Macurio, a River. 1247 Macuerendas a Nation in the River Parana in the Indies, populous and fierce, their description, 1250 Macuta Indians in Brafile, 1200 Midalena a River in Florida,

Madera Ilands, their description, disission, and commodities, 1369 Madera He disconcred by Master Challons, in his voyage to the North of Virginia. Madiopuera, avenemens frimme,

Magalines , a Portingall Naviga-Miguana, a Province in Hilpa-1473

Magdalene River, Magellane Straits described, 1384. Vide freights. Magellane freights extreame winter, 1193 Mogury a tree yeelding Wine, Vincger. Honey beats, threads, needles, tables, and hafts of knines, besides many medicinable vies, 1421 Maiz of two forts, the one like Rice, the other like Ginny Wheat, 1173 1851. Maketh ftrong drinke,

1258 1399 Malabrigo Port, Manco

THE TABLE

Manco King of Peru, his diffresse by the faithlesse Spaniards, and the iffue. 1486, 1487 Mammeis, an excellent kind of fruit, Manarippano, an Iland in the midst of the River Otenoco, 1249 Manilla Iland. Mandioco, the ordinary food of the suhabitants of Brafile, which ferweth for bread: the Grange effects thereof, 1214, 1309,1310.Wine made of the root Mandioco, which preferveth the Liver. 1210 Man-eaters , vid. Canibals.

Mans inconfrancie, 1190.1101 Mapies, certaine Indians fo called. their description, countrey, and commodities, they are a very marlike Nation , and treacherous , 1362,1362. Their overthrow by the Spaniards. Marble Rocke of balfe a mile in length. Marchin-Bay, how fituate, and why so called. Marcomwin, a village in the River Marwin. Saint Maries Hand, the fitnation and description thereof, 1393, 1143, Mariages how undertaken and folemnized by the Inhabitants of

Peru, 1457, Mariage forbidden to him that hath not taken his ene-Mariquites certaine Canibals fo called, their stature, women , dwellings, religion, language, cloathing, 1226.1227 ofc. Maroer, a Brasilian Riner, 1242

Mariners, their duty and disposition. 1168, 1401 Martha, a Province in America very rich in gold and other commodities, 1583. It is now changed from a peopled Countrey to a defert, by Spanish cruelite. 1982.

Martha's Vineyard, a dis-inhabited

Saint Martha, a towne taken by Sir Francis Drake, Marwin River, and the Regions thereunto adjoyning, Mallafovs, a company of Savages in

New-England. 1840 MatTal ove, his acknowledgement of King lames to be the Conernour | Menehighon Iland, how fituate, of his Countrey, and himselfo his English, and prohibiting the 1852,1862 French, Mallangono, a Portmeall Fort in

Affrica, the description thereof, 1 $220, 1234, Gold therein taken by the Portingals. Martines much recorded in Virginia,

Marauzas, the lituation and descrittion thereof. 1246, 1247 Matinin, a haven in America. 1146,1157

Saint Matthews Bar. Marra diabolo . a Fort in Port. Ricco. Mattaick, a Rocke which with the brightnesse thereof dazeleth the

Martouri an Ilandin Guiana, 1272 Mauriapigtanga , Inhabitants of Brafile. Mawooshen, a Countres discovered

by the English , Anno 1622. Maids how distinguished from maried women in Virginia, 1680. Their habite and behautour when they are to be taken to mariage.

1860, 1150 Henry Mays his voyage and hipwracke on the Bermudas, or Summer-Ilands, 1795. The loffe and faving of some men.

Meat made of Snakes, 1210, Meat how kept from corresping among the Savages, 1326. Meat not eaten by the Indians , voleffe fantified by the Spania ds. Mcccombe, a towne on the River

Apanawapesk. Mechuacan, a place in New-Spaine. 1557, 1580 M'echuacan, a place neere the South

Mecola, the lituation thereof, 1246 Mendozaes Indian voyage and fuccelle, 1347, 1348, & fea. Hee builds the citie Buenos Ayres. the miserable famine there, and warres wish the Indians . the death of his fouldiers : his returnino and death by the way . 1248. 1349,1350

Men of three hundred yeares are in Florida. Mendozakis intended treason against Queene Elizabeth . 1802. Hee being Embassador from Spaine is commanded to depart the English man: his kinde entertainment of Merenes, a Nation in the River Parana in the Indies, their defeription, firength, and multitude,

Mermaids feene in Brafile , 1240 on the coast of New-found land

Mormen, or men of the Sea that kill men with embracing, and then feeme to figh, 1315. Some are as tittle as children, and doe no hurt, Mefquiquez an Indianfruit, 1510.

Mestizo. one that is halfe a Sanave. and halfe a Portineall, 1207 Metall like Lead found in Canada on the South. Meuis He the Stuation , excellent bathes, and commodities thereof.

Mexico Navigations, 1177. The bienelle of the Citte, the nature and docibilitie of the naturals, the company of Spaniards there . 7 42 1 The populoufneffe thereof, 1412. Mexico and all the adiavaira Provinces unpeopled by Spanish crueltie, 1578. Two millions of Indians flaine by them there Saint Michael a place in the Azores. 1142. A frange Hill, and wels there, 1142. Its description, 1671 Saint Michael, a River in Ameria ca, neere the River of Toads. 1223. It is dangerous for Navigation.

Saint Michaels Strait in Florida, Saint Michaels towne triumpheth

at the departure of the English, Mico, a river in Florida , which at the mouth is called Rio Grand.

Middletons voyage, 1246. 0 1247 Miles Standish his travell in Newfound-land.

Military orders established in New-England, 1849. Military difcipline as well showed in making a faire and fafe retreit, as in osvino a fierce and furious enfer, 1962 Will. Millington drawie into the Sea by a Fift, and never feene Mines of goldin Port-Ricco, 1165.

Where the richest Mines, 1177. At Etapulick very rich Mines of gold and filver, 1222, 1229. Alines in plenty , 1230. Likewife, 12 ; 1, 12 48. Wines of A. palatei in Florida, 1604. Mines of Copper, of a metall like filver in Canada, 1617. Other Mines shere, o where to be found, 1618, 1619, Mine of Steele, 1639

West Indies. Mirth, a preservatine against the CHTHY,

Mists, fore and thicke, neere the Banke very cold, and the cause thereof, 1628. It is then faire at land though at fea for gie, 1629 Mocha, an Iland in the South Sea, 1201. The description and commadities thereof.

Mochocho, an Indian Governour in 1531,1532 Florida. Mogador, a place on the coast of Barbary. Mehotie, a populous Indian Province.

Melopaques , certaine Savages of Brafile, 12 20. They have fore of gold, but efteeme it not, except to A withall.

Monasterie in Saint Iohn de Port Ricco, 1165. Monasteries in Peru and Cozco, 1456,

Moneta Ile, its difficult landing and unsteakable abundance of Fowle,

Monkeys rolled and eaten, 1213 Monkeys in Brafile called W1riua by the Inhabitants as bigge as a Spanyell, with long broad beards, 1226, 1302. Their King, bis fashion, and other feats of activitie. bid. Some that we mendenourers, ibid. Their care in providing the lafety of their your, 1228

Monferotta Iland. Monfeur de Montz voyages related, 1620. & feq. His focietie broken, and is enused ut, 1638 Monte Christo , a weake towne of the Spaniards on the Indies.

1418 Monte de Plata. Mooremoreno Iland, 1397. Itsinhabitants, description, their lone to the English, and hate of Spaniards. Mafter Moores Plantation and sovernment in the Bermudas Ilands, 1801. His building Forts. ibid. dispelling Spanish ships, and other acts, ibid. His death, and disposition, Moratiggon, an Ile about a dayes Sayle from New-England, 1849 Morecapana Road , the fituation thereof, Morecshego, a place in the River Marwin.

Morrequito, a certain country neers 1248 Orenoco. Moron, a towne of Canibals, 1227 Morrowina, Guyanian Province,

Captaine Morgan flaine in Brafile,

Morouishaua she Kinos name amone Some Savages of Brafile, 1229 Mosco a Savage, famous for his lone to the Enelin .

Molle, a certaine beaft as bigge as an Oxe, headed like a Deere, with a broad Palme, which hee mewes enery yeare: his haire is long like an Elke, hee hash a great bunch under his throat, his legges long, his skin maketh very good Buffe, his flesh is excellent food, very vsefull to the Savages in New-England, 1822

Motto of the King of Spaine in Saint Domingo, 1182 Mottayas certaine Canibals in Bra-

file their love to the English , feeding on Frogges, Snakes, Monkeys and Dogs, their man eating. haire, beafts, and commodities, 1220.1210 Mourning expressed by cutting of the haire among Indians, 1291 Mourning of the Indians for thefe that die,

Mount-maniell, an Iland on the roal of New-England, abounding with the Beaft called M II:,

Mount Howard, 1260, 1254 Mount Huntly, 1261 Mount Aldworth in Virginia, Mountainiers, Savares localled in Canada, that make warres with the Irocos, Mountaines flored with gold, 1284. A mighty mountaine (nowy on the top, and terrid at the foot, 1156. A mountaine exceeding fleepe, 1214. A glittering mountaine, 1216. A mountaine of Crab Lice, 1228. Mountaine of metals, 1232, Mountains abounding with filter and gold, 1248. Mountaines covered with Snow, that for their height may bee seene thirty leagues into the Sea,

Movemon, alarge towne in the River Marwin, Muccambro, an Iland and Mountaine in Guiana. 1272 Mumpara a plaine, abounding with graines of gold, 1284 Murther, how punified in Guiana, 1272. In Brafile. Murther punished by the Indians. with present death, 1870 Muskitoes, their venemons ftinging, Mulo, a torme in new Granada; the exceeding benefit thereof, to the King of Spaine, 1428 Muske of a Crocodiles Cod, 1228 Muske-Snake , a freet fmelling Serpent of Brafile, Mutinie like to receive its deferved reward. 120 I Mutinic, the overthrow of a voruse.

Mutiny among the Spaniards, 1436 Among the French in Florida. 1603. Among the English in Virginia, 1729, 1730. In the Bermudas. Mutinga abounderb with Mynes,

1208 Mutton-Port. 1620

N.

Maguatex, a come in Florida;

Namafchet, a somme under Mailaloyt, 1851. The Namalchets courteous entertainment of the Names encreased, according to the number of persons, slaughtered among the Indians, Names altered amongst the Indians according to their acts and diftolitton, 1869. Names of certains Englishmen affistants in the Plantation of the New-found-land,

Names of the English Knights fighting at the flege of Cadiz, 1933. Names of the Captaines and chiefe officers in the Voyage to Azvies.

Naniamund, a River in Virginia, Nanoligganfets threaten the Eng-14%, 1853. Their great Superfish on in doing Sacrifice to their god

Habbamogni, Naruacz, his voyage, arinallat Dominica, Same Ligo. The Trinitie, bis fipuracke there, bis comming to the land of Marles, 1900, of a towne in Florida for the King of Spaine, 1501. His arinall at Apalachen, and entertainment there, his surprisall by other Indians, his comming to Ante, 1502, 1503. His diffreffed successe. 1504. And loffe of men by the

THE TABLE.

Indians , ibid. His mifery by thirlt . 1505. His companies extreame weaknesse, 1509. With insufferable famine and mortali-Napetuca, a towne in Florida, Naragooc, a towne in Mawoofhen.

Nations that are barbarous, licenced by the Popes Bull to be subdued by violence,

Nauarre overthroweth the forces of the French King at the battell of Courtras. Nauy of Queene Elizabeth Sent to the Azores, Navigation the advancement of Na-

Nauigators instructions, 1368,

Naulets, a company of the Sausecs in New-England a bundred strong,

Nebamocago, atowne bordering on the River Aponeg, in Mawoo-

Negligence like to endanger the loffe of a great prize, The Portingals for the West Negro's rebelling against the Spa-

Neguiwo, an Ile neere the River Sagodohoc in Mawooflien, Nepios certaine inhabitants of Trimidad Niewoc an Ile in Mawooshen,

Neredofhan, a towns on the River 1874

Aponeg, Nets made to carie travelling strangers from towne to towne in Bra-

New France, a great part of it thought to be fandie ground as far as Virginia, 1634. 1635. New-Frances commodities presented she King of France, 1641. The inhabitants when first christened,

New-France inhabited by the Frenchmen, because they lope to get a paffage thence to China, 1642, 1644. The manner of trading in New-France,

New-Frances difeases how they may beefcaped. 1624, 1625. New France, the bounds thereof, 1603. The probabilities of gold Mines there, 1621. Diamonds & Turkie Rones there, 1621. Grapes, Fift, and Cedars,

New-Mexico the towns thereof, and hwilding the inhabit tous, and their Capr. Newports voyage to Virginia , and returne for England , 1:86, 1705, 1706. His Supposed preizdice to the English plantation there, ibid. His proceeding to discour Monacan in Virginia, and fuc-

New-England & the New-foundland disconered and implanted by the English, 1827. The climat very temperate, agreeable to the bodies of the English , making them line langer then in other countreys, the Soyle fertile, variety of nourishing hearbs, and roots, the coast full of commodious harbours and havens, many Iles fit for plantation, wood of all forts in abundance, 1831. The people have our English Nation in goed estimation , and are tractable in trading the Sea is stored with all kind of Fish, diversity of wild foule, Dones in great aboundance in time of Stramberries, abundance of rich Furs, 1831, 1822. Great Shews of Amber-preece and Pearle fore of Whales in the Seathereabout, ibid. New-England described, 1870. Enalish corne and cattle profeer there. New-found-land described, the fertilier of the forle the temperature of the are, conveniencie of the Baies, the inhabitants, their nature and cuftomes, 1885. Herbs and flowers pleasant and medicinable, great increase of corne, fore of Decre and other beasts: great store of land and mater-foule, 1885, Store of trees fit to build with, 1886. Great probabilitie of Mynes , and fift in great abundance, New-Plimmouth abounding with divers commodisies of oreas worth. and very necessary for mans suftenance : Timber of all forts , diuers Mines of unknowne worth . fore of fig. Beaners, and others,

Nicaragua Province, 1446, 1576 Saint Nicholas Bay, Nicholas Sanders his flunders apainst Q. Elizabeth ; Hee oltaineth to be the Popes Nuncio; entereth Ireland, winneth Definon: runnesh mad, and dyesh miferably, 1863

Nicorago, a River, Nilco, a Province or territory in Florida, one of the richeft in all that country, the townes, inhabitents, and commedities thereof, 155 wer hipping the Denill, 1561 Noblemen imployed in the veragete the Azores Noble Perforages volentaries in 88.

under the King of Spaines banner, 1717. His opposing Capt. Smith, Nondacan, a province in Florida wel inhabited the commodities thereof.

Norrack, a Province neere the River

Arwin Guiana. Gen. Norris kis materiall education, Generall of all the English Forcest Martiall in the field under Conte Hohenlo, Martiell of the field in England: Generall of the Army in Frilland Lord Prefident of Msnfer in Ireland , 1916. Winneth great honour & fame by his welordered retrait in the fervice before Gaunt, 1962. His death, 1968 M Norwoods relation of the Bermudas, and the Enolish plantation

there. 1707. @ fcg. Noest, a famous Navigasor among the Dutch. Norumbera River and the fabulous narrations thereof, 1625

Note loft in cold weather. 1105 Noua Galitia. 1 = 26 Noua Scotia, a prosperous plantation, by the dexterity of Sir Samuel Argall, 1828. Noua Scotia, a plantation in America 1871 . Abundance of Strawberries and all kind of wild foule, and very pleasant countrey, Nunnez his relation of the Fleet which Pamehilo Naruaez was gowernour of in India, 1499. 6 icq. His shipwracke, 1500. His disastrous fortune by samine, ficknesse, Lubour, and nakednesse, am. 112 the Indians, 1509, 1510. His comming after divers perils to the Indians- Juanerez, 1514. His mishaps there, and dangerous escaping of burning , 1515. His curing the ficke by prayer and raifing one from the dead, 1916. His comming to the Harbridges, and the hungry Sufis hee made there, 1517, 1518. His repute among the Savager, their feare and admirat on of him, 1521. 1422, 1323. Histravell to the South Sea, and occurrents, 1524, C.c. His meeting with his country-men, 1526. His arinall as Composteila and Mexico.

Nunno de Guzmans his expeditions, 1 556.6 icq. Histaking polleffion for the King of Spaine in the dddd

O Ares of what fashion among the West-In lians, 1158. Oares of the Indians of the Newfound-land. Oaths and Blathhemie anainst God. and our Lady, forbidden in the Spani b Armado, 1 502. O. ths how punified emong the English in Virginia. Ocagna a place in America where is abundance of oold, 1419 Octwita, a pretty binge Iland in Orenoque, 1148 Ochete tonne. 15:4 Ochas . a Floridan Province .

Ocoa, a tomme in Hipaniola, 1186,

Ocute a towne in Florida, 1555 Occore, a high mountaine, 1:48 Offrings amont the Indians to the Dine 1 by the intercostion of their Priest Powsh. 1868 Olmoleigh River, Olyphoa mount in the Indies. 1252 Omit'an , a Province of the greater Soune in America: the deferietion of the countrey, feyle, and nottaking possession thereof by the Spaniaras, Opechankanow, a great King amengat the Irdians taken by an Pamau ke River, mic, 1841. And in his own boufe, die against Captaine Smith ban-Somely revelled. Op ortunities neglected, 1196 Oringes their foveraigne vertue, 1378. Good against the surme. 1763 Order observed in the Spanish Fleet,

Ordnances helt for Ships : whether long or fort pieces, 1402 Oren que a River in Americ: de-Soribed, 1156, 1247, 1248. 1249, of feq. Parabel River,

Organs, aplace in the Wolf-Indies | Paracuona River. abourding with gold mines, 1222, | Paracee Port. Orillano a Spanish Captaine his dif-Olange, a Brance kinde of disease. Offriches astall as aman, 1189 Ouercharging pieces of Ordrance. and other pieces how preindiciall, 1297. 1208 Ouigondia towne of Savages in the Northerne America, 1638 Oxenhams vorage to the West-Indies, his attempts and travels to the South Sea, his prime and misfortune... 1180 1414 Oxen mostled like theore in Florida, 1550 Oxto Burch-back'd and very from af crived, which are ment driebe A soes, boules, fire, velals . c.k if ar mafters whole | Palini a towne in the River Mar-Gil A some Oxon and by their name in Pallaos Cape, in To the men 1 69.1670 Parogones , people of great flature 1313 1314 Oviter or stand boom Pents in Remove of om- In as for a quater of every ingerior. 1400 PAchaer & Engine of Der ikis 1-72 Pacaba Province. 1540 Parallaya Procuree 15-4 O'vinda atomne in Reafile. 1228 Patembos, or Piet has an Indian Savage Nation. 1:53 Palifema Province, 1:49 Palma one of the Canary Iled. 1833 Some Servents, the difference and Palmoto tree, and the front thereof delcribed. 1173.1375 1559 Palmes excellent to cure the Hameroides, 13:2 1600 Englishmeninthe midft of his er- Panace yname acacone, a great Mountains to called. 1723. 1721. His plots and perfi- Panama the figuation deferirties, and riches thereof, 1180,1418,1444 ibid. -Pan co a Prosince de Lesplastr the Spaniards, Oraddo, amo intaine plentifull for Panagoiri lecture of B aile, 1,00 1284 Panobleor, atomie openine River Ramaifue. Paos River, Paps which certains people bane reaching under their wast, and neere to their knees. Papricis a kin le of fruit like an Apple of a materiff tife, good Peafe which are venemous, 1206 against the Fluxe.

Papemena River,

1212 1217 1242 | Paraevua River, 1209,1211,1212 1237,1242 Paramaree, a some in the River Marwin, 1282 Paranapiacano, a Mountaine full of Snakes and wilde brafts , 1210, Parker, viz. Capt. William Parker his voyage and taking of Saint Vincent and Puerto Bello, 1242 1244,1244 Parrats & Parochettoes wonderful plentifull, 1172, 1264. 1304. 1305,1372. A ftrange relation of a Parrat in America, 1329 Par v his treafen against Queens E'iz.be.li in what manner renea-Partridges as bigge as Geele, 1329 win, like Guants. Patota Fromme de cribed, 1536 th m 121 - Orthers t'e meiv/n- Patewomeck, a Rever fixe or feven mules in breadth, and nanigable an bandred and forty miles, 1692 Patent of the French King to Monfeur de Mones, for the inhabiting of the Countreys of La Cadia Ca noda, and other places in New-France, 1619, 1620. New Patents thought on concerning the platation of New-England, 1820 A catent for the platation of Newfound-land. An. 1610, 1876 Patents oranted by his Maielty of England for Virginia's plantation. 1682.1684.1787, 1777 Pat xct a border of New-England ini abited by the English, 1849 Printing much ofed by the Indians, 1225,1358 Payen River, 1285 Paves Hand how Stuate, 1400, Peace: Muficult fignes thereof amove-I the Indians. Pearles plentifull, 1419, 1560, 166: , 1843. Pentle-fifting per-Great I with incredible toriure of the Indians, 1586. Pearles of menterfull bignesse, 1411. The best Pearles where found, and how knowne, ibid. Pearles found in Muscles and Oysters , 1205, 1235, 1315, 1316

1172 | Pedio Sermiento a towne in the

Straits of Magellane, 1416

Pedro Ordonnes de Ceuallos, a

THE TABLE.

Spanish Priest his observations concerning the West-Indies. Prionas a Savare Nation, 1262 Pemaguid River, Pemptegoer, Penguin Hand, the fituation and defeription thereof, 1187, 1191, Penguins described, and bom taken, Pentecost Harbour. People of the Kine, certaine Indians fo called their admirable propertion, agilitie beauty, behautour, People of Harts, other Indians fo called, Pepper hotter and fronger then the blacke Pepper vied with us, 1173 Peritoqua, a River that goeth to Saint Vincent Iland in Brafile, Pert, viz. Sir Thomas Pert his American travels, 1177.6-1eq. Peru language and letters, 1454 The originall lines, conquests. lawes and Idolatries of the ancient Kings of Peru. 1454 , 1455 . 0 feg. The first voyage to Peru, 1455. Names and traditions of Pensaibid. The wrongs which the inhabitants of Peru hane fustained by Spanis cruelty, 1 . 90 . Spanish forces, forts, and townes in Peru, 1418,1419. The discourry, commodities, and Provinces of Pe-TU. 1410, 1443, 1444, 1445. Neuer any raine in some parts of Peru, and the cause thereof 1444 The admired plenty of gold in Peru, 1490. Peruan expeditions by the Spaniards, and their successe in luch enterprifes, 1450, 1451. The Persans their opinion of God, andreverence in the very naming of him. Petinares or Petiwares, certaine Sawages in the Indies, their nature, flature, region, religion, superflition, diet, rites of childbirth , &c. 1225, 1216. Their man-eating, Intehering Captines, and the man ner thereof, 1 226. Their language. and how to trade fafely with them. Petritan River, Flulippina Hands discouered, 1446 Phili and lacob towne, Physicke hash the same operation in England, and under the Line, Piache towne and River, Pianita towne, 1420, 1421. & fcq. Pico, one of the Ilands of the Azores, the description and commodities thereof . 1672. 1638. The high hill 1874 of Pico, which is more then fifteene 1625 miles in length, out of the top whereof iffue often flames of fire Like Etna, and is thought to bee 1384, 1385 higher then the Pike of the Canarics, 1180 1660 Pips without tayles. Pigmies of Brasile dwelling in 1221,1200 Canes. Pigru, certaine Indians of Braille, Pillars of stone, which are worshipped by certaine Indians. 1524,1525 Pines, an excellent and delicious fruit. Pinos, an Iland on the South fide of 1836,1184 Cuba. Pipicorwarra Mountaine, 1:85 Pirats English and Spanish, 1412. Misprision of that terme Pirats. and what a Pirat is, Pitch plentifull, and how made, 1556,1281 Plantines, afruit growing on a furub between an hearb and a tree, in taft like an Apple-Iohn, 1173,1371 Plants adored by Indians, 1479, 1560. Plants that have the fenfe of feeling, 1280. Venemous plants Plantations in New-England. 1812. In New-Plimouth, 1842. The necessaries required for plan-1621-1631 tation. 1141,12,2 Plate River. Plumbe-drinke. 1784 Plumbs that are venemous, 1230 Pocahonias, daughter to King Powhatan, her being baptized and maried to an English-man, 1841,1760. Her vertuous life and death. Poeticall Savages, Polizado, a Fort in N. W. England, Pome-citrons to great as that two Pomegranats medicinable, 1794 Popajan Province, Popes authoritie devided by the King of Peru, Porco, a place plentifull for Gold, Pories certaine Sauages so called, 1157. Indian Phylitians their effective , and manner of curing , or three of them will load a horfe, 1445,1452 1213. Their ftature, diet, complexion, habitation, lodging, G.C. 2509 Portingals their cruelty to the Sava- Powhatan the Virginian Emperor sec. 1207. 1221. ~ (cg. Divers of them maffacred by Savages . 1180, 1117, Portingali Ships furpriz dby Sir Bernard Dake, and brought into England luden mith Fift, 1882. The Portingals exquisitone fe in feering, 1279 Port-Ricco the situation and defeription thereof, 1153, 1169. 6 icq. 1415. It is the key of the West-Indies, 1166. The foreshcation thereof, 1161. Fi ht betwist the inhabitants thereof, and the English. Port St Iulian, 1187,1194,1383 Post-Femine lying at the mouth of the Straits of Magellane , 1204, 1233. The inhabitants. their commodities, coldne Te of the climate, 12:2.12:2 Porto B.lio , the situation and de-(cription shereof, 1601, 1245. The farprizing thereof by Cuptaine Parker, Per:a la Spaniola, 1247 Port de la Hene. 1640 Port Saitalet. 1640 Port-defire, 1193, 1194, 1232, Port-Reval, 1621, 1631. 1632. The French plantation remoued from Saint Croix thither. Porto Sequero, 1418. Porto ce Plata, 1418. Port Fortune, 16:5 Porto Reale, 1418. Port Calua, 1224. Port Negre, 1873. Port Valparizo, 1393. Porto Docalno, 13:8. Port du Roffignoll, 1630. Poit du Mouton, 1630. 1873 Port-Folly. 126 E Poll fion Bay, Pollowne, a ftrange beaft which reassumes her your ones into her belly at pleasure. Potofini a mountaine in Peru the inhabitants thereof, rich mines, nultitude of Spanish treasure, and Spaniards there, 1214, 1420, 1421,1365 Por fli a placerich in Mines, yeelding great store of treasure to the King of Spaine, Powah an Indian Prieft, 1868. The Pewalis innocation of the Diucl!, and offering facrifices to him, Powels voyage from the Summer-Hands to the Indies, Powder and shot, how abominable to fame Savages, 1854. Straw-powder eaten by some Indians, and needy Spariards, 1229 Powhatan River, dddd 2

A pening in the way between the

his subsidie, flatterie, practices, ebc. 1721, 1722. Hee becomes Subject to the English governour, BRAL. His person , attendance , enard treasure, wines, authority, lawes, 1703, 1704. His policy and Coronation, 1778. His diwers treacherous practices against the English 1711, 1723,1724, 1724, 1756. His enuy to the English plantation, 1750. His death, Poxe how cured. 1208, 1210 Point of St Mathews 1606, Point of all the Divels, ibid. Point Plover, 1712. Point-Care, 1648. Point. Comfort, 1687 Poilor on trees, 1525. Poifon cared by a certaine leafe, 1276. by a 1310.1311 Prayer made by Q. Elizabeth, afser her delinery from the Spanish Pretious-stones variety and abundance. 1224,1231 Prietts and lefuits alwayes chiefe actors in projecting and effecting greafons, 1894. Virginian Prieft. 1358, 1701, 1274 their authority and manner of life, 1771 Prelident of Simil his cruelty to the 1835 English Captines. Priguica, a beaft like a shap-haird dog, in face like a woman, the laexelt of all beafts, Pringe his voyage fet forth by the Merchants of Bristoll to Virginia 2654, & sequ. his discourry of Fox-Island, Whitson-Bay, and Mount Aldworth, 1654, 1555. his danger by Sanages and fafe re-Prodigies portending desolation of the ancient inhabitats of Peru, 1482 Prophecy amongst the Indians concerning the destruction of their country, Prosperity, the effects thereof. Providence of the English in New England, in hourding up corne under eround. Prouisions foundnesse or defect prometh the furtherance or overthrow of a voyage, 1396, the mij biefe of corrupt or scanty provisions, 1396,1397 Purble de los Angelos, Puerro Vicio. 1400 Puerto Seguro, 1190 Puetto Sinto, 1186 Puerto Vicio, 1446,1481 Puma Iland, the place where the Spaniards build their principall Shipping in the Indies, 1400. Canaries, and West-Indies. Neere st is the River Lima, which 1157. Continua!! raines at force is medicinable. ibid. The inhabitimes of the yeare upon the coaft tants proffe Idolaters, worthiping of Guiana , 1270. Countress Lyons, Tygers, and other beafts, where it never raineth, 1420. Prodigious raines of Sand and afbes, 1476. Exceeding cold Punta de Olynda. 1228. Punta de laraya, 1242. Punta de Santa raines. Elena. 1400. Punta de Auguila, A Rainbow appearing by Moone-light, and differing in colour from thole of the Sunne, 1949, 1951. Purging plants in the Bermudas . The forme of a Rainbow under 1801. A purge for the Aque, 1311,1379 a Cane. 1621 Purification of Mary, a River fo cal-Ramalloc, a great River in Mawooled in New-Spaine. men. Purapayma, an Iland farre up Rancheria, an excellent place for within the River of Orenoco Pearle-fibing, 1146. It is affaulted and taken by the English, ibid. Rapahanna, a towne in Virginia. Vebec ftrait, 1611. Along the 1687, 1688 Rapahanock River. Rafhneile in great enterprices monds in the Rocks of Slate, greatly blamed. Ra liffe, alias Sicklemore, flaine by Ouercius a Bird of admirable beauty, and great effeeme amongst the Powharan, Rats of twelne kinds , 1303, R is 1205, 1306 Querna Vaca, a towne in the Marthat sleepe all day, and wake all quelado of Hernan Cortes, thirnight, 1316. Danger by Rats, teens leagues from Mexico. and the preventing thereof in Ships, 1301. Rats innumerable in 1418 Quibiquellon, a famous Riner in the Bermudas,1796,1797. A Mawooshen. strange Rat-plaque, Quigaute a great Province, and a Henry Ravens, his woyage from Bermuda to Virginia, 2742 Ravens in Bermudas, which feevery plentifull Countrey, 1548 Quillacu, the most mi/erable of all Nations, neither having good med to portend a sequell of mortaland, nor Aire, nor water, whence Raleighs . viz. Sir Walter Ragrowes a Proverbe applyed to conetous Mifers ; Hec is a ve.y leighs his acts and effective at Orenoco , 1269. His fur-Quillacu, Quillacena, or Iron-nofe Pronishing Ships for the first Difvince, a vile brutish longe people coverie of Virginia, 1645. For a without Religion, eating any Carsecond, third fourth, fift and fixt voyage, 1645,1646. Heis accu-Quintera Bay, a place of good ansed of breach of Articles, in the voyage to the Iles of Azores, he choring, but an open Bay, 1204 Quipana, a sowne fine dayes iourney an wereth for himselfe , 1958. His men left in Virginia, and from Tulla, Quires Province. what became of them, 1561 Recibo, a towne in Port-Ricco, Quiriciguig, and Quirigma, certame Indians of Brafile To called. Red-Reed, a plant in the Bermu-1200 Quito the first Citie of the Kingdas causing a forcible vomit, and effectually purging the stomacke, dome of Peru, 1419, 1410, Registers observed by the Indians. Quiuira Province, the Situation and description thereof, and their manner of registring , 1561 Ouivoughcohanocke, pro Rivers (o called; and how fituate, 1692 Richard Duke of Yorke , father to Plantagenet, his wilfull cafting Quizquiz Province, away himselfe, Richard Sanders and his companions, their comming from the Ber-D Aines very vnwholfome, hap. mudas to Ireland in a Smell boat without any instrument, in a direct line. Rinde of a tree which is more ftrong then any flice, in Virginia, 1653 Rio del Oro River, the breadth and death thereof. Rio de la Hacha, a place taken by the English, 1183. The riches and Arenoth thereof. Rio grand, an American River, the fituation, description, and commodities thereof, 1224, 1237, Rivers of gold, 1216. A River running under-ground 1217. Names of Rivers in America, 1282, 1286. A medicinable River, $400. Rivers that encrease very much, and onerflow the bankes in dy weather, without the flowing of the Sea. 1552. River of Toads, 1223. 1240. River of Stones, 1222, 1238. River of Palmes, 1505. River of Kine, 1562. River of Saint Croffes, 1462. River Saint Margaret in Canada, 1617. River Canada, 1611. River de Carinas, from she end of which if there were a channell made of foure leagues in tength, there would bee a passage to the South Seathrough it withone passing the perilons straits of Magellane, Lord of Robewall Lieutenant to she French King, in the Counerers of Canada, Saguenay, and Hochelaga, Rocke of Christall, which if a man looke on in a Sunne-Shine day, will decell his eyes. 1285 Roccrafts Voyage to the New-found-land, his surprising of a French-Rarke , the constitucie of bis owne Mariners against him. the disconcrie of the conspiracie, etc. 1820. bis voyage to Virginis, kind vfage by Sir Samuel Argoll, the diftreffe hee Suffered in a tempelt his death in a prinate quarrell. Romanes custome in managing of Martiall affaires, Rome, a Citie of murtherers and baters of Kings, 1894. New Rome much more drunken with the blood of Christians, then heathenish Rome with the blood of Ethnicks, 1804. Romane policie, 1660 Rosier, his relation of a voyage to Virginia, 1641,& feq. Ruminnaui, an Indian Captaine, his ernell tyranny in Peru, 1486 Ruilels Iles in Virginia, 1712

Gil.

Ruffia, a little village in the River | Sandy Cape. Marwin, 128: Sanra Port. C Abbath, 1161,1657 Sabuco, a Riner and Towne in Port-Ricco. Sacatekas, the richest Mynes in the Santa Fe del Nueuo regno di Gra-Indies, Sachim of Mattachuest acknowledgeth the power of the English Sacrifices, and Sacrificers, 1472, 1531,1557 Sacrifices to the Denill, 1531, 1868 Sacrifices to the water. Sacriledge punished, 1162 Sagenay-riner, and the adiogning Countries described, 1606,1610 Sayles of cotton eloth. Sagadohoc, ariner in Mawoofhen, Sagamos, the name of a Captaine among the Northerne Americans. Saint Lucia, one of the Ant-Iles in the latitude of 14 degrees, and 20 minutes. Salma riner. Salomons llands, their situation, discovery, and lose, Salt how made and purified by the Indians. Saltcountrie, 1365. Salt made in New found Land, 1880 Salt-water dangerous to drinke, Salt-water made drinkeable, 1378 Samuel Champlain a Frenchman, his taking upon him the plantation of Kebec in New France, 1642. a conspiracy against him, ibid his aduice for a further discourry, 1642, 1643. bis fight with the Sanages, and returne for France. 1643. another voyage, ibid. & Samia-plains, neere the riner Orcnoque, 1248. Indians inhabiting those Plaines. Samambais a Tree in America. Sambo Ear. 1245 Sanctifying meat vsed by the Portingals in the Indies, Sands rained downe in Peru, 1476, Sands dangerous for nanigation in Brasil, called by the Portingals Bayhas de Sant Antonio, Sandy places transited by Compaste, Santa Maria, one of the Azores I-Santa Cruce, a Carracke furprifed by Captaine Norton and St. John Burroughs, 1144,1145. is burne by the Portingals. nada, the chiefe (itie in new Gra-Santas, a towne 14:8 1866 Sapparow, the high countrie of Guiana. Saguarema, a naujeable river in Brafile, its description and commodicies. 1702 Saffafrage, 1649. its medicinable vertue. Safquesihunock, certaine Indian Grants their description, 1602 Sauleges made of the heart and outs of Cods and Lard Spiced , 1628 1874 Sauage-rocke, 1647 death of Q. Elizabeth, 1803 Sauages have their goods interred with them and why, 1605 Sauages fight with the English. 1187. Sauages of Tuppan Bais 1 188. Sauage towne described, ibid, their manners, warres, and vlage of their captines, 1188. 1218. drunkenneffe, 1180. their religion, commodities, they efteem not gold, ibid. their hospitall fidelity to Anthony Knivet Enelifeman, 1200, their infidelity, 1211. their ambition, 1212. Sauages called Cariyos, and their battells, 1218. Sauages called Peti-Heres, 1225. Marianites, 1226. Topinambazes, 1227. Tomominos, Waytaquazes, ibid. Waymores, ibid. Abasanquaretam, 1228. Wayanasses, ibid. Topina-ques, ibid. called Pories, Molonagues, Motayu, 1229 Lopos, Wayanawazons, 1220, Sauapes their religious defires, 1251. Sauages that make flat their childrens faces, that line in hollow trees, quartering their faces into foure colours yellow, azure, pariscoloured, and blacke, 1481. Sauages very courteous, and weeping at the distresse of Christians. 1507. Sauages that kill their children left they should marrie with their advertaries, that eate any kind of Serpents, that are great theenes lyars, & drunkards, their tormenting Files, 1512, 1513. their drinking onely raine-

ribes in the Indies, Scriveners voyage to Werswocamoco. 1719. his death by dron- | Scrpen: scalled lebna, 1226. aterning in the passage from lames Towne in Virginia, to the Ile of Scurule, reigning in New France,

1642. and under the Aquino Eliall, 1202. its cause, effects, fiones and remedie, 1273,1274. great raigning of it among Mariners, 1374. the things that are discommodious or beneficsall to the 1623,1763 patient, Scuruy-graffe, 1191. its medicinable operations,

Sea blacke in colour beyond the line. 1157. a Sea-monfter like a man, of complexion like a tawny Indian, 1187. another strange Seamonster.

Sea-water warme, the agre being cold 1627. Sea made fre hby a violent intermixture of rivers in Sheathing of Ships requifice, 1387 Florida, 1555. Sea-scum like pitch, and vied like pitch, called Coper in Florida, 1556. Sea difcommodious for meats in sickness, 1624. Scadanger, 3ca-fire, a mescer feene commonly in rempelts, the disters opinions and names thereof. The Sea worfsipped by some Indians, 1471

Sea faring mens errors, 1368 Sea-fights, 1184, 1186, 1402, & Sherleys vorage, ieq. the requisitenesse of armour Showers of gold, betweene the Spanish and English, at unequall hand, the successe largely related, 1780, 1781, da, 1520, 1521. Forty English Sea-voyages require a Princes 1822 Sea-ftratagem of the Enolife having good effect. 1215 1440 1605 Scales great fore, 1187. their nature and description. 1186 Scafons falling unequally under the same parallel. 1637 1471 Sea-men, their feuerall offices > pent called Cobrus in Brafile, as big as a man, twenty foot long, his firange feeding, rotting, and reviving, 1242. A Surpent called Cururinba therey foot long , it's defeription, 1317,1318. Serpents that are armed with plates not pierceable by an arrow, ibid. Serpents called Guararici, which being heard fing by the indians, cau-Ceth theme to die, Go A-our is their imagination, 1318, a huge Serpent, 1350. two great serpents, Shadden a towne of the Armaccas in the West Indies, Shambles of mans flesh among the Scaniards in the Indies. 1280 Sharke, a fifb fo called, deferited,

Rhemes. 1625 1200

1264 Selinama riner, 1284. directions to tranell there. 1286 Seralta, an ancient Commander in Port Ricco.

Showakotoc armerin Manooften,

Sheepe why forme in Port-Ricco, 1172. Sheep weed for caringes as burles, in the Indies, called Antidas, 1362. Sheepe as lig as burfes, with huge bornes, and small tayles, meere Alexico, 1560, one borne waigherly 50 pound, 1561 Shels of Pearle curionfly wroughely nature. 1168 1395 in Sea-fights, 1408. a Sea-fight | Shooting at Sea how aduisedly to be wedertaken,

Sickneile, its cause and remedy. 1251. Sicknelles unknowne in New France, 162 ?, Sickneffe in Guiana 1261. Sicknetle bremented by good drer, 1624 Geleneile deftroring the whole Country in Paraxet in New England, Sickene Mountaine. 1286 Sierra Leona, a country fo called.

Shipwracks, 1355, 1356, 1440. 1560, 1673, 1674, 1676, 1677 Ships, bow most connenientiv built for warres or Merchandise. 1 40 s 1406. Thips unprofitably built of Cedar in the Bermudas, 1747. thips taken by St. Francis Drake at the Cascois in the Portingall voyage, 1923. thips of ereat worth taken by the English at the fight before Cadiz, 1930 in thips whether race-building be commodious for men of marre. Silk-wormes in Florida, 1603. in the Bermudas. Silk-graffe in Virginia. 1758 Silley, an Ile on the west of England

Siluer in Florida preferred to the French by the Inhabitants, 1603 Striarra, atowne neere the Fort of Morrin, inhabited by the Ar-reacca Sauares, Sir Samuel Argal by vertue of commillion with much valour and difcretion dispossessed the French of their vsurped possession in the New found Land, 1828. his departure from the coasts of Virginia, 1830. His innention of trade with the Virginia Sanages, Skin as ruffe as Buffe, on men, 1280 Skuls of dead men layd in the windowes of houses among some Indians perchance to put them in mind of mortality.

Sinte good store in Canada, affording Diamonds, 1610,1611 Sleeping-hearbe, Smiths Iles before Virginia, 1691

Capt. Smith of Plimonth his difafter rous voyage, with fudden returne by the unmercifulnesse of a raging tempelt, his second admentures to the Westerne Hands, hee is chased by the French Pyrates, is tiken prisoner, and the voyage ouerthrowne, 1829. Captaine Smiths Sufficion by the Councell of I irgima bis behaviour and clearing therefrom, 1706. his careforthe Plantation and further ance thereof, his disconerie of the riner.

THE TABLE.

1707. he fights and kils (avages, is taken by theme, brought to the Emperous, threatned death, and faned by the Kings daughter, resurneth to the Plantation, 1708. $709 his fecond erriuall at Powhatans court, 1710, his better defire then power, to benefit the plansation, 1711. his firthing terror in the Sausoes ibid his desarture for a disconerie,

John Smith his voyage to New-England finished in the Spice of 6 moneths, with gaine of fifteen: hundred pounds, Snakes-hearb excellent good against . the porton of Snikes.

Snakes enten. 1210. Inakes cieria venemous . 1212. A danterous . fnake kild, 1215.its quality, ib. name S:rocneu. 1230, its descriprion, 1231. Snakes without payfon, 1 303. their plenty and dinerfitie in Brafile, 1303 1304. with their names, ibid. & 1317, 1318 Snakes of thirty foot long called Amara, wor hipp:d 1457,1478. Snakes worshipped in Topira, 1560. Snakes worne about the neckes of the Virginians, 1698 Snowes exceeding orest in Florida 1551. Snowes made vse of in flead of drinke, 1561. Snowes as good as a furd-gowne for fruits,

Sozcatino, a towns in Ploride, very poore and deflicute of cronifion,

Socke riner, Sedomites burnt by the Indians. 1558

Semme-riner in Florida di concred | South Sea disconcred more largely by the French. 1603 Semmerfes-Hand in the Bermudus,

Sir George Sommers ariuall at the Bermudas, and death, 1733, his 1728. I'm departure from Virginia to the Bermudis, 1754

Sommer Hands commodities at Lurge, 1794, 1795. Vide Bermudas.

Somma aplace in America, 1112 Soto a Spaniard, his paverence time of his flouri ling, nature, and dignity, 1 5: 8, 1519. bus worning to Florida at Lorne related, and difcovery, 1520 the some my of his Bups, and wind er office & things, bis arinallas Floride and a the towne Fest; and meeting with I Indianiced Confiner there, $530,1511.b.s comming to Paracoffi, Acela, Tocaste, Cale, townes in Florida, his newes of Gold, and Maiz, sezz, bis avproach at other severall townes in America-Florida, and Seuerica to the Indians, 1922, 1534. his many bickerings with the Indians. his re olution for the Promince of Ochus, 1535. hee pretends himfeife to be the Some of the Sunne. 1536, his ingratitude to an Indian Princess that had weed him eshis company kindly, 1538,1539. burieth a letter neere a Pine-tree. to give direction to his loft followers, 1537, carieth the Caciques with them, till hee was one of their countries, 1541. the course of his tranels, 1542, his skirmift and loffe by the Indians, 1543. his other Indian occurrents, 1546. 1547,1548, 1549; et (cq. bis arinall at senerall Floridan towns, or cottages, his weaknesse and losse of his company. 1550, his hunderance by the loffe of John O.tiz. his dangerous passages over rivers and (nowes, his courteous entertainment by the Inhabitants of Nilco, 1551. his diffreste, miefe. ficknesse, death, praise, titles, and substituting Luis de Molcolo in his roome.

Soory-foory, a towne inhabited by Saugres neere Marwin in Ame-

Soule, the Braflians opinion thereof, 12,0. the orinion of the Indians of Canada, South-lea paffage board through Virginia. 1822 then beretofore. Souricoua, a riner in Canada pa/-

fable with Carees, 1616,1617 Sevnoone, a towne of the Indians neere Marwin riner, 1285 care for the formar of those Hands, Spaine is faid to yould the King (the King kimfel'e, Dukes At. var.i fes and Firle . and their ratione excepted, from 18 were chi to 50, but 1125350 men, yag

> Spaniard, how effeemed of ly the Floridans,

Spanish pretended cures of the dife in the Indies, 1,13. Spanish porleffion of Peru, and it weilth, 1405, 1406 they este one at ther, 1512. Spaniards on Bear . abletrealure in Perist 487 S. a. niards preaching to the Indians. 1485. Spaniards Ecclefiafticall reaennues in the Indies, mast of Bilops, bolding Councels, the Kings renemeres yearchy out of the Indies. twelve, Millions and whence it iffueth, 1422. Spanish d-fraction of force Indians from off their country altogether, 1415 Spanish Fleet for the Indies, and Piparacle. 1440. Spaniards precheronly circumvere the inhabitants and King of Pern, 1445. Spanish cruelty to their prostrate flaues, 1448. Spaniards came to the Indies for conserting, but not of Indians, but gold to their owne vier. 14:19. Spanish civill difaoreements in Pern. 1453. chigo of the inhabitants, 1453, 1454. Spaniards called by the Indian Vitacochie, thet is, Sea froth. Supposing such could not becborne of a moman, 1454. Spaniards loffe of foure Pripe, 1142. Spanish Gulleon, taken, 1144. Spaniards alliant and resulte. 1140. Spo-101a de vecla to the English 1164. their emeror desperatenesse, 1166 Spaniares best ruled with seuevity 1 168 their proratefull trechery, 1177, their perfidions in-(ulung crucky, 1178, and abufe of the English in Mexico, ibid. et 1179.S: anish destrelle in Chili-1476, 1477. Spaniards very rule in the Indies, 1242. Spanish att mpts defeated 1 475. they ere called in Trini leda, Conquerabians, 1247. Spaniards derence but by flealth trafficke with the English; the best things for wafficke with them, 1266. they are molested by the Caribes, 1281. their taking Lampere, an Indian fertified towne, 1352. Spaniards like to be denoured by the Indians. 1354. their fight and ouerconsning them, 1355, 1356, they firing to different the Amazons, 1359. Spanish cruelty and trethey towards the harmle Te Indians 1354.1360, 1361, they defirm the Indians called Mapais. 1;62, 1:63. Sportes of Spaniands w Pers, 1478 . Spenish civill de sur emenes in the Indies. 1:64. Spanifi perierie, 1:78. attrecherius and unarateful! Sonriad Pic. 1394. Spanift tabe with the English unequality 1204 Scan fle erlereline in fieler by featheir tenerall offices and entiresince their pring and imitating Look borders, 1404. their carefullife in being armed. 1408. wherein they onely accreame the English, ibid. a noble Spaniard, 1410. Spaniards carelefne fe for good Surgeons in fights, 1412. Spanish intelligence by trecherous Englishmen, 1415. Spanish forces how strong or weake in severall places of Peru and thereabout, their treasure, when, where, and whence conneyed into Spaine, 1419, 1420. the Spaniards lines and gonernment in the Indies, 1421. their courte sie, and conserfion of them as they call it, 1448. their hatred of gold, 1449,1454. Spaniards why called Viracoche 14ch, Spaniards ranfacking of our English hips, putting the men comoft cruell bondage, 18:4. the Spaniards ernetty to the dead carkaffe of an Englishman, holding him to hee a Lutheran , 1825. They dent to doe inflice, are very willing the English Should ferue their flate, ibid. They betray and take prisoner the men of Captaine Legat, 1836. Spanish pride and its iffue in an Indian Gouernour, 1677. Spanish Ships of great worth funke neere Tercera, commains from the Indies, 1672, another thip of good strength sunke by an Englishman of a great deale smaller force, ibid. Spanish ships taken by the English, ibid. Spanish ships, riches, and shipwracke of fome, 1673. Spanish Fleet caft away, great and rich, 1674. 0sberstaken, ibid. Spanish cowar dife, and infulting cruelty, 1675. Spaniards fmart for the crueltie and dissention with the English. $676. Spaniards queld by the Englis , 1677. Spanish Shipwracke a suft plague upon them, 2679, 1680. Spanish infidelity worle then Pagan, 1527. Spanish manner of preaching to the Indians with the sflue thereof, 1528 . Spaniards eate dogs in Florida, and there due like does for mant of vi-Etuals, 1536. Spaniards thinke it a worke mericorious to consert the Indians, that is, with the fword, 1558. Spaniards conteft each with other for superiority in discomerine forraine Countries, 1560. Spaniards first discovery of the Indies and po [effion thereof, their eruelty and conetonfneffe related by a Fryer, the Millions of Indians flaine by them, for their gold, 1569, 1570. Spanish comar.in, and cruelty in broyling, burning, drewning, and twenty wayes elle murdering them of Hispaniola, 1570. & leq. Spanish torturing undeferned by the harmleffe Indians, having not committed any thing against them punishable by the law of man, 1572. Spanish flaughter of a million in S. Ihor. and lamaica, 1573. Spanish in nention to dispeople those Nations, ibid. The Spaniards cod, 1574 Spaniards kill many in Cuba, men, women, and children, 1573, 1574. Spaniards difpeopling Terra Firma, 1576. They murther in the Pronince of Nicaragua 500000 men. 1576,1577. Spaniards kill two or three millions in Noua Hilpania, and its fenerall Proninces, 1577, 1578. an infinite number in Guarimula, 1576. Spanish Antbropophasi, 1580. Spanish torturing and de-Broying the Indians in Panucha, Machuachan, and Xalifco, 1 ,80 1581, of Yucatan, 1581, 1582, 1582. Spaniards fell the Indians Idols, 1583, denoure the Indians of S. Martha, ibid. & 1584. at alfoof Cartagena, 1384 of the Couft of Pearles, the Coaft of Paria, and the He of Trinine, 1585, 1586, 1587. Indians how vied as See by Spaniard. and at landing, 1586. at the fig. ino for Pewles, 1587, Spanish gluttory, 1588. Crnelty in Yuizpari and Venefula, to the ruine of foure or fine millions of Indians, 1587,1588 in Flories, River de la Plata, and the kinguomes of Peru, 1589, 1590, 1591. Spinish conversion of the Indians how weekely followed, 1594. their diuers feats of cruelty and inhumsnity to the poore Christians of New Granado and the senerall proninces thereof, 1591, 1592, 1593, 1594,1595. Spanish gold thir-Rine Te, and thouce if uing bloodthirflinelle of the Indians, 1596, 1597. Spania reformation of cruetties and wrongs in the Indies ought to bee performed, and upon what reafons, 1598, 1599, 1600, 1601, 1692 arepetition of fundry butcheries, ibid. Spanish rea. fons mouing them to a possession of the Indies, 1603. Spanish cruelthe Indies 20 millions, ibid. Spaniards maffacre the French in Florida, and plant themsfelnes, 160 s. are maffacred again by the French is they defermed, 1605

Spanish irregularitieinthe Indies derided by a French Catholike. 1621. Spaniards areg Englif Ships, 1893. Spanish preparation against England, Anno 1:92. p. 1895. Spanish policy , 1807. The Spanish Armada ferreth faile. is discomfitted by a tempest; is as inft descried by an English Pirat.

Spaniards vaine opinion concerning the English Fleet, 1909 Spaniards fire their owne thing. 1931. Span: Armada's cut their Cables, 1908. They fly for to fane their lines, 1010. They luffer miferable Shipwracke on the Irish Sea. They feize on some Scottiff Fifter-bonts, ib. Spanife plannes and miseries by the English, 1680 There flinht for feare of the Eno-Libaro 32. Spanish Fly-boats melest the English about the coasts of Cornwall, 1698. Spanish Carnels difterfed, 1698. Spanish fips at Sea, for the discoverie of the flate of Virginia's Colony, 1773. Spaniards haved by the Portingals, 1952. Spaniards variety of difositions in various fortunes. 1954. Their nature in generalla Sparries relations of the Ile of Trinidad, Guiana, and the River Orenoco, 1247,1248, & fig. Spices excellent good, hos, and comfortable in the Magellane Graits.

Spiders with filten webs , and little eggs like Quick-filuer in the Bermudas, 1899. Notfound to bes venemans, Spignard wheref is a pracious ognisment neade. 1164 Spilpergen a famous Navigator amone the Dutch. Spirito Santo a Portinthe Weft-

Indies neere the Line, 1190, 1196. Its description, and fortification. Spleene, how eafed, Squanto a Savage of the company of the Mallaloyts, very helpfult and commodious to the English, Squalachin wife to the great gonernour of the Savages, Squirrels flying in Virginia, 1695 tie hath kild and destroyed in all Cape. Standish his training up his menin New-England to military affaires, 1854. His tourney to the Mafacheuafets, 1863. Hecencountresh with a Savage, and putseth hims to flight.

THE TABLE.

		_
teth him to flight, 1865	Swearing forbidden amongst the In-	T
Stars older ned by the Indians, 1870	habitants of Peru, 1451
Stately Statues in the Indies,	Swearers punished in the King of	Ţ
1403	Spaines Armada, 1902
Secering a bip requirethexquisite	Swearing and blaspheming, its ill	T care. 1370,1579		•
Stills fet on worke for want of water	Sweating vied by the Indians, to 1967		Т
Stingeray Ile so named of a stinging	Swine with holes in their backs,	-
Raye, 1714	1
Stomaccace a strange disease, its	Sword-fish, Symamios, Savages in the West-
cause, and cure by scurvic-grasse,	Indies so called, 1364
1624	Symarons fugitine Negroes in the	Ţ
The Stone how and with what car'd	West-Indies, 1414. Their 1310. In approved medicine	h.bitation called St. lago de los	T for it, 1312 Scopes like Chrystall, 1216	Negros, ibid.
Diones me a major
	т.	T
		T
No Stones in some part of Florida, 1504	Abaga Iland, 1415
Stones medicinable, 1509	Tac iia Savages, 1299
Stones how necessary in new France	Tagrona one of the richest valleyes
1624. The benefit of them inge-	in the Indies, 1434
nerall, ibid.	Tali a Floridan Towne, 1540	A
Straits of Magellane, how dange-	Tamgara a dancing bird, troubled	А
ross apalage 1439	with some disease like the falling
Strawberies of rare bigneffe in Vir-	jicknesse, 1305
ginia. 1686	Tamos a populous Pronince, 1562
A Stratagem of the Indians. 1442	Tamkings a peece of wood of great 1442 Perer Strolle in his delpe-	moment for shooting in peeces of	i rate branery taken by the Spani-	Ordnance, 1413 ands to the lolle of his namy. 1902	I ammin an incommendation of the
The Stukeley, an English Jugi-	It's and the mountained of tine his faire promise to the Popes	Tapatu a Floridan riner, 1552	T
bastard,	Tapata a Toorman
Stuelia an Indian riner, 1362		١.
Sturgeon fore in Vigina, 1758	in Port-famine in the ftreights	T
Suboris certaine Indians so called	and II Dorring
a C Of the Coming forth
Earle of Suffolkes fetting forth a 1 		7
Sugar-Canes, 1171
Sulphuy smels if ning from raine	1183	1_
Cap. Summers voyage, 118	S Tapuvas certuine Savages jo callea	1
Sun and Moone worthipped, 1233	1212. Many Nations Swaer	i
1464.1465		1
Suppayas certaine Indians inhabi	- Speech cannot bee understood,	1
ting Wiapoco riser, their de		1
Scription, 1263. Ther naked	L Tapy: Ou. Ca, was Interested and	İ
neffe, painting, child-birth, Fun		1
ralls,orc. ibio	I. Taragauig Braillians that fight we Supply to the Plantation in Virg	- enuenomed arrowes, 1199
nia by the English 1841. Supp	y 11 or 1 alou a place metr Cition	i
to the plantation of New-Englar	id 1249	1
186		i
Superfition among Savages	1214. Targets beneficial a-	. †
Surarer a sowne of Savages call	ed gainft Savage arrowes, 1716	1
Araccaws in America, 128	Tarcalaca-Pronince, 1541	1
Sarcucufes a Savage nation the	en. Then a beat of Bralil that hath	1 commodisie s 13	56 scales like places on her back which	"
Sajolas-Indians, 15		ij
Ç

piards. New Spaine, A borrible Tempest, 1175. Ex-1736,1737 Tenaferea a Mountatine in the found. Tepique a Pronince neere New-Spaniards, Tatalacova a towne of the Indians, in Florida Imprized by Spa-Tatarcax a rich Kine in America. Tauparamunni a towne inhabited by Caribes in the riner Marwin. Taymayas the name of some Indian Savages, 1211, 1213. Tamoves de cription, their infinite fore of gold and precise stones. their nature and civilitie. 1221 Tecoantepeck the first Towne in

Teeth feedding by drinking a kind of water neere the River Rhine, Teixo a wood as hard as stone, 1670

Temple covered with fram in Topira, 1560. Temples to the Sun Moone and Stars, richly adorned in the ancient City Cozco of Peru, which women might not treame Tempelis,1193, 1194, 1223, 1500. Frequent Tempefts, 1502, A dreadfull Tempest neere Tercera, throwing fiftes on the ground, ouer exceeding high cliffes , it's passifull offects, 1679, 1680. An extreams Tempest branely related, 1735,

East-Indies, where Dramonds are Teneriffa an Iland in the Canaries.

its exceeding high mountaines, great riches , fore of Sacke, 1156 1369,1370

Spaine, taken poffeffion of by Tercera one of the Azores Ilands, 1143. The description thereof. its forts & fortification, mountain and fudden disconerie of ships, it's chiefe Towne, wines, prouision, fruits, 1668. The chiefe trafficke, woad, 1669. Its birds fea-Cons. Stones, ibid. Corne. Vines, Oxen called by names like men, ibid. Subject to earth-quakes, Brange fountaine and wood, Inhabitants are all Portingalls or Spaniards, 1670, its frange difeafes, fromg windes, and other and the flore of Gade growing Terra-Australis incognita, its dafeription at large, 1423, & feq.

villages, 1671 Whence fo called,

Terra Firma, 1146. it hath on the coast 70 Ilanis, 1434 the publieation of God there after the Spamards manner, eight hundred shouland inh bitants made away by Spanish cruelty, the momen there were mindered, which the Indians thought great comardife, 1575.1576

Tefician, a Pronin. e in New Spain,

Tentnicham Prozince, Thatletons perfidie, 1382,1383 Teftogos, a place fo called, 1242 Terattecoumovnetto, a towne of the Charibes, nere the river Marwin in Anerica, 1285 Theft: balenelle, 1153 Tireft senerely punished by the Indi-1870 Theft punified in the English army,

Thimogoa, Inhalitants of Florida,

Thirft in great extremity, 1505. Thirft breeding faistneffe and 1586 death. Thirty Cayle of Ships fent to fu ther

the plantation in New England, 18:2

1878 Thought flaveth a man, 5: Thomas fabled by the Indiane to preach to their ancestors, his C'appell, and miracle, Three Spanis ships taken by the English Almirall, 1060 Tiree Armadaes of the King of Spaine caft away on the Goald called O'ca copos, or Catch-chops 1836

Three Spanifo Ships Surprised by the 1028 English, Thunders firange effetts, 1405 Thunders horrid and predictions in the Rermudas. Thunderbolts frequent in the In-

Tiembos, fierce and populous Indians weere the risec of Plate, their nature, fation, description, 1349 Tiguez, a Prosince in America,

diet, they often cleane great trees,

for a new Plantation, 1631

the Portingals in Brafile, 1298 Tipi. Indians in Brafile, that fight with venomed arrower, 1209 Titicaca, an Iland in Peru, of infinite riches, their precious Temple. word in and concest of the Sunne, Tiuitinas, Inhabitants neere Orenoco, two forts of them, 1247 1285 Toads and Frogs eaten, 1214.1219 1236,1327 The Toad fift.

Toalli, a Floridan towne, and its description, its inhabitants and their disposition,

Tobaccoes first bringers in we. 1182. Tobreco, 1228 12:0. 1264.1271. Tobacco fane mens lines 12 58 Toba co fore. 1276 1277 its effects in Phylicke, and abuse, its name of the Holy herbe, and the manner how the Indians drinke it, 1311. how they blow it an cane; one on another, to encrea'e valour, 1228. a strange kind of tobacco, 1202. Tobacco not profitable in New England, the cance why 1871. Tobacco pipe of a Lobfters claw. 1662. Tobacco of Virginia how disparaged by Tobacco-mongers, 1775, Tobacco worth to Spaint 100000 pound yearly. 1211 Tebalos Indians. 1561 Tobyas Bay in the Straits of Magellane, 1205.1388

Tocafte towne in America. 1531 Tocoman, a place in the Indie, inhabited by Psomies, 1231. tis esteemed to be the utt rmost part of Brafile where it is ynes to Peru, ibid. $ 1242

Tockwhogh river in Virginia,

Tocoy? a towne in the Indiet, 1258 Tocur, aplace of America, fertile with gold. Tohisbay firairs. Tohanna, Indians Goalled, 1262 Tonola, a pronince in New Spaine, 1558 Tomomimos, Sauages fo called, 1217, they line at Moregoge, their townes, and warres nich the Portingals.

Tooth ache cured, 1308 Torira, an Indian province abounding with gold and emerculds, armour made of silver, the inhabisame wor Pip birds and hearbes. they facrifice to a ferrent, 1560 Tillage, more necessary then mines Tortovie, its description in Bermindas, it lines 24 houres after its head is off, 1800, a Tortoyle with 7:0 egges in his belly, taken and caten. 1255, they Ly moor three hundred egges at once. 13 14 Tottoyle nor fin nor fle,3, 1741 opinan bazes, Canages like the Petinares, their carning, huire, finging. 1227. Vide Petipares. oudin Indians neare the river le-Tranciling very easie and strange for a [mall vallew in the Indies. 1242, Trauell-direction in the Indies, 128 5 more directions for trauell, 1286. Trauelling in bot water.

A Tree that reeldeth the inhabitante most of the water they have, 1270 Trees , their nature and abundance in Dominica, 1158.Tr.es strange and unknowne in Port-Ricco, 1165. Trees that beare buds, oreen finit, and rive fivit. with leeds all together, 1173. Trees having the fenfe of feeling, 1280. Trees good ar sinft bruiles and destilling Ballome, 1239 trees of exceeding hard wood,exceeding great, 1256. Trees that have alwayes orgene leaves, that bere fruit twice in a yeare called Mangabitrees, flowing with milk that might ferme for hora Waxe, called Mirve ge. Trees that cause (th ir fruit being eaten) testh to fall , Trees whole frust makes haire fall their strange nature and severall name; in Brafile, 1307, 1308, 1309. Trees that ferne to cure preene wounds, having good Balme , 1308. For the Colicke, for the bloody Fluxe. for cold diseases, for the Poxe , for the Toothake, ibid. Trees fruis that killeth any fift in the water . that change leaves every monceh. that make Inke, that hath init a riner of water, fich frangineffe of trees, let 1 : 00, and their names ibid. Trees in Salt-water, 1316.

vide Plant. Bale Treacherie in an I Bman, 1200. in an Englishman . 1 20. Who'e miferable end, 1221. In 4 Savage, 1151. In the Indians, 1256 . 1258. To them elues , 1361. Treacher'e the loffe of A vorage, 1 .82. Trene erie in the Indiens, 1392 , vide P fidie. Triana, a towne taken and fired by Capt. Parker.

Trinity He peffered with Spanish cruelty, and robued of inhabitants, 1584 585 Tualty

Trinity barbour Ahanan in the 1281 New-found Land, Tripessey, a harbour commendious and temperate in the latitude of n6 deorees. Trinidade, 1186 she Indians there bane 4 names, their commanders non called Captaines, inhabited by the Spaniards.

Trinity, abauenin Cuba, 1500 Trugillo, the vimeft towns of the Prennce Valenzuola in Ameri-Truxillo, a place in America,

1399 Triumphall Verfes of the English delinerie in 88. 1912 1145

Cat: Tuberone, Tuberones, the name of Dog-filbby T 2 Co the Portingals, Tucana, a bird like a Pye, mich a bill a fran long very big, 1306 Tucanucu Sanage Brafilians, 1299 Tuccaman, atomne in the river of Plate, 230 miles from theex-

trance, ses fruitfulneffe, ses want of gold, Tuckers-terror, a fooale on the coaft

of Virginia, Capt. Tucker, contrnour of the plantation in the Bermudas, his acts

Tulshe, a fruitfull country neere 1248 Guiana. Tulla, a place in Florida, 1550

Tullumuchaie, a great Towne in Florida. Tu'u, a place inhabited by the Spaniards nerre Cartagena, sis force, Tumbez, a plaine country in Peru, 1444 its inhabitants are vitious and luxurious, people that idolize Treers and Lyons, Tune, a fruit in Florida, on which onely the inhabitants line three moneths in a yeare. 1511 Tunfteroito, a towne of Sauages in 1285 the West Indies,

Tunza, a place in America, 1419 Tupiquat, Brasilians denoured by the flavery of the Portingals, 1298

Tupinaba, Indians fo called, 1298 Tupinaquin, Indiani inhabiting Brasile. Tuppac Inca Yupanqui, Emperor

Sometime of Peru, bis valiant att: and attempts, conquests and enterging his Empire, civilizing many Jauage nations, his progeny death, and successor, 1478,1479

Tuppan Bals, Sanages fo called neere Brafile, 1188. their mirth, habit, life and lodging, Tunac Amaru, heire to the Empire of Perufally accused, and cruelly executed by the Spanife Viceroy, 1488, bis well deferned iffne, Tupan-boyers, a place inhabited by Canibals in Brafile, 1227. the Portingals call it Organes, Tupijo, Brasilian Sanages, 1299 Tuquema, a Province subied to Peru, its senerall townes of gonern-

Turkes taken by the Spaniards, and made Gally-flanes, referred by the Englifb, and fet at liberty, 1933 Turky-Hones in New France, 1621 Turneps a remedy against the scur-

188c Mafter Turners relation of Brafile, Turners relation, voyage, successe,

1265,1266 at large, Turtles innumerable. Tutelpinco, a for aken towne in Florida, left by the inhabitants, and destitute of prouision, 1551 Tygers wer shipped,

TAcupa, a Pronince in America. Vahuar huacac, an Emperour in Peru, his acts and conquest, hee went blood at his natinity, 1457

Valpavilo, a place in the fouth Sea.

Valuation of the voyages of fishing Boats, to the coast of New found Land.

Varaua, a fift in Brasile as lig as an Oxes Vayracalics, abinde of Sauages, Vbra Riner, 1248 Veita, a towne in Florida,its deferistion, and commedities, 1530 Vela Pampilona, an American place,

A Venetian Ship taken by the Eno-1006 Venter-hauen, a place in the mest paris of Ireland,

Vewgua, a towne in the West Indies plenteous of gold, 1419, it never rames there, an unhealthy country

Veru Cruz, anemtowne, Varginia, its hopefull commodities, the inhabitants idolatry and wor-

this of the Sunne, their other and fidelity thereupon . 1690 their enstomes, 1690 plantatun there. and mortality, accompanied with famine, 1689. 1690. Virg nias bounds, temperature, winds, entrance, mountaines, foile. 1691. vallies, and a faire delicate navigable Rivers neers the English Plantation, 1692, its severall and different languages thereabent,1694. Vide Virginia.

ia runa, Indians in Brafile denenred by the Porsingals, ictuals verie fcarce in Plimouth in New England, 1856. Victuals of the Spanish Fleet fent for England, Anno 1588. 1901 Vigo, a towne taken by the English in the Portingall voyage, 1926 Villa de Prava, atomne in Tercera, one of the Hands of Azores, 1668

Villa Franca, a towne of S' Michels one of the Acores Iles, 1963. the situation, fertility of the soyle, and fruits of the Land. incs fore in Canada Ilands, 1612 vines naturally growing in New England. St Vincent a port in the West Indies, 1190. called by the Insians Warapuimama, its description, Virachocha, an Emperour of Peru, his first conquest, 1458. his fenerall asts, and death, with his fire-Valenzuola, a golden place in A- The V gines Ilands not inhabited. and description.

Virginia Companies adventures in figing Rips, one of them being taken by the Turkes, 1836. Virginia despised of the very abients, 1841. fruitfulnesse of the Land, fore of fift and Forele, ibid. Virginia why so called . the praise shireof, the first voyages and difconeries there, with their colonies. 1645, 1646. Virginias bealthineffe, ibid. a Virginian yellow haird, andfaire, 1689. Virginias naturall commodutes, trees, among which cypreffe, vines, wines fruits. gums faffafras, nourifhable roots . ram,they are poyfon roafted, not fo; but otherwise vied for bread, medicinable plants, beafts in variety. 1694.1695 birds fiftes, and minerals, 1696. fruits that are plantedin Virginia, the feafons there, their vie of corne, of flesh, the agree mildreffe, and commodities for trafficke with France, Swethland, Spain & Helland, 1696, 1697.

ccc 2

the commedities that may redound thence to the industrious, ibid. Virginians number, nations Janguages, their description. conftisution, Barbers, apparell, women, Bamefafineffe, attire, ornaments, 1607, 1608, their building, led. ging, bedding, gardens, exercise for men or women , child-birth, namine children, easie delinery, their manner of Bribing fire, of making bowes and arrowes, 1698 their fronds and targets, boats, fifting, finning, fift-bookes, himting, either in companies or alone, confultations before battell, 1699. Virginians neere the English Plantation, their enemies, their manner of embattelling, firatagens, ambuscadoes, painting to make themselues looke terrible, finging and relling in their combate, mulicke, and enterteinment of great men, 1700. their trade. Phylicke, Chirurgery, charming, 1701 their Religion, and adoration of any thing that can hurt them without their premention, wor hipping the Devil called Oke. buriall of their Kings, their ordswary burialls, and mourning for the dead , their Temples , their Supposed Santlitie, Priests, and their habite, times for folemnities, ibid, their coniuration, altars, aerifices to the water, their folemne customes for the making Southfagers, their opinion of their Kings and Priests Soules, and the common peoples after death, their opimion of the Christians God, 1702. manner of government which is monarchicall, their Kings pompe described, 1703, 1704. Virginian punishment of offenders, 1703. Virginia by whom discommended, the miserie it sustaimed by effeminate idlers, 1704. Virginian diffentions in the Englife plantationers, 1706. The Planters nominated, and their forft implorment, ibid. their milevie,famine, and fickneffe, with morsalier canfed by the President: a-## ice. 1706, 1707, with unexsectedremedy, ibid, reconded by the care of Captaine Smith, ibid. Virginian plots for the leaning the Plantation, 1707, 1709. VIFginian plantation and trading endamaged by the ambition of the Company, 1710 by desire of gaine in some prinate persons, 1711. Virginias golden hopes fruffrate.

ibid. Virginia its want of a good Prefident 1712. Virginias plantation (upposed overthrom, 1717 Virgina-Tanerne, the abuse of trading among Saylors there, 1710. Virginian first mariage of the English . 1720. Virginian Plantations Supply, 1708, 1716. 1719. Gold as easie to bee cotten as corne there, from the needy Samares, 1725, Virginian planters lode of armes by the trecherie of Dutchmen, 1725. Virginias buildings revaired, but by want of promision not profecuted, the cause of fuch want, 1727, and the miferie sustained by lazineste, ibid. Virginias unprofitable planters checked by the Presidents Speech. 1728. Virginias bealthine fe, and the care taken for licke men there by the English, 1728, the Plantations third Gupply , 1729, the change of government and Captaines, the presudice of the plantation, and muting feconding the Supply 1729. Virginia Plantation at the Falls, and Nan amund, 1720. Virginia tlenters breake peace with the Sanages, 17:0. Virg tir m levelerty of Prefidents, lofing Caprasne Smith the milerie famine, ant di comfort it sustained by his absence, 1732. its (upply by the wind! of the Lord La Ware, Ser Thomas Dale, 1722, 1722. Virginias innonation in gone omen; whether mutinous or no. 1734. Vi ginias distrasse by idle sellowers, 1743. the Presidency of Virginia affumedby St Thomas Gates, 1740 the miferie of it at that time , ibid . the causes thereof, Ibid. & 1750. Virginias hopes and advancement 1740. other carfes of its diffreffe, and the distresse it selfe. 1751. more at large, 1756, 1757. its commedities, 1757. Virginians triumphs after victory, feafling, simplicity, teare borrible and prodigious rites of fouthfaying their sudgement of powder, and other cuffomes, 1708, 1709. Virginians are al of all occupations . 1700 A Virginian exchanged for a Christian, 1710. Virginia Sanages strange mortality, 1712. Vi ginians courtefie to the Englift, 1713 and trecherous proiects ibid, exceeding feare of Muskets. ibid how Virginian Sanages may be dealt withall, 17 14. Virginia Sanages fight disquised like bufhes, 1716. Virginians made proud not awed by courtefue and benignity, 1717. Virginians in want and pouerty, 1725. 4 Virginian Sauages his Oration to Cabtaine Smith, 1727,4 Virginian (mothered at lames towns, and recovered, lunaricke, and refored. 1726, 1727. Virgina Sauares offer to fight under English ban ners, 1729, Virginian Sanaver brought perforce to peace with the Englift, 1769, 1770. Virginia Sauages religion and disposition, 1771, their countries described feafons climate beafts birds fiftee and other rarities, 1771, 1772. 1773. Virginian account of yeures, 1774. Virginians kill Some English, ibid. their trecherom and bloody nature . 1788. 1780. Virginians wordin the Denill but love him not, 1700. their fearing the hadow of a Piece or Ausket , with their Comine gunpowder, ibid. Virginians pol-Coffe come Pieces, with munition after the maffacre, destroyed cattell, ibid. Virginian plantations Presidency assumed by the Lord De la Ware, its firft (ucceffe, 1754 1755,1756. in what cafe it was left by the faid Lord, and the caufe why he left it, 1762.its commodities, ibid. & 1764. Virginias plantations benefit of corne by Captaine Argall . 1765, its rarities, ibid. Virginian affaires v. ricey, by the approach of diners Captaines there, 1766, 1767. 1768. its commodities, vamorthy Enolifo inhabitants, ibid, chiefe places the Bermida City and Henrico, ibid. its Forts, 1768. Virginias eleuation abone many count ies, 1770. Virginian affaires, Anno 1617, 1618, page 1774. Anno 1619.02ge 1775. the profits that may bee derined thence bid. Anno 1619 et 1620 page 1775, 1775. the Supplies from England in that time, ibid. with Ships men and their employments there, on what commodities for trading, 1775; 1777. Virginian benefactors, 1777. Virginian affaires in the yeare 1621, page 1783. with the Supply of men, goods, and Ships then lent, with other accidents, ibid. cc 1784. and supplies, with relation of matters of trading there, 1784. Virginia's prasses farther related, 1717 . with the hopes to pass shence to China. 1786. Virginia's Late before the maffacre, 1788. The maffacre it felfe, the plot and execution, 1788, 1789, 1790. 1347. The Englishmen balely murdered in it , ibid. A Virginian converted, discovers be plots, 1790. Virginiaes plantations necessaries, without which it may not fo wel be effected, 1791 Virginizes maffacre freppofed canfe. Seconded by a sicknesse, $702. Its authorsend , ibid. The fappir thereof by King lames, 1793. Virginia commended and discommended, according to mens diners humours , discovered in Letters, 1806, 1807. Virginia planted by French men, 1807. They afterwards difplanted by Str Samuel Argall, 1808. Virgimia's pollestion and plantation , by the English foundly and largely proved to be tawfull, by a naturall, and nationall right, 1809, 1810.1811. Virginia's firft difconerie, and disconerers, 1812. Virginia rightly poffeffed by the English , by acknowledgement of the Prince there, 1813. By buying, felling, cession, forfeiture, ib. Virginiaes plimation advanceth Gods glory, 1817, 1818, Virginia's mant of good exemped, 1814, 1815. Virginia-plantations loffe by the maffacre, 1816. The number there fince , ibid. Virginia's plantation to the profecuted, and for what reasons, 1826. & feq. As first Religion , honour of the Nation, Oc. Virginia deserves plantation for the profit, 1817. For disburdeming multitudes, 1818. For a temperate climate, ibid. For largemeffe, ibid. Commodions Rivers whose Siding embracements of the earth are finently described, ibid. Sibes Wines, Mines, drugs, &c. ibid. Waterials for Bipping. 1820. Fift.nr. 1821. Tobacco trading, ibid. Hopes of paffage to the South Sea, 1822. For other reasons & advantages, 1824. For being a refreshment to Sips tired with long voyages . ibid. & Virguano, a towne inhabited by Savages in America neere Mar-

Visitation of the sicke among the Indians, the horrible hideons

nowle wied by those miserable com-

win,

A Vilion,

Vitachaco. a town in Florida, 1534 Vliffingers take one of the Portingal Gallions. Vllibaholi a walled towne of the Indians in Florida, and the fallion of those walls. Vndermining of termes, 1019 Unicornes horne (averb many from poifon. Vno a River. 1222 Vomiting to death, 1214. Vomiting procured by what Plants in Bermuda Hande. 1891 Vna, a mountaine in the West-Indies. 1280 A Unicorne with a strange horne, 1560. With haire as binge as a Vnrhankfulneile in Spaniards towards their Indian Benefattors.

Voyages are commonly overthrowne by the Captaines ziving way, or too much reelding lenity , 1389. Voyages by the Lord of Cumberland, 1141, 1142 & 1cq. Voyages by Sir Sebastian Cabot. Ser Thomas Pert, 1177. Ry Sir John Hawkins Sir Fran. Drake, ibid. & feq. Voyages by Capt. Michelion , Capt. Newport, Earle of Suffolke, Sir Ro-bert Dudley, bid. Voyages by Captaine Prefton, Capt. Summers . Sir Anthony Sherley . Capt. Parker, Sir Walter Raleigh, Mr Will. Hawkins, ibid. Capt. Parker, 1243, 1244, @ fea. M ddleton, 1246, 1247. Vovages by Reniger, Borey, Pudfey Steuen, Hare, Fenton, Ward, and Iohn Drake, 1186. Voviges by Captaine Candish, and Capt. Daures, 1191, 1192, coc. By Sir Richard Hawkins, 1367. Oc. By Pamphilo Niruaez Spaniard ,1500, 1501, & feq. By Francisco Pizarro, 1439. & fee. Voyages by Nunno de Guzman Spaniard, 1556. & Icq. Soto his Voyages and di'coveries of Florida, 15:0. at large in leq. Voyages by the the French, and discoueries of Florica, and Canada, 1603.6 fen. Voyages by Monieur de Montz, 1620. of fig. Voyages from Encland, the flips being furni Ged with two hundred pounds mouth to Bilboa with dry fift, 1839. A voyage of feven fayle Voyages to Virginia furnished by Sir Walter Raleigh 16 6 1646. Voyage of Captains Golnel to Virginia, Anno 1602. pag. 1647. & fee. Voyage by Mr Pringe ro Virginia, 1654. o leg. By Captaine Gilbert to the lame, 1656.ef lea. By Capt. W cymouth to Virginia . 16 co. et lea Auntage to the He of Azon res by the Right Hongrable Rob. Earle of Ellex , 1935, Voyages by Sir Thomas Gates, 1724 16 fea. By Cuptume Argall. 17-8. Voyages to Son mer-lland by ibe Englift, 179: co feq. An admirable voyage from the Betmucas to Ireland in a (mall boat, Vparafon . a River nanigable in Brafile. Vranaton, a River in the Indics. very commodious for matering, Vpiegon, atomnein Mawooshen. under the Lord Ballibes, 1874 Vrarino towne, a towne of Atwaccas, and Pa. awogoto, Savagerin America.

Vraritan an Ilandin Brafile, called by the Portingals Alquarrut 1241 . Its description for Navi-Viapo, and Arieppo, ewo Indian woods. Vrine drunke for want of water.

1188 Vrokere, Indians fo called, 1286 Viquam River. 1364 Vrinama, a Floridan towne: 1533

A Vulcan, a most dreadfull thing calling forth fire & flones as oreat as aboute carling una boltomnelle of thence-iffung waters, 15.9

Vuranqui his raigne over the inhabitants of Peru, his acts and cenquests his making a bridge of Oziers beautifying the Sunnes temple. extent of his dominions, transplantation of countries. 1463,1464 Vzela, a towne in Florida in Ame-

VV Abock yaway an Ar-Wacarimock mountaines neere the riner O. eneco. Walnuts, thirty Ilenas of them.

in Calb, 1838. From Plim- Wancecbanoua, a valley abounding with gold-grains mafied from from the Welt-country, 1839. Wages detaining, how turbule: 1 ir a Waratiua ariner in Brafile , its de-Cription for Navigation, 1440 Want of bread in the English Army,

Io. Want, a schriftnaricall and seditious fellow in the Bermudas, 1743 Wareteena, a place in America, Warooca, a towne of the Arwacca Sapages in the Indies, 1285 Warraskoyat, Indian-Virginians, Warres between the Portingals, and the Indians ; its effects, 1321 Warres made for the water, 1364 Warres betweene the Indians and Spaniards in Chili.

Warriers that have killed men among the Samages of Tuppan, have as many holes board through their milage in token of bonour, 1189 Warlike Fleets fer forth by the Eng-Wh Deborah, the Q. Elizabeth,

Supposed cause of unbealthinesse in Port-royall among the French ,

1622. Water facrificed to by the 1712. Waterwanting in the Eng-

lift armie,

Warry iourneys.

with a good returne, Water thatis (alt dangerousity drunk, 1143. Strange kinde of watering, 1146. Water-arinhing endangereth many, 1178. Want of freshwater, 1188. Water too much Savares. drunke kils Will. Pircher, ibid. Capt. Weymoths voyage to Virgi-Salt-mater cureth fores, 1207 Water unwholfome and deadly, 1248 Water burning and tasting 1659,1660 like brimftone, 1:75. Water venemous, 1379. Water very hot in a lake of Florida, 1549. Bad thony Kniuet. waters breeding fundry diseases, Whales have open heads , whereat 1623. Waters that being drunke, the Sword-fift, 1313, 1376, caused teeth to fall in two houres 1377,1685 space, 1624. Watry ground the Whale-filling in the Berroudas, and its benefit, Whitfon-Bayin Virginia, 1654 Virginians in time of tempeft. Cast Rich. Whitbornes Voyages to 1702. Water want in Virginia, 1883 French Pirate.

Whelps dreft and caten, Wayanatles, Savares fo called in the West-Indies, 1211. Their comthe Indians. plexion, cowardlineffe, painting, ladging, Tobacco, chiefe towne, Wia a River in Guiarra, 1228 Wasnawazons, Canibels in Ameri-co.1213. Their simplicity, stature, feeding lazinelle, women, 12:0 Waymores Savages in Brafile, their flature, valour, rudeneffe, fwiftnelle, man-eating, Way congazons, called by the Indi-

dians locoex, are Brafilian Sa- | Wiawia, a towne in the West-Inwages, their habitation, Stature, women-warrierrs, lodging, iarres, man eating.

Weaknelle of the English in New-England, canfing the Indians to Wealth fred ambition among Cap-

Weannocks . Indians in Virginia, their number of fighting men, 1692 Weearopona, a towne of the Arwaccas in America.

Weeping in falutation an expression Florida.

Three Wels, one very hot, another scalding bot . a third temperate, neere a cold Hill. 1243 Werowances, the title of a King in

1602 Virginia. Werawocomoco River in Virgi-1602

1658

West-winds constantly, Master Wests plantation at the Fals sa Virginia, West-country voyage in twelve Ships

Weltons men abuse the Savages of Maifachenfets, which canfed much unkindne fe to the English, 1857. Their mifery among the

nia, 1659. deleq His danger by lands and rock + Shoales, escape and arisall at Pentecost-harbour,

AWhale very great, enten by Anthey breathe, their battaile with AWhale worshipped the New-found-land, 188 2. His gravage to Lisbone, is taken by a 1202 Whittingtons communication with Wiapogo River, 1250, Its commodiries. 1161.1163.1264.at large.

threescore learnes broad supposed the bigg fin the world, 1267, 1268. Its fituation and ftrength 1270. English plant there , ibid. Wiaumli, a River to the North of dies, 1280. Or Wia Wiam. 1283. Tis inhabited by the Yaios and other Samages. Wighcocamoco riverin Virginia, 1848 Wighfacan, a medicinable plant in Virginia.

Wikeries are Indians that inhabite the Plaines of Samia, 1248 M' Will. Scrachy his relation of Sir Tho: Gares voyage, and of the Colony of Virginia, 1734 of obedience in some Indians of William Morgan his happy of most Arange deliverance. Wild-peefe in great Shoales, 1845 Willowes

M' Willons relations at large, 1661, 1262. Ofice.

Wine ouerthroweth more then the enemy, $349. The Wine of the Nauvin 88. Wine canfeth embition & dissen-

Extreame winds, 1172. In the firmits of Magellane, 1194. An exceeding winde by Sea and Land, 1500. Winds that pierce iron and fone, Winter not durable by Christians, Witawamack, an infulting flane among the Savages, opprobrious to the English. Vines counted a dignitie among the Savages, the having of many of them only permitted to the King , and those that have proved them-Selues brane fellows, 1188, 1217. Wines and children fold for Hatthets and Knines, 1208. Wives put away for adultery or lo. Winkfield dreth at the fight in Cadiz, in warlike manner buried. Wolues in New-England purfising our Fralish Dogs, 1849. Wolucs in the New-found-land faming and playing with En lish masty dogs, Womens frange entertaining ftraners among Savages, 1717. Women dancing frarke nabed, 1618. Indian womens modeftie, yetfimiliaritie, 1158,1159. Women got by valour among the Savages, 1209. Women Archers, 1216. 1228. Woman with voly bodies and good faces, 1228. Eight WOthen bought for a red-hafted knife, 1249. A woman reafied, 1272. Women farke naked, 1268 Women goe before men in Brafile, 1292. Their agreement there

THE TABLE.

amono themselve their chastitie if | Wounds, how cured, 1310, 1211 maried but loo enelle unmaried. 1341. A woninsprice among it the Carios of the West Indies, 1357. Women toile amone fome Indians, 1282. Women that rewomen the wrong of their bushands. not Colitarily by them Colves called Amazons, 1437. Women (no not Kings dangiters) might not enter the Temple of the Sunne a. mone the ancient inhabitants of Peru. 1465. Womens vlave and babite among some Indians of Florid 1.1 124. Women among ft the Indians put to vile flavery, 1860. Women not suffered to enter any of the Ships of the King of Spaines A-mada.

Wonders of the new World, 1477. Wood-bind, a place running on trees like a Vine , that causeth a welement and harmieffe purging,

Wood that maketh fift drunk.

Wood of all colours. 1670 Wood as bard as iron. ibid. Words of the Savages language in Virginia. 1667 Wormes how killed in the bodie, Wormes breeding great-terment, $251. Very pernicions in Brafile. but killed by Garlicke , 1382. Wormes poyloning water, 1286. Wormes denouring the flesh $365. Wormes very presudsciall to Bips without Beating, under the LaninoEtiall.

Wyanalles, a towne in the West-Indies. Wyapocoories, inhabitants in a Youghtanund inhabitants of Vir-

Province of Guiana. Wywaypananii Indiani with dedrshigher then their heads, . 89

TAlisco . a Province neere the X South Sea. 1559. The great loffe of inhabitants in it by the Spanish inhumane cruelty, 1581. Eight hundred towner arned in those Realmes by Spaniar ds, ibid. Xalpa Province discourred by the Spaniards. Xaltenango Province.

Xaqua , a harbour in the flan! of Cuba. Xaragua, a dominion in the He Hifpaniola, its King and Lords trai-teroufly burnt by the Spaniards. the Queene hanged, the youths thrust through, or having their legs cut off. they that fled condem. red to perpetual flaverie, 1572 Xualla, Province in Florida, 1539

TACS, Indians neere the River I Wyapoco, their nature and defeription, Yaguiana, atonne in Hispaniola,

Capt. Yerdly Deputy Governour sa Virginia, 1773. His acts and exploses there, 1bid. & 1774 Yerua viua, an hearbe that is ensible, and thrinkes at any mans touch, not resprouting till his departure, ginia, Youwalprenay, a tomue of the Caribes.

Ytara an America Floridan town.

Ytaua, a towne in Florida, 1541 Yupaha, an Indian country in Florida, ruled by a woman , her great town commodities, and abundance of gold, Yupanqui an Emperone of Peru before the Spanish conquest his difficult attempts, 1474. He fub. dued the Chunchus, and fo extended his Empire , ibid. @ 1475. His affants of the Chiribnana Savage Nation, and successe his proceeding to conquer Chili, 1475 his miraculous Fort and buils dings, other acts and death, 1477.

Yuia Pari, a Riverin America, ine inhabitants thereabout sortured by the Spaniards.

ZAcheo, a place so called, 1186 Zapatula, a place of New-Spaine, 8,71 Zemie, an Indian Nation neere the Riner of Place. Zemais Saluaisco, Indians (ocalled in the River Parana , their defeription, 1350,1352 Zumpanga , a towne of Indians,

FINIS.